STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

"Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father in heaven is perfect." That is a very demanding standard. As we examine the sentence in its setting we see that the particular areas in which perfection like God's is demanded of us are loving and forgiving. We are asked to forgive and to love even those who scorn us or cause us suffering; and the only reason given is simply: that is what God does. How self-righteous, we feel in measuring out curse for curse and wound for wound. It is, however, a righteousness or uprightness that seems so only from the point of view self. Measured against the plumb-line of the Eternal it is far from upright. He continues to grant life and health and successes and a long-remembered name even to those who despise Him and curse Him. To Carlyle who considered Him disappointing He has granted a literary standing that will last for hundreds of not for thousands of years; and to Nietzsche who considered Him disgusting he has granted an age-long influence on Western civilization. So it fall upon us to forgive and to love even those who consider disappointing and disgusting. Just what practical deed should express that forgiveness and love is sometimes difficult to discover; but, to him who prayerfully and patiently seeks such a way, a way will be given. An even if his love be rejected and his forgiveness scorned he shall have entered into his sonship with God.

Popular Josephburg Couple Married Last Friday

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Josephburg Reformed Church on Friday, Nov. 27th, at 2:30 p.m. when Verna Evelyn Becker, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Becker, became the bride of Walter Emmanuel Frey, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Frey.

Rev. J. Krieger officiated.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Mrs. Edward Mohr.

The bride was radiantly lovely in a floor-length gown of white sheer crepe with long trailing veil and carried a bouquet of roses.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Lucille Becker in blue sheer crepe and her cousin, Miss Marion Krebs in pink sheer crepe, each fashioned with flowers and chapel veils and carrying yellow and pink chrysanthemums respectively.

Messrs. Arnold and Donald Frey, brothers of the groom, supported the groom.

Josephburg Choir of which Miss Becker is a member rendered a song.

Mrs. Becker the bride's mother, wore a black crepe, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Frey wore a brown crepe. Both were a corsage of roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home for immediate relatives and friends. The bridal table was centred with a beautiful three-tier wedding cake and the rooms were tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers.

After the reception, relatives and friends enjoyed a dance at Josephburg school with the "Millionaire" orchestra supplying the music. At midnight a lovely luncheon was served.

The happy couple were the recipients of many lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Frey will make their home at Josephburg.

The "Oscar" was won by Lois Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Latour, Mr. T. Siddall, Mr. S. W. Hooper, Miss M. Ward, Miss Anderson and Miss Caldwell were guests. Mr. and Mrs. Latour were a great help in keeping the conversation going and our sincere thanks go to them for their help in making the evening a success.

Tuesday morning before classes grades X and XI students witnessed the evacuation of grade XII pupils from the grade X and XI room into the grade XII room. The change was necessitated by the size of the classes. Grades X and XI are large classes in a small room while grade XII is a small class in a large room. The change was welcomed by some and opposed by others for various reasons.

x x x

Friday afternoon at 3:30 the High School met in Miss Anderson's room for another enjoyable Literary Society meeting. After the singing of O'Canada a short program was presented by the grade XII students. It consisted of a piano solo by Jean O'Brien, "Made in Canada" sung by a male chorus, excerpts of Dick Bacon's diary as conceived by the girls, and a fashion parade in which Maurice Lamoureux and Douglas Jenkins modelled the latest modes in ladies hats. As a conclusion to the program a "Husband-calling" contest was held in which Margaret Horton and Gus Lamoureux were winners.

Livestock Associations Annual Meetings

The Annual Meetings of the Alberta Provincial Livestock Associations will be held in the Civic Building in Edmonton on Wednesday and Thursday, December 9th and 10th. Horse breeders will meet the first morning followed by Cattle breeders in the afternoon. The forenoon of the second day will be devoted to the sheep, while the final afternoon is set aside to discuss matters related to swine production.

Recognized authorities on the various classes of livestock have been secured as speakers, and the discussions this year will hinge around problems related to wartime production. One of the important features of this two-day get-together will be a mass meeting of farmers to be held in the evening of December 9th to discuss the acute labor problem as it affects the producer of livestock and livestock products. It is hoped that the Hon. Mr. Mitchell, Dominion Minister of Labor, or a responsible representative of his Department will be in attendance, which will afford an opportunity for a direct presentation of the present farm labor problem to the proper authorities.

All sessions of the livestock meetings are open to those who are concerned with current problems of agricultural production, and it is hoped that a large and representative group will attend.

Oct. 25, 1942

Mrs. Albert Mohr, President,
Josephburg Red Cross,
Dear Mrs. Mohr:

I wrote to your quilts some time ago thanking you for the parcel I received on the 6th of August. Apparently you never received my letter so I thought I had better write again. Any parcels of confectionery and cigarettes I get from you people are very highly appreciated by both my wife and myself. So I wish to take this opportunity of thanking you and everyone else who so generously contributed towards the fine parcel. Margaret was very pleased with the soap and powder for the baby. I would like to have sent a picture of the three of us, but I haven't one at the present. I would certainly like to hear from anyone around there, so if friends would care to drop us a line, it would be very welcomed and answered.

I hope everything is O.K. back there and I'll sure be glad to get back.

With my best regards to all, I'll say good-bye for now.

Yours sincerely,
R. H. Webb.

Parachute Battalion At Sharp's Shows

"Parachute Battalion" comes to Sharp's Shows this Thursday and Saturday nights.

With a background as timely as tomorrow's newspaper, Parachute Battalion should get a splendid audience reaction. The story goes something like this: O'Brien, son of Barrat (who had never seen him), enters the Parachute Battalion at Fort Benning. Among his mates are Preston, a smart aleck, in love with Sergeant Harry Carey's daughter; Elsen, a farm boy; Cromwell, a coward who is transferred because he is afraid to jump. O'Brien, too, is afraid at first, but he jumps nevertheless when forced to and incidentally rescues the Sergeant. The finish sees his successful as the suitor for Carey's daughter.

In the shadow of the greatest potential events in this momentous period of the war, it must be stated that backstage along Parliament Hill there is much concern over the dangerous practice of many Canadians to exercise and to overwork their vocal chords in repeating false or erroneous rumours, with the latest and most surprising phantasmagoria or medley of idle fancies receiving about the consistency, rumours of food getting scarcer and scarcer in Canada which is most serious since Canada has always believed that this is a surplus-food-producing country. In fact, during recent weeks there have far-reaching and widespread rumours have spread like wild-fire throughout the country and they have attained considerable circulation.

Of course, many rumours are almost inevitable consequences of war itself since these arise from the habit of many beings to exaggerate or to fabricate stories which they hear or discuss and it is a habit which they start almost in the cradle and never let up. Moreover, when the fate of their loved ones and their nation is at stake, no drastic restraint can stamp out by an iron heel method their own peculiar way of morale.

discussing, speculating, debating, gossiping, or otherwise proclaiming their viewpoints in the home, in the corner store, in the office or the factory, in the club, in the street, or elsewhere where free men and women are in the habit of talking. Indeed, this is how public opinion is formed or changed in a democracy either in peacetime or wartime and it is to its only safety valve, with it being impossible for such man and women of a democracy to cease suddenly to talk and to become quietly content as a collection of parrots since this is the essential difference between the spirit of democracy and totalitarianism.

However, at the same time it must be recognized by the man-in-the-street that enemy agents, evildoers, cranks and ignoramuses are undoubtedly responsible for spreading these false or erroneous rumors about food situations in Canada and of many countries, which are only spread, complacent or apathetic about them in wartime, particularly since the man-in-the-street is always believed that Canada was a surplus-food-producing nation. Therefore, an explanation is absolutely essential not only to remove conflicting and confusing stories but to bring mental comfort and to lift

What is the truth?

The truth is that more rumours about possible price or rationing plans for food are invariably either purely guesswork or simply false stories. In fact, this veteran observer can report about rumours on food or subjects pertaining to food that are spread about the country but that are absolutely without any foundation whatsoever.

There is a rumour which hints that more than 20,000 retailers will be put out of business soon, but this is ridiculous in face of the fact that civilian business will be affected only after war moves or policies

There is a rumour that there is an intention to force off the road soon more than 40,000 commercial travellers, but there is absolutely no evidence of such intention along Parliament Hill.

There is a rumour that all food prices are rising rapidly to such an extent as to affect most seriously the cost of living in Canada. As a matter of fact, the food index only advanced merely from 122.3 to 123.4 in the past month and the higher moves only involved eggs and vegetables, with very good advices recorded for butter, lard, lemons, and several canned vegetables, the cover, meat meats averaging slightly lower as did cheese and potatoes. Indeed, the actual effects of increased food prices were so slight that the whole cost of living index in Canada was really lower by one-tenth of a point, falling to 117.8, though it must be born in mind that the cost of living rate was also affected by a seasonal rise in the price of coal or by small increases in light, rentals, and so forth. In other words, the few changes in food prices did not affect the cost of living in Canada in the sense as claimed by this false rumour which is completely without foundation, though it must be admitted that it has been spread about the country and it can be heard almost anywhere as if it was a fact.

There is a rumour that food shortages will exist in Canada in the coming months but even in this direction there is really no serious reason for such stories or reports in face of some timely and temporary shortages in certain lines of foods when conditions merely fluctuate rapidly in wartime. There is a huge quantity of wheat; there are prospects that the beef and pork situation will adjust itself in time with the new orders, with plenty of feed for fattening, and with the increased prices so that more beef and pork may move to better and to improve the markets; enough veal can be obtained, though lamb marketing is down, but the conditions show that good quantities are stored; chickens are available in most places; eggs are not too abundant in some localities but marketings are up over 30 per cent on account of increased consumption, milk is abundant in places but it is not regarded as serious whatsoever; fish is in a satisfactory position, with the Atlantic catch being down by about 9,000,000 pounds but the Pacific catch is said to be up by about 30,000,000 pounds. It is obvious that this rumour about serious food shortages is false, as supported by its actual lack of fixed basis as regards quantities and varieties for a well-balanced diet for the people of this country.

In short, the civilian population is going to be affected in many different ways as Canada transforms itself more and more into a total war economy, but at the present time it is urgently necessary for many Canadians not to spread more rumours about food as at about Christmas. Undoubtedly, these people are willing to fight and die for their country, to suffer the greatest griefs, to work at the hardest tasks, to pay the largest taxes in their history, and to do anything in the cause of total Canadians in their march along the road to victory, but they do not realize the actual dangers involved in the practice of spreading rumours, nor the deep concern that this causes in Ottawa.

—V—

Canada may be called upon to ship more wheat to Russia to supply the shortages caused by the German occupation of the Ukraine. After the war a lot of seed, fertilizer and machinery will be needed in Europe, besides a great deal of foodstuffs.

BUY BONDS TODAY—NOW THEY WAIT!

A STATEMENT about BUTTER

In spite of the fact that in some Canadian cities butter supplies recently have not been sufficient to meet the pretty increased demands, the situation does not constitute an emergency, nor is it in serious or acute, people seem to think. There are two main causes for these temporary and local shortages:

For the past year we have been consistently using 10% to 15% more butter than in normal times—with consequent disturbances to the distribution of our butter supplies.

Many people have been buying more butter than they currently need.

The limited nature of the present shortage is shown by the fact that if every home would reduce its consumption of butter by only one ounce per person per week (for the average home this means a quantity of 4 pounds a month)—if it would reduce our national consumption to the peacetime rate—the shortage would soon disappear.

There is no Reason for Panic Buying

It is unpatriotic and unnecessary for housewives to rush out to beat their neighbours to the nearest grocery store. Butter will not be rationed to meet the present situation. Better production is actually above normal for this time of year. The Board itself is taking special action which it is believed will speedily restore normal supplies in retail stores.

These supplies will however be adequate for normal consumption, if housewives in all parts of Canada co-operate.

You can help in three ways

Scrupulously avoid waste and extravagance. Waste is wrong at all times. In time of war it is unthinkable.

Reduce present consumption of butter by at least one ounce per person per week—(for the average home this means a quarter of a pound a week.)

Do not buy more than is needed for immediate use.

HOW TO SAVE BUTTER

AT MEAL-TIME

1. Use butter only for spreading on bread.
2. Never use butter just out of the refrigerator. Soften it to a spreading consistency.
3. Use a small amount of soft butter rather than a large amount of hard butter.

IN COOKING

1. Do not use butter in baking and cooking. Use lard, vegetable oil, meat dripping or other substitutes.
2. Use a small amount of butter for flavouring. Remember that butter has a high flavouring value.
3. Use paper wrapping from butter to grease pans for baking.
4. Do not use butter for frying.
5. Serve meat gravy to avoid the use of extra butter in potatoes.
6. Use shortening instead of butter in cakes, pies, puddings, etc. Do not melt it and then pour on.

World of Wheat

By
R. G. L. Brown

The "Crop Testing Plan" work for this last year has now been analyzed. The prairie wheat crop continues to show an improvement in transcon-tinuity. In less than 6% per cent of the 12,000 samples analyzed each sample representing a farmer's field of wheat—graded "A" which is equal to the standard for Certified seed. This compares well with only 31 per cent of "A's" in 1936, and with only 21 per cent of "A's" in 1931. All this means that thousands of farmers who are now growing "A" stocks are avoiding those losses in yield and grade which they suffered when their crops graded "C's" and "Rejected", it also means that in every district there are stocks of good quality seed of different varieties which farmers can purchase at reasonable prices from their neighbors who have "A" stocks in their bins.

An interesting feature of this year's work is that not one single field of a mixture of rye and old fashioned variety was found. Undesirable mixtures discovered were those present as admixtures in what farmers thought were fields of good variation, but in 1931 and in 1936 large fields were found of such undesirable low quality varieties as Huron, Prelude, Stanley, Club, White Bonellas, Ladoga and others.

QUOTATION OF THE WEEK

"There are sound arguments for a policy of widely scattered production in wartime. There are very real advantages in taking jobs to men rather than men to jobs . . . 70 per cent of the ammunition in England comes from small plants employing 50 people or less. In Germany, even the farmers have been provided with machines, instructed in their use, and ordered to produce specific quantities of components."—Canadian Finance.

The Week in Edmonton

In an attempt to relieve traffic congestion in Edmonton, civil servants have been instructed to change their work hours commencing Dec. 1, so that they will leave their desks at 4:30 instead of the usual 5 p.m. The order followed representations by a civic committee who asked that the Service start work earlier and finish at 4:30 p.m. It is understood that the new work hours will be followed for trial purposes during the winter months.

The Department of Education has revised the regulations governing the granting of school credits to boys who are members of cadet troops, and henceforth two credits a year may be granted to boys in Grades 10 and 11 who are trained by qualified military instructors. Previously only the charges of instructors holding an Alberta teaching certificate were eligible for the credits. Military men were granted the new ruling, claiming it would result in greater numbers of boys becoming cadets.

Snow clearing and gravelling operations are being carried out by the Alberta Public Works staff, according to Hon. W. A. Fallow, and projects are located in various parts of the province. Gravelling from Edmonton south to the international border is completed and work is proceeding on the Richdale-Youngstown highway. Leduc-Calmar operations have been completed by gravelling crews. Heavy snows which blocked northern roads resulted in northern clearing equipment being brought north, but light snows in the south are permitting actual work operations there. Some of the snow clearing equipment is being used in the city of Edmonton clear away the huge drifts.

Invited to send a message of greeting to those who participated in the building of the Alcan Highway, Premier Aberhart penned the project as one comparable with the greatest engineering feats of effort in history. Pointing out that from the earliest times the overland trail to the Yukon was through Edmonton, Mr. Aberhart said the new highway is a victory road that leads from the arsenals of the Americas to the battlefields of the Orient. "To the men who toiled and sweated at the manifold tasks along the Alcan Highway, I would say that their efforts exemplify in practical manner the struggle which Christian civilization wages today. We go forth into the unknown, armed with determination and knowledge of what is right, and we face the difficulties of the trail in the certain knowledge that eventually we, or those who follow, will win through." said the Premier. His message was distributed to all U.S. troops who participated.

NEW BACON CONTRACT

Commencing last Monday, Nov. 16, Canadian farmers are called upon to supply 670 million pounds of bacon to Britain within a period of 12 months. Last year's contract, which ran from October 5th, 1941 to Oct. 5th, 1942, was for 600 million pounds. However, it took until November 14th before the contract was filled.

The average price which the Bacon Board will receive from the British ministry of food for A grade bacon at the seaboard during the 1942-43 agreement is $61.75 per 100 pounds, with relatively lower prices for B grade bacon and cuts.

"Will hold your place"

IN EVERY city, town and village throughout Canada today there are gaps where once were young men. They heard a call and put on navy blue, khaki, horizon blue, and they have gone, answering a call . . .

They are missed—missed not only in their homes but also in the business places which once they filled.

They have gone from every institution in Canada; but from none more than from the chartered banks. There is hardly a branch office from coast to coast which is not today the poorer—and the prouder —for those who then laid down their pens.

But every branch manager, as he shook parting hands, had this consolation: he could say, "We'll hold your place. It will be waiting for you when you come back. That is a pledge."

So it is the part of those who remain to serve their country in such a way that the promise may be kept: "We'll hold your place."

There were 14,433 single and married men from 19 to 45 years of age employed by the Chartered Banks at the outbreak of war. 5,663 — or 39% of these had joined the armed forces by October 31st, 1942; 1,503 others, who joined since their duties were begun have also enlisted.

"Thus is Denied" Give War Savings Stamps

Ottawa, Dec. 3rd.—Thousands of Canadians will find it easier to give War Savings Stamps and Certificates as Christmas gifts this year, as the result of plans now completed by the National War Finance Committee.

Through the co-operation of the Canadian Greeting Card industry, a whole series of 1942 Christmas and Spring Christmas cards has been produced in striking designs. All cards are printed in Two colors, and the inside pages are finished in color, with a place for affixing War Savings Stamps which may be purchased at the stores carrying the cards. In addition, the National War Finance Committee has produced Christmas greeting cards in two attractive styles for Savings Stamps, and two other types for War Savings Certificates. These, with envelopes to fit, are to be obtained free of charge at Post Offices and banks throughout Canada. War Savings Stamps and Certificates, to be placed inside the cards, may be purchased at the counter at the same time, and mailed immediately.

This undertaking is being carried out in the belief that the exchange of Christmas greeting cards is more necessary to public morale in wartime than in time of peace.

Oh, Boy! They were put on through the paces Monday night. Members will be presenting arms and right wheeling in their sleep. However, it put camp in the local bunch in preparation for a parade past the "big shot" Thursday night. We did as well, that Wednesday's night's parade was cancelled.

When this Department was organized, nearly three years ago, it was decided that local publicity matters with various information regarding Income Tax, should be left entirely to the discretion of the Inspector in charge of the district. Hence there is no uniformity in the publicity given to Income Tax matters throughout the Dominion.

Only the other day, a new bank manager, West Canada, remarked on the effect that, during 1942 by the Department of Service Tribunal of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in which estimates of income in more than 50 various sources are given. Of 30 items of waste, soil erosion was first place and wood second. The following figures on losses in the United States are interesting:

Discovery of Production (not including deaths from natural causes)	5 Billion
Plant disease (including crops and forest trees)	2 Billion
Insect, rodent and animal pests	$4,500,000,000
Weeds	$1,125,000,000
Of course, certain items are far greater and, when totalled, really begin to run into the billions.

One of these items is the waste of land through erosion. Not only is our policy or guidance the greatest single factor in the conservation of soil, but also of water, forests, minerals, wildlife, and recreational facilities. Soil erosion, water run-off, water waste, forest waste, wildlife waste, and recreation waste are the items listed on the first page of the report presented to the head.

This is not wholesale theory, but hard reality. What shall we do about it? In the next issue we shall offer a few suggestions.

Among the people filling into an air-raid dugout was an old man. In one hand he carried a long-handled shovel to deal with incendiaries, and under the other arm he carried an old-fashioned harp, presumably for entertainment.

A Score of Skills

(Chicago Sun)

Too many of us city folks look upon a farmer as a dumb bell willing and who could be replaced by any other worker of sufficiently strong back and weak mind. The basis of this delusion is an unfortunate fact of rural life; anyone who can raise the down payment on a piece of land may set up as a farmer. Thus a landless-supper harvesting 20 bushels of corn to the acre is allowed to operate next door to a farmer harvesting 80 bushels, where as a two-bit-a-hour mechanic would be thrown out of his shop as soon as his first few moves betrayed his incapacity.

When it comes to farmers who can farm, there is no comparison between the farm laborer and any other laborer of like earning capacity. The farm hand who gets up and milks a dozen cows, starts a tractor that doesn't want to start, plows a field with an unerring eye for contour, to avoid gullying from rain and snow runoff; climbs 40 feet in the air to despatch the windmill, and winds up the day playing mid-wife to a Poland China sow's 10 pigs, has exerted strengths and skills that few industrial jobs require.

It's going to give this country a considerable shock if we have to discover the hard way that you can put the farm boy on the assembly line to better effect than you can put the factory hand on the farm.

STRAIT IS THE GATE . .

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

"Blessed are ye poor'. Wherein lay the good fortune of the people to whom Jesus was speaking? They, among all the groups of that society, showed more possibilities of real individual and social life than any other. Having no security they had learned to draw their strength from the Eternal Certainties. Unprotected against nature they came to know it and understand it. Unprotected against man they came to understand themselves and all men better. Unprotected against the forces of society, and without feeling its oppression, they came to understand society better than did those who received its favors. Unable to hire others to take over parts of their lives they learned to use life whole, and to drink the cup of life to the lees. Unable to live through others they had to learn to live directly ad without sham or deception. Unable to indulge in the illusion that having eleven francs men for the higher life, they had to take the whole life in their stride and what they could not take that way they had to take on the side.

This teaching is sometimes interpreted as the opinion of the people—that is, some say, Jesus' teaching merely dopes or dopes the people in that they, animal-like, bow down under the lash of the powerful society to make themselves think that it is good for them or that they like it. Binding elsewhere in the New Testament, for example in Jesus' condemnation of those who hold political, economic and ecclesiastical power in his day, will show that this "opium interpretation" is false. There are plenty of testimonies that Jesus both suffered and condemned an immoral and illusitrative of society the great difference between its individuals and between groups.

Let us return, however, to the sentence: Blessed are ye poor. Jesus saw that the significant people of his day, the people through whom God's reign could be established, were the people through whom the direction of society could be overcome, the people through whom health could be restored to society, the people through whom God's supernatural powers could channel and embody, were the poor,—that is, the people who received no guarantee or securities from the existing economic, political or ecclesiastical order. Home to the poor he was saying: Stop feeling sorry for yourselves. Stop being jealous and envious of the rich and powerful. Every and jealously and self-pity will remain always a social order. Rather, he urged, realize that in your own direct way of living, in your own unbundling of yourselves and society,—there lies the hope, indeed the only hope, for a better world. Blessed are ye poor. Ye are the salt of the earth.

Bockiori Bridge Wedding of Interest Here

A wedding of interest to many friends and relatives in the Fort Saskatchewan and surrounding districts was solemnized in the Lutheran Church at Bankfoot Bridge, on Wednesday, November 25th, when Helen Mannen daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Mannen of Bankfoot Bridge was united in marriage to Ralph Franklin Lawrence, only son of Mrs. Violet Lawrence and the late Mr. Frank G. Lawrence, Rev. R. Nolson officiated.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrins wedding march. She was charmingly attired in a gown of fawn rayon chaser chiffon with shirred bodice trimmed with dainty white bows, with long flowing veil caught up with a wreath of orange blossoms and lily of the valley. Her only ornament was a gold locket, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of American beauty and pink roses.

Cpl. Hazel Lawrence of the R.C.A.F. (W.D.), sister of the groom attended the bride. She chose a gown of Dove blue sheer and wore a wreath of blue for-get-me-nots in her hair. She carried pink carnations and wore a small gold cross, the gift of the groom.

The groomsman was Mr. Gust Mannen, brother of the bride.

Mr. Frederick Newman was usher.

The bride's mother wore a gown of navy blue crepe trimmed with velvet with a corsage of pink roses.

The groom's mother chose a gown of red crepe with embroidered trim, and wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for immediate relatives and friends following a dance in the community hall, where many friends gathered to extend good wishes to the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence will make their home on the groom's farm in the Partridge Hill district.

M. D. Tax Arrears Worry Councillors

The Council of the Municipal District of Clover Bar, M.D. held a regular meeting on Monday last with all members in attendance.

After the adoption of the minutes of the last meeting the Secretary reported on the case of a returned man who had been admitted to the Sanatorium at Calgary and Touin whose small veteran's allowance, the Pension authorities arbitrarily deducted fifteen dollars a month and paid it over to the Provincial institution. The Secretary reported that this was found to be correct that this is what was being done. It was also reported that the Dominion authorities would not allow the Provincial authorities to refund this monthly payment to the family, but if they found that such was being done the payment would still be deducted from the allowance paid to the institution. There were several other features in this case that made the Council very critical of the attitude that the Dominion Government adopted in the care of such families.

The grading foreman was in attendance to discuss with the Council details regarding the work of gravelling the market road from East Clover Bar school north to the Fort. This road is being done on a dollar for dollar basis with the Provincial Government. It is hoped that the project will be fully completed next year.

Considerable discussion centred on the matter of adopting ways and means to step up immediately the collection of taxes. A report showed that collections were down largely as most from what they were at the corresponding period last year. While full credit is granted to difficulties that confronted many ratepayers through being unable to dispose of their grain through quota restrictions, and that many were not yet thrashed, it, nevertheless, felt that a genuine effort would have to be made on the part of a great many ratepayers in the payment of these taxes if schools and many other local services are to be maintained. It was opined that the Council would have to adopt the policy that was in force in the case of many districts in the Province, appointment of collectors. It was decided to hold another meeting on the 28th December when the situation would be reviewed and further action taken.

One application for old age pension and were a one application was received and both approved and recommended.

It was brought to the attention of the Council the recent request of the Provincial authorities to Municipal Councils to make an effort to acquire weed free supplies in an effort to relieve the present serious feed shortage situation. While it was admitted that stands of final weed in the District had been reported on it was agreed to make a survey of the situation and report back at the next meeting.

With the reading of correspondence and the passing of paybeets and accounts the meeting adjourned.

Good Hope A.F.U. Local held their annual meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 2nd, when the following officers were elected:

President, Earle Cranston,
Vice-Pres., Albert Becker,
Sec.-Treas. Wm. Ustaszkulitz,

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 16th.

NOTICE

Municipal District of Clover Bar, 517

While it readily appreciates the situation of the farmers in the District the Council wish to again bring to the attention of the ratepayers that it can only make payment of its requisitions to the school divisions, the maintenance of social services and the upkeep of the roads through the collection of taxes. In order to carry out these duties there must be a distinct improvement in the collections of taxes immediately. Unless there is a ready response to this request the Council advises that it will have to adopt methods to enforce payment.

C.G.I.T. Christmas Vesper Service

At the evening service, December 20th in First United Church there will be held a Christmas Vesper Service. Canadian Girls in Training will conduct the service. The public is invited to attend. There will be carol-singing and a candle-lighting ceremony. This Service will be part of a nation-wide Christmas celebration when Canadian Girls in Training from Charlottetown to Victoria, with their parents and friends, will worship together as one community, reading the familiar Christmas story, and lighting candles as a symbol of the light that came into the world at Christmas.

The offering taken at the service will be contributed to the National Girls' Work Board of the Religious Education Council of Canada which sponsors the Canadian Girls in Training Movement. The National Board prepares and provides the form of Service. These offerings enable the Board to carry on its work of promoting the Canadian Girls in Training Movement in the Protestant churches in Canada. This is done through the services of a national secretary and through programmes planning and the publishing of materials for leaders and girls.

A warm invitation is extended to all who are interested in Canadian girls in the Church, to share in the support of religious education in Canada.

My Favorite Blonde At Sharp's Shows

"My Favorite Blonde" with Bob Hope and Madeleine Carroll, brings to the theatre one of the season's best comedies. The story goes something like this: British agent Madeleine Carroll, pursued by German spies, seeks refuge backstage at a New York vaudeville theatre. Here she meets Bob Hope, who unwittingly becomes involved in her precarious adventures, shares the hazards in a chase extending across the continent, Madeleine's mission: to deliver bomber flight plans to another British agent in Los Angeles. With Hope's help, she succeeds.

If there's a comedy more genuinely funny than this, it's probably next on Hope's schedule, for with do you think this old guy with a gun is Santa Claus!"

each succeeding picture the wisecracking comedian gets better and better.

EFFECTIVE NOW

Prices of TEA, COFFEE AND ORANGES are reduced by law!

This action is taken in line with the Government's declared determination to stabilize living costs on a basis that is fair to all. It is a developing attack on the menace of inflation which arises out of wartime conditions. The prices of tea, coffee and oranges are now lowered by official order. Plans for reduction in the price of milk to the consumer are also under way and will be announced in the near future. The items chosen have been selected because of their important place in the weekly budget of every home in Canada.

TEA and COFFEE Effective now—the retail price of tea is reduced by 10c per pound and the retail price of coffee by 4c per pound below the recent lawful ceiling prices.

The table below indicates how the reduction of 10c per pound applies to less-than-pound packages; and is for purposes of illustration only.

Tea formerly selling by the pound at	$1.00	90c	85c
Must now sell at
per pound	90c	80c	75c
per 1-2 pound	45c	40c	38c
per 1-4 pound	24c	22c	21c
per 1-8 pound	13c	12c	11c

BULK TEA

The reduction in the maximum retail prices of bulk tea sold in quantities less than a pound should correspond to the reduction in retail prices for the small sizes of packaged tea.

TEA BAGS

Reductions in retail prices of tea packaged in tea bags must correspond to those made on packaged tea.

ORANGES Oranges must be reduced to give consumers the benefit of the reduction in cost to retailers brought about by lower prices for the new crop, by seasonal removal of import duty (effective December 1st, this year) and by the removal of the War Exchange Tax. Oranges should sell at or below the September-October 1941 retail price level.

BE SURE THAT YOU GET THE FULL BENEFIT OF THESE REDUCTIONS

SPECIAL NOTICE TO RETAILERS:

Retailers will be compensated for any loss on present stocks—in order that these reductions may be enjoyed by the public immediately. Retailers should take inventory of their fiber stocks of tea and coffee as of the close of business, Saturday, December 5th. They will shortly receive forms upon which to make their claims for compensation for losses on inventory due to these price reductions.

It's Called Morale

The term "total war" is glibly used. Yet the transition from a peacetime to a wartime economy is a tremendous undertaking. The physical transition is difficult enough but the psychological change is even more complex and takes considerably longer. In Canada and in the United States we have been told that we are entitled to two-car garages, to two chickens in our pots. We have been told since childhood that the harder we work the more comforts and luxuries we shall be able to claim. From such levels it is desperately difficult to climb down to the grim hardship which total war entails. All of us tend to cling to peacetime concepts.

Before 1939 our enemies were much closer to total war than we were, and it has taken them almost a decade to swing their people into line. Long before this war Hitler and even Mussolini were demanding sacrifices of their nations. Unfortunately our leaders were preaching that prosperity was our inalienable right. Consequently we have a lot to counteract in achieving the necessary degree of self-abnegation amongst all classes.

In Canada only ten per cent of the people earn over $2,500 a year. This class, however, has been severely hit by personal income taxes, while the profits of all businesses in which they may be interested have been sharply curtailed by corporate taxation. As a result this minority group is beginning to realize the financial strain, at least, of total war. The other ninety per cent, on the other hand, do not yet always comprehend the contribution which must be made to the defence of their country.

A few months ago, Mr. Noseworthy, the C.C.F. member for South York, made a speech in Toronto. He spoke bluntly. He admitted that his observations had convinced him that morale among workers was bad. His specific descriptions of soldiering on the job may have been applied too generally. Nevertheless, reports of absenteeism and of petty strikes cannot provide much ammunition for counteracting Mr. Noseworthy's arguments.

Many reasons have been advanced for lack of vigorous incentive among certain groups. According to Mr. Noseworthy, workers need a greater stimulus to their war labors, and this can only be obtained through convincing them that in the post-war period they are not going to slip back into the depression days which they experienced in pre-war years. We believe that this is an important reason for the lack of enthusiasm among a large proportion of the type of worker, but we feel there are other and equally basic reasons for any scattered deterioration in morale.

Whatever the reasons, the Canadian people must be kept intensely aroused to the cruel reality of this war. The recent Victory Loan has had an exhilarating effect, and determination to win through has received stimulating support. But time is running short.

Time is running short. The Japanese radio scoffs at the inability of the continent to gird itself physically and mentally for war. The German radio has been trying to fan every tiny spark which might delay the necessary transition. Vichy does its part. It is our responsibility to counteract such insidious propaganda and to build in its place a healthy and sane attitude towards the mighty task of whipping an enemy who knows all the tricks. Mr. Vining and his Wartime Information Board have a job on their hands. We hope they will forget their dignity and background and talk the language of the people. Our home front must be as strong as that on the home front of the enemy if we are to attain the striking power needed for total victory.

"Behind the Headlines" OTTAWA

by Allan Wilson

Fortunes of War

While lately fortunes of war allow a more broader and more comprehensive outlook for the United Nations in the period ahead than on any previous occasion in recent months, yet now this veteran observer must direct attention to the noteworthy fact that behind the headlines there is an impressive lesson for the man-in-the-street in Canada in the relationship between the latest war news and the loud, continuous clamor and importunate demands for a "second front," though this lesson is something which could have been derived easily from reading carefully certain impartial observations of this column in recent months.

Behind the latest news there is a clear-cut lesson to be remembered by the man-in-the-street in Canada that self-restraint and patience must prevail in this war as the leaders of the United Nations endeavour to capture and to retain the initiative until complete victory has been won. It means that only temporary good fortunes of war do not offer any excuse to relax or to slacken in the maximum effort. It means that in this war there exists constantly possibilities of new unexpected problems, unavoidable dangers, errors, questions, issues, controversies, and frustrations.

It is a time of crisis when such great and many perplexing problems exist for the political and military leaders of the United Nations that the man-in-the-street can serve his country best if he does not readily form rash and fluid opinions, nor easily find fault with war activities before all the facts are disclosed. Moreover, when it is born in mind that the Government cannot always disclose information of what is going on or what will go on for obvious reasons of secrecy, it must not be interpreted by the man-in-the-street as mere official silence, apathy or inertia. Likewise, for the same reason the Government cannot always explain certain actions at every turn of events or at the moment when events may move very fast in time of crisis or stress in this globular war. Indeed, in referring to the "second front" case, Premier Winston Churchill declared recently: "I must say quite frankly that I hold it perfectly justifiable to deceive the enemy even if at the same time your own people are for a while misled."

In short, the latest war activities and surprises indicate that the man-in-the-street in Canada must realize once and for all time that final opinion cannot be formed without knowing all the facts. Without the complete official story, fault finding is not justified. In the same course of reasoning, it must be realized that the political leaders in wartime without distinction of party cannot decide, nor act upon mere impluses, sentimental feelings, and pressure of public opinion in regards large-scale offensives or other military measures against the enemies with undistributed pressures of public clamor that may sometime quite reckless or wanton, even if well meant, bring about unnecessary consideration to the primary importance of the consent and practical direction of experienced, informed military advisers.

Nevertheless, since the beginning of this war there has been a steady and sharp tendency by "armchair generals" or "typewriter strategists" to prod the leaders of the United Nations, particularly in recent months on the subject of a "second front" and they have been obliged frequently to answer with great caution and prudence such clamor and fault finding, though now it is obvious that this clamor was unnecessary and this latest fault finding was unjustified.

In order to carry out the latest large-scale offensive in North Africa, three main elements enter into the grand strategy and therefore must be understood by the man-in-the-street as an invaluable lesson for future reference. First, before the actual time of the undertaking arrived there had to be made arrangements to convince the chosen or plan of campaign so that it could be carried out with exact precision and accuracy. Second, there had to be procurement or previous understandings with the other allied nations. Third, there had to be absolute secrecy so that the full force of the sudden attack would be entirely unexpected.

Though the large-scale offensive in North Africa, sometimes called the Battle of Egypt, really started October 23, yet it has been now revealed that British divisions which reinforced the 8th Army for this battle left England in May or early June and a large number of American "Sherman tanks" and other powerful modern weapons of war were placed on board ship to sail direct to Suez in the early days of July by decision of President Roosevelt taken on June 26. Briefly, it may not be generally realized but it is a fact that between taking the decision for reinforcing the Middle East for the great operations and the reinforcements actually into action a period of five months or more was required.

Second, in face of enemy propaganda efforts to spread stories of alleged friction and ill-feeling between the allied nations, yet there was concert and harmony in plans of operations, with the latest large-scale offensive finding them all living up to this standard of close cooperation. American and British staff officers worked together day harmony to achieve one of the and night in complete unity and greatest "scoops" in the war.

SCHOOL FLASHES

At a recent boys' hockey meeting three teams were chosen which will compete in the Home League. These teams have as their captains: Mr. S. W. Hooper, Mr. Lyle Adams and Mr. Ed. Richardson. The school team has not yet been picked. Hockey practice will take place every Tuesday and Friday after school.

For the past four weeks boxing classes have been held Friday nights after school in the Community Hall under the supervision of Mr. Ed. Richardson.

P.T. classes have been held every Tuesday from 4:30 to 5:30 in the Hall under Mr. Richardson's supervision for the past four weeks. Free love on these classes will be held Thursday at the same time because of hockey practice on Tuesday. There is a rumor afloat which intimates that P.T. will soon be discontinued.

The girls' sports, as yet, are not organized but they are certain that there will be a girls' hockey team. The girls' sport's representative, Ada Williston has been trying to get the two live nights a week after school for practice.

For the annual Christmas party the committee is planning a dancing party which will be followed by a "Lit" program and lunch.

World of Wheat

By
H. G. L. Strange

WHEAT AND PIGS

On all sides farmers are advised to use more wheat for feeding pigs. At present prices wheat is a cheap feed too. Wheat, however, will not be used as much as it should be if pigs are lost, and far too high a percentage of young pigs are lost at farrowing time.

Newborn pigs can be saved with proper care. The sow should have a clean nest of straw or hay. The sow will make it herself if a little straw, hay or chaff is provided. The nest should be made in a dry shelter, out of a horse or cow stall, not at the sides, for fear the sow will overlay her litter.

The new little pigs must be kept warm after birth. It is a good thing to place them in a box or basket in a box as quickly as they are farrowed until the whole farrowing is complete. If it is very cold the box goes into the house awhile until the little pigs are dried off. They can then be placed in the new nest and warm when they will cuddle readily. This means that the farmer should be present at farrowing time is cold weather.

Those who are not expert in managing pigs in cold weather should write to the Animal Husbandry Department of their nearest University.

Albert Jacobs is again instructing at the Chicago Vocational training school, where he expects to be located for the winter. Albert loves around town each day, giving him some time during the morning to look after his business here.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..
Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

"Blessed are ye when men shall . . . . separate you from their company." No one but a much wicked or separate himself from the people or set himself apart as different from or better than people in general. There are people, of course, who get an immoral delight out of being pummelled or thought quiet, but the general run of us find ourselves happiest when we are 'in the swim' with the majority.

There are times, however, when sensitive people are unhappy about being among the majority. Though they still have no wish to separate themselves, they feel that the kind of life popularly thought to be good is like a house built on a sand bar in a river. They find people doing things which, though not greatly evil in themselves, are, in the long run, destructive of mental or physical powers or of the fibre of community life. They find people making assumptions about the nature of man that anyone sensitive to experience knowing a little history can see are false. They find people making assumptions about community and world life that, perhaps dreadfully soon, will lead to misery and suffering and degradation. In short, they find among the majority many sensible and respectable people who, both in their thinking and in their conduct, are headed for the doom of deluded men and not for the destiny which is man's birthright.

That is what crosses the dilemma for sensitive people. They realize the futility of life as popularly lived, but they do not wish to lift themselves to a 'better than thou' level to expose it. They feel they ought not to be lending moral support to a way of life that is doomed, and yet they feel they have not sufficient wisdom to decide from whom they ought to cut themselves off, or by what method.

It is the people who are aware of being in this dilemma who see the point of Jesus' saying: Blessed are ye when men shall . . . separate you from their company. When the divine tension between us and the majority is forsaken us by the uneasiness of the popular majority then we can rejoice for we see that the forces of history are ripening and beginning to separate. We can rejoice for we see that the process of events will soon remove us from the dilemma,—from the almost hypocritical position —of being part of a group with which we are not in agreement. Jesus does not recommend separating oneself from men but he shows that being expelled by men is not always an evil but, sometimes, the forerunner of a great good.

The task of sensitive people in a world in which crude paganism is infused into so many popular values is to go on living both privately and in groups, that quality of life which they believe to be right, to refuse to think or act basely even though it be the popular thing to do, and to await the ripening of events. In that day they shall probably find themselves a rejected minority. In the day of their rejection lines will be drawn through society in rather unexpected places and they shall then rejoice, for they, like the prophets of old, shall see the Eternal Himself sloughing off the offensive, sorting out the worthless, and preserving that which is of value.

Newlyweds 'Showered' At Partridge Hill

Mr. Editor! we beg to report another shower, now we hope Dan Cupid will give us a breathing spell.

Monday evening, Partridge Hill Community was hosts at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lawrence. Mrs. Amos Oshaldeston and Mrs. R. M. Warring were in charge of the arrangements.

A contest "Guessing Advertisements" was won by Miss D. Jays and Varden Lawrence. Two teams with Alf Frey and Arnold Whitson as Captains lined up for a quiz. The former winning by the narrow margin of 19-15.

Mr. Wilmot Alton then extended a welcome to Mrs. Lawrence and presented the newlyweds with a basket of useful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence fittingly replied and after all singing "For they are jolly good fellows", a dainty lunch was served.

The War Service Guild held a meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. George Oshaldeston, when arrangements were made to send Xmas gifts to eight of our young men and women serving with the forces in Canada. Also to our many soldiers to boys in England, and to Sgt.-Pilot Bruce Whitson a prisoner of war. These boys will all be remembered in with a box at Christmas. A box was also sent to Alex. Pushnell now in India.

Mrs. Violet Lawrence was a city visitor on Monday.

Miss Jean Alton was rushed to an Edmonton hospital early Saturday morning. Latest reports are that she is quite ill.

L.A.C. Clare Kelly is home on sick leave. He and Mrs. Kelly were guests at the home of the latter's parents last Saturday.

On Christmas Eve Sunday, December 20th, United Church Service will be held in the evening at 8 o'clock. Special music is being arranged.

Wife—will you love me when my hair is grey?
Hubby—Why not? Haven't I since with you through brown, black, red and blond?

WHAT VARIETIES TO GROW

An analysis of the "Crop Testing Plot" work for the year 1942 reveals once again that there are still hundreds of farmers (exactly 4.2 per cent of 2,000 whose fields were tested) who grow a variety different from the variety they thought they were growing and would like to have grown. Invariably such farmers are greatly surprised when they see the analysis of their crop. Some who thought they were growing Thatcher or Apex or Regent or Renown—which are rust-resistant varieties—were found to be growing Marquis or Red Bobs or that old fashioned variety which seems to have a peculiar attraction to some farmers —the so-called Early Red Fife—all of which are badly damaged by rust.

Usually this came about because a farmer bought his seed from a fellow farmer, thinking it was a rust-resistant variety. In a rust year, of course, these farmers growing a rust-susceptible variety would suffer a severe loss of income. It seems, then, that farmers should assure themselves of the trueness-to-variety of any seed they may purchase. Registered and Certified seeds are the best because their trueness-to-variety of any seed they may purchase. Registered and Certified seeds are the best because their trueness to the variety named is guaranteed by the Canadian Seed Growers Association or the Dominion Government.

New Garage Going Up At Josephburg

Walter Frey and his bride will soon be residents of the hamlet. Walter, who is running a truck, is building a commodious garage to house the truck and will occupy living quarters above it. The Frey gang is out in force assisted by other carpenters to rush the erection along.

Philip Rippel, who operates the Parkway Service Station, has accepted the position of grain buyer for the Reliance Elevator Company. The truck which he has been operating will continue to function with Leonard Mohr in charge.

Josephburg fairlead will be presenting its Christmas entertainment on the evening of the twenty-third. Parents and children alike welcome this return to a time-honored custom. Santa Claus, in spite of rubber and gasoline restrictions, has signified that he will be there 'with bells on'.

Those of the residents—and there are many of them—who still have greenfeed parked in the fields are finding its collection a stiff proposition. The depth of snow renders it difficult to use the binder a second time to release the bundles. One enterprising farmer asserts that a frenzo with the front bar removed and a good horse hooked on either side is straddle the mosic makes an efficient persuader. We should welcome any timely suggestions from Dreaders of this paper as to their methods of cutting the Gordian knot.

The fuel shortage is acute here as elsewhere. One solution might be for each farmer to chak a shaft on his own property and thus be independent.

The Salvage Campaign goes merrily forward. The winner for woolen goods last week was Werner Weber. 'Silks' is the latest aim and the objective has already been attained. We should welcome similar drives by other neighboring schools for by this means a truck-load could more readily be obtained.

The Ice-Age has once more put in an appearance, and without the necessity of despatching a costly expedition to the top of the World, we have ascertained that the North-Pole Glacial set-up does lend to more South. We are resigned to the fact—

THE WISHING WELL

"And now," says Florence, "We drop a little stone into the Well and wish ever so hard." And so it all begins. CBC's "Wishing Well" series, heard on Sundays at 10:30 p.m. CDT (9:30 p.m. MDT) is a flight into Fairyland, with fresh young voices speaking and singing, and the gossamer notes of an elfin violin. Here we see Douglas and Florence and Rose at the Wishing Well, about to drop the magic Stone. Douglas Rain, youthful Winnipeg actor, heard on many CBC dramatic programmes; Florence Forsberg, charming young soprano, lately of Fort Frances, now of Winnipeg; and Rose Zoock, Winnipeg violinist, are the principals of this light-hearted programme, written and directed by Professor Bernard Dwarlie of CBC Winnipeg. The combined ages of the three children total 43—14 years each. Florence's lovely voice was heard previously on CBC networks in the Swedish programme of the "Canadians All" series. Excited CBC producers subsequently predicted that Jenny Lind's true successor had been found at last.

by Dean Wilson

Through some time has passed since Elliott M. Little resigned as the Director of Canada's National Selective Service after his sharp disagreement with the Minister of Labour, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, this sensational event has brought in its wake a remarkable trend of blanket criticisms, with many of those who favor one side or the other in this blow-up being influenced in part or their view being generated in part by those who are inclined to be governors or to see politics in such friction in Ottawa.

However, an impartial observer behind the scenes along Parliament Hill must admit that in this affair as in others of such tenor it is surprisingly true that the political tenure for the duration is not merely talk and that this is the broad background against which all such important issues are laid. Therefore, before favoring one side or the other in this strife, the man-in-the-street must not make too much of these statements or stories which are undoubtedly influenced in part or generated in part by prejudiced partisans who represent their side of the case too strongly or even in excess of the whole truth.

When Elliott M. Little became Canada's Director of National Selective Service last March, he was considered in Ottawa to be the ideal choice for this strenuous job because he had the necessary background and he had already created an extremely favorable impression in the Labor Department as head of the Wartime Bureau of Technical Personnel.

Then again, when the Hon. Humphrey Mitchell became Canada's Minister of Labor, he was considered to be closer in touch and to have a better knowledge of labor's problems than any other of his recent predecessors in this high office have been at the age of forty-seven years he had already served in the cause of labor for over thirty years in such capacities as Trades Unionist, Secretary of the Hamilton Trades Council for twenty-six years and since 1934 in Ottawa as the Secretary of the Inter-Departmental Committee of Labor Co-ordination, Secretary of the National Labor Supply Council, Chairman of the Industrial Disputes Inquiry Commission, and Chairman of the War Labor Board. Moreover, it is interesting to note that he was raised by the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, then Prime Minister and now Viscount Bennett, to be Labor Minister in his Cabinet in 1935 so that the political flavour of his appointment was rather weak.

In other words, criticisms or discussions of this affair in Ottawa must eliminate personalities, though there have been many whispers and suggestions with insinuations of contrary objectives. Indeed, in face of the fact that there has been a widespread, powerful publicity and a loud, continuous outcry in favor of one prejudiced faction or the other, yet the centre of the friction seems to have been mainly disagreements or frictions on far-reaching manpower policies and rulings. Otherwise, stories of strife in other personal directions have been much exaggerated in importance or value in the whole controversy.

Futhermore, the man-in-the-street in Canada must progressively evaluate such current disagreements and realize that there is nothing unusual or amazing about their occurrence in fact, it is known on Parliament Hill that likewise without involving serious questions of personalities some time ago sharp disagreements over the opinions expressed by General Lewis B. Hershey, Director of United States National Selective Service, and Paul V. McNutt, head of the United States War Manpower Commission, with both men revealing themselves to be at loggerheads over some policies or rulings of making civilians liable for some form of wartime service and disclosing quite different viewpoints on manpower regulations in general.

In brief, in attempting to find the most efficient way of approaching the manpower problems, disagreements or frictions have occurred in Canada as they have in other countries and these differences of opinion rather than mere personalities must be emphasized.

Your old friends the Happy Gang are on hand every weekday with their usual ration of fun and nonsense. Eddie Allen's treatment of the popular ballads of the war is something you won't want to miss, and the rest of the Gang are right in there pitching for Canada. One of the special undertakings of this group is to look after the Merchant Navy. As you know the Merchant Ships are not allowed to have radios on board and the Happy Gang have supplied record-players and quantities of recordings to help the crews pass their free hours happily. Listen to the Happy Gang each week-day at 11:15 a.m. over CJCA.

The Aldrich Family, heard over CJCA at 6:30 Thursday evenings is a favorite with many listeners. It is the story of the true-to-life adventures of Henry Aldrich's daily existence. Henry and his bosom pal, Homer Brown, get into more hair-raising breath-taking, and side-splitting predicaments, than you would ever believe possible. For a half hour of the kind of fun the whole family enjoys, turn your dial to 920 kilocycles on Thursdays at 6:30.

John and Judy Kendall are such friendly youngsters, that all their radio friends feel a personal interest in the illness that has befallen Judy. The rest of the folks who live in the House on the Hill, would like to have you drop in on Tuesday nights around 7:00 p.m. to find out just how things are going with them.

If you are a country listener and if you could use a few extra shekles, you should be on the listening end of the Robin Hood "Musical Telequiz" show. Every Thursday evening at 6:15 p.m. CJCA brings you this interesting musical show that is winning new listeners each week. For a different type of radio quiz program be on hand next Thursday at the same old place, 920 on your dial.

Letters to the W.I. From Men in the Forces

Fort Saskatchewan,
Nov. 4th, 1942

Fort Sask. Women's Institute,
Dear Ladies:

I would like to express my appreciation for a grand birthday cake which I received while in hospital at Camrose. There were two of us left in isolation, and we thoroughly enjoyed ourselves; for as no doubt you know Scarlet Fever patients are kept on light diet.

However, I am home on two weeks leave, and feeling fairly well.

Once again, many thanks and keep up the good work.

I remain,
Truly yours,
George R. Ingram-Johnson.

Prince Albert,
Nov. 29th, 1942

Fort Sask. Women's Institute,
Dear Mrs. Thorne:

Night I sincerely thank you for the very acceptable gift and assure you it was really appreciated. I saved it until this morning, as a few of us were nite-flying last evening and consequently missed our breakfast—you can possibly imagine what happened when I mentioned cake.

I guess Bob is hard at work these days too! We are almost finished here now, and next week will no doubt be sent somewhere else to start another course.

I hear that you people were all but completely buried with snow last week, and can readily imagine the work involved in cleaning the streets. We have very moderate snow here but plenty of cold weather during the past two weeks. Yesterday I believe it was 36 below.

Well Miss Thorne I again thank you for your kind remembrances. I hope you will convey my thanks to the other members.

Sincerely yours,
Ernie Hurlbut.

Edmonton, Alberta,
Nov. 10th, 1942

Mrs. S. Thorne,
Women's Institute,
Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta,
Dear Mrs. Thorne:

Please forgive me in neglecting to acknowledge your gift on my birthday. I wish to thank you and members of your organization. We all know you are doing a swell job; the boys here, from the different districts of the province always look forward to the day when they know they are going to receive parcels. So from everyone here, we wish you, Mrs. Thorne and members of the Institute, a very Merry Christmas and Successful New Year.

May I inform the Institute that I am not with the army anymore. Due to severe injuries received in an accident early in the summer, has caused a minor paralysis on my left side. This has also caused my discharge from the army. Some day I hope I'll be well again to take my place with my fellowmen in defending our loved ones.

Once again let me thank you kindly.

Yours truly,
Reginald R. Turner.

SICKNESS IN HOGS

Veterinarians warn farmers to pay closer attention than usual these days to the behavior of their swine. When hogs are unwilling to move from their beds, when they are short of breath, have enlargement of joints, or diamond patches on the skin—those hogs may be mighty sick animals. They may be stricken with swine erysipelas.

Vets advise that expert attention should be called in the moment any of the bad signs already mentioned are noted. However, even the best veterinarians are sometimes baffled by the symptoms of swine erysipelas. That's because the symptoms often resemble those of cholera and swine influenza. Sometimes it takes a laboratory test to show positively what ails the sick hogs.

The best advice of the vets is—"Be on guard."

TRAINING EMPIRE PILOTS FOR THOSE

Victory-Deciding Seconds

WHEN INSTINCT MUST TAKE COMMAND!

IN the tense moments of a dogfight when earth and sky flash by repeatedly in a dizzy kaleidoscope, action is too fast for thinking. Instinct must take command. But for Victory, that instinct must be trained to do the right thing in the right way. Such training is given under the Commonwealth Air Training Plan through a machine called the Link Trainer.

This machine reproduces almost every possible flying condition. In absolute safety it puts future pilots through almost every flying manoeuvre. Eager Conquerors of the Skies are trained to meet instantly the unexpected . . . and must be correctly in those fractions of a second when even thought is too slow.

Link Trainers have more than a score of delicate, sensitive instruments that record and time every motion of the machine. These instruments are electrically operated. And in many of the Commonwealth Air Training Centres throughout Alberta the electrical energy for this vital work is supplied by this Company — reliable, dependable power on duty 24 hours a day and every day.

Electricity is Helping to Give the Victory Impetus to the Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

Fats Wanted

A Dominion-wide campaign for the collection of fats and bones has been launched by the National Salvage Division of the Department of National War Services, in co-operation with the Oils and Fats Administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, it is announced by Charles LaPorte, Director of National Salvage.

In connection with this new war drive, Mrs. Phyllis Turner, Oils and Fats Administrator, declared that today Canada faces a serious shortage of fats and oil for war industries, and that a minimum through salvaged fats and bones, 24,000,000 pounds of fat a year, or, reduced to per capita figures, about one ounce of fat per person per week.

This is not just another brief campaign, with a spurt to be put on for a few days or weeks and then dropped, the Salvage Director emphasizes. The campaign must be sustained, right across Canada, in every household, hotel and restaurant from day to day for the duration of the war.

Housewives are the key people in this collection. They are asked to take waste fats and bones to their meat dealer. In any community where a fats and bone collection system is already in operation, either through municipal collection or sponsored by a local voluntary salvage committee, housewives can continue to dispose of fats and bones through such a system.

The Canadian meat dealers, on their contribution, have undertaken to accept salvaged fats and bones at their stores, and to see that they are forwarded to the renderers and meat packers for the recovery of vital glycerine for explosives and other materials essential for war industries. Renderers and packers likewise have promised their co-operation in making the campaign a success.

Every ounce of dripping, every morsel of scrap fat, every bone, green or dry must be saved.

While it readily appreciates the situation of the farmers in the District the Council wish to again bring to the attention of the ratepayers that it can only make payment of its requisitions to the school divisions, the maintenance of social services and the upkeep of the roads through the collection of taxes. In order to carry out these duties there must be a distinct improvement in the collections of taxes immediately. Unless there is a ready response to this request the Council advises that it will have to adopt methods to enforce payment.

A girl fresh from the West Highlands visited a sister living in Glasgow. At the cemetery of the town she stopped at a toll bar and began to rap smartly with her knuckles on the gate. The keeper, amused at the girls action and curious to know what she wanted, came out, when the very demurely interrogated him as follows: "Is this Glesca?"
"Yes."
"Is Peggy in?"

tain to Pacific time. Representations have been made on several occasions by the changeover, northerners stating that the hour was time interfered with farm work, with darkness at the wrong time. An order-in-council making effective the proposal was passed by the lieutenant-governor-in-council. Since about one-third of Alberta is affected, the area now going Pacific time is given herewith:

Commencing at the point of intersection of the northern boundary of Jasper Park with the Boundary line between British Columbia and Alberta, thence running in an easterly direction along the north boundary of Jasper Park to the sixth meridian; thence north along the sixth meridian to the north boundary of Township 67; thence east along the said Township line to the left bank of the Athabasca river; thence in a northeasterly direction along the left bank of the said river to the fifth meridian; thence north along the fifth meridian to the north boundary of Alberta; thence west on the north boundary of Alberta to the boundary line between British Columbia and Alberta; thence south along the said boundary to the point of beginning.

Dr. Robert Newton, president of the University of Alberta, at the request had been received from the U.F.A. co-operative organizations for the establishment of, where both possible time of a chair of co-operative philosophy and practice, or an alternative appointment of a lecturer on the subject in the department of political economy. The request is to be considered next week by board of governors and the survey committee. The president said he personally felt that such a chair should be established at this time, but added that a chair of sociology has been under consideration by the survey committee which is working to improve university services.

University of Alberta officials are still studying methods of utilizing the facilities of the institution for year round service. It was announced this week. Other university matters given attention included adoption of the budget for forthcoming activities, prior to its presentation to the government authority.

What Shall We Do About It?
In our last article an attempt was made to discuss the problem of damage being done to our farm lands by erosion, and the urgent necessity of undertaking corrective measures. We promised to offer a few suggestions.

We believe that the Dominion Government should undertake at once a long-term soil conservation scheme as the outstanding public duty. The problem will never solve itself, and it will never be solved by year to year expenditures.

It is probable that the good, reasonably level land on the upper plains can be devoted to grain farming almost indefinitely, and that the drifting controlled by strip farming and good tillage practices. In the case of middle areas, where both soil drifting and water erosion are taking serious damage, grasses and clovers must play an important part in any effective conservation programme.

Obviously, any scheme must have the full co-operation of farmers. Legislation between the open prairie and the park and wooded areas.

The money of to think of foreign things only in terms of millions for livestock. This is a secondary consideration. The soil must be preserved. If average payments are to be made in 1943, we suggest that greater encouragement be given to grasses and shrubs in specified areas. You say where is the money coming from? I reply, from wherever it came in five years time if we don't start now?

Ask your local fine elevator agent for a leaflet dealing more fully with this subject.

SCHOOL FLASHES

A school orchestra has been formed! Since there are only three pieces in it at present more players are wanted. Mr. L. Adams plays the saxophone, Margaret Horton, the piano and Jack Bruton the cornet. Practices are held every Tuesday and Friday night after school. Our orchestra specialises in popular music with a good sprinkling of the old favorites. The object of the orchestra is to make F.H.S. students music conscious but this cannot be accomplished until you take an actual part in it.—Come on everyone, lend a hand."

Girls' Hockey has started and with a bang! We have 12 members, including some outsiders, who are all trying to go, so we're expecting some good practices and some better games this year.

The girls went practices Monday evening and Friday after school but no plans have not been completed. They are using boys equipment since both boys and girls have decided to co-operate in all activities. They hope to have some Inter school games but are not sure whether this will be possible.

Grandstall and II room will be having a little Christmas party next Wednesday afternoon. There will be no gifts The children are going to buy War Saving Stamps instead and will be treats for pre-school age children.

Advertisers and correspondents are urged to have their copy into The Record office not later than Monday morning. It is the function of this office to have the paper in the mail Wednesday morning. With your co-operation this can be done.

School Christmas concerts will be the big event in practically every district in the community. Despite war Santa will make himself felt in various ways to take the bombs out of life for the youngsters.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..
Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

'Ile it unto me according to Thy word'. It is humour we put limits on God and insist on Him doing only those things which we see as possible that life in so often mediocre. We pray for a solution of our problems, holding up before God the schemes we see as possible and asking Him to bless one and fulfil it. How much more satisfying in life when, after we have surveyed the visible ways, we rest the matter in God's hands, praying, as Mary did: Be it unto me according Thy word. God's way, while it arises in the world's scheme of causes and conditions, is, very often, not the result of that particular set of causes which we see at work. When the result we long for, both for ourselves and for others, can not be seen as a possible outcome of the present, why not relax just long enough to pray sincerely: Be it unto me according to Thy word? It is in these quiet moments that God's Holy Spirit comes upon us and fulfils our prayers even more richly than we had thought was possible.

This Christmas, as always, has perhaps more now than on some occasions, there are deep, painful longings and prayers within us. Some of them we cannot express in words because they are so complicated. Some of them are prayers for results which our fears tell us are impossible. Some of them are almost desperate prayers that God will let us fulfil some scheme dear to our hearts.

Why not let Christmas Day this year be a day in which, while we play with the children, we abandon our desperate clutch upon our own schemes and upon our own interpretations of what are the possible solutions, and pray only, as often as intervals present themselves, the prayer of Mary: Be it unto me according to Thy word. Remember: Ask and ye shall receive.

THERE is hope in all our hearts as the Yuletide of 1942 draws near . . . . a hope that before 1943 is ended, peace and goodwill can return to the world.

Let us not forget that the great fog of battle which today enshrouds the world with its horror of combat and sorrow of death will lift and be dispelled by a bright and shining peace. Be of stout heart and have faith in the coming year.

Meanwhile, we all have a job to do . . . . to make sure that the safety of mankind can never again be threatened. Let us all carry on so that victory will give all people the right to live in harmony and all the festive season clasp hands in the spirit of goodwill and fellowship to joyous shouts in all languages the time honored words—

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO EVERYONE!

A Message for Christmas 1942

REV. DR. STANLEY SCOTT

This Christmas will be different from what many have been accustomed to. There will be less free spending of money, and less driving about. It would then be fitting to give more thought to the real meaning of the Christmas season. Can we picture the world without Christmas?

If Jesus had not come there would be no stories of the Babe of Bethlehem, of The Boy who grew in wisdom and stature and in favor of God and Man, of the humble who grew to the stories of the Good Samaritan and the Prodigal Son and the Sower who went forth to sow. There would be no stories of the One who chose and trained a small group from among his friends and followers and sent them forth to proclaim with enthusiasm the message of the spiritual life; there would be no friend who, though his closest friend called him a heretic, and his country called him a traitor, and his family thought him mad, and his friends forsook him and fled, yet he pursued his God-appointed task even though it led to the Cross; who died that we might live. If Jesus had not come these things would not have been.

No, if Jesus had not come, there would be no New Testament, and no Christian Hymns. There would be no Christian homes and no Christian Churches and Sunday Schools. There would be no Christian thoughts of God and no instruction in the way of love and service. These truths, taught to us by parable and sermon and embodied in a life which was full of grace and truth and proclaimed again and again by saint and martyr and hero, are so much a part of our lives that we often forget their meaning and value.

So, let us pause and look back. We are the heirs of a great tradition, of a great message. So much of what is good in the world today has come because the world became flesh and dwelt among us. .

Let us pause and consider our present world. There are those who would make all that has come to us through Jesus mere history, and remove it from the life of present and future society. Jesus came to turn people to God. Many are living today as if Jesus had not come. Wherever you find the "Godless" there is need for Jesus to come again. The happiness of Christmas is made more complete when we take Jesus anew into our hearts, and homes, churches and business. Be born in us anew, Lord Jesus.

C.G.I.T. Vesper Service Well Attended

The C.G.I.T. Christmas Vesper Service was well attended on Sunday evening. The leader, Jacqueline King was in charge of the Service, with twenty-one girls in uniform taking part. Assisting in the worship were Jean O'Brien and Grace Wilson, with Rev. E. H. Birdsall giving the Christmas Message. The Junior Choir led the Christmas music, singing very beautifully the anthem "Night of Holy Memory", with Mrs. Hester Clarke leading in high soprano. The service closed with a brief candle-lighting ceremony by the girls. Similar services would be held across Canada on that day, in the interest of the Canadian Girls in Training.

Quiz Contest Enjoyed by Residents

A goodly crowd of local supporters turned up for the Quiz programme at the school on the 16th. Mr. Rudolph Hennig, with his urbane personality, introduced the deputy for Major Bowes (?) in the person of Vsl. Kotscherdski. The latter carried off his difficult role to the entire satisfaction of his audience. Almost to a man (or woman as the case might be) his number was forth-coming and if knowledge at times was lacking, ingenuity never was. A great number of us came to the conclusion a refresher course at school would be quite in order. The Junior teacher, Miss Mason, is the guise of an ingenuous flapper, caused great amusement by her answers.

The fun was followed by several rounds of Bingo under the able leadership of the genial Bill Thomas and the cheeks were quickly cleared of nearly everything genuine in Merry Christmas in the behalf of the Aid, the hostess extended a hearty welcome to the ladies of the Minister and followed this with a presentation to Rev. and Mrs. H. Wingfield from the members of the Aid. Mrs. Wingfield is a graduate of Lamont Hospital and bids fair to become a valuable asset to the three country points. Each of the recipients replied in well chosen words to the hostess.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Mrs. Ira Finker,
Vice-Pres., Mrs. L. L. Piercy.
Treasurer, Mrs. Wm. Finker and Mrs. Bert Hartell accepted the position of Acting-secretary in the absence of Mrs. Jessee Kelly.

A dainty lunch was provided by the hostess.

At Sharp's Shows "Ball of Fire"

"Ball of Fire" starring Gary Cooper, Barbara Stanwyck, Oscar Homolka, Dana Andrews and a large supporting cast, comes to Sharp's Theatre for the Christmas Eve and Saturday evening performance, the 25th of Dec. (Boxing Day).

"Ball of Fire" story goes something like this: With seven other professors and the funds provided by the Totten Foundation, Gary Cooper is writing an encyclopedia. In his search for material for a discussion on slang, he meets Barbara Stanwyck, night club "conga-dancing" singer, who gives him the "brush-off." Her association with Dana Andrews, notorious gangster, makes her the subject of a police search and compels her to hide out at the Totten mansion. Her 1941 masculinized ogget the citadel of the staid professors, but they grove to like her; even, Cooper, falls in love with her. When Andrews decides the time is ripe for her to leave and marry him, he conspires with Barbara to have the old men and Cooper accompany her on the pretext that Barbara and Cooper are on their way to be married. Cooper learns the truth and breaks with Barbara, but she soon discover she loves him, and the two are reunited.

"When a 'ball of fire' crashes into the citadel of eight stuffy professors, watch out for rowdy, riotous hijinks".

Spirit of Compromise Prevailed

While to the man-in-the-street the national convention of the Conservative party in Winnipeg had concerned its tasks with the enunciation of its new political policies, its new name of "Progressive Conservative party", and its selection of a new leader, Hon. John Bracken, yet this strictly respected observer must report now that backstage along Parliament Hill it is suggested that the thoughts, principles, and the course which was charted at this convention will really mark the beginning of the strong, strategic and courageous action to reaffirm the historical conservative party as an efficient political force in the country.

It is held that the results of this convention are not without great significance not merely for the future of the political party but for the future of this country because it was disclosed that the issuance of Parliament had been learned and they will not be repeated, that opportunities to reconcert itself will not be neglected, that drastic departures or attempted departures from old-time-worn principles will be made. If necessary, and that there will truly produce the most interesting news in a long time the new session of Parliament which is to open in January.

Apparently, the rank and file of the Conservative party delegation assembled at the convention from every federal constituency in the country had fixed their thoughts impressed with the lesson that just as dissensions in a country can only create disruptive sectionalism and disaster, a divided and discontent Canada, or disharmony in the Conservative party can only produce disastrous conditions in the party itself, with the result that the spirit of compromise and conciliation which dominated the whole atmosphere before the convention and wherever and whenever there were discussions about politics, cause, and leadership of the party.

Though this fact was not properly indicated in the headlines in the enthusiasm to stress departures from the old policies, old names and old leadership, yet this historical Conservative tradition seemed to prevail in the background as Sir John A. Macdonald, the creator of the Conservative party in Canada, used to say that "the science of politics is the science of compromise", with the result that Sir John A. Macdonald's leadership aided greatly by Sir Georges Cartier, provided Canada for decades with a policy that had as its foundation that blend of unity through conciliation or compromise. Indeed, out of this blend was born the British North America Act, Canada's birth certificate as a nation, though some of the men who framed this Constitution did not like many of its conditions. However, as statesmen, they knew that a land of two races, two religions, and two languages could never become a nation unless there was a common basis for a firm alliance by compromise or conciliation which was the spirit itself Confederation.

Disastrous Defeat

It is no secret that dissensions within the Conservative party had much to do with the start of the downfall of this great party's fortunes in the election of 1935 when only 137 of its candidates were elected and in 1940 when only 39 of its candidates were returned. Both the last elections causing the party to suffer its most disastrous defeat in its long parliamentary career and losing the present nations by the rank and file of the party in order to regenerate itself in the land and to strengthen its position which is well but meagerly represented in Parliament.

Therefore, it must be admitted that the definite, strong yet progressive, conciliatory stand on both policies and leadership by the Conservative party at its convention is a masterpiece of conciliation not only in the best interests of the future of this party itself but in the future of this nation. As the official opposition at the moment the Conservative party is the principal watchdog of official policies and actions to ensure a firm and vigorous representative government in Ottawa. Moreover, the method of rejuvenation of this great political party and its attitude of compromise or tolerance to differing opinions is an important, healthy symptom of Canada's deep-rooted democratic institutions which are entirely sound, and provable as, to those of other countries where chaotic unrest, wild-cat ideas, and various isms have developed and flourished such changing circumstances during critical moments of their history. In this veteran observer can recall that Premier Mackenzie King had undoubtedly in mind this idea when he uttered those prophetic words in Ottawa in October, 1937, urging "those who are against us in order to join the Opposition and we will deal with our differences along democratic lines". He was not seeking examples but the historical fact that such changing circumstances during critical moments of their history. In this veteran observer can recall that Premier Mackenzie King had undoubtedly in mind this idea when he uttered those prophetic words in Ottawa in October, 1937, urging "those who are against us in order to join the Opposition and we will deal with our differences along democratic lines". He was not seeking examples but the historical fact that was merely affirming his faith in democratic institution of government.

In other words, dealing with differences along democratic lines by compromise or conciliation is the best-rook of the revivified Conservative party just as it was during the birth of this nation's Confederation and this is now the thought-provoking theme backstage along Parliament Hill about this important development which is bringing to the capital scene the strong personality of Hon. John Bracken as the new leader of the official opposition that is now known as the Progressive-Conservative party.

Christmas Letter

Fort Saskatchewan, Alta.,
Christmas, 1943.

To the Peoples of Fort Saskatchewan
and surrounding Districts:

The editor of this paper has asked me, the rector of St. George's Anglican church, to give a message and greeting for this Christmas issue of the Fort Record. This is a rare privilege for me to be able to speak to hundreds of readers, and to tell in this way the "Old, old story" particularly as it applies to Christmas. May I do this in the form of an open letter to all.

Christmas marks the day in which we recall the story of the "Birthday" of Jesus Christ into this world. We all know what a "birthday" is; and what it means to us. But, if we look upon Christmas as just another birthday among birthdays, all we can expect for many people is sorrow, disappointment and grief to be theirs on the 25th of December. Why do I say this, and why is it so true?

A "birthday" to all of us is a day upon which there is the usual giving and receiving of gifts, festivities of some kind or another, and, above all, the presence of our loved ones. When we have had all these things, especially the last condition I mentioned, we say that we had a very good birthday.

We say the same thing of Christmas, if we think of it as merely as birthday celebration. But this year and yes, every year there are always those who are short of the wherewithal with which to buy gifts, and to prepare the necessary festivities. And too, there are always those loved ones who cannot be with them. Surely this cannot be the way that Jesus Christ would have us celebrate His Birthday. No Friends, that is not the Christian Christmas. For us Christians, Christmas is a time when we can rejoice with all our hearts in all that the Birth of Christ means to us. For us it means the beginning of a new life in Christ Jesus, Our Lord.

But what can I say about Christmas to those of you who are not Christians; and to those of you who are not certain about what you believe? Just this: That Birthday of long ago may still be re-lived today. No, not at Bethlehem, nor in a manger; but within your heart and mine. Is not that what we say in the Christmas hymn:

O Holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin and enter in,
Be born in us today.

And so to fellow Christians everywhere, may this Christmas as a serious but Joyful reminder of all that Jesus means to you. And to you, and to those who still do not know Him, may He be born within your hearts this happy Christmas Day.

With every sincere good wish to all,

Yours ably,
R. M. Boss.

Letters to the W.I. From Men In the Forces

Friday, Nov. 27th, 1943

The Women's Institute,
Mrs. S. Thorne:
Fond Ladies:

I received your swell parcel on the 25th, and I must say it was really appreciated. The mail arrives over here quite regularly and when it does its a field day for the mailman. So thanks again for everything and a Merry Xmas to everyone.

Sincerely,
Driver K. P. Brereton.

Women's Institute,
Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta,
Dear Ladies:

Just a few lines to let you know that I received your most welcomed and excellent parcel. I sure do appreciate you sending me this parcel, as things like that are practically impossible to get over here. It makes a fellow feel good to be remembered by one in the Old Home Town thinks of him once in a while.

Thanking you again,

Sincerely yours,
Pte. Charlie Goodwin.

Wednesday, Nov. 25, 1942

Fort Saskatchewan W.I.,
Dear Ladies:

I must drop you a line to let you know I received your big Christmas parcel today, and sure was glad to get it. I also got the one you sent for my birthday, last July. I guess you got my letter e.h. Thanks a million for the parcel as it was very good of you ladies.

Well there isn't much I can tell you about the country here, except that I would far sooner have Canada any day. The rest of the boys say the same. We haven't had any snow yet, just rain. When we first landed here, I figured it never would quit raining, but it has been pretty fair for the past two weeks. I suppose you have a couple of feet of snow by now, as I heard at noon that all the highways were blocked in the Northern part of Alberta.

Well I guess I will have to call this a day, as news is pretty scarce over here. Thanks once more for the Xmas parcel. Wishing you all a Merry Xmas and a Happy New Year.

Yours sincerely,
John Krekiuk.

Dec. 4th, 1943

The Women's Institute,
Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta,
Dear Friends:

Here we are to thank you once again for your thoughtfulness and kind remembrance. Your Christmas parcel arrive in very good condition this morning so another party is indicated for this evening. The boys look forward to your parcels as much as I do and the first question is, "Did you get another of those grand cakes?" Fortunately I can answer in the affirmative as everybody is happy.

Work has settled down to a manner of routine now so as far as news for you is concerned I have little to report. However I did spend a very interesting week-end in London with a young couple whom I met recently. We spent all of Sunday on a walking tour and visited in our travels such famous spots as Westminster Abbey, Hyde Park Corner, where there are groups of all sizes and different speakers to choose from, including topics ranging from the great Greek philosophers to the most radical political views.

Naturally a visit to the great city would not be complete without seeing Buckingham Palace but the Royal Family were not in residence so we were disappointed in that respect.

Before saying "So Long" may I wish your Club continued success and to each of you individually the best of fortune for 1943.

Sgt. T. T. Oxley.

Christmas cards from the following were received for the Women's Institute Home Comfort Fund: Sgt. A. B. Smith, Cpl. Warren Kingsley, Pte. Fred Kerwin, L/Sgt. Henry Lamoureux, and A.S.O. Margery Lesher.

Councillors Extend Greetings

THE Councillors of the Municipal District of Clover Bar take this opportunity to wish all residents of the District a cheerful Christmas as it is possible to enjoy under the dark spectre of War. We sincerely hope that before the next festive season in upon us the Prince of Peace will again reign supreme.

We also wish to take advantage of this opportunity to convey our sincere appreciation for the co-operation you have extended to us during the past year in all matters affecting the welfare of the Municipality.

Christmas in Our Hearts

Rev. R. M. Wingfield

Christmas is here again — our fourth war time Christmas—and for many of us it will not be the kind of day we would like it to be.

So many homes cannot yet be complete, and Christmas is the one day we like to be home, and to have everyone home. And then to add to it, in time when nearly the whole world is at war, and that fact in itself mars the joy of the Christmas season. For the fourth time we face a Christmastide which cannot be so merry as we would like it to be.

And many seem to think there is little we can do about it. Wouldn't it help a bit if we remembered a little more often that the largest part of Christmas is Christ? Yes, Christmas is His birthday and we ought to remember that in our celebrations and in our fun. How can He get into the whole world unless He gets into our hearts and homes first? Would He be welcome at all our feast and festivities this year? These are pertinent questions which we should all face honestly and sincerely. Somehow I believe if we would all make an extra effort to maintain the true spirit of Christmas then we would be able to look forward with more assurance to a happier world than we have now.

In closing may I take this opportunity to wish you, Mr. Editor and all your readers a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Fruitful New Year.

EFFECTIVE NOW

BUTTER

IS RATIONED BY COUPON

The ration is one-half pound of butter per person, per week.

On and after December 21st it is unlawful to sell or buy butter at retail without the surrender of the proper coupons.

Brown coupons, Nos. 1 to 11, "Spare 'C'" from Ration Book Number 1 now in the hands of the public, are to be used for this purpose.

Each Brown coupon, Nos. 1 to 11, "Spare 'C'" entitles the holder to buy one week's supply. Only Brown coupons, Nos. 1 to 11 "Spare 'C'" can be used for the purchase of butter.

Each coupon becomes good on a definite date and expires on a definite date . . . and can be used only within its prescribed period, as given below.

The system for butter is different from that applying to Sugar, Coffee and Tea, where coupons have no specified expiry date.

Dates When Butter Coupons Become Useable—and Expire

Coupon Number	Good for Purchase beginning	Not Good for Purchase after
1	December 21	January 3
2	December 28	January 3
3 and 4	January 4	January 17
5 and 6	January 18	January 31
7 and 8	February 1	February 14
9 and 10	February 15	February 28
11	March 1	March 14

NOTE: Brown Coupon No. 2, "Spare 'C'" will be good for one only during a 7-day period—December 28 to January 3. Brown Coupons Nos. 1, and 3 to 11, "Spare 'C'", can be used within 2-week periods.

Coupons for butter, like those for Sugar, Coffee and Tea (the red and green coupons) must be detached by, or in the presence of any seller of butter or his employee. If desired, consumers may lodge their butter coupon sheets with their retailers, so that the latter may detach the required coupons when delivering.

Temporary Ration Cards

All Brown Coupons on Temporary Ration Cards issued to members of the armed forces on leave, visitors to Canada, etc., are good after December 21.

Butter Holdings Exceeding More Than One Pound per Person Must Be Reported and Coupons Surrendered

Consumers or non-registered boarding houses having in their possession the equivalent of more than one pound of butter for each person in the household, must before January 3, 1943, report their holdings to the nearest office of this Board. They must forward with their reports the number of butter coupons representing their butter holdings. If the quantity of butter in possession of such persons represents more than the eleven brown coupons in Ration Book No. 1, which will be good for butter, they must in their reports undertake to detach from future ration books, additional butter coupons equal to the remainder of the surplus.

Special Notice to Retailers

On and after December 28, retailers must establish their right to purchase new supplies of butter from their suppliers by turning over to the supplier currently valid ration coupons equivalent to the percentage of butter ordered from the suppliers.

Premier Aberhart Sends Christmas Greetings

In this, the fourth Christmas of the war, there is an undertone of sorrow to the songs of joyousness which are traditional of the season. Friends and neighbors on all sides are absent from their homes, some of them never to return, and there is naturally a note of sadness in the greeting: "Peace on earth and goodwill to men."

Nevertheless, the courage of our people stands out like a beacon through the gathering darkness of the times. In field, in factory and front line the same spirit of loyalty to ideals and sacrifice is manifest. We are imbued with faith in our cause; with faith in ourselves and in the priceless heritage of freedom which we now defend.

With such a spirit, we cannot help but emerge victorious from the dangers of the moment, and we can not too frequently tell one another that we, with the help of all that is good and holy, will come out of the crucible of war purified and refined —a shining people of new faith and new purpose.

Through the columns of the weekly press, I wish to commend the people of Alberta for their unbounded loyalty and devotion through the war years. To all I say: Greetings and good wishes. May your Christmas be Joyous and the New Year Victorious.

William Aberhart,
Premier.

Surprising and Unwarranted

Replying to charges made by Carl Hatchett, provincial president of the Canadian Legion, that the recent re-construction conference was of a political nature, Premier Aberhart said that such a statement was "surprising and unwarranted." He added that every precaution had been taken to maintain a non-partisan atmosphere, and the main speakers had been chosen with this end in view. "By inviting members of the armed forces and representatives of veterans' organizations, we acted in the best of faith . . . Surely it is obvious that party political interests have no part in such an affair."

University of Alberta C.O.T.C. will organize a troop of ski troops shortly, it is announced by the commanding officer, Lt.-Col. F. S. Warren. Instruction will be given in various phases of modern ski warfare by Sgt. Ross Pringle, an expert in the field. Membership is limited to C.O.T.C. trainees who already can and know how to use skis. Decision to form the troop was made because of the need for well-trained ski troops in certain phases of modern warfare.

Ask Miners To Continue Working

Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, has appealed to miners of the province to avoid extended lay-offs from work during the Christmas season, in view of the fuel and coal shortage, which now has become serious again. Meanwhile, new miners are being recruited under the revised certification regulations introduced by the government, and it is hoped that eventually the famine danger will be averted. In Edmonton, deliveries are frequently a month behind orders.

Christmas Message

REV. ELLIOTT H. BURDSALL

"Is not this the carpenter?" Is not this he who grew up in Joseph's home and shop? Is not this he who was born in Bethlehem, sharing shelter with animals? And is this not He who was the very reality of God become a person? It is absurd! No wonder that it is foolishness to some, and to others a stumbling block! But it is the truth, the good news, the gospel! God so loved the world,—this world of carpenters and farmers and fishermen—that He became a carpenter and dwelt among us, in order, at any price, to let us know about it. God so loved that He gave. He gave and gives even to those who knew it not and respond not. In order that men might know and respond He gave his supreme gift—His Son. He did not drop Him full-grown into the world, nor hurl him violently into history; but, because He loves this world and its processes, He sent His Son, as He sends every man, a helpless, dependent baby.

There is great comfort and strength for us in that fact. It means that the course of history is so much the object of His Love that we need not fear the future even though the present be thrown into turmoil by men who blasphemously return hatred for his love. It means also that the growth of each of us from infancy to final maturity is so much the object of His love that we need not fear, but be confident that His love will achieve its purpose in us whether our years be many or few.

Our gifts to Him through others, and to others through Him, are surely small in comparison to His continuous gift of life and the supreme gift of His Son, but, small as they are, they are great, for they are one of His ways giving Himself to men. It is with this in mind that we give and receive gifts this Christmas and every Christmas.

Our prayer for each other this Christ-tide is that one made immortal by Tiny Tim: "God bless us every one."

"Democracy is without doubt the best way of life, but a way of life is of little use without a proper sense of direction."—Hon. R. B. Hanson.

Beginning at Bethlehem

J. F. KRIEGER,
Minister of the Josephsburg Reformed Church

Once more the journeying days have brought us to the blessed Christmas time.

Great preparations are made for its reception. In the business world plans are made from one Yuletide to another. Every means within the human scope is used to suggest the message of "giving" for the business world. The government plans in advance to carry the loaded mails of presents and greetings over the country to their destinations. The Church prepares through the advent season to make "their hearts room" for the message of love.

The proper preparation and approach to the day will determine the spiritual blessing received. Therefore in the busy days of preparation in our homes and Churches "let us go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us."

It is well to begin our preparation at Bethlehem. The beauty of a beginning like this is seen in the certainty which it gives to faith. "In the beginning God". The incarnation of the son of God is the Key to every act and word in the New Testament. Let us in these days go back again to Bethlehem. Let the gospel message fill us with glad wonderment.

We need, more than ever, a renewed sense of the presence of Jesus. St. Matthew tells us that the wise-men, after they had been to Bethlehem returned home by another route. That is even true of those who today go again in faith to Bethlehem. The way of life is never quite the same again after we have found Jesus. If we begin again at Bethlehem the promise is sure: "I will make all things new". What a message for a world so sadly in need of a new birth. Let us pray with Dickens' Tiny Tim: "God bless us, every one!"

The Shortage of Farm Labor

On all sides we hear there is a shortage of farm labour. Tens of thousands of our farm boys have enlisted in the Armed Forces and thousands of others have gone to work in munition plants because of the urgent demand for men by these war industries. We hear, too, that the coal mines as well as the farms are short of workers and that there will be a shortage of coal needed to keep farm families warm this winter. But the production of food is perhaps the most important war industry of all, and yet Canada must go "all out" to do her full share with other countries of the United Nations in providing men for the Armed Forces.

What is the remedy for this situation? In the first place Canada might curtail her production of munitions and draw on the United States more for these things, and then we should copy Britain's example and mobilize women to the same extent as men, putting many more women at work in munition factories and at jobs which they can do as well as men, and so release men to return to the farms. If Britain can do all this, so can we. It is of little use having large well-armed and well-equipped forces if they are to be short of food.

Recipe of the Week

Vegetables and Salads for the Christmas Dinner

Many of our home grown everyday foods can be dressed up for Christmas with little expenditure of time or money. To add color to the dinner plate use Harvard beets; or creamed onions with parsley or chopped red and green pepper added; sprinkle paprika over cauliflower; mold tomato juice and serve as a salad on lettuce leaves; season carrots with butter and pepper then add chopped parsley. The following recipes are suggestions which may prove useful particularly since they may be prepared a day or two before Christmas.

Ruby Salad

Mix 2 cups chopped raw cranberries with ½ cup honey. Add 1¼ cups boiling water and ½ teaspoon salt to 1 tablespoon lime gelatin (or green coloring and gelatin). Cool until thickened. Then add berries and honey. Pour a little into the bottom of a round oiled mold. Arrange on it a few whole cranberries and a few grapefruit or canned fruit sections to form an attractive design, and sauce-strings. When mixture is slightly thickened add celery and relish. Pour into molds (muffin tins if will do) and chill. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

x x x

Potato Croquettes

Shape creamy mashed potatoes into croquettes. Dip in slightly beaten egg which has been diluted with two tablespoons water or milk, then in sifted bread crumbs. Reheat in the oven or in broiling oven.

Christmas Salad

1½ tablespoons gelatin
2 cups tomato juice
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce (or ¼ teaspoon pepper)
½ cup relish or chopped cucumber pickle
½ cup chopped celery

Soak gelatin in ¼ cup tomato juice. Dissolve in 1 cup boiling tomato juice. Add remaining juice and seasonings. When mixture is slightly thickened add celery and relish. Pour into molds and chill. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Christmas Greeting

Fr. ABEL, O.F.M.

I am glad to avail myself of this opportunity so graciously offered me by the Editor to extend my Christmas greeting to the people of the Fort.

The atmosphere of friendliness and co-operation have always proved refreshing to me. It is restful to turn one's eyes away from a newborn world unto a community like this one.

Here we always preserve this family spirit and even augment it by mutual understanding, generous forgiveness of each others' faults—a word by putting on the cloak of Christ's charity. "May the love of Christ be diffused in your hearts." This is my Christmas wish to you all. May it be your watchword during the coming year.

Merry Christmas

REV. J. W. S. CARSON

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, good will toward men. Luke 2:14.

The design of God in the resurrection, was to manifest the bridge glorious of God's mercy, attributes of the Divine nature which had not been, and could not be known in any other way, shewed forth and manifested in the fullness of their glory, that even the angels should have fresh ideas of God's wisdom, and new glorion to exalt in.

These things the angels desire to look into, Peter 1:12, and they desire it because they feel they are then interested in it. The Incarnation of Jesus Christ is an infinite, and eternal benefit. Heaven and earth both partake of the fruits of it, and through it angels and men become one family. Eph. 3:15. "Peace, good will toward men". Men are in a state of hostility with heaven, and with each other.

The carnal mind is enmity against God.

He who sins sins against His nature; and "Yes to God was never from friend to man". When man becomes reconciled to God, through the death of His son, they love one another. They have peace with God; peace in their own consciences; peace with their neighbours; good will dwells among them, wrath is not in their hearts.

God grant that at this Christmas time many will turn from all sin to God, that they may find this true peace.

Labor Appropriation On Municipal Basis

The Council of the Municipal District of Clover Bar, 317, held a regular meeting on Monday last with all members in attendance.

It was decided to consider the appropriation for labor this year on a municipal basis rather than that of [illegible] which had been the practice in the past. This decision was arrived at when it was found it was difficult to divide the Government Grant among the four districts whereas the grant was to be spent.

The Secretary advised that orders had been received for 1480 lbs of Alfalfa seed for spring requirements, and asked for instructions as whether or not further supplies should be ordered. A decision in this regard was deferred until the next meeting when it is hoped that more information will be on hand as to prices and grades.

An offer of $125.00 for Lot B. Block 5, Capilano, was refused, it being deemed too low.

The Secretary was instructed to take up with the Department of Lands and Mines, the matter of the coal mining that is being carried on under the Capilano sub-division, and which it is reported is causing damage to surface property.

The Secretary advised that the Board of Public Utility Commission had on the application of the Council issued an Order for the consolidation of Block 1, Cremont View, as to lots, and that the Order had been deposited with the Registrar for registration.

A grant of $75.00 was given to the Salvation Army and one for a similar amount to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

It was agreed not to re-zone the District's registered herald for cattle and horses until the next meeting

With the reading of considerable correspondence, the passing of payments and accounts, the meeting adjourned to meet again on the 11th January.

World of Wheat

By
H. G. L. Strange

There is a shortage of butter in Canada that has necessitated rationing. The shortage was inefficiency and unpredictable says Mr. Donald Gordon, the Prices Board Chairman.

But surely it could have been foreseen! Ring ups that should commence could be done away with, and when working man's families enjoy greater income, and with the price of butter fat in farmers relatively low, that demand would greatly increase, that supplies would not increase, and that a shortage, therefore, would be result.

The Government is now offering farmers a ten cent bonus for butter fat. This will bring the average price for butterfat around 43 cents at the farm. This I calculate according to the Ewarie Index is 9 percent higher than the 1918-14 parity or purchasing power of a pound of butterfat in 1913-14. This I contend is still too low a price for butterfat when we consider that the parity for the average hourly wages of industrial labour is now no less than 51 percent above the 1913-14 parity.

I suggest, therefore, that the easiest way to bring forward more supplies of butter would be to increase still further the price of butterfat. This would enable farmers to give their cows better care and to feed them better, and so would result in increased butterfat production from existing herds.

Yorkville Bride-Elect Honored at Shower

A pleasant afternoon was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Stetson last Saturday afternoon, the occasion being a miscellaneous shower held in honour of Miss Hanne Altheim, a bride-elect of this month. Over 30 guests spent the afternoon chatting and solving a "Scotty" contest provided by Dorothy Galloway, the first prize going to Doris Galloway and the second to Mrs. Wm. Faulkner.

Dorothy Armstrong, with a few appropriate words, presented the girls which were piled high on a little wagon, prettily decorated, drawn by Elna Marie and Howard Arps, and Rose Stetson. Miss Altheim thanked those assembled for their kindness, and expressed the wish that her friends would drop in on her in her new home. Misses Olga Altheim, Dorothy Armstrong and Dorothy Galloway assisted the hostess in serving a very dainty lunch, Mrs. J. Jenkins of Bremner, and Mrs. Wm. Faulkner pouring tea, after which the guests bade farewell to the guest of honor and wished her all good luck in her undertaking.

"Behind the Headlines" OTTAWA

By Jean Wilson

Behind the avalanche of current developments along Parliament Hill, it must be mentioned now by the woman observer that one of the most important is that the nether-ties in charge of this country's wartime economic controls are gradually effecting very deeply the lives of the whole civilian population to such an extent that the proper meaning of "a people's war" is becoming more tangible day by day and losing any air of mentality that may have adhered amongst some people. Indeed, it is clear now that the sharp effects of these far-reaching controls are entering or are about to enter so deeply into every home in Canada and into every life that the meaning of "a people's war" implies now more than a mere expression because the civilians, the people, are going to be almost as much on a war basis in many ways on the home front as the armed forces on the military front.

It cannot be [illegible] that this meaning of "a people's war" has not been always properly recognized by the people themselves and this has been done more to plain ignorance than any malice. This is obvious by the flood of suggestions, comments, advice, and criticisms which have accompanied the enactment of some of these controls or the appointment of some of those men to enforce or to act upon them. Often civilians have been in no position to best judge these measures. Often some people even seemed to believe that war conditions warranted better work at better pay or entitled them to more money for better living and more luxuries in wartime. Often some people misinterpreted the great need for more saving and more rationing, more taxes, more economic or man-power controls, more scrap collections, and so forth. Often some people considered controls, orders or they seemed to interfere in some small comforts, little conveniences, or personal pleasures. In other words, these people have narrow individual or local viewpoints instead of the broad national scope of the imperative need and proper effect of these essential wartime measures in Canada's wartime economic control machinery.

In fact, Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Ottawa, has declared in reference to the whole future of price control that the pressures which are developing on every side are tremendous.

In short, if all the people could develop a national viewpoint in regard to wartime economic controls instead of narrow, local or individual judgements, there would be a better perspective of understanding the objectives, savings and accomplishments already achieved in a remarkably short time by Canada's controls so far to this war, though unfortunately it cannot be said that such a complete understanding or proper perspective of the real situation on the part of all the people exists.

There is now authoritative evidence in Ottawa which, if comprehended in a proper national range of vision rather than on a local or individual scale, would convince the people almost the true value already achieved by some wartime economic issues.

As a result of men's clothing restrictions, it is estimated that enough material will be saved to provide a uniform for every man or woman in Canada's armed services. When plumbing restrictions eliminated 1,- 100 items, it is considered likely that Canada's work in this direction will save enough steel to construct 250 medium tanks. Every pound of waste cooking fats that is being saved by restrictions in common use will produce for Canada enough glycerine to make one and one-third pound of gunpowder or two pounds of waste fats will produce enough glycerine required to fire five 87 mm.anti-tank shells, with the remark that glycerine is used for gun recoil mechanisms and floating compasses. Every ton of bone that is being gathered by restrictions will supply for Canada's war effort over 300 pounds of fat for glycerine, over 300 pounds of glue which is the main source of animal glue for aircraft, about 100 pounds of animal food and about 1000 pounds of fertilizer. Simplifications and standardizations of note-paper, writing pads and envelopes will save for Canada's war effort no less than $360,000 worth of paper in a single year if Canada's industrial architects alone in the last year, which cost $6,250,000 and a loss of 10,000,000 productive man hours, were conserved, curtailed or saved somehow, it is estimated that, translated into terms of needed war equipment, there would be provided ten minesweepers or 24 heavy bombers, 20 flying boats or 60 motor torpedo boats.

And numerous other cases can be quoted.

The masses of this country must understand that behind the wartime economic controls in Ottawa, there is a common objective [illegible] changes to be [illegible] without provincial, local [illegible] boundaries [illegible] [illegible] a full measure of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Land in North China

His average annual rainfall in Shansi province, North China, varies from 14 to 24 inches. Some districts, therefore, have slightly more rainfall than Winnipeg and others about the same as central Saskatchewan. It is an agricultural province, and has been for some 4,000 years. There are about 181 persons per square mile! Supply we can learn some lessons from them.

They have preserved their soils by preventing erosion. This has been largely accomplished by skilful tillage methods developed through generations of experience and, similarly, by terracing slopes and hillsides. Wheat, oats, cotton, millet and potatoes are the leading crops.

One of the chief factors in the maintenance of fertility has been manure. Every possible scrap of animal refuse, including coals, is worked into the soil.

We have yet to learn that farmyard manure is one of our greatest potential assets. Most of it is wasted. It will certainly play an important part in any soil conservation programme we may undertake, and we should be using it now.

Farmyard manure should be spread on the land while fresh and preferably on land to be followed the following summer. If it must be piled, the pile should be high, compact and fact topped.

Some day we may realize the agricultural value of bees and clay sewage. The chief difficulty in its use has been the large volume of water. At least two terms in England have overcome this by "composting" the sewage with other organic waste. The resulting fertilizer sells for $5.00 per ton, and the demand greatly exceeds the supply.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Hilliard M. Birdsall, M.A.

I have had event of how many freedoms there are, freedom from want, freedom from fear, freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of the radio, freedom of worship, -and perhaps there are some more. In any cause let us hope that 1942 brings us the kind of world in which we shall have the basis of all of them and some more.

Have you ever noticed that some of them are 'freedom from', and others are 'freedoms for'? Both the negative and the positive freedoms are necessary to each other.

The people of Europe are telling us that freedom is not enough. Their conception of freedom is not simply freedom to have and to enjoy but freedom also to share in the collective decisions of the world. Freedom that is worth having is both privilege and responsibility.

And while you are reading and listening to all the discussions of freedom that will come to us this year, I suggest you watch carefully to see if some sinister forces are not already using the slogans of freedom to try to get us to guarantee them the freedom to fleece the people and to scuttle the nation in their own interests. You will need to watch carefully. They are very clever.

Announce Dates For Farm Union Meet

Annual convention of the Alberta Farmers' Union—first under the new name adopted last January and fifth since the formation of the Alberta section, United Farmers of Canada—will be held in Edmonton Feb. 9, 10, 11 in the Masonic Temple, it was announced by the head office in Edmonton Tuesday.

Chester McGowan of Rainy Hill is president and H. E. Nichols of Clyde, secretary. The Alberta Farmers' Union boasts a membership of 15,500.

Meeting in Edmonton a year ago some week as the United Farmers of Alberta, which then reported a membership of 11,287, a joint meeting committee amalgamation and chose the name Alberta Farmers' Union. Book in separate conventions for ratification, the U.F.A. approved a merger but balked at losing its name; the U.F.C. gave its O.K.

Acting on instructions of its members, the U.F.C. moved at once to adopt the new name. Commenting on this Robert Gardiner, president of the U.F.A., said he regretted this as it only made amalgamation more difficult. He said the U.F.C. had for years while the U.F.A. had consistently and never took the concept of the membership to any merger.

Acting on instructions from the convention "to continue negotiations for the merger" board of the U.F.A. recently conducted a mail plebiscite on amalgamation. Results have not been announced.

The U.F.A. has completed its annual convention.

THE U-BOAT THAT SURRENDERED TO A BRITISH AEROPLANE

Another victory for Britain in the Battle of the Atlantic, and a unique event in naval history, amount the whole round others—a German submarine surrendered to a British aeroplane in mid-Atlantic.

The plane, a Hudson aircraft of the British Air Force's Coastal Command, sighted a German U-Boat in the Atlantic, attacked it, and forced it to surrender. After nearly four hours' keeping watch the Hudson was relieved by a Catalina flying boat which continued the watch from above until the arrival of ships of the British Navy.

The weather by this time was so bad that the British ships could not lower a boat, and had to stand by throughout the night, keeping the submarine covered by their guns. Next day the German U-Boat was boarded and taken in tow to a British port.

The photograph shows a Carley float, which was lowered from one of the British ships, approaching the captured U-boat. The British officer who formally "took over" the U-boat is the second figure in the float.

The Week in Edmonton

In a New Year's message to the people, Premier Aberhart asked all to look upon 1942 as a year of Victory, and to throw every ounce of energy into the task of winning the war and the peace. He warned that bright as the picture may appear in comparison with that of previous war years, none must slacken or imagine that all troubles would be over twelve months from now. "Let us rather think of 1943 as the year in which victory was first assured," he said. He spoke of the tremendous tasks which would remain to be done after the war, with thousands of factories and farms being reorganized for peace time production and millions of men and women requiring employment and re-establishment. The premier issued the message from Vancouver, he is enjoying a short holiday with his family. Mr. Aberhart celebrated his 66th birthday December 30th.

Representatives from health units and other health services were present, and presiding at the meeting was Dr. R. M. Bow, deputy minister of health for the province.

Could you imagine passing a Social Studies exam after Xmas holidays, well neither can we. Mr. Hooper kindly offered a tube of Painaline shaving cream to the one who got the highest mark. Tell us, Freda, what are you going to do with it. Save it till next Xmas.

The junior boys at our school saved by two inches of last year. Elmer Thomas and Irvin Thomas took the bet on their teeth and with linseed oil and shovel moved the mountain of snow which filled the skating rink enclosure. The bottom to be hauled a good mile, and two tanks pulled by a tractor are employed for the task. Last year the ground was bare and the slough frozen to the bottom. The reverse is the case this year for snow, to put it mildly, is deep and the crust of ice 12 in. in a real crush to the boys that in spite of difficulties almost insuperable and a general feeling among the adults that it could not be done, the task bids fair to be accomplished. Here's hoping that the next six months of winter prove more congenial.

'Somebody said that it couldn't be done,
But no with a chuckle replied
That maybe it couldn't but he would be one
Who wouldn't say so till he'd tried.
So he buckled right in with a trace of a grin
On his face: if he doubted, he hid
it;
And he waded right in and tackled
the thing
That couldn't be done, and he did it."

That's the Commando spirit!!

At the present moment it is not fully decided when or whether we should hold a combined Xmas programme. Wedding

Verstraete—Aitken

In a quiet wedding ceremony, Tuesday, December 23th, at 2 p.m. at St. Andrews Church, Edmonton, Johanna Caroline, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Aitken of Fort Saskatchewan, became the bride of Elie Maurice, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Verstraete of Falher. Rev. Father Boucher officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a tea-length gown of white chiffon embroidered with tiny pearls. Her floor-length veil of white tulle was caught with a wreath of white rosebuds. She carried a shower bouquet of pink and white carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was laid with white linen centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

The following day the happy couple travelled to Falher, Alberta, where they will make their home.

Good wishes from a host of friends go with this young couple.

A Naval plane attached to the Soviet Black Sea Fleet being launched ready to go into action.

"Behind the Headlines" OTTAWA

By Stan Wilson

While the mere addition of any new article to the rationing list of this rationing system in Canada has not been accompanied by any immoral occurrences as those that just came to light in London, having or hoarding and all the resultant social shortages in every camp, the authorities were forced to institute rationing of butter by the action of the people themselves.

It is not only the rationing of butter which is involved but a far greater problem is emphasized in this recent particularity when other facts are considered.

When the authorities in Ottawa found that a war-time-war policy of total absolute maximum war-time production, redirection of materials, curtailment in the manufacture of non-essentials, and the most efficient utilization of available manpower, the necessary measures were taken to attain these objectives. Moreover, as a result of wartime emergencies the authorities discovered that it was necessary to urge strongly the people to restrict civilian buying in order to divert manpower and materials to war purposes, then again, it was generally expected that the new system of deducting the heavier taxation at the source, which was started in September of 1942, and that almost a billion dollars was obtained in the last Victory Loan campaign would prevent excessive civilian buying. However, the people continued to spend more money than before these efforts were made, with department store sales alone in this country increasing by 18 per cent in the first month after September, 1942, and this being 14 per cent more than for the same month in the previous year.

Of course, it is not the butter situation alone which caused deep thought but the background of circumstances and mass psychology which forced the authorities to ration an article which would not have been necessary if panic buying or hoarding had not prevailed, with closer co-operation being essential to deal on the part of the people whenever an appeal is made for such co-operation by the proper authorities rather than mere lip service by the people.

Protect Your Town

The Town Council spend meeting after meeting, discussing ways and means of operating the town, without a yearly raise in taxes, despite declining sources of revenue. This gathering of public-spirited men give their time freely, in order that you may enjoy a low rates services.

But, every once in a while, some one "throws a monkey wrench into the machine", and the town has to foot the bill. Which means added work on the part of the Council.

Take one example: If some action was taken against property owners who rent rum-down (and even condemned) houses to people from out-of-town was undertaken by the town. It would eventually save the town many hundreds of dollars.

Property owners would safeguard their own interests and the interests of the town, if they would investigate parties wanting to rent houses, if coming from other towns. Especially if the heads of families are employed and living elsewhere.

Its not the dollars and cents you may get back, but cents—but what you may pay tomorrow.

Skating

During the holidays youngsters had little or no opportunity of enjoying Canada's greatest outdoor winter sport—skating. The little boy or girl who received new skates from Santa for Christmas, would walk down to the rink, only to be told that there was no skating. Either there was snow on the ice, or the rink had to be flooded, or the usual co-operation help in removing the obstacles were not forthcoming via the daily excuse.

Youngsters were told that they could skate during the day, and after supper. How can a youngster going to school skate during the day, if not after 4 o'clock? And at school children are more or less discouraged from participating in activities that will keep them up late at night.

Now that school has started again, hockey matches and games after four o'clock will again leave the young people off the rink.

Regards hockey practices or school games, there is no reason why these couldn't be played from 7 till 9 o'clock in the evening and on Saturday morning. This will leave after four each evening for the children. And if the truth was only known, students in the higher grades have little or no time for skating in the evening, except over the week-end.

This is the first year in many that Junk Curling and Skating rinks were handled by one man. If the job at Lamont requires two men to handle it surely the Curling Club could arrange for extra help on these occasions, so that children may have every opportunity possible during the winter of enjoying this healthful recreation.

The New Leader

By John Galloway

"The office should seek the man", but generally the office is cornered, and crowded on by men like it and not get out to seek the man. Several years ago, when a leader was chosen, I wrote to the press a eulogistic sketch. I said that the new leader was a man of sterling honour, and that this integrity; but added, that inflexibility is not strained, nor much restrained. Perhaps few noticed the modification. Inflexibility may be a good quality in an admiral, a marshal, or a general. It may do even for a statesman, but for a leader it is a serious barrier.

Now, I would say, The Hon. John Bracken is a man of sterling honour, and inflexible integrity, but in his associations with others that inflexibility is carefully restrained. We have reason to believe that his only ambition is to promote the welfare of his country, and the happiness of the people, and that he would not be guided by the false sentiment, "the greatest good to the greatest number", knowing that the tyranny of the democratic majority is as bad as the tyranny of the autocrat, but would favour a true democracy that would safeguard the rights, privileges, welfare, and happiness of all, especially of those who cannot look after their own interests. He is the kind of man who deserves, and receives the respect of people of all religious creeds, and of all political creeds, except of a few, who are so much engrossed with the success of their party, and themselves, that they cannot consider the prosperity of their country. He is the kind of person who will render a service to his country in any field of endeavor, and the larger the field the greater the service.

World of Wheat

By
R. G. L. Strange

THE VALUE OF QUALITY

Nothing Canada's large surpluses of wheat and coarse grains, some people seem to think that there is no need to make special efforts to build up, or even maintain, high quality in Canadian wheat and other grains. This view, I myself am certain, is not only wrong but can be dangerous. When this war is over there will be keen competition to sell farm products on the markets of the world. Those countries will have the best chance to sell the largest quantities whose products are of the highest quality. Prairie farmers should, therefore, prepare now for after the war sales.

No better preparation could be made than by making special efforts to improve the quality of our herds and flocks of livestock, and particularly of our wheat, which will unquestionably remain in the future, as it has been in the past, the foundation of our prairie coal basis. There is no better way to improve the quality of our wheat than by the simple method of growing a recommended variety in a reasonably pure state. This can easily and cheaply be done by any farmer by the purchase of a small quantity each year of Registered or Certified seed sealed in the sack. The use of a few bushels of such seed would certainly result in a decided improvement in the quality, hence in the value, of any farmer's wheat crop.

NEW YEAR

By THOMAS SAUNDERS

This is an evil hour that speaks the fate
Of Nations, death-gripped in the clutch of Mars;
This is an hour when, bloodshot-eyed, the stars
Weep tears of fire that sear and desolate.
This is an hour of travail: Who shall state
The portent of the heavens? Who the scars
Predict upon the human soul? What bars
Imprison or what liberties elate?
In this dire conflict, what shall live or die
We know not; no, nor dare we to intrude
A faith unfounded. Yet is hope not spent:
Lost night Orion sped across the sky,
Flexing as one pursuing yet pursued;
The faithful Dogs were with him as he went.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

One of the good, old hymns of the Christian Church is happily powered for us by St. Luke. (Chp. 1. 46-55). In all probability it, with a few others also saved for us by St. Luke, were sung at meetings of the First Century Christians. The song, made up largely of Old Testament quotations, would be a source of hope and comfort to early Christians who often suffered violence and shame, and must, on occasions at least, have wondered if the future held anything for such small, powerless groups. Distilled from a dozen centuries of Jewish persistence in the face of forces that ignored, despised or persecuted them, the song brought a way of viewing history that had in it hope for the little Christian minorities.

The large, noisy, successful, beautiful, insensitive things in the world (says this song) are, from God's point of view, often of little value, while the unknown, the nameless, the insignificant, the ignored, the despised are often chosen by Him to be of great value. After the mighty, blustering, successful men and forces of history have strutted across the world and the noise of their self-importance has died away, we discover that the truly important people and forces were those we had been overlooking. They the world, weary from following the hand wagon of false greatness, draws strength and life (sometimes humbly!) from the simplicity, sincerity and vitality of those who, in a benighted age, preferred to be ignored or despised.

There is in this old hymn a warning to our modern world with all its worship of bigness and wealth and comfort and bodily satisfactions. These gods have no power to prevent themselves from failing into crisis, and their worshippers have no power to endure a crisis. There is also in this old song a basis for hope for those persons who maintain a fellowship of sincerity, honor, and love, even in the midst of blatant pagandism. God, in His wisdom, may yet choose them to be the bearers of the meaning of history, and call upon them for great sacrifices that the world may be saved from its foolishness.

Record Must Cut Newsprint 10%

Wartime Prices and Trade Board have issued an order to publishers that newsprint consumption must be cut by 10 per cent. This is only the first cut, and others are likely to be forthcoming.

This will mean the elimination of extra copies and the carrying of subscribers in arrears. It will also mean the cutting down of the paper in some way, so as to conform with the order.

However, we are carrying on with the same size until present supplies are exhausted.

Ho: Are you fond of moving pictures, Jamie?

Enlarged Unit Takes in Clover Bar & Strathcona

The Council of the Municipal District of Clover Bar, No. 917, held a regular meeting on Monday last with all members in attendance.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been adopted as read, considerable time was spent in discussing the proposed enlarged municipal unit which is to comprise the Municipal Districts of Strathcona and Clover Bar. The Council had been notified to attend a meeting with the Strathcona Council and representatives of the Department of Municipal Affairs at South Edmonton last Saturday for the purpose of discussing the manner in which the enlarged unit could most efficiently be brought into being. From maps furnished by the Department, it is understood that there will be five divisions as compared to eleven in the present two districts. Voting for the first members of the new council will be at large, that is every voter will vote his choice in each of the five divisions. The present councils will carry on as at present until dismissed by order of the Minister of Municipal Affairs. It is expected that this Order will be issued about the end of the present year.

The Secretary reported that the cancellation of Block 1, Crescent View, as to lots had been made effective by order of the Board of Public Utility Commission, and that title had been issued in the name of the District. The Town and Secretary were authorized to sign a transfer of this property to R. W. Johnson as soon as he had completed his payments.

Councillor Regyr intimated that he had been advised that new restrictive regulations had been issued in connection with the obtaining of contract and bodily satisfactions. These gods have no power to prevent themselves from failing into crisis, and their worshippers have no power to endure a crisis. There is also in this old song a basis for hope for those persons who maintain a fellowship of sincerity, honor, and love, even in the midst of blatant paganism. God, in His wisdom, may yet choose them to be the bearers of the meaning of history, and call upon them for great sacrifices that the world may be saved from its foolishness.

SCHOOL FLASHES

A good group of girls showed up Monday night for their second hockey practice of the year. They enjoyed their game immensely, even the bumps and bruises received from their opponents. The game ended in good spirits, each team having scored one goal. A few more practises, and we wouldn't be surprised to find the girls just as good hockey players as the boys.

A man gassed incredulously at a huge mounted fish. Finally he said: "Any man who caught that fish is a liar".

The Prospect Club is planning on a sleigh riding party to H. Lamoureux on Friday, Jan. 15th. They will spend the evening playing several games and sing favorite songs.

Our new Editor is Gladys Grundahl, who has now assumed the responsibility of our "School Flashes".

We all hope she will like her new position.

Meeting Turns Down New Power Contract

Fort citizens are of the opinion that a better deal can be had with the Calgary Power Co., than the contract submitted at a special meeting of the Town last Friday evening.

The meeting was called by the Town Council for the purpose of discussing the new contract, which called for a reduction of 14 street lights at a saving of $504.00 per year. The contract would be signed for ten years duration.

There was no suggestion of a reduction to household and business power rates and the only difference between the old and new contract was that it gave the Council the privilege of reducing the street lights by 14, thus affecting the above mentioned saving.

Mr. D. Roberts, acting as spokesman for the Town Council, showed from a chart, the lights the Council proposed to eliminate providing the contract was acceptable to the meeting. He also gave some interesting figures to show, that in a number of cases, revenues derived from properties adjourning lights in outlying

1943 OBJECTIVES AND FARM LABOUR

No doubt greater farmers resolved, on January 1st, to meet the huge production objectives made public by the government a few weeks ago. Some of the increases for 1943 over 1942 are: oats, 12%; barley 11%; flax, 66%; alfalfa, 17%; cattle, 9%; hogs, 30%; sheep, 15%; eggs, 20%; creamery butter, 15%; powdered milk, 41%; (skimmed condensed milk, 27%)

In 1942, farmers responded nobly to demands for food products. Can they meet the 1943 requirements? Yes they will try, no one doubts.

Certainly the increases in land produced outlined above are unusual indeed; but let us not be over-optimistic. Last year, pastures and feed crops were abundant as never before. Last year, besides supplying enormous quantities of food, the prairie farmers released thousands of their members, including many of their oldest men, to the armed forces, and to war industries in the cities. Need you say more? Can we meet your farm labour call be in more severe.

It is useless simply to hide my heads in the sand or to look for miracles. Failure to meet the 1943 production objectives might be of tremendous seriousness, but is the inevitable outcome if a definite plan to meet farm labour problems is not undertaken very soon. Either the supply of [illegible] must be increased, or the workers must be redistributed in some way so that farmers are not obliged to reduce cattle, dairy cows, hogs and poultry.

At present it looks as though the problem is just dumped in the farmer's lap. Farmers are entitled to urgent governmental guidance not to expect it soon.

Mrs. Ernest Johnston Heads Sewing Circle

The following officers were elected for the year:

President: Mrs. Ernest Johnston,
Vice-President, (to be filled),

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, January 28, at the home of Mrs. Ernest Johnston.

Mrs. Henderson served a very dainty lunch at the close of the meeting.

Good Hope - Tyrox Valley District News

The second meeting of the Happy Gang was held Thursday evening, Jan. 7th, in the Schoolroom. Election of officers were as follows:

President, Earle Crossman,
Vice-President, Esther Thomas,
Secretary, Gladys Thomas,
Treasurer, Allen Hillier.

Service Committee, Eva Hayes, Doris Frey and Ralph Magee.

Lunch Committee: Betty Crispe, Esther Thomas and Allen Hillier.

The Treasurer's report was read which showed that $117.60 had been handled during the past year, and the sum of .35c was in the treasury.

Fifteen members joined for this year. The next meeting will be held Thursday evening, January 28th.

Monday evening, friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pearce in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Simmons, who are celebrating their silver wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons were married in Bethany, during the last war. They have been blessed with, two daughters, Doris and Linda (Mrs. Jim Cantley), and four sons, Charlie and Howard at home; Chester and Denis now serving in the army and air force respectively.

The evening was enjoyably spent playing cards and friendly chatting. A dainty lunch was then partaken.

Mr. Carl Dittrich on behalf of those present extended congratulations and good wishes to the bride and groom. Mrs. D. Gunn also spoke, reviewing old memories of the days of Grazmar and Good Hope. Mr. Dave Gunn fought side by side "over there" during world war No. 1. Mrs. Dave Gunn made the presentation of a handsome gift of Roger's silverware to the honored people. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons responded suitably.

Mr. Wm. Pearce also said a few words, recalling many amusing incidents of the old days. One in particular was when Mr. Simmons was asked cook and bottle washer for his uncle, Mr. Bill Simmons, during a bunch of breed. It seems that Cecil started a batch of bread, the dough didn't raise, he added other breads to the mass to create materials, he buried the concoction out in the yard, only to have later a large mound where the dough was buried.

The evening was brought to a close by all singing "For They're Jolly Good Fellows".

Mr. Simmons tried to go back again in this way to finish the job he started last time, but somehow, only the army thought different.

I venture the suggestion to the Government, however, that manner of all this a modest increase in the price of the products our prairie farmers are raising, to bring their net incomes nearer to those now enjoyed by industrial workers, would be well in order.

FARMERS DO NOT STRIKE

Recently in Eastern Canada I was quite close to a town where 12,000 men working on important war work, in a quite illegal manner struck work for a week for a trivial cause.

I was shocked to see how little these workers seemed to realize the dangers to the lives of our soldiers in battle through a possible lack of the precious munitions they were making. I could not help but think of the different attitude of our farmers toward the war. Farmers, I reminded these industrial workers, never strike no matter how low their products may be in price,—and to day they are low in price compared to the high wages industrial workers are receiving. Farmers simply "carry on" to the best of their ability producing those food products which the Government tells them are urgently needed. It does seem, therefore, that our farmers are entitled to a great deal of credit for the splendid work they are doing in producing vast quantities of these most important munitions of war—foodstuffs.

I venture the suggestion to the Government, however, that manner of all this a modest increase in the price of the products our prairie farmers are raising, to bring their net incomes nearer to those now enjoyed by industrial workers, would be well in order.

"You're in the Army Now" Is At Sharps' Shows

"You're in the Army Now" is timely comedy comes to Sharp's Shows Thursday and Saturday evening of this week. The story goes like this: Jimmy Durante and Phil Silvers, a couple of unsuccessful vaudeville entertainers, attempt to sell one to an Army Recruiting Sergeant and find themselves in the Army. They have a tough time of it, especially when they discover that their past attempt to sell a vacuum cleaner made Donald MacBride, now their Colonel, the victim. They are continually being sent to the guard house for such crimes as impersonating a tank salesman and taking the Colonel for a wild ride; dropping alum into the lemonade served at a U.S.O. affair; moving the Colonel's home a couple of miles before he was ready and while he was in it; and such gags.

Brent Wood: "One Pest in Heaven" rated one of the best pictures to appear at the local theatre for a long time.

With further reference to some of the farmer's bugbears the extraction of front bound stacks from stubble fields, a practical farmer of the height school describes a very simple device requiring no gear and a half man power plus one horse power. The modus operandi is as follows—A help is mounted on a work horse, complete with harness, single tree and log chain A man walking behind, places a short piece of log-chain around the waist of the unwilling steed. Hey presto! The deed is done! With reasonable care in placing the chain the device is 100 per cent sound.

"Behind the Headlines" OTTAWA

By Dan Wilson

It is the duty of this veteran observer to watch for any snap of an important trend below the screen ading Parliament Hill and how it affects the people of Canada are assured of plenty of excitement by political fireworks during the period ahead.

New Wartime Session Preparations

As preparations are made for the new wartime session of the House of Commons and Senate, irrespective of the issues that must be settled in war abroad, there are other matters that must be fought out with words and settled by ballots at home, with public opinion being the real driving force behind the political scenes that pave the way on which the people and their representations must travel.

In other words, the impellent forces which bring forth the policies of the Government is the voice of the people, that is public opinion This was a factor when the Government decided upon a policy of temperance or curtailment of liquor consumption after the United States and Canada and other important bodies had urged such action This was a factor when the Government decided to increase allowances or pay for the members of the armed forces and their dependents This was a factor in other decisions

Sort of Political Truce

Of course, there is extraordinary sense of political truce in Canada for the duration of the war and an ear to the ground reveals that there are no signs whatsoever at the moment of a ground swell that might over-throw the Liberal control of Parliament. However, lately trends of public opinion have disclosed that there is no longer any political apathy amongst the people even in wartime and that the masses not only favour vigorous prosecution of the war towards complete victory but the common people insist that their representatives shall be first stalwart and active in war tasks and Canadian citizens and afterwards good Liberals, Conservatives, C.C.F., or members of other political parties or fractions.

Therefore, certain political developments have attracted more than usual interest in this country which does not approve of stagnant tendencies and which favours forward movements in politics as in other public or social fields, with this influence likely to prove itself as an important feature in the long new momentous wartime session of Parliament when issues will be fought out with words and settled by votes.

DECORATION FOR U.S. BOMBER CHIEF WHO LED FLYING FORTRESSES OVER ABBEVILLE DURING DIEPPE RAID

Brigadier General Ira Eaker, Chief of the U.S. Bomber Command in Europe, has been awarded the American Silver Star for gallantry during his personal leadership of a heavy Flying Fortress raid on Abbeville, German fighter base North East of Dieppe, during the big Allied combined operations raid on Dieppe on August 19, 1942. Considerable damage was done, many bombs falling on both runways and dispersal bays. Clouds of smoke rose from burning enemy fuel dumps. Picture shows: Major General Carl Spaatz (left) Commander of the U.S. Air Force in the European theatre of war, decorating Brig. Gen. Eaker with the American Silver Star.

Power Contract

districts failed to pay for the power that was being used.

To make up the required number of 85 lights, the lowest number the Calgary Power would accept, it was suggested that three or four extra lights be placed on the main street.

This brought the suggested storm of protest from residents in the outlying portions of the Town. They suggested that the Council take and re-distribute the 85 lights around the Town and everybody would then get a glimmer.

Business men taking a different view of the matter claimed that they were paying the "shot", and lighting on the main streets would be worse than over if this suggestion was carried out.

However, after much discussion, which brought out some very interesting facts, it was finally moved that the Town Council look into the matter more fully. A resolution to that effect was passed and support of the scheme was offered the Council.

It was brought out during discussion that Fort Saskatchewan was one of four towns in Alberta, who have not renewed their contract with the Calgary Power Co., since the termination of the old agreement in 1940.

Mayor P. A. Meyer, chairman of the meeting, made it clear to the gathering that unless Ottawa gives the Town a priority to purchase galvanized iron, in order that new sanitary buckets can be made, another system would have to be instituted by the council for the duration.

He also invited everyone present, and all others in town to attend the annual meeting of the Town on Jan. 25th.

Just one more week and citizens of the community will have the tell the truth, the whole truth and opportunity of enjoying one of the nothing but the truth? best dances of the season. Several "Ah does, ah." surprises are in store for those who "Well, Sam, what have you got to attend the dances Friday, Jan. 22nd. say for yourself?" One of them is refreshments. An- "Judge, wif all dem limitations you other ———— well you'll just jes' put us me, Ah don't believe Ah have to wait and see. has anything to say."

SWINGING OVERBOARD THE OROPESA FLOAT ON A BRITISH MINESWEEPER

The chief improvement on the system of minesweeping followed in the last war in the Oropesa fleet, which enables each ship to undertake the operation separately. Since the occupation by Germany of Northern France, almost every estuary and fairway, even as far away as the Clyde's estuary, has been mined by night. The strain on British minesweeper has then become tremendous. Here sailors are seen "passing down to business" at the beginning of a "sweep".

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall M.A.

A sword-ball fight was on. The ... summer ... [illegible] ... in danger of being ... able the game ... a ... [illegible] ... "Hold ... Re-enforcements! ... ing! One of ... Hy side stopped long ... out "Re-enforcements! ... for the enemy!" My mind flew to ... another occasion ... hands of ... ago when Deborah rallied ... Hebrews from anarchy and hunger and in a few swift battles restored the dignity of the nation. In the poem celebrating her leadership (Judges 5) there is a verse bearing curses on certain towns which, in Israel's desperate hour, did not bring up re-enforcements. They were content to sit quietly at home while the Hebrews from anarchy and hunger and in a few swift battles restored the dignity of the nation. In the poem celebrating her leadership (Judges 5) there is a verse bearing curses on certain towns which, in Israel's desperate hour, did not bring up re-enforcements. They were content to sit quietly at home willing to be friendly with the winners.

It is important to use one's resources as re-enforcements, but it is doubly important to know on what side these re-enforcements are to be used. When tragedy comes in a man's life are your resources used to re-enforce the man or against him in petty or indifference? When a man is waging a bitter battle with an unruly appetite or habit are your resources used to re-inforce him or to strengthen the enemy in him or around him? When young people are in the throes of making choices that will determine life's direction is your presence a re-inforcement to them in their choosing or do you, by cynicism or indifference, put your resources at the disposal of the enemy?

I have been wondering if the final question we may all have to answer may not be very similar to the question put to the boy advancing with snow-balls in his hand: "Are your re-enforcements for me or the enemy?"

TRIO OF PATRIOTS

Three of a kind . . . . and more to come! Here are three of the attractive Culligan sisters of Kitchener, Ontario, who were heard in a recent edition of "Comrades in Arms" over the CBC National network (heard every Friday at 9:15 p.m. CST, 8:15 p.m. MDT). Left to right are Airwoman Carol Culligan, Aircrafts Pearl Culligan, and Airwoman Olive Culligan. Fourth young Culligan, Airwoman Ruby, was unable to attend the broadcast. But that's not all. There is a fifth Culligan, a charming miss who plans to join her sisters in the R.C.A.F. (W.D.) this July. This weekly programme devoted to the united services of Canada's armed forces is carried on Station CBK, Watrous, (540 kcs.) and other stations of the Western network.

World of Wheat

By H. G. L. Strange

FOR FARM WIVES

There will be, it seems a decided shortage this coming year of all livestock products, and such commodities as beef, pork, bacon, butter, cheese, cream, poultry and eggs, may all have to be rationed.

It is difficult for farmers to increase suddenly livestock flocks and herds, but poultry can be increased at a quicker rate. Here is a chance for farm wives to earn a little extra money. Those who are not keeping poultry might put in 25 or 50 hens, and those who have small flocks might enlarge them. The purchase of baby chicks is a quick and satisfactory way to start a laying flock.

Wheat is the main feed for poultry and there is plenty of this grain. The price of eggs and poultry is high compared with the price of wheat. This should, therefore, be good money in feeding poultry for egg production.

For best egg laying results in the winter, hens require some green material. Alfalfa leaf meal is splendid for the purpose. Some farmers attempt the sprouting of wheat which, too, is an excellent green feed. It is, however, somewhat messy, difficult troublesome to manage.

"One Foot in Heaven" At Sharps' Shows

Fredric March and Martha Scott bring "One Foot in Heaven" to Sharp's Shows this Thursday and Saturday evenings. The story true to life, as attested by eminent churchmen, who acted as technical advisers and Hartzell Spence, son of the leading character, whose book formed its basis, this picture is one of the best portrayals of small town life the screen has offered in a long time.

The story goes something like this: Fredric March, on the eve of his marriage to Martha Scott, gives up his medical studies to become a minister. The picture then follows the trials and tribulations of a minister for the next 20 years of his life.

In this picture, the minister sees his first film (an old William S. Hart silent) and he, too, finds the device good.

Next Week: "Son of Fury".

Josephburg Red Cross,

Received my swell parcel from the Josephburg Red Cross this morning and wish to thank you all very much for it as it certainly is appreciated when a person is so far away from home and all his relatives and friends.

This parcel was the first sign of Xmas being just around the corner to me as we have had such nice weather here and no snow, but plenty of rain.

Thanking you all very much again for remembering me,

Yours Truly,

Edwin Boris.

Chicago Welding School Graduates
In Various War Industries

The throb of generators and the brilliant white flash of welding in the atmosphere which exists at the Chicago Vocational Training School, 12520-102 ave., Edmonton, Alberta, as young Canadians prepare for war on the production front

Chicago Vocational Corporation Ltd., is a Canadian-owned company, which has been active in the dominion for more than 20 years.

Trained for War

In April, 1940, the company purchased the Canadian Engineering schools and the Glenora garage, on 102 ave., Edmonton.

The Weld-ette Welding school also was recently taken over and the equipment of both establishments is now available for the instruction of men who will work in shipyards and industrial plants throughout the country.

K. L. Lawson was appointed manager of the Edmonton school in August, 1942. He was in charge of work in eastern Canada before being transferred here.

In a 30-day course, students, are given a thorough grounding in both oxy-acetalene welding, largely used in the aircraft industry, and electric welding, employed in shipbuilding and general shop work.

Capable Instructors

Chief welding instructor is Joseph Jacobs His assistant are his brother, Albert, who is now at the Pacific coast studying the latest shipyard methods, and E. J. Walker

A course in diesel automotive covers a period of four to six months. Actual time spent on the course depends upon how much advanced instruction the students received before coming to the school

This course is a complete practical training in all types of diesel engines and tractors.

Each student who successfully completes his course receives a certificate showing the marks he obtained These with initiative and showing special aptitude are presented with a diploma with the seal of the company affixed. Mr Lawson said hundreds of students who have graduated are now successful in war industries in all parts of Canada and even in the United States.

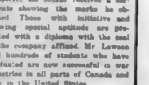
"Behind the Headlines" OTTAWA



By Dean Wilson

It is hinted strongly in usually well-informed quarters behind the scenes along Parliament Hill that the country is sensitive and highly controversial subject about the existence of an alleged "bureaucracy" in Ottawa may provide one of the leading and most heated discourses in the next session of Canada's Parliament.

This complaint is based on the allegation that the Government may not have developed the best democratic devices or systems of carrying on by means of officials to relieve the Ministers of the Crown from many of their great and onerous tasks in wartime and that by Order-in-Council much work of these Ministers has been entrusted to these officials It is claimed that these men in no democratic sense are responsible to the people of this country and this is a negation of responsible government.

Of course, it is agreed that much work of the constituted authority of a State must be entrusted to others, particularly in wartime, when many minute and exact operations of a long list of numerous war boards, committees, and controllers must regulate the human and material resources in accordance with the war demands and the available supplies.

However, again and again the complaint is heard that much of the authority which is entrusted or delegated in this way is without responsible effort in Parliament and this has been interpreted as a possible delegation of responsible government. The point is raised if the "supremacy of Parliament" may not be involved in this practice since these responsible for government policy should be answerable to Parliament.

Nevertheless, the answer is that these wartime boards, committees or officials are responsible to the Ministers in the departments under which they have been constituted or appointed and these Ministers are responsible to Parliament so that no important wartime act is not without the approval of the Minister or of the Government. If it is a question of National Selective Service, the answer would come from the Minister of Labour; if it is a question of wartime agricultural policies, it would be answered by the Minister of Agriculture; if it involves the Foreign Exchange Act or the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, it would be the responsibility of the Minister of Finance; if it would concern a question of internment, it would be answered by the Minister of Justice; If it would be a question about the controllers, the reply would be forthcoming from the Minister of Munitions and Supply. This means that every board, committee and official is responsible to some Minister of the Crown. Moreover, the comparatively few such bodies or officials who acted in the last World War provided no lasting problem since the various boards went out of existence readily and the officials surrendered their power.

But there are those who claim that the existence of an alleged "bureaucracy" and the fact that some Ministers are too busy with their herculean wartime tasks are conditions which can be alleviated by the establishment of Parliamentary Under-Secretaries to supply information at all times in the House of Commons and otherwise assist these Ministers so that the people of Canada should have no doubt whatsoever that the "supremacy of Parliament" exists fully and that the democratic way of life or devices of government predominate even in wartime.

In Great Britain, such Under-Secretaries do exist and their duties relieve those busy Ministers from constant attendance in Parliament and other work, though it must be emphasized that these men have no power of administration and that they merely speak or act on behalf of the Ministers whose complete responsibility to Parliament still exist. In Canada, such a plan of Under-Secretaries is not entirely new and it has had a varied experience. In the last World War, a small number of such Parliamentary Under-Secretaries or Secretaries were named but it cannot be stated here that this turned out to be satisfactory, though there may have been contributory causes. In the change of Government in 1938, there was a hint of the possible establishment of such Under-Secretaries, but it was not carried out at that time, with one story being that the scheme was not popular with some of the Ministers.

Now there is a strong agitation to revive discussion of this plan or policy in the new session of Parliament and this is generated by the controversial complaint about the existence of an alleged "bureaucracy" in the nation's capital.

At the risk of being thought a lobbyist, we must remind ourselves if not others, that basic conditions will not be different after this war from those following other wars, except for the worse, because of its greater cost. No new momentum will carry on in. Somewhat timid for some time after. Cause Price may smooth, but the ride will come just as sure as night follows day. Beveridge's scheme for social security which seems so good now in the flood will not seem so good in the ebb. If all nations go into it, the going will be better but if British industrialists have to compete against foreign ex-slaves (serve, the rate of Beveridge's Utopia sets in brief.

ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE NEWS NOTES

A slight change has been made in the policy of the War Emergency Training Plan Recruiting Course recently announced by the R.C.A.F. (Women's Division). The course, when office training women's five months' training is shortened, trained Mechanic Engineer, will start in Edmonton early in April. It is not planned, however, to send the trainees to No. 7 Manning Depot, Brantford, Ontario, for their recruit Basic Training first. They will then return to Edmonton, in uniform, for their training. This means that those who are interested will have to apply soon, as the class is limited to thirty. Those who wish to apply are asked to write, or call in person, at the R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centre, 10045-101A Ave., Edmonton.

According to a news report Thursday, newspaper publishers may in the very near future be asked to cut their material production by 50 per cent. To the dailies, this will mean fewer pages per day, but to the small country publisher who is at present only running four pages, it means coming down in size of the page. The majority of number-Dan's views are that the weekly is small enough as it is. However, when The Record comes down to a smaller size page, we will adjust this by using smaller type, thus giving you the same amount of reading matter only on a smaller sheet. Advertising will be effected somewhat, due to only limited amount of space. Local advertisers can co-operate by having the copy in early each week or whenever they intend to send out a message.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

There is a hunger in the world which will never be fully satisfied, there is a thirst which will never be finally slaked. It is the world's hunger and thirst for real men and real women,—for real persons of high quality. As Paul has it (Romans 8), the whole of creation waits with eager longing for sons of God to be revealed. Not only mineral, vegetable and animal realms, locked in the frozen necessity of law, but also man, society, and history, stumbling along in the strange light of frightening freedom,—all wait, with desperate longing, for their own fulfilment in the emergence of men and women whose insights and courage lift them head and shoulders above the crowd.

One of the highest products of Hebrew History was this discovery of the necessity of a 'man' Isaiah (Chp. 53), in picturing what that great man would be like when he emerged, declared that he would be to men caught in the vicious wheel of history like the shelter of a huge rock to men struggling in a desert sand-storm. He would be to men deprived of their fair share of this world's goods like an oasis of fresh water at the edge of which the weary traveller falls down to drink life back into his parched body. He would be like living bread nourishing by the hot lash of conquerors like a shady ravine on the cool side of a mountain to men in danger of losing their minds under the fierce desert sun.

A more mature reflection on the facts of this necessary men occurs in Isaiah 53. There it is seen that when that man does come he will be misunderstood, tortured, and finally killed by the very people who have cried out most for his appearing. If the Hebrews had studied this picture more and others in their scriptures less they might have dealt otherwise with Jesus.

Jesus' opinion was that the world needed, not one great man who would be limited to a particular nation, language and time, but a continuous stream of people (sons of God) living in all times and all places and speaking in all languages. The world's need for such people is surely greater today than ever before.

Instead of praying that God will send us some great man to save us from the effects of history why not realize that you yourself are continually being called by God to be one of those people through whose life given His life to the world. The World's hunger and thirst can be satisfied by nothing less than people of worth. There is no reason why you can not be one of those people; there is every reason why you can be. "Yes; alas the world's great thirst for yet another man!"

The Fort Says "Thank You, Gentlemen"

This is the very least that we can say to you coal dealers, one and all, for the admirable service you have given us. We, of the Fort, can boast about the way you "saw" us through a very serious coal shortage, in the midst of 40 below weather.

No odds seemed to be able to stump you; no, not even the coal shortage itself. If you couldn't get the coal one way, you found another.

You didn't tell us that we should have stored in our coal last fall, or that there was a coal shortage, when we came to you with our fuel troubles.

No Sirs, even Tofield mines and a 112 mile haul didn't stop you. We knew that you had to mine and load your own trucks. We knew that you didn't get back until all hours in the night. We heard your sleigh bells all Sunday morning and afternoon.

What is more, we know that our fears of an empty coal bin was yours too. And, gentlemen, we want you to know that we do appreciate everything that you have done for us. Be very certain that we of the Fort feel mighty lucky that we have such men as you for our coal dealers, truckers and delivery men.

Thank you, again.

World of Wheat

By
H. G. L. Strange

THE CHANCES FOR ANOTHER HIGH YIELD

What are the chances for another high yield per acre of wheat this coming year? Many are asking this question.

I have examined carefully the records and I find that in the past fifty-seven years there have been five years each of high yields per acre that were followed by low yields: 1868, 1880, 1892, 1916 and 1923, but that there have also been five years of high yields which were each succeeded by another year of high yield: 1890, 1901, 1908, 1911 and 1927.

On five occasions, therefore, a high yield per acre has been followed by a low yield and on five occasions a high yield per acre has been followed by still another high yield, but there has been only one period where three high yields in succession occurred: 1911, 1912 and 1913.

The note, however, that every high yield that has occurred in the past in fifty seven has been the result of better than average rainfall. It seems, therefore, that whether we have a high or low yield per acre this coming crop will depend mainly upon whether the rain that falls during this coming summer is better than average or less than average. It is to be noted, however, that next year's crop will start in with slightly higher reserves of moisture in the soil than the average.

JOSEPHBURG NEWS

Both rooms in our school continued to function not unsuccessfully in spite of the inclement weather. It is certainly a credit to the youngsters, but it is equally a credit to the parents who in most cases bear the brunt of the battle.

Apart from the fact that one's wheat pool of action for the day is (liable) to be crippled and chores obstinately insist on being done, no matter how inconvenient, there is always that double trip to be faced under conditions—to put it mildly—disharmonious. Women's Institute Held Successful Dance

Residents of the Community showed their appreciation of the efforts of the Women's Institute by supporting the dance last Friday evening in aid of the Home Comforts Fund. This organization sponsors the Home Comfort Fund, Dimy Bag Fund and Cemetery Fund, all worth-while community projects.

A large crowd enjoyed dancing to Joe Johnson's music, and although the spirits of the affair seemed what, a very successful dance was held.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Belisle, Mr. and Mrs. F. Verex had best everything in the fire. Lt.-Col. Hale suggested that a fund be started at once. Over $60.00 was donated on a few minutes. Doughnuts and coffee were served at midnight.

During the evening, there in attendance were given the opportunity to look over various weapons being taken up by the local unit.

Mrs. W. Hale of Edmonton made the draw of the lucky ticket on the Wheat Pool Institute Tea-towel. Fred Nesnigi was the winner, who in turn donated his winnings to Mr. and Mrs. Verex.

They Fought While We Prepared

The people of Russia are defending their lives and their homes against the greatest army ever assembled.

A much smaller army swarm the whole of Western Europe in a few weeks—Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and France.

For two years the whole weight of this mighty army has been thrown against the Russian line. The line has bent and bent, but it has never broken. More than five million men have given their lives, over three million have been wounded and more than sixty million have been driven from their homes.

Thousands of these dispossessed, both men and women, have hidden themselves in the forests and waste lands behind the German lines.

With only enough food and shelter to keep them alive, they carry on a relentless guerrilla warfare against the lines of the German invader.

Millions have marched on, men and women and children. As they marched they have buried their dead by the thousands, the old and young and the sick, who could not stand the hardships of the journey. With the few possessions which they had been able to carry along, they have set up behind the Russian lines. There, although they are hungry and cold, they work as no people have ever worked, to produce the food and the guns to support the Russian forces.

And that line has been maintained for two years. It has been pressed back. Every foot has been contested. The story of Leningrad, of Moscow and of Stalingrad will stand high in the annals of human endurance and heroism.

Now the line begins to surge forward. In six weeks more than 600,000 Germans have been killed or captured. All their advance positions are threatened.

The Russian people have endured these hardships because they have been fighting for their homes and their institutions. They have not been thinking of us. Nevertheless they have been fighting our battle just as much as their own.

But for their fight, who can tell what would have happened to the Allied cause?

While they have held the German army, we have had time to build up our strength. And this year that strength will be put forth. There are bitter battles yet to fight. But every Russian who has fallen may have saved the life of an Allied soldier upon another field.

Thousands of Canadians, men and women, boys and girls, have had an impulse to give to the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund—not because they have been forced into giving, but because their hearts went out to the Russians. The true expression of Canadian sympathy for Russia is found not in the few large subscriptions, but in the thousands of small subscriptions.

This is not an appeal to Charity. It is an opportunity which all Canadians will welcome to give expression to a feeling which lies deep in their hearts—that Russia's suffering has exacted similar sufferings from us.

There is absolutely no difficulty in getting relief supplies to Russia. Soviet ships, which leave Pacific ports regularly, will take as much as we can manage to provide for loading. The cost of transportation is borne by the Russian government. It takes about twenty days for a shipment to arrive at a Russian port three days. We have already made arrangements for shipping $500,000 worth of clothing and medical supplies. Shipments of used clothing have also gone to Russia. These will be distributed in Russia by VOKS, a voluntary social agency. No money is handed over to the Soviet government.

Contributions to the Fund may be handed to A. E. Carscadden this week. Remember Jan. 30 is the last day.

"Behind the Headlines" OTTAWA

by Dian Wilson

This veteran observer would like to drill into the ears of the safe, warm and well-fed people in every home, office, store, farm, factory, institution, or elsewhere in this country, far from the battlefields that, while stories from the nation's capital may seem to suggest that sometimes their representatives in Parliament may appear slothful, self indulgent or quarrelsome in face of the nation's crisis, yet in reality their representatives, regardless of their political affiliations, are confronted now with almost unbelievable problems and tasks in this most turbulent period of our history. It is no exaggeration at the least to report now that at no other time or season were the representatives ever engaged in so many activities nor confronted with such heavy responsibilities that will prevent in order to get the right facts, to discuss the numerous issues, and to reach the momentous decisions.

Friendly Relations Between Nations

But most of all a noteworthy and remarkable observation backstage in this tense and grim atmosphere along Parliament Hill is that at the same time these representatives are looking ahead and preparing for the time when the war will end and the task of civilization will burn again throughout the world. Indeed, it is known along Parliament Hill that some broad post-war plans have been considered and discussed in some quarters with particular reference being made frequently now to the post-war economic talks or conversations between the two world's major traders, the United States and Canada, whose respective Governments have entered into a pact to negotiate not only for a greater and freer trade than ever between themselves as well as the betterment of world-wide economic relations but also for the purpose of furnishing to the rest of the world concrete evidence of the ways in which two neighbouring countries may promote by agreed action their mutual interests to the benefit of themselves and other countries. In other words, the Governments in Washington and Ottawa share the conviction that in the post-war period each reciprocity of beneficial relations must form part of a general system of economic interdependence and friendly relations between the nations of the world.

Diplomatic Note Agreement

Some time ago an agreement was concluded between the Governments of the United States and Canada following an exchange of diplomatic notes whereby provision was made for the pattern or framework within which there would be a beginning of talks or conversations between them and other countries of the United Nations with the objective of establishing now the foundation upon which there may be created after this war a system of enlarged production, employment and exchange of goods for the satisfaction of human needs in Canada, in United States, and in all other countries which will be willing to join in this great international effort.

The Aims

In this historic agreement, the aims are clearly set forth. They are "to provide appropriate national and international measures to expand production, employment, and the exchange and consumption of goods, which are the material foundations of the liberty and welfare of all peoples; to eliminate all forms of discriminatory treatment in international commerce; to reduce tariffs and other trade barriers, and generally to attain the economic objectives of the Atlantic Charter."

Obviously, these efforts to lay the bases in this respect by the United States and Canada for a co-operative and close understanding or undertaking of a just and enduring world peace with a view of securing order under law for themselves and all nations are extremely important for the people of Canada and the breadth of the plans as well as the dimensions or decisions in advance may even surprise some representatives of the people. Nevertheless, it is deemed a wise move to consider them now well in advance so that, when the time arrives for their proper legislative approval, these economic sense may be more mature and ready for use.

There is no limit in shortness in this direction and every possible consideration has been, is being, and will be given to these moves or proposals not merely to avoid some of the bad mistakes which were made after the last world war but also to give support and direction to those post-war plans which aim to keep the torch of civilization alight in this country and others.

SCHOOL FLASHES

The French Club executive heaved a sigh of relief as the weather took a turn for the better. So next Friday at 7:30 you'll hear the jingle of sleigh-bells and cheery of happy voices you will hear the French Club is off on their long-awaited sleigh-ride.

Sergeant: "Why is walnut used for the butt of a rifle?"

Bill Walton: "Because it has more resistance."

Sergeant: "Wrong".

Bill Walton: "Because it is more elastic."

Sergeant: "Wrong".

Jack McLean (timely suggesting). "Perhaps it looks better than any other kind."

Sergeant: "Don't be silly!" It's simply because it is laid down in the regulations."

Bill: "Darling, you are extravagant. That electric heater has been burning upstairs all day."

Allen: "Don't worry dear, it's not ours. I borrowed it from next door."

What to Grow in 1942

As a result of the Dominion-Provincial conference held in Ottawa last December, it is recommended that wheat plantings be reduced by ninety 4 million acres, and rye by almost ½ million acres. Increased commercial use is anticipated; but we are advised to use the land taken out of wheat to increase the acreage of other crops as follows: oats, over 1½ million; barley, ¾ million; hay and clover, ¾ million; alsike, ¼ million.

The above adjustments are chiefly the concern of the prairie provinces because we now almost 90 per cent of Canada's wheat acreage. Indeed, we can go further and say that the change will be concentrated in Saskatchewan and Alberta, because Manitoba has already taken two million acres of wheat in 1942.

The 1942 allotment under the desired change means that, on the average, for every 100 acres of wheat we grew in 1941, we should grow only 82 in 1942. Obviously, these changes must be considered by districts in districts and to the possibility of increasing various classes of livestock. Generally speaking, on the same premise, it will be difficult to expand wheat acreage by 12 per cent. As a result of the recommendations that the flax acreage should not be increased in 1942, it would be wise to forget about flax on the added farming areas, and concentrate our production on the plains where coarse grains do not do so well. If the government's wishes are to be realized, wheat acreage reduction must exceed 18 per cent where mixed farming is feasible and profitable. Wise farmers and/or farmers will be [illegible] handy everybody.

THE FORT RECORD

FORT SASKATCHEWAN, ALBERTA, CANADA WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 3rd, 1943 SUBSCRIPTION $1.50 PER YEAR

STRAIT IS THE GATE . .
Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

The parables of Jesus judge human conduct from God's point of view. Though we all shrink from exposing our lives to that judgment, yet each of us likes to think that what he does is of some value and secretly hopes that value, however slight, has some positive worth even from the Eternal point of view

The one parable (Matt. 20: 1-16) tells of several laborers who received the same reward though some had worked all day through the hot sun while others had worked only one hour in the cool of the evening. The teaching of the parable seems to be from God's point of view it is not what we do that matters. He, in His mercy and generosity, may distribute His awards with utter disregard of our expenditure of time and energy, and without any thought of what we human beings call justice.

The other parable (Matt. 25. 21-46) tells of people who receive rewards as opposite as bliss and anguish, and the division between them is made according as they answer the question: What did you do? The teaching of this parable seems to be: it matters a great deal (in fact, it matters everything!) what you do.

Now, one parable says our conduct does not matter; the other says it does! How shall we understand such opposite teaching? The parable about laborers and wages is a criticism of people who think they can, by their own cleverness, goodness and strength, do such a quantity of good work that they will deserve the affection and approval of God. Now, can any person honestly say he has deserved, or could earn, this mysterious thing called life? Who can say he has deserved the warmth and love of parent, or wife, or child, or friend? How much less can it be true, then, that a man could earn or deserve God's love? The best of us, regardless of how much good he has done, never however long a period of years, can not bring his work before God, saying: "There is my gift; surely that will buy The love." Rather he will humbly present his life and his work as an expression of worship and gratitude for this mysterious gift called life, and the personal interest miracle of His love.

The other parable is directed toward people who think of their religion as a warm, inner glow that makes them feel nice regardless of the condition of people about them. To them the parable says: Your life, in all its mysterious power, is given you in trust; you will be judged by what you do with that power. It is a power that you have because you are part of a not-much called people or [illegible]. If you use that net-work of relationships as only a tool to feed your own ego, it repulses the energy of your face, expressed in the words of the parable, is "Depart from Me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire." If, on the other hand, you feel the thrilling, awesome responsibility of this mysterious relationship to other people and in fact accept its responsibilities in ever-widening areas, then the final judgment word (again in the words of the parable) is: "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you . . ."

He who thinks he can, by manipulation of his own life and powers force himself into the presence and favor of God has an misunderstood and limit himself and God that he is mistaken, and may forever miss life. On the other hand, he who, rejoicing that Life and Love are given to him as freely, enters with glad abandon into the responsibilities of that gift, finds life abundant.

JOSEPHBURG NEWS

On Monday, Jan. 25, the National Film Board pictures were shown in our schoolhouse to an audience of some fifty souls. The reels were exceedingly good, particularly those entitled "The Peace River" and "Health and Happiness."

The next showing is billed for Monday, Feb 22nd

We have recently listened to a broadcast from the Dept. of Agriculture, U. of A. dealing with the cultivation of the Boys bean. The professor holds out no encouragement whatever to those who would like to experiment with this valuable Waseline crop in Northern Alberta. Earlier varieties will in the near future be developed, but until that time tenants, Southern Manitoba and possibly the irrigation belt of Southern Alberta are the limit for [illegible] cultivation for habit at present coincide with that of corn—a crop which needs a far more equable daylight range of temperature than our climate affords. Our plant wizards will no doubt overcome any obstruction. A plentiful supply of vegetable oils would go far toward dispersing one crying war need

On Wednesday the 27th a Community whist drive was held in the school for the purpose of raising funds to pay off indebtedness upon the skating rink. Eleven tables competed, the highest score going to Reinhold Mans and Mrs. Ed. Wilie. A helpful little sum was raised but this is not enough to remove the millstone of, mortgage from our necks. Donations were received from the majority of families having youngsters enrolled at the school and even from good-natured residents who have no stake in it. The subscription list is not yet closed to those who still wish to enrol, but—A word of friendly warning—the door prize which has been acquired waits wistfully. Rudolph Rippel is treasurer and his door will remain open night and day for the benefit of out-of-town customers. Call early and avoid disappointment. Ike Pierce promises a big time for those who ask for loan! You will know them by their sheury grin and the red triangle on their overalls.

Our rural mail deliverer has recently temporarily laid his arduous duties in favor of Johnny Fischer. If any influence could compass it, he would. Our firm that strives Crosse for conspicuous gallantry in the face of rain, mud, snow, ice and unprotected mail. We wish Johnny better luck than that which has befallen his predecessor, and we trust that the closing lines of the Ancient Mariner:

"A sudden and a wiser man
He rose the morrow morn."

may never be applicable to him.

A keen contest is waged between the two rivals of our school as to which shall first "beat the thermometer" in the matter of war savings stamps. Miss Mason has organized and constructed two self registering instruments, each of which carries a fifty-two per centum of reliability. We are not announcing which room is in the lead, out of fear of reprisals.

The sympathy of the neighborhood goes out to the Adolph Bester family who suffered the loss of two and a half tons of coal, not to mention the building which housed it, from a fire one night, believed to have been caused by sparks from a pile of ashes. It is a tragic blow.

Arrives Overseas

LAC. Robert E. Whitson, third son of Mrs. A. B. Whitson and the late J. A. Whitson of Fort Saskatchewan has arrived safely over seas, according to a cablegram received by his mother here

"Robin" as he was known by all in the community, received his public and high school education at Pleasant View. Previous to his enlistment in June 1941, he worked on the farm. He then took a course in Aero Engine Mechanics in an Edmonton training school and later qualified as an A.E.M. from No. 15 S.F.T.S. at Brandon R.C.A.F. station.

Local Ration Board Must Be Formed Here

Voluntary Workers Wanted to Help Issue Ration Cards When Ready

Citizens willing to serve on the new local Ration Board not-up, on a voluntary basis are asked to attend a short meeting in the Council Chambers on Friday evening, Feb. 5th, at 8 p.m.

Fort Saskatchewan will be the centre of a large area, which means that over two thousand ration books will be distributed from this point. This entails considerable work, therefore a large staff of voluntary workers will be needed.

If you can spare a few hour a few for two or three days a week, during the two week's period, your services will be appreciated. This will be your contribution towards the "1943 Victory Mouth".

Don't wait to be asked, come to the meeting Friday night, with the intention of doing your share in the wartime work.

A young lady, finding herself stranded in a small town, asked an old man at the station where the night spend the night.

"There ain't no hotel here," he said, "but you can sleep with the station agent."

"What!" she replied, "I'll have you know I'm a lady."

"That's all right," drawled the old man, "we all respect the station agent."

Little Interest Shown In Town Meeting

The representation of ratepayers at the annual meeting of the Town last Friday evening was disappointing, when only a small crowd attended

The usual "chestnuts" of previous meetings were left "burning", and interest in town affairs was only luke warm.

Secretary W. A. Graham explained a few outstanding items on the Report. The Town's gravel pit was shown to be a real money maker and it is too bad that the Town hadn't purchase more land at that time However, who would have thought in 1927, that war needs in the city in 1942, would need our gravel.

Discussion on the purchase of a truck and the price paid for same, fell flat, when it was shown that the Town needed a new truck, and because of having one this winter were able to keep the three town buildings open during the serious coal shortage.

Want to do with several old houses, belonging to the Town, was fully discussed. Various suggestions were offered, but under present conditions the majority were found not feasible.

The policy of the Council in the past has been to sell buildings for removal, that are found to be unfit for human habitation. This council to be the best procedure under the circumstances.

Mayor P. A. Menet was chairman of the meeting.

Report of the School Board was given by the secretary.

Ratepayers moved a vote of thanks to members of the Town Council and School Board for the efficient manner in which they had carried on the affairs of the Town during the past year.

Letters to the I. W. From Men in the Forces

Co. 67 No. 10 A.O.S. Chatham, New Brunswick, January 29, 1943

Ladies of the Women's Institute, Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta,

Dear Ladies:

A fine time to thank you for a Birthday cake which arrived over a month ago! However, allow me to offer my belated thanks. At that time of the year it served a double purpose. Birthday and Christmas cake, and so was doubly appreciated.

May I offer a little in the way of news? Although I didn't make it back to the Fort for the holiday season, yet Christmas was by no means dull. Work ceased for that day and I enjoyed the luxury of a sleep in the morning. The dinner which the boys in the mess had laid was excellent and certainly did credit to those who planned it. On that occasion I met with Mrs. Smith and members of the Women's Division who were responsible For the New Year I had a leave—14th. Pte. Jack McLean having been accepted in the Air Force, and can only be a member of one service at a time, will resign from the land army.

Plans were laid for a church parade next Sunday, Feb. 14th. It was decided that this time the Unit would visit the Anglican church. Sgt. A. Black is in charge of the arrangements.

Novelty dance music has been arranged and patrons are assured of an enjoyable evening at a low cost.

Proceeds of the dance will be put into the school funds.

Second Nomination Day Monday, Feb. 8th.

Office of Mayor and Trustees To Be Filled

Showing the same lack of interest that was manifested in the annual meeting of the Town recently, Fort citizens failed to nominate candidates for the office of Mayor and three school trustees.

Three vacancies on the Council were filled shortly before noon Monday, when Messrs. Chas. Glover, Albert J. Jacobs and Gordon Neale signified their willingness to serve as councillors. They replace Messrs. J. B. Gauf, D. Roberts and Wm. Herbert retiring councillors.

Retiring school trustees are Messrs. E. Rocque, Selby Thorne and J. A. Lamoureux.

A second nomination day in which to fill the office of Mayor and three School Trustees will be held Monday morning, Feb. 9th, between the hours of 11 and 12 noon.

The retiring Mayor, P. A. Menet has given much time and faithful service to the welfare of the town during his term of office. He is aggressive and keenly interested in the town's future. Ratepayers appreciative of his work, should prevail upon Mr. Menet to accept the nomination of Mayor for another term.

It is reported that Messrs. E. Rocque, S. Thorne and J. A. Lamoureux are willing to stand again as school trustees. The Board has enjoyed a harmonious year, and have handled the business of the school in an efficient manner, ratepayers could go a long ways before finding better men and more enthusiastic men, then the above gentlemen who are willing to take on the load again for another term.

With the Boys

The local Reserve Unit of the 2nd Edmonton Regiment was dealt a severe blow Wednesday night, when no less than three members left to join the active services. Pte. Geo McMahon, an engineer at the Provincial Gaol leaves over the week-end for Calgary, where he will start training in Navy rudiments. Pte. Eric MacLellan has joined the active service and is to report about the 14th. Pte. Jack McLean having been accepted in the Air Force, and can only be a member of one service at a time, will resign from the land army.

Plans were laid for a church parade next Sunday, Feb. 14th. It was decided that this time the Unit would visit the Anglican church. Sgt. A. Black is in charge of the arrangements.

World of Wheat

January and February are usually the coldest months of winter, but the turn of the year reminds us that spring is coming, and when we think of spring we think, too, of Nature's new life arising fresh and green with eternal new promise from the long winter sleep.

All this brings to the mind of the farmer the thought of the seed that must be planted before a new crop can be achieved. As long as the land is to be sown, regardless of deflation-ries or surpluses, or of high or low prices, one thing is certain, it always has paid, it pays today, and always will pay the farmers to use better seed.

Year after year eternally, as Virgil two thousand years ago reminded us, Nature's forces are at work exerting a backward pull on quality, and this backward pull can only be overcome by the use from time to time of better seed. Good seed—particularly Registered and Certified seed—is more than your money's worth the past two season and the late fall. All farmers would do well to use more better seed, preferably some Registered or Certified seed sealed in the sack, and wise farmers will order their seed as soon as possible while the relatively small stocks are still available.

Gifts and offers of gifts have been flooding Stag Crosby ever since the Gimlet-eye Zoo which ruined his home in San Fernando Valley. Thousands of Kraft Music Hall listeners and movie fans have offered record collections, radios, dogs and other prized possessions to replace his loss. Complete collections of all of Crosby's records and boxes have profered with the universal comment: "I wouldn't sell them for any amount of money, but I'd like to give them to you". Many of the letters and gifts came from service men. One Army sergeant wrote that every time Bing reached a pipe in one of his pictures, he'd bought one just like it. The sergeant had been collecting pipes from the collection. Dogs of all breeds, ranging from dachshunds to Himalayan dogs were urged on the famous star, and one vaudevillian wanted to brush up his trained dog act to give Crosby either one of its entire stars. A prized spaniel owned by the Crosby children was a casualty of the fire.

Bing's new commercial show broadcast from CFCA, Thursdays at 7:00 p.m.

"Victory Parade" is the timely title of a brand new radio show Bing stars the noted Mark Kenney and his Western Gentlemen performing before an audience of men from Canada's three fighting services, Mondays 6:00 p.m. over CFCA.

REPAIR FARM MACHINERY NOW

In haying time last year a farmer lost ten hours of time and made two special trips to town for repairs when a mower broke down. A small casting, which costs less than one dollar, was lost in the hay field and the mower could not be operated until it was replaced. This delay could have been avoided and valuable time saved for a cost of one cent, as the delay was caused by a cotter-pin which wore off and allowed the casting to fall off the mower. If this pin had been inspected and replaced before the haying season started, the hay crop would have been harvested earlier with less labour hours and at a lower cost. This doesn't only stand good with mower machines, but all machinery on the farm.

Next summer many 'last minute' repairs will not be possible due to conditions caused by the war. Provision has been made for the production of a large volume of repair parts, but all dealers may not have all the parts which may be required at a moment's notice. Because of difficulties in transportation and in estimating the requirements of each district, it is necessary to order repair parts early so that the machinery dealers can place the required repair parts in stock.

Both labour and money can be saved by ordering repair parts now and by thoroughly overhauling machinery and equipment this winter.

To determine the repair parts which are required every machine should be inspected. After all worn or broken parts are obtained the machines should be overhauled and all additional repair parts ordered so that they can be used when the machines are being assembled.

Not only should field machinery be overhauled, but if pumps, grinders, feed hoppers and other such equipment are reconditioned now, labour can be saved next summer.

PRESSURE GROUPS MENACE ANTI-INFLATION PLAN

The following comments on Mr. Gordon's recent speech are made by the Secretary of the Alberta Farmers' Union.

In his anti-inflation talk Mr. Gordon repeatedly misrepresented the position of the farmers. He says, "He believes there is an under-current of opinion in the farming community that farmers constitute the one group which could benefit from inflation". Let me straight at the start. The farmers want the price ceilings established at a fair level. They are not asking for inflation. In other words they want the same kind of a deal that other industries received.

Instead of that, agricultural prices had ceilings put on based on the depression prices that had prevailed for 10 years. This was done without any consultation with the farmers and done in the name of National Security and non-inflation. As a matter of fact it places the whole economy of the Nation in jeopardy.

Mr. Gordon goes on to say, "It has been argued that under inflation agricultural prices would rise faster than the prices of goods or supplies required from farm consumption." If Mr. Gordon believes that, he is woefully astray. What farmers want and must have if they are ever going to pay their debts, or even part of the interest on them, are prices for their own products which are more in accordance with the already inflated prices of the things which they buy.

Can Mr. Gordon justify the 15% raise which his board has allowed in the price of farm machinery? And how does that fit in with his non-inflation theory? Machinery that was already priced in accordance with what Mr. Gordon calls the inflated prices of the last war.

Anyone who knows that facts and Mr. Gordon must be one of them, knows that in 1918 it took about 100 bushels of wheat, to buy a binder. Today it takes 600 bushels. It will take a lot of inflation of farm products to catch up to that and yet this is the sort of injustice that the War Time Prices and Trade Board is seeking to perpetuate and does it in the name of non-inflation and National Security.

If Mr. Gordon and his chief, Mr. Hisley had really want to avoid inflation, then why do they not carry out the policy enunciated by their leader, Prime Minister Mackenzie King when he was appealing for the people's votes and issu Public Credit in terms of public need, debt free and interes: free by the Bank of Canada at a price discount to t retailer which will keep down prices to the consumer an effectively prevent the inflation which they so much fear.

Both Mr. Hisley and Mr. Gordon admit that the subsidy method is the least cumbersome method of keeping down prices, so why not use it?

However, several citizens did get-together an nominated three business men to fill the vacancies on the council. But when it can to filling the position of mayor and school trustees vacancies the committee ran up against a snag.

Another nomination day has been set for next Monday, February 8th, at which the vacancies of mayor and three school trustees must be filled.

The Record agrees that it is a thankless job being a member of either town council or school board, but somebody has to do it, and if everybody took a turn at the job it wouldn't work a hardship on anyone. Then there would be more citizens willing to accept nomination.

This impartial and veteran observer must report at this time that usually well-informed quarters behind the scenes along Parliament Hill hint that this is going to be the greatest wartime session of Parliament on record because not only is the amusement possessed of a number of the people's money to be spent as rapidly as possible in wartime, and to place all other considerations secondary but the Opposition members, while they be Liberal-Progressive, Conservative or Independent, as well as Co-operative Commonwealth Federation Members, are unable seem to have refrained from visits to their people back home, and as a result much needed constructive criticism and suggestions on various debates and legislation of a purely personal nature have accumulated to such an extent that there will be a shortage of time for the discussion of these matters.

This is not intended to infer any meaning that a large percentage of the representatives will be afflicted with a temporary loss of tongue and laryngitis and that there will be a complete divernment of political backstage. It is intended as a development of extraordinary interest which is indicative that there is a keener desire than ever on the opposition benchtage among Parliamentarians Hill on all matters affecting the prosecution of the war in hastening the wartime effectiveness of the Government than the popular impression amongst the masses outside of the capital itself seems to be which is due largely to the political publicity or manipulation as well as casual interpretation of the news.

There is a popular impression now amongst the masses that Canada's Parliament does not often, nor very long, enough relatively and that the representatives of the people spend much time and money merely in talking back and forth, particularly when the blood runs hot or ambition is ardent in considering or deciding certain issues and policies, with these representatives who come from all walks of life and from one end to the other and from the farthest corners of the land being more or less genial comrades and politicians, hearty and friendly men in assembly as they prescribe the act of oratory in verbal combat.

Of course, the masses do not know much about Parliamentary life, its management and administration which is peculiar in itself, but this veteran observer can report that to the background it is known that the actual cost to run Canada's Parliament is rather high. In fact years ago it was estimated that the daily cost to run the House of Commons was between $6,000 and $10,000, and, if the Senate of 96 members and its staff are added, the cost is between $12,000 and $15,000 a day for an ordinary session, depending on the length of the session, the amount of printing, the number of inquiries conducted, the size of the permanent and sessional staffs and so forth.

Then again, while the reports may seem to create the impression amongst the masses that the representatives of all political parties seem to have a comparatively easy air of comradeship and friendliness in Parliament in face of differences or debates on crucial issues, yet this should not be misinterpreted because it is really a light in the midst of war's darkness since in actuality it indicates now that they are standing closer together, body and soul, in this crisis so that they may fulfill their sacred trust. It must be pointed out by one who is familiar with three men of all political parties that Parliamentary government is government by speaking to one of the most peculiar audiences in the country and the art or power of speaking is one of the most highly prized qualities which a representative can possess. It is quite different for a politician or statesman to address Parliament the nice speak on a public platform, in court, or elsewhere, especially in any time of perilous crisis. Furthermore, an able speaker in Parliament must have intellectual qualities, sound judgement, and good ability to debate or to inform without inviting resentment as much as possible under the circumstances, even if the means tend the art or power of oratory most useful as ability to inform and to entertain at the same time. Members, as a general rule do not tolerate being bored and they resent being lectured. Therefore when any representative does not possess the combination of qualities of his other qualities, it tends to fade or wane somewhat amongst the masses, particularly when it results in laughing and jeering at remarks or sermon debates and declarations of a purely personal nature. Nevertheless, there are many arguments in wartime during heated debates and discussions on crucial issues and policies.

The masses must know that these are the true circumstances which prevail in the background of the greatest wartime session in the history of Canada's Parliament where all other considerations or political backstage are being placed secondary in the decisive responsibility of saging this war until victory has been won as quickly as possible in accordance with the highest bread of statesmanship

As things turned out, due to the unfavorable conditions of the roads, the French Club did not have their Candle-ride. Instead everyone spent an enjoyable Thursday evening in the School. The students spent the time playing ping-pong, exercised, darts and bingo, in French. A very good time was had by all. A tempting lunch was served in the Home Ec. room, consisting of buns, wieners and soft drinks.

Mr. Chas. Glover has inserted a timely suggestion in householders in this week's Record. He suggests that if a hole was made in the ground sometime during the summer, and filled with coal fresh from the mine and covered with straw and dirt, that it will avoid the coal situation next winter. Farmers especially will have little trouble making a storage space of this kind. Townspeople could dig a hole in their garden, then save the cost of added material to make sufficient storage.

Because of another coal shortage next winter are good, and unless everyone co-operates to the utmost possible are going to feel the pinch next winter worse than they did this.

The return of mild weather business and social events will go ahead once more. Cold weather from the north is most distinct, but with the return of better weather we can expect these districts to come to life again.

"HORNING" COWS

The information issued by the British Ministry of Agriculture is not all "so dry as dust." Quoting from the Ministry's press messages, the Implement and Machinery Review tells the story of a small girl who had been "down on the farm" and was relating to her father various activities while there. "And then," she said, "we went hoeing cows." Her father was frankly puzzled, until it was explained that the little girl was referring to the customary cry of the farm hand calling the cows for milking—"Sic, Sic," and not to a new form of recreation.

A LITTLE SUGGESTION WHAT PEOPLE CAN DO TO HELP THE COAL SHORTAGE FOR NEXT WINTER.

Put a bale in the ground, put a fresh load of Coal in during any day in the summer, cover with straw and dirt, and your coal would be as good next winter as straight from the mine.

Letters to the W.I.

Again may I thank you and bid you,

An revoir,
Bob Thorpe.

Dec. 21, 1942

Mrs. F. Sherman,
President Women's Institute,
Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta.
Dear Mrs. Sherman:

Once again I'm writing to thank you and the ladies of the Institute, so very much for the grand Xmas parcel. It arrived in very good condition and I must say the articles it contained were a very thoughtful selection.

You must realize from the past how much we appreciate and look forward to these parcels; not only for the thrill of going to the post office and finding a parcel from home; but because we realize how much work is involved for all of you, not only in the raising of funds but the actual packing.

I must confess that I'm a bit overdue in writing this note of thanks as the parcel arrived in the hands of the latter part of November. However, our life here is rather hectic, and long hours of the day and night, flying all hours of the day and night, we don't get very much leisure.

Now I think it might interest you to know just how we are going to spend Christmas on this station. We are not getting our leave until we only leave the day off.

In the morning, we entertain the officers in our flat's mess for an hour or so. Then we are to visit their Mess. After that we return to our own Mess for a Christmas dinner with all the trimmings, we hope. We guard against suffering from that over-stuffed feeling, when, with the officers, proceed to the Airmen's Mess. Here, we are to serve the airmen and W.A.A.F. their Christmas dinner. The next item on the program is, an all-ranks dance in the evening. So you can see we expect to have a very gay time and I'm rather looking forward to it. Still I think underneath it all most Canadians will be thinking of happy memories of past "White Christmases".

There are about a dozen of us on this station but five of us who are in the same flight, paid our parents into a community larder. We had agreed at first not to open our Christmas parcels until the day arrived. However, as there seemed to be a hold-up in parcels that were mailed earlier, I was no way of distinguishing them. Also our larder was becoming quite bare. So the arrangement was altered in that it was alright to open parcels, but if any items were thought to be perishable, i.e., they were wrapped, to be left. Also the rules were to be rationed. So you see I haven't as yet unpacked yours but it has been a great temptation and will be a real treat.

Now, I think I've rambled on long enough. Once again many thanks for your generous parcel. Also I extend to you all sincere compliments of the season and every success for 1943 and year, that these oft quoted words, "Peace on Earth, Goodwill Towards Men", may yet be to some next year, be a reality.

Very sincerely,
Bruce Graham

Letters from the boys or girls in the Services received by readers sending Christmas and birthday parcels will be published by The Record free of charge.

CHURCH TO MARCH C.G.I.T. WEEK—Feb. 7 to 14th.

Queen Elizabeth approves the C.G.I.T. Uniform

There are forty thousand Canadian Girls in Training and during the week February 7-14 we are to hear about this programme for "teen age girls began twenty-eight years ago within the Christian churches of the Dominion. The girls wear a uniform of the chief part of which is the middy originated in the Navy, worn with dark skirt, tie and badgets. During the visit of Their Majesties to Canada Queen Elizabeth commended several times upon its attractiveness.

During C.G.I.T. week congregations will be given an opportunity to learn of this method of Christian Education through such events as a Church service, Parents or Family Night, Mother and Daughter banquet. The theme for the week is "Pass You and Take Your Journey", from Genesis.

Bill Walton Wounded In Gun Mishap

Suffering a .22 calibre bullet wound in the right lung as the result of a shooting accident on Saturday afternoon, Bill Walton, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Walton of Fort Saskatchewan was reported to be resting easy today "nicely" in the Royal Alex. hospital. It is expected that Bill will be out in about two weeks time.

It is reported that Bill was the week-end guest of Maurice Lacoursiere, and while riding in a sleigh with his companion, he is said to have rammed for the rifle in the rear of the sleigh when the gun discharged accidently. The bullet entered the right lung.

Medical attention was given by Dr. T. W. E. Henry and he was later taken to the city in Smith's ambulance.

Canada's contribution in supplies to the cause of the United Nations will be in excess of the billion dollar vote of last year, and will be financed and allocated by a new Canadian War Supplies Board, it is reported from Ottawa.

St. George's Church Annual Meeting

Fair weather, very congenial surroundings and a well represented gathering made for an excellent annual meeting for the Anglican congregation at the Fort.

The Rev. R. M. Bone presided at the said meeting held last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. W. A. Graham. The various interests within the church made their annual report to the satisfaction of everybody present.

Mrs. R. Magee, on behalf of the W.A., told of the various ways the members were facing the war conditions as they affected their social program. More direct efforts and effort seems to be the answer to the situation. The work of the social service has been well managed. Mrs. Magee was rightly commended for her work in this connection Mention was also made of the new interest and effort being put forth in better uniform the members of the mansion ary work of the church here in Canada.

The Sunday School question came to the fore, when we were told of a considerable increase in attendance However, we would sooner face the needs of a greater staff and more equipment due to an increase of interest, than to have to endure the apathy which is deadening to all concerned.

Church finances, under the duplex envelope system, showed a marked increase and regularity in the giving of our people to the needs of the church administrations. Mr C. J Hall made a very clear, concise and helpful description of these matter as he had owned for them during the past year.

The whole matter of the church properties was fully discussed. A complete and frank discussion of this matter has been finally made by everyone interested. Much information and decision were found as results of this part of the evening.

The executive of the church for the ensuing year will be, as follows: Treasurer appointed Mr. W. A. Graham as his representing warden for the year, Mr. C. J. Hall was asked to continue his good work for another year. This he has accepted with grace. To assist these wardens the vestry will be composed of Messrs. A. M. Carmichael, C. D. McLellan, H. Diamond and Mesdames W. H. Webb and J. Wicks.

May we add, with thanks, to those concerned, the evening was greatly enjoyed by the refreshments which were provided by the ladies.

And so, St. George's Church closes another year and begin the next.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

There's the one about the mercury that went down so far it bent the nail. And there's the one told by Baron M about the time he tied his horse to a post and lay down in his sleeping bag in the snow. In the morning (there must have been a real Chinook during the night) he awoke to find himself lying in a street; and, looking up, he saw his horse hanging from the steeple of a church. There is also the Quebec philosopher who, because he was angry, became the world's outstanding pessimist. When one feels 'down' one has only to read a few pages of this philosopher to find himself restored to normal again. And so it goes.

one of the best ways of dealing with a difficult situation is to exaggerate it until you can laugh at it; and, incidentally also, laugh at yourself. Being laughed at by others is bitter medicine, but laughing at yourself is a good tonic.

A great praised his hostess' pie profusely. In a later remarks he overlooked the pie completely. When challenged by his hostess who had the largest pie was much better, he replied: "That first pie needed a lot of praise, didn't it?" This weather we are having needs a great deal of praise, doesn't it? Just think of all the good stories it will provide for future occasions. And who knows but the stories of the Winter of 1942-43 may be even more amazing than the Baron's. Perhaps colonel used to tell his nephew about the battles in which he had fought. The nephew acted as he grew older, that the number of men, horses, guns, casualties, etc., kept increasing with the years. Upon challenging his uncle he received the reply: "Young man, I have noticed that as I grow older the memory improves."

None of our grandchildren can ever hope to see a winter like the one about which we will tell them. Perhaps by then we will be talking a sophisticated generation that Santa came down the chimney in 1942 because that was the only way anyone could get into the house.

R.C.A.F. Station,
Ossweno, No. 4 C.A.P.O.

Dear Mrs. Gillies:

I want to say a very sincere thank you to the good people of Ardrossan for the lovely Xmas box they sent me. It was very kind of them to think of me, and I really appreciate it. Every one here knows how keen on theatricals this Xmas, and from the stacks of parcels that came into our post office, I could say that they sent all the boys and girls on the station food as well.

It was rush this to stand in the "line-ups" for mail, and watch the expressions on the faces, as their parcels were handed out. The boys particularly would try to look unconcern, but man, a wide grin would spread all over their faces and they couldn't suppress their joy. I used to think that if the "folks back home" could just watch the boys it with some of the other boys, that were less fortunate than myself, for mail, they would certainly get a real thrill of it.

I'm quite busy and happy in my job as I had to work all day, But I guess there is very small thing. The harder we all work, the sooner this war will be over, and I must say, all the people back in good old Canada are doing their share.

I can't say anything regarding this place, but I will say its like something you read about in books, but very seldom see. So I'll leave it at that.

I last most of my parcels from home in a flea, that I just managed to cramped myself from, so there is no useful tins and very precious room to others.

I guess this will be all for this time. Thanks again and may the coming year, bring all the joy and happiness that is possible under the circumstances to you all.

Yours sincerely,

FIRST USE OF SNOW MACHINE IN 3 YEARS

Three years ago Riley Municipality stepped out and purchased a motor patrol with snow plough attachment. It began to look as if the snowplough attachment was a white elephant, because snow has been fairly sparse in the last three years. But in the recent January snow, the tool in the Fort Record.

motor patrol dashed into action to clear the main road east of Caplay. It wasn't a big job but it did give the municipality a chance to show that it is a useful piece of equipment given the right conditions.

World of Wheat

By
H. G. L. Strange

TUNISIA — A WHEAT GRANARY

Tunisia where the Allies are battling today, is one of the oldest agricultural areas in the world, and one of the richest in fertile soil, and its commonness has been the scene of wars and battles for its possession by different tribes and nations from the dawn of civilization.

The Phoenicians who occupied Tunisia in Roman and pre-Roman times were the first world traders, and ancient Carthage—their capital—was the bane of the then world's greatest navy which was used, in the main, to safeguard the transportation of the fleets of boats engaged in the Phoenician international trade, and used particularly to safeguard the transportation of Tunisian wheat to Rome; wheat that made possible the dales of bread given to the Roman mobs who were promised, by demagogues seeking election, free bread and free circuses. Finally the Romans built a still larger navy, and as had done many tribes and nations before them, and after them, conquered Cartage and Tunisia in order to have the fertile agricultural fields under their own control

There is a lesson in all this. It is that those who own vast fertile fields or other rich resources must at all times maintain sufficient armed forces to safeguard them. Canada, it seems, prior to this war forgot this simple principle.

"TRAIT IS THE GATE.."
Rev. Elliot H. Birdsell, M.A.

"Christian Tests of Society" is the name of an article recently published by Bishops J. J. McDonald of New York. The following quotations are of interest to all thinking people

Whatever the order of society as the Bible brews us, it must meet at least three tests if it is to be genuinely Christian.

To begin with, society must produce more material goods. Taking the world as a whole, there are not now enough material goods to go around. It has been said that science has already progressed far enough to assure us that the race will not perish of starvation. Nevertheless, we have a long distance to go yet if we have only now reached the stage of security from famine, and even in these war days, security from famine is not assured.

There are goods necessary for subsistence, another level of goods necessary for comfort, nother level of goods necessary for luxury. Christian duty is to raise that lowest level till it reaches beyond the subsistence height the world over, and attains to the comfort stage. I insist that it is a Christian duty to seek the largest possible world's purely total of material goods, for the goods produced now were to be distributed among the inhabitants of the world, would not be enough to raise the world population to the comfort level.

The second basic demand of Christianity upon modern industry is that, with the increase of the effort/income of modern society, it shall spread enough leisure from their tasks of bread-winning to have a chance for the development of their talents they may possess. Admitting that increase of leisure for all creates a difficult social problem, it would be unsurprising if it were not humorous to hear the employer stand, many of whom [illegible] have received as many their gifts and good wishes. Refreshments were served later by the hostess, assisted by several ladies of the district.

Mrs. Stanley Uren was hostess at a shower in honor of Mrs. R. Reynolds, (nee Alice Bowen), who was married some weeks ago. Many friends gathered to convey their gifts and good wishes. Refreshments were served later by the hostess, assisted by several ladies of the district.

Wedding

MELICK—MARR

The Bashah Tabernacle in Edmonton was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, February 6th, when Rose Catherine, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Marr of Vulcan, Alta., formerly of Bremner, Alberta, was united in marriage to Donald E. Melick of Edmonton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hay Melick of Bremner, Alberta, by Rev. H. Edwardson.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. A. Marr, the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin and lace, fashioned in full skirt, long close fitting sleeves, round neckline with tiny Peter Pan collar, like long veil fell from a crescent of orange blossoms to the hem of her gown. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and fern.

She was attended by her three sisters Miss Daisy Marr of Victoria, B.C., bridesmaid in a floor length affair of blue chiffon, with a wreath of white carnations in her hair and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations and fern. Mrs. George Stewart (nee Thelma Marr) were a frock of pink moire taffeta with a corsage of roses. Miss Hattie Marr wore a frock of green organza and a corsage of roses.

Mr. Alfred Marr, brother of the bride, was best man. Harold Melick, cousin of the groom were ushers.

During the signing of the register, Mr. Ernest Boehm sang "Because", accompanied by Mr. Leslie Roberts, and at the reception "The Rosary" and "I Love You Truly", accompanied by Miss Loreen Rosenberger, cousin of the groom.

The reception was held at the "Home of Hospitality" hall for over sixty guests.

The bride's table was set with a lace cloth centred by the three-tiered wedding cake, finished by tall pink tapers and bouquets of pink carnations and fern.

Mrs. A. Mark Jr. and Mrs. J. Stewart poured tea.

The young couple will make their home in Edmonton.

The Canadian Pacific at War

Keeping pace with the Dominion's expanding war effort, the Canadian Pacific Railway has established an enviable record in the production of tanks and naval guns, the transportation of troops and war materials by land and sea, and in the personnel, and in countless other ways.

The pace of tank production at the Angus Shops, Montreal, has been stepped steadily since the first Angus-built tank rumbled off the assembly line in May, 1941. Hundreds have been turned out since. Naval gun production figures at the company's Calgary shops make an equally impressive showing.

Today more than 14,000 of the Company's personnel are on active service; 1,800 more are in Reserve units or are busy in the Elevenmen

Hundreds are attached to C.P.O. [illegible] ships, operating, refueling, in mid-ocean rendezvous, and other services of importance. In Montreal alone, more than 2,000 employees have pledged themselves as blood donors.

The movement of troops, transportation of munitions, food, and the handling of traffic that depends on passenger movement, have been carried out with remarkable efficiency. Despite installation of diesel-electric and streamlined Hotspot C.P.R. planes have been converted into commandos.

The performances of Canadian Pacific liners has also written a proud chapter in the company's records. These great vessels, under Admiralty charter, are [illegible] and supplies on the move all over the world. Eight C.P. ships have perished in line of duty.

Canadian Pacific Air Lines has also "gone active." In cooperation with the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, the company air arm now operates an air observers' school, one elementary flying training school, all on a non-profit basis, and five overhaul and repair depots.

Canadian Pacific contributions to Canada's load three Victory Loans campaigns totalled $63,661,000, which the employees gave $2,000,000 more for War Savings Certificates among [illegible],000 friends.

The full scope of the Company's war effort is impressively illustrated in the booklet "Canadian Pacific at War", a few scenes from which are shown above, and which can be had upon request.

Get Gas Ration Forms At Postoffices

Ottawa, Feb. 17—Gasoline for farm trucks will be rationed, but a farmer who does not own a truck will be given an extra allowance for his passenger car according to his proved individual needs, the Munitions and Supply Department has announced.

Under a new rationing system, which becomes effective on April 1, every non-commercial vehicle will be granted a basic Category "AA" ration book containing 60 coupons, which will permit each such vehicle, on the basis of 18 miles to the gallon, and all the personal use rubber, a basic 2,160 miles of driving between April 1, 1943, and March 31, 1944.

To obtain his Category "AA" book the motor vehicle owner will secure an application form from his nearest Post Office. He will submit this form, together with a registration fee of $1 and his 1942 vehicle license, to the nearest issuer of gasoline rationing plans, who will issue the "AA" book.

The type of passenger vehicle which farmers commercial motorcycles, bus, taxicab, or drive-yourself car) who is eligible by reason of occupation to apply for a preferred category will proceed as follows:

1. From his nearest Post Office he will obtain application forms for both Category "AA" and the preferred category.

2. He will secure his 1943 motor vehicle licence plates.

3. He will obtain his Category "AA" ration book from the Licence Plate issuer.

4. After it is properly completed he will mail his preferred category application form to the nearest Regional Oil Control Office, along with his motor vehicle permit.

Mumps Close Primary Room

Mumps epidemic in Town has closed the primary room of the school for the next two weeks, when their teacher, Miss Caldwell, fell victim to the disease Tuesday. Over the week-end only one or two cases were reported, but at press time Wednesday night, the figure having no respector of persons, was making inroads on the school attendance.

Nomination Day Monday Morning

Town citizens failing to nominate members for the position of Mayor and three School Trustees on the proper nomination day will be given another opportunity this coming Monday, between the hours of 11 and 12 a.m. This date was set by the Dept. of Municipal Affairs who met in this capacity when vacancies on the various town boards are not filled on the nomination day as set out in the act.

End of Winter?

Gophers were seen in two districts by wide-awake citizens today (Wednesday) heralding the first signs of spring. (We hope). According to oldtimers this is a sure sign. But there might be the chance that the gophers have run out food, and have come out to see just how much snow has to go before they get something to eat.

After nearly five months of winter there can't be much more left.

Clover Bar Merged With Strathcona

End of Month

The Council of the Municipal District of Clover Bar, 517, held a regular meeting on Monday last with all members in attendance. After the adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting the matter of snow plowing came up and the main roads were discussed with the grader foreman. In common with the experience of other districts the results of the first year in which an organized at-cost to keep some of the roads open had not been very encouraging to the councillors. This was due in the continued high winds which overnight filled in roads that had been opened the previous day and the lack of proper equipment. It was decided, however, to keep the cat[illegible] going and to open if at all possible some of the main roads.

The Secretary submitted a copy of a Ministerial Order, signed to date of the 9th February, 1943, by which the Municipal District of Clover Bar would be dissolved on the 28th February and merged with the M.D. of Strathcona into the new District to be known as the M.D. of Strathcona, 517. The new district will have five divisions compared with the eleven divisions in the two old districts. Mr. Mark Lemon was nominated by the Minister to continue the election of the new unit. Full particulars as to polling divisions, places of poll etc., will appear in a future issue of the Record.

His Honour [illegible] over Liquor objection to the action of the Provincial Government in [illegible] of mentally deficient persons in admitting over four months age a patient to their institutions without first consulting with the Council who will be held responsible for the cost of the patient's maintenance instead of on account for four months maintenance costs was the first intimation the Council received that such a patient had been admitted.

It was decided to extend the contract with the Fort Record until the end of April when the new council will be in a position to deal with the matter.

It was agreed to call an un-official meeting of the ratepayers for Saturday, 6th March, at two o'clock in the afternoon in the Fort Saskatchewan Community Hall.

The Secretary submitted the Auditors' financial statement and annual returns for the year ending 31st December, 1942.

In compliance with the request of the Department of Municipal Affairs it was arranged to hold the auditory meeting of the Council on Thursday the 25th February.

With the passing of payments and accounts the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. Jennings proudly goes to school

MRS. JENNINGS had been just managing to keep her family going. But things were looking brighter at last. Now with the children able to help with the housework, she had applied for the post of school teacher . . . and had been accepted.

But that meant she needed suitable clothes and clothes cost money.

She took her problem to the manager of her bank. On the strength of her ability and character, he arranged a loan of $80. And so it was that she was able to take the position and greet her first class proudly. She paid off the loan after six months at a cost in interest of only $2.40.

This is a true story. Only the name has been altered. It is typical of hundreds of human dramas in which the bank manager has been privileged to play a helping role.

We're implements have increased increasingly the work of banks and bank staffs. At the same time more than one-third of our experienced men have enlisted. Each week, they travel into by each. It helps.

THE BANK OF [illegible]

War Services Guild Held First Meeting

The first meeting of the Guild in 1943, was held at the home of Mrs. E. Dowling on Feb. 5th, postponed from Jan. 29. Twelve members were present. Mrs. Jenkinson, president, was in the chair.

The meeting opened with the singing of "O Canada".

The President then read the annual report compiled by the secretary, Mrs. J. Gillies, in which she reviewed the year's work. Mrs. Gillies read the annual report as Treasurer, which proved satisfactory to the members present.

Mrs. Fred Reynolds then read the report of the work-secretary, Mrs. C. E. Williams, whose health is still not sufficiently improved to permit her attendance. Mrs. Reynolds is carrying on for her.

It was decided to remind the re-pointee to hold the meeting on the second Wednesday in October. Mrs. Watkins, and change it to the first Wednesday of each month. This will create checking with organization affairs.

Members unanimously agreed to send $50 to the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund as a first subscription.

Work Distributed

Mrs. Reynolds distributed sheets to be made up, and used for soldier's socks. Mrs. C. E. Williams sent in a quilt top she had pieced of bright print. Mrs. Jacques donated a warm toy of woollen patches and a lining. She requested that this be finished and given to Russia.

Mrs. Hankey invited the ladies to use her home for a quilting bee on Wednesday, Feb. 10. The offer was gratefully accepted.

The Secretary read a number of interesting letters from the boys in the forces.

After adjournment, the hostess served an appetizing lunch. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Reynolds on Wednesday, March 3rd, at 3 p.m., when a good attendance is hoped for!

Dear Ladies:

Just a line to thank you for your ever welcome Christmas parcels we received yesterday, Dec. 1st, and to let you know we are both still in the best of health and enjoying England as best as possible. We have now been quite a few of the Home Town boys over here and its really swell to get together and talk over old times and hear the different bits of news each one gets from home.

Its sure hard to get anything over here, so that we can appreciate nearly anything from good old Canada - even a little snow at Christmas would seem so fine over at home.

It looks like things has finally started to come our way so Keep Your Chins Up and Keep Smiling.

Thanking you all again, we remain as ever, "Five Local Boys".

Ardrossan War Service Guild Has Good Year

The Ardrossan War Services Guild completed its first year of independent existence on Dec 31st, 1942, having severed direct affiliation with the Red Cross Society in Dec. 1941, though continuing to give all possible support to that organization.

The officers elected for 1942 were: President, Lacy Jennings; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. F. H. Jentzsch; 2nd-Treas., Mrs. A. Gillies, Work Convenor, Mrs. C. B. Williams.

Special meetings, Mrs. F. Reynolds.

Turned Over Money to Red Cross

Believing that money collected as a branch of the Red Cross should go to the society, the members donated $94.00 to the Blanket Fund and handed the remaining $95.00 to head quarters in Edmonton.

Donated to Many Funds

The Guild met on the last Wednesday of each month at the home of the member who volunteered to act as hostess. The fee paid by guests at the twenty-four members was the cash in the treasury to start with. Revenue was raised by shooting parties; whist drives; Dominion Day picnic; piano recital; teas, etc., as well as monthly collections from members. Thus the Guild was able to send parcels and cigarettes to 32 local boys in each branch of the armed forces, 13 of whom are overseas. It sponsored the Monday Group concert and dance, which added $20 to the Queen's Canadian Fund, and arranged for the showing of patriotic pictures by the R.C.M.P. The Guild donated $30.00 to the Red Cross, $10 to the American Irish "Milk for Britain" fund, $10 to the Lion Club's Orphan fund. Paid for material for quilts, pajamas, bedding, knitting needs by the members, and bought prizes for sports and whist drives.

The Work committee handed to the Red Cross office in Edmonton, 20 quilts, 21 pyjama-tops, 6 pairs service socks, 5 pairs seaman's socks, 3 pairs boy's socks, 2 pairs mitts, 1 man's sweater; 5 boys' sweaters, 2 helmet caps.

The Guild is indebted to 20 ladies for donations of completed quilts, and for tops, linings, batts, patches. Gifts of "salvage" money from men of the community were a great help.

Raise Over $500 Dollars

During 1942 over $500 was raised, all of which, above unavoidable expenses was devoted to helping the war effort.

Of the 24 original members, four have left the district, and others through illness, have been unable to give much help. Consequently the bulk of the work has fallen on a very few members whose time is fully occupied by the daily round of farm homes. An increase in membership is hoped for, so that this worthy work may go on.

The long-drawn out harvest operations, five mile trips over muddy and finally snow-blocked roads have showed up the Guild's activities, but the gratitude expressed by the boys on active service during the nationally packed parcels filled with cakes and cookies "like mother made", and the help and the beautiful quilts are giving comfort to hundred-out unfortunates are a sufficient reward and a spur to renewed effort.

Germination of Oats

A number of seed growers and farmers whose growing crops were affected by a touch of frost last fall have been disagreeably surprised to find that their plump bright oats are germinating very low.

Under these circumstances it would be wise for those farmers who have a suspicion that frost touched their fields to make certain about the germination of the oats they intend to sow, and not to judge them only by appearance, or even by cutting two grains, as usually can be done when frost is suspected.

The Dominion Plant Products Division at Calgary, Saskatoon or Winnipeg will make a thorough and reliable test for germination and vitality for the small charge of only fifty cents. It is necessary to mail a four-ounce sample to the Plant Products Division for the test.

Farmers themselves can easily make tests for germination. No trouble in this scheme I will give the details of how simple home germinators can easily and quickly be constructed and operated by any farmer.

So far only trouble with oats has been reported it might be just as well, therefore, I suggest, for farmers in areas which received a touch of frost to make a home test on their barley and wheat.

"Which would you prefer in your future husband—wealth, ability, or appearance?" asked the pretty girl.

"Appearance, my dear," replied the spunster, "but he's got to appear pretty soon."

NEW Gasoline Rationing Plan Goes into Effect APRIL FIRST

ON MARCH 31 the present gasoline ration licenses and coupons will expire, and no gasoline will be sold except upon the presentation of a 1943-1944 ration book.

In his own interests, every vehicle owner is asked to apply at once for a new gasoline license and ration coupon book for each of his vehicles.

Under the new system, effective April 1, all commercial vehicles will be rationed. All non-commercial vehicles will be granted a basic "AA" gasoline license and ration coupon book, containing 40 coupons for a passenger car, or 16 for a motorcycle. Owners of non-commercial vehicles eligible for a special category, who can prove their need, will be granted an extra vocational allowance, fixed in advance for the year ending March 31, 1944.

The extra allowance for a special category car will be allowed to meet individual needs. In determining this allowance the previous category and mileage of the car will not be considered. Instead the vocational allowance will be based on two factors: (1) The gravity of the oil shortage with which Canada is faced, and (2) the importance of the vehicle to its owner in a country at war.

The extra vocational coupons will be issued in books labelled "Special", and each such book will contain not more than 60 coupons. Only one "Special" book, or portion of such book, will be issued at a time, and hence the case history of each special category applicant will be under constant review.

Under provisions of the rationing order, the Oil Controller will have the right to refuse any application for a special category, or to suspend any ration book for an infraction of the regulations.

Every motor vehicle, other than a motorcycle, must bear on its windshield a sticker indicating its category. After April 1, service station attendants will not be permitted to serve gasoline to a car which does not bear the sticker which corresponds to the ration book submitted at the time of the purchase.

To obtain a gasoline license and ration coupon book, secure an application form at your nearest Post Office. Study the form and follow the instructions contained therein.

When you receive your ration coupon book, guard it carefully. It may not be replaced if, because of your negligence, it is lost or stolen. Do not leave it in your car; keep it on your person at all times.

Stick To Your War Savings Certificates

We holler interest rates are paid on any Canadian war financing securities then on War Savings Certificates,—if you hold them until full maturity.

They are meant to be held, not cashed Canada promised that it would cash the certificates under certain circumstances, but this was done to avoid hardship in special cases, not because cashing a Certificate before maturity was anything but bad for the owner and bad for Canada.

That promise will be kept of course, as Dominion of Canada financial obligations have always been kept,—to the letter. But too many thoughtless owners of War Savings Certificates are asking Canada to give them their cash money before without any good reason, except that they want to spent the money—and at a time when there is badly needed capital to fight the Battle of Freedom.

Every person who buys a Certificate does a patriotic action, and, at the same time gets himself a good investment and a cushion against post-war hard times.

Every person who cashes in a Certificate unnecessarily, does an unpatriotic action, cheats himself of part of its value, and weakens the check whether which may save him from nasty post war bumps.

The Certificates for which you pay $4, are worth $5 if you keep it to mature, if you cash it in after six months you only get $4 for it. Not less $1.

And actually you lose more than that, because by spending your $4 at present high prices you get less values per dollar than you will when prices are back to normal.

Farmers have learned all about the differences in the purchasing power of money, by painful experience! That is one reason why they are among the least offenders in this matter. The group which shows this lesser with farmers is the self-employed group,—the men who each year buy the maximum amount of War Savings Certificates allowed by the regulations.

The Chancellor to whom one-tenth of one per cent means a lot of money,—who understand the exact value of money and interest in terms of wheat, is a pushy worth, hang on to their War Savings Certificates like grim death! It is the best paying thing they can find in Canada at present. It is a good is fact that in order to prevent them buying huge amounts of War Savings Certificates instead of Victory Bonds, the Government limits their purchases to $400 per head, per year.

"Why people hoard War Savings Certificates!

One of our youngest pupils, Ruth Krieger, was obliged to have her appendix removed recently. Quotation: "I wanted to whether the experience was painful or not, that six-year old replied, "it's no fun, but we have to take it."

If this is typical of the pupils of youthful Canada, I ask you, what power on earth could hope to conquer such an indomitable people? Is not this the genuine Commando attitude? Ruth is restored to the bosom of her family now and is anxiously awaiting the home-coming of her fourth victim to conquer.

Asked to illustrate the use of the word "quit", one of our students submitted "Strait is the gait" As an earnest student of vocational guidance, and, bearing in mind the proverb that weak straws will show the direction of the wind, we wonder whether this answer betokens some embryo temperance reformer who in time to come will revolutionize our attitude towards alcoholic beverages, but—maybe, in common parlance, "we are all wet".

The one absorbing topic of the day is the weather. From a quantity as well as a quality point of view we have weather in abundance—weather to burn, roll or give away—and between ourselves if we could find a customer for it, we should be only too happy to give it away. Coupy is doubtless beneficial to the soil, but even the most radical among us have got one variety long enough to discover whether we should like it or not.

Dear Mrs. Healy:

Many thanks for your lovely parcel received today Everything was in good condition, and the cake was really lovely.

I am in the best of health, and hope everything over there is the same.

We are very busy here now with the big Xmas rush going on. We have had a break for two weeks, but we don't mind it as we look forward to our own mail the same as the rest of the boys do.

Well I hope that it will be over soon, as it is just three years since I left home, so am getting very homesick.

Once again thank you all for the lovely parcel, as I really appreciate it very much.

I must close for now,

So cheerio,
Sincerely yours,
L. A. Thomas.

The doctor rushed out of his study. "Get my bag at once!" he shouted. "Why, dad," asked his daughter, "what's the matter?"

"Some-fellow just phoned he can't live without me!" gasped the doctor, vanishing for his hat.

His daughter breathed a sigh of relief. "Just a moment," she said, quietly, "I think that call was for me!"

How and When To Get Your Ration Book 2

Ration Book No. 2, will be issued from centrally located distributive points throughout the province, instead of coming through the mail as last year. All present ration book will expire on March 15th. Readers should acquaint themselves with the following conditions in regard to obtaining their new ration books.

A local committee with Mr W. A. Graham, acting as receiver of ration books, was organized last Friday. These workers are giving their time voluntarily, so it is up to all ration book holders to co-operate as much as possible.

Residents of the Town, Rural Routes 1, 2 and 3, will obtain their new ration books at the Town Hall, Fort Saskatchewan, between the hours of 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day from Feb. 20, until Feb. 27th.

On the last page of your present ration book you find a card. The card must be presented to the Committee who will be removed from the book and a new book issued, and the old book returned to you.

Any member of the family or your neighbor may present the old ration book and obtain book No. 2, provided that the card on the back of the old book is properly filled out. This is important.

(7 days' notice is not required unless an employee has already been employed for one month, or after fire, explosion or other calamity, or on termination of work by weather. Whether promoted by 7 days' notice or not, separation from employment requires written notice).

(a) Register for work at the nearest employment office if out of work; 7 days (full-time students, housewives and clergy are not included); (b) secure permit from a Selective Service Officer if going to look for work; (c) refrain from advertising for a job unless Selective Service Officer approves; (d) give 7 days' notice of wishing to quit a job, unless authorized by Selective Service Officer to give less notice (separation form, but not 7 days' notice required if in building construction or joining the forces) are covered by special provisions. Persons regarded as "farm workers" may accept employment outside that industry to a maximum of 60 days within a calendar year without permit, but only outside a municipality of over 8,000 population otherwise, agricultural workers must secure a Selective Service Permit

TECHNICAL PERSONNEL

Appearing in the New Robin Hood advertisement of last week was the name of C. H. Williams, as manager at Ardrossan. This should have read A. R. With the Boys

ACI Charles M. Watson, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Watson of Alexandria, Alberta, has arrived safely overseas last Tuesday after a record breaking trip. Charles was born in Fort Saskatchewan in 1921, and is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Magor.

AGE. Arnold E. Marker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Marker of Andrassan, Alberta, joined the Air Force on Feb. 5th, on standard enlistment. He will train at No. 1, Toronto. Before joining up, Arnold was a client seated member of Aircraft Depot, Edmonton. He has now moved into the Army stationed at Hamilton, Ont. During his school days he was a model at a School Festival for reading.

Some thirty members of the local unit of the Red Edmonton Regiment paraded to St. George's Anglican Church Sunday morning, where Rev. R. Rees, gave the boys an inspiring message. A goodly number of townspeople took the opportunity to attend the service with the lads in khaki.

On Sunday, March 15th, members of the unit will be guests at the Lamoureux Catholic Church, at the morning service, when Rev. J. H. Garnier will officiate.

New Road

With greatness helping and resisted deliverers, the demand for new road of several crops may be relieved this year. Acreage, however, the two of guns, disease-free seed of the right variety is just as important as it ever was. This is why seed farmers are being encouraged growing the wrong variety and using over examining harmful seeds.

At the time of year, two questions are asked by the average farmers. They are:

1. What varieties will give best results in my district?
2. Where can I get seed?

Like doctored suggestions connected with the Department are in position to provide answers to both these questions. Sometimes, we have to report "no seed available," but that can't be helped. All our elevator agents are provided with copies of official crop varietal recommendations for the use of their communities. In order to encourage the production of good seed and to aid in its distribution to farmers, our companies take an active part in the work of provincial Crop Improvement Associations. Our grain buyers are official distributors of seed for the Department at each province.

By consulting any one of our elevator agents, or agents of other concerns connected with Crop Improvement Associations, a farmer can get correct information on recommended varieties, and an account of seed. The seed is delivered at once, that is, the seed growers' grain that is brought in. Seed is cleaned and treated—"bluestone" and "copper carbonate" and graded by Departments of Agriculture at their own cost.

Holding Our Own

By John Galloway
Fort Saskatchewan

Some one has said, "we want to hold our own"; a very laudable ambition. Yes, we want to hold our own, in rights and privileges that have required many centuries to obtain; and we want to hold them our own. We want to have the right of free men, men of good will; the right to keep on with the work we are doing, promoting temperance, education, morality, culture, civilization, humanity, and industry. We want to preserve the freedom of all nations, who are constantly resisting the aggressors, and robbers, and methods the national independence of those who have been crushed. We want the right to establish "peace on earth, good will". We build mental hospitals for the sick, and asylums, and care of the old, and widows, and care of our children who are mentally deranged. We want continue with faith, courage, and fortitude in our tenacious task of resisting the aggressors until we have established "a just and lasting peace". We want give fair opportunities to all to enjoy the blessings of industry—the best remedy for insanity; including the nations who have been poisoned with falsehood, demoralized but for conquest; wholesale murder and plunder; and we must carefully prohibit them from having deadly weapons, so they, and all nations may live in safety, and security.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

The world is going mad over control. We are at war against one kind, and are madly developing another kind ourselves. Highways, aeroplane bases, telegraph lines, government, legislation, bumph and column writers, more ministers, some clergymen, the quota-makers, ration officers, —Pah, almost all of us are becoming infected with the fever and are adding our bit to the intoxicating stampede toward control mania.

There was a time when we used to argue (and think that our arguments were important!) on the question "should the democracies adopt some form of control control?" Then time and events came on and we saw we were going to have control control anyway, and then we argued about what kind of control control would be about. And now, time having been at his persistent game, things have changed again, and we no longer think argument so important. We are in the midst of a torrential flood roaring its way to control control. The question now is not "What kind of control control would be nice?" but "What kind will be the result of all these days and months in which forces and counter-forces, schemers and counter-schemers, contracting hunters and head-hunters, legislators and lobbyists vie with each other to increase not only the sound and fury but also the volume and the speed of the torrent?" He who would survive the day must combine the cunning skill of the Canadian Voyageur with the traditional wit of the Philadelphia lawyer; and perhaps he could learn something as well from the "daring young man on the flying trapeze".

Mature people are taking two attitudes. Some are saying: "When this avalanche hits the bottom there will be a mighty smash-up. Then society will need men of knowledge and ability who can rescue the wreck these values that can be worked into community life. I, therefore, will ride the torrent so that when the crash comes I (if I survive!) will be able to help with the reconstruction." Others say: "The values that really matter do not lie in the direction in which this intoxicated stampede is racing. Therefore I will go the other way. I will immunize and organize every worthy local organization for in them people get those experiences which they need in order to grow up, and of which they get less and less as local government are abolished and moved away. I will give all the energy and thought I have to preserving real community and real persons right here where they are. I will resist to myself and help others to resist the desire to run after false values, and I will do everything I can to promote the community values that befit people."

There are fools and fools and fools,—and while many people are labelled. It is well, however, to reserve judgment. The fools of today may sometimes be founded upon for their wisdom; and there was no, Semitism, no fascism, no communism that was not born of a few men with vision.

The real test will be whether we have the courage to maintain the freedom of all nations, who are constantly resisting the aggressors, and robbers, and methods the national independence of those who have been crushed. We want the right to establish "peace on earth, good will". We build mental hospitals for the sick, and asylums, and care of the old, and widows, and care of our children who are mentally deranged. We must continue with faith, courage, and fortitude in our tenacious task of resisting the aggressors until we have established "a just and lasting peace". We must give fair opportunities to all to enjoy the blessings of industry—the best remedy for insanity; including the nations who have been poisoned with falsehood, demoralized but for conquest; wholesale murder and plunder; and we must carefully prohibit them from having deadly weapons, so they, and all nations may live in safety, and security.

Give to the Canadian Red Cross

Canadian Red Cross Must Have $10,000,000 to "Carry On"

The Canadian Red Cross will launch a National Appeal for Funds March 1st when the people of Canada will be asked to give $10,000,000 to keep comforts and supplies, prisoner of war parcels, blood donor serums, medicines and equipment—all the vast commitments of the Red Cross "on the march"!

Under the chairmanship of J. D. McLean the local financial committee of the Red Cross held a meeting in A. R. King's office Tuesday night for the purpose of making the necessary arrangements for the drive to start March 1st. Canvassers of last year's drive were on hand and thorough drive of the town and district was planned.

With the turn of world events, with famine and war devastation on the increase, comes a vast drain on Red Cross supplies in all its manifold departments. But the Divisions and Branches of Red Cross all across Canada have been on the job, working steadily, and with an enthusiasm that brooks no let up. A mammoth amount of work has been done. But the testing time lies ahead.

The Red Cross has sent Overseas 20,000,000 articles of supplies to Armed Forces and suffering civilians since the beginning of the war; 2,000 cases of hospital and relief goods have gone for Allied Red Cross Societies and evacuee children; 200 ambulances and other motor vehicles, and over 2,000,000 food parcels for our men in enemy prison camps.

In the free packing depots for food parcels for prisoners of war in Winnipeg, Windsor, Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal, food parcels roll off the conveyor belts at the rate of 160,000 a week. Wherever British prisoners are interned, the Red Cross sends each week to keep the men alive and well. Blood serum, processed from the whole blood donated by loyal Canadians in Red Cross clinics across the Dominion, saves lives in Canada, England, Russia, Libya, North Africa. This is a service which must be expanded to meet any eventuality in the coming months of war.

When the Canadian Red Cross asks the people of Canada for $10,000,000 to carry on, it is with the assurance that Canadians will heap "money on money".

You will get more people at your auction sale if you have it advertised in The Fort Record.

The lowly peanut is one of the most important war crops as a source of vegetable oil, replacing the interrupted supplies of coconut, palm, and olive oils. Hence, the United States has set the 1942 objective at five and a half million acres—a million and a half more than in 1941.

Town Without Mayor

Nomination day has come and gone again, for the second time and the town is still without a mayor. Voluntarism on the Council and School were filled, when the following were nominated and elected by acclamation: Town Council, Chas. Glover, A. Jacobs and Gordon Neale. Messrs. C. B. W. Magor, J. R. Webb, and E. B. Stetson remain on the Council for one more year.

School Board: J. A. Dawson, E. Reeque, and S. Thomas. Mrs. F. H. Walton and J. L. O'Brien have still another year to serve.

Unless the Department sees fit to order another nomination day, members of the Council can close a mayor from their number to hold office until the next nomination day.

Typical of thousands of other Red Cross workrooms across Canada, above are volunteers packing comforts to be sent overseas to bombed-out Britons. In addition to the more than 20,000,000 articles already shipped overseas for the armed forces and suffering civilians, the organization's Civilian Relief Department in Britain still distributes some 70,000 articles each month. Other workroom activities include clothing for shipwrecked survivors and

RETURN FROM CASABLANCA

A young Canadian warrant officer in the R.C.A.F. who has just come home from Casablanca Unfriendly, there is little to set him apart from the thousands of other clear-eyed, stalwart young Canadians wearing Air Force blue on the streets today, but there the similarity comes. This lad is suffering from malnutrition.

His impressions of Casablanca were gained long before that historic conference which made the name a byword the world over, but that town will always stand out in his memory for two reasons. It was at Casablanca that he was shot down by anti-aircraft fire and it was there that he got his first real meal after five months in a German prison camp. 250 miles deep into French Africa.

Soon after the landing of American troops at Oran, this young Canadian flyer was released, along with other Canadian and British servicemen, and made his way back to Canada via Gibraltar, England and New York. One of the first things this lad did on his return was to visit The Fort Record office and tell the Canadian Red Cross so that he could personally express his thanks for the prisoner of war food parcels which, he claims, saved the lives of the 200 prisoners at that particular camp.

To use his own words: "Our daily diet of lentil soup and black bread wasn't very nourishing. Without the Canadian Red Cross food parcels, you would certainly have starved to death."

Providing food parcels for prisoners of war has become the greatest and most appreciated function of the Canadian Red Cross today and, at the same time, the most expensive. Already, over 1,500,000 of these parcels have been shipped from Canada and it will be necessary for every Canadian to give generously to the Red Cross Campaign if the present production of 100,000 each week is to be maintained.

THE LAST MEETING

The Council of the Municipal District of Clover Bar meets for the last time on Thursday of this week. The name, "M.D. of Clover Bar" will pass into oblivion, as the district merges with Strathcona at the end of the month. The new district will be Strathcona Municipal District No. 217. The member being the only part formed. Tenantless was the cause of a familiar to Clover Bar residents. As the districts throughout the province eventually all become under the enlarged district scope, new members will be given the enlarged districts. So even the member will only be a memory.

At the last Council meeting, the assistant secretary-treasurer, Municipal District and The Fort Record were attended to the end of April. By that time the new council will have met and the fate of this service to the ratepayers will be fully known.

For the past two and one half years the Record has served the district to the best of our ability and even if we do say so, there is a great improvement in reader interest throughout the district lately. This can no doubt be contributed to the many new and interesting community correspondents that have taken an interest in your local paper. It has taken considerable time and effort to build up the organization of district news gatherers—but they have been a no small assistance to the means of The Record winning the trophy last year for the best "all-round" rural newspaper in Alberta with a circulation below 1,000. The secret of disseminating news of the municipal district could be effectively used by the larger council, policy.

Josephburg Carnival Huge Success

The Reformed Church Y.P.A. held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday Rudolph Rippel is once again Convener and thirty-five more have responded to the roll-call on that night. It has been decided to include young married people this year

The next meeting will be held at the Manse, March 17th. Messrs Fred Mennig and Val Kotscherofski are in charge of the social arrangements for this date.

N E S

We do not retract our rerimark of last week against the member. Rather we are forced to the conclusion that it merely needed some outspoken citizen to lodge a formal protest in order that action might be obtained. Another it worked.

N E S

The Carnival held at Josephburg School proved at strong drawing card to young and old alike. The ice, to use R. Bentley's words, is in best form, but the nibbiness of the evening contributed vastly to the enjoyment of many events. William Thomas made an able "M.C." while the judges of masquerade costum were Mrs. Ed. Mohr, Mrs. Ed. Kotscherofski and Adolph Becker. List of prize winners will be published in next issue.

The dance which followed was universally voted "top-hole" The following musicians generously donated their services for the music:—Mrs. Ed. Mohr, Daniel Thomas, Gus Gehmlich, Jr., Frank Becker and William Thomas Jr. on mouth organ.

The young people for miles around were present, many of them making their debut at the "old stamping ground" for a night's frolic.

While very few of their seniors could be present to show how it should be done, R. B. Bloom acted as floor manager. A veteran of the art of dancing in the person of Mr. Davies of Ypres Valley astonished one and all with his agility and endurance and to cap all, gave the delighted audience a Terpsichorean solo, following this up with a duet in which Adolph Becker acted as dancing partner. Success of a happy evening will long remain green.

N E S

Talking about Gus Gobert, reminds us that this talented young man has taken up the fascinating hobby of constructing violins. In just such manner did Stradivarius commence and if our hero intends to follow in the steps of that great master, we shall be proud indeed to point out that he is a product of our locality.

N E S

And pursuing our topic of interesting hobbies, we also learned that Manchester family has produced some noteworthy taxidermists. Some day our reporter intends to call and find out first hand the extent of their ability.

N E S

In view of the fact that lobacco time is no longer frowned upon, but is acknowledged by educational authorities to be a matter of real moment, the problem of worthy hobbies is given serious food for reflection. The old adage "you can take a horse to water but you cannot make him drink" applies aptly to hobbies and their direction, but it is quite patent that if you take your horse tied up and afford him no opportunity to drink, he will be forced to go thirsty. Such is the father to the man and who knows when budding genius one is nurturing in one's midst without giving that tender plant space and opportunity to expand.

N E S

A chance question is asked us to whether any pupils in our district have ever come in contact with a live pest elicited an affirmative reply and a day or so later the proof of the pudding was forthcoming.

A COLD WINDY NIGHT

The night is cold: the wind is strong
And blows the snow in clouds along.

It swirls it here: it tosses it there,
A curve to stock—to man despair.
It does not seem to deem it wrong
To blow so cold, to blow so strong.
It hurles dinches, roads and lanes
And round the house and horse remains,
In drifts, so deep, so cold, so white,
You wonder what lies hid from sight.

In our humble opinion this little lyric merits genuine commendation.

SCHOOL FLASHES

The teachers were having a hard time last week, when the pupils got it into their heads that it was spring. With spring, comes "spring fever", the only term that could describe how the pupils felt with their astonishing spurts of energy. But now that the weather-man has played a trick on us again, the weathers gray. His a bit cooler, the pupils have calmed down a little, much to the teachers' relief.

N E S

"I took the recipe for this cake right out of the cook book."

"You did perfectly right to move it would have been in."

N E S

WE WONDER—

Who went on the sleigh-ride last Friday night, and where they went. Could you enlighten us on that Margaret?

Could any why Grace has the measles. How are you feeling now Grace? We bet you'd like to be climbing the stairs of the old school right now.

Why some of the high school girls have been spending their recesses playing hide-and-go-seek. Is it that much fun girls?

N E S

A drunk vanishing pulles dragging the river.

"Where's dad?"

"Looking for a drowned man".

"Watcha want one for?"

NEW LEAF RUST RESISTANT WHEATS

Owing to publicity from the University of Minnesota regarding a new strain of wheat that is practically le leaf rust, there has been a great demand for farm information.

Actually, there are several strains, the best of which as yet has to be selected. They have been developed by successive "back-crosses" of Thatcher's Kenge brightds to Thatcher. The aim was to transfer the leaf rust of Hope to Thatcher, and we have every reason to believe that the efforts of the Minnesota plant breeders are met with a large measure of success. They are about to begin distributing the seed to back-crossed strains.

The strain which will probably be increased has not been tested in Canada, but two others of the group were in variety tests in Western Canada in 1942. They gave higher yields than Thatcher in districts where leaf rust was abundant; but, as in the absence of this disease they yielded somewhat less than Thatcher. Under leaf rust conditions, they yielded no better than did Regent and some new selections from crosses between Regent and Thatcher bred at the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory, and now under test.

It is probable that Minnesota strains will not be available for at least one, and probably two years. In a year subject to leaf rust damage, farmers should grow Renown, or Regent, and no more sure they use seed derived from registered strains. Both Renown and Regent have been greatly improved by selection since first distributed. Every farmer growing these varieties would do well to get a start with registered stock.—Contributed by Dr. C. H. Goulden, Senior Agricultural Botanist, Dominion Rust Research Laboratory.

A COUNTRY EDITOR SEES Ottawa

WRITTEN SPECIALLY FOR THE WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS OF CANADA
by JOE GREENHALF, Editor of the SUN
SWIFT CURRENT, SASKATCHEWAN

The author of this series, Jos Greenhlat, is the Editor of The Sun, thriving weekly newspaper published in Swift Current, Sask. He is a native of Windsor, Man., and attended public and high schools in Winnipeg. He moved to Swift Current 32 years ago, and resided there until the outbreak of the Great War. He then served in the Canadian Army from 1915 to 1919, and was wounded in France. He has been in the weekly newspaper business since 1921, and is a past president of the Saskatchewan division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

At home, he writes a sprightly column, for the sun called "Swift Current Through the Looking Glass", in which he has developed the highly readable and friendable style that he brings to this series from Ottawa.

Before leaving Ottawa, he left one postscript on a brief but effective biography. It read:

"P.S.: Don't like Toronto!"

Editor's Note

LOOKING INSIDE THE ENGINE

Call me lucky or not, but I'm just and its mechanism, what makes the an ordinary weekly newspaper editor wheels go round. How it affects the who was invited to come down to daily life, the routine and worries Ottawa . . . that daily but pulsating, of you and I. Of course I'm only throbbing with energy, warheart of a nation which is such a staunch and energetic partner of the battling United Nations. I was asked to write a series of articles for home consumption that is, for the plain, honest to-God folk in the towns and on the farms who constitute the backbone of Canada's weekly newspapers.

I didn't get any salary for coming down here, but they did pay my expenses I felt somewhat like your own member of Parliament, sat in on the train, having the odd finger-bowl and pretending I was used to it and having the half hope "sir" me in a month. You know, so well as I do, that weekly paper editors at home are merely suffering from the finish of these articles, like R. R. Bennett used to say before they stuck him in the British hall of fame, "He had his day and ceased to be".

I came to have a personal, unhampered, unprejudiced, unpolitricked look at the Wartime Prices and Trade Board thing.

To some remarkable have been made They now since they are human even the experts and economic advisers, but they're all aiming towards the best deal for the greatest number of people in the least hardship for all—if we in a war which is being and ever increasing untimely problems affecting our very lives. Just remember when you shake your head wisely at your neighbor and say something about them gits in Ottawa that one time you left the barn door open, boys wandered out and the blizzard and you lost your self a hundred bucks or so.

Our Living Standards Involved

Believe me, if you and I are to continue enjoying the luxuries to-day we carry to our complex organisms, to fortify us for what may be a long and feverish war-girl until after the war, if you and I are going to be able to continue to get and receive wages adequate to a fairly decent continuing standard of living if the producer and labourer is going to at least some worthy measure the efforts of this big will then war lords . without any too explosive disruptions it will be because this organization thinks and continues on its present approach to me to help amounts of paper and the chips fall where they may.

I go into the series of articles to be sent a plain, unvarnished telling of the Ottawa picture as I viewed it for me. I would like to be able to tell you and you in turn to tell your friends where but on the beam about the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, the head of the whole outfit Donald Gordon, the chairman of the Board, Donald Gordon, that big dark Scotsman who dynamited his way into this organization and who, by the way, made book like the Lord was man at the blackmith in your town. He talked . . . as if I myself might something on this world That I could tell him about the steps Canada's been the methods all have, and this organization and I do mean it work

Your RED CROSS CALLS TO YOU
Never has the need been so urgent
$10,000,000 NEEDED Now!

YOUR RED CROSS appeals to you for funds to carry on its program of mercy to continue vital war work performed by no other organization. Never has the need been so urgent.

Helping to bring the end of half-a-million fighting men is a gigantic task, and that is only the beginning. The Red Cross makes life more bearable for thousands of prisoners of war. Over 2,000,000 parcels were shipped to them last year — more than this number must go in 1943. Our men in British and Canadian hospitals need Red Cross comforts and heartening visits from the staff of Red Cross "visitors."

Red Cross help to shipwrecked sailors is essential, thoughtful, immediate. Homeless war orphans—our own kin and those of our allies—sick and starving men and women in many lands—millions in Russia, Greece, China and other countries of the United Nations—need more food, medicines and comforts from the Red Cross.

The need is world-wide; this year the cost will be greater than ever. The work must go on. Obey the dictates of your heart; open wide your purse and be generous. Remember, you are the Red Cross!

Then there's Kenneth W Taylor who I talked with, Secretary of the Board, a McMaster man, an economist of standing, who certainly knows what it's all about. He type of person (like the others) doesn't have to fiddle with politics And women readers will surely be interested in what Byrne Hope Sanders told me She's better known as Editor of Chatelaine and now heads Consumers branch division, with its farflung chain of "watching" local committees. Behind her discerning intelligent eyes you could visualize her as a young mom in the kitchen stirring around the pie dough.

Information From Source

Are you interested in boarding etc? You'd be surprised what I learned from Fred A. McGregor, administrator of the Enforcement division You'd take him for your own church minister He doesn't look like Himmler and hates anyone who gets tough, but he's sure a firm guy. His division, understandably, has a big job and he's concerned mainly with the fellow who wants to grip you and I. Then there's Dr G E. Britnell, a Saskatchewan university man now economic adviser to the Foods Administration Why that man's head is always as full of butter, eggs, bogs, cheese, beef and milk as Canada's farms collectively are. He sees the picture more than he does statistics More about that later too.

Imagine rationing millions of people, cards and stuff. That would make your head swim at Montreal, and I'll try to explain later, hopefully how L. R. Lowie, a C.P.R. Vice-President, and his folks go about it. And what do you think is in the mind of elected administrator H. H. Bloom at Toronto, who handles what you can get in farm machinery in this greatest of agricultural countries? There were many others.

I've got a lot of stuff filed away in my mind, but it's got to be boiled down—all of it—to make not too tiring reading that will give you an appreciation and understanding of what's being done to YOUR way of life. On how you react to the policies and regulations laid down may eventually depend that same way of life. Bear with me through the following few weeks and I'll do the best I can to explain why and how they're doing it.

And remember, we, the people, only paid for my ham and eggs while I was away from home. I didn't have to put anyone on the back. I remain, like you, a small town guy or guyess, so stick around and tune in next Fans all over the Dominion listen to him in rapt delight, but to radio men, interested in his technique, it is a recurring miracle how he manages to record the games, play by play, at lightning speed, and with incredible accuracy, while down there on the ice skates flash, sticks dart, and the elusive puck flies from corner to corner. To Canadian ears, Hewitt remains the ace hockey reporter on any network. Foster Hewitt is heard on the N.H.L. Hockey broadcast from Toronto at 8.56 p.m. CDT (7.56 p.m. MDT) on Saturdays. This broadcast is carried on station CBK Watrous and other Western stations.

Home-Made Germinators

Here are simple ways of making germinators for testing the germination of wheat, oats, barley and other grains

Cut two sheets of thick white blotting paper to the size of a dinner plate. Lay one sheet on a plate and wet it thoroughly (draining off excess moisture). On the blotting paper place 100 kernels of grain to test with the second sheet of blotting paper and moisten the top sheet. Place the second plate on top, invert and a second blotting paper germinator has been made. Another method is to use a square piece of cheesecloth instead of blotting paper and moisten the blotting paper with water. Place the cheesecloth over the kernels and fold it over to disperse with a note in the bottom for drainage and fill it with loam, sand, flats or manure about an inch deep and moisten the soil daily. A shallow wooden box, with several holes bored in the bottom, say 6x12 inches, and about 4 inches deep, filled with loamy soil, can be substituted for the flower pot. If 100 seeds are planted, the number that emerge in about twelve days is deemed the percentage of germination of the grain.

Those germinators must not ever be left to dry, nor frozen and the normal room temperature is about right.

BUY
WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

There is no bread rationing in Britain, but something like that is being hinted at. The British want to use every available ship to carry war supplies and importations of wheat may be cut down.

ORDERING BABY CHICKS

There are no restrictions on the purchase of approved baby chicks other than that they are to be ordered direct from the hatchery or breeder producing them. They are not to be ordered through any agent.

IRON IS PIG FOOD

Iron is a necessity for little pigs. It is a food, not a medicine. Iron is not contained in milk, and it must be supplied to young pigs in two ways; (1) by placing earth or soil, preferably in a separate enclosure where the pigs can get at it without disturbing the sow, and (2) by placing on each pig's tongue once a week the amount of reduced iron or iron sulphate (copperas) which can be held easily on a ten cent piece. The salt should not be heaped because that amount is too much. The first feed of soil should be given a day or two after birth. New soil should be given daily, and the charcoal iron once a week until the pigs are eating solid food freely. Do not delay feeding iron until its best success pale, chlorosy, anaemic pigs.

By restricting the sale of fluorine supplies for essential uses, an adequate supply is assured of the containers for the 1942 packs of tomatoes, peas, corn and green beans.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Adams of Calmar are visitors this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Adams. "Art" as he is well known to many in this district has joined the R.C.A.F., and leaves this week-end for training as Air-Crew. Two years ago, Art gave up teaching the three "R's" to play piano in a dance band in Calgary, where he was employed up until the time of his enlistment. That was always his great ambition, "to play in the band". It is said, that he has come a long way, since the time he played around at the various dances in the this community years back. I bet he has too.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams were interested spectators at the Wednesday night parade of the local Home Guard.

Mr. Jimmy Payne, accountant at the local branch of the Royal Bank, now doing a three-months relief duty at Innisfail, has been transferred to Calgary, with a promotion. He will leave for Calgary, when finished at the present point. Mrs. Payne will join her ... in the Brewster city, just as soon as accommodation can be secured.

Miss Ruth Shackleton has received the much deserved promotion to accountant at the local branch, taking Mr. Payne's position.

Their many friends wish these popular young people every success in their new positions, and hope that this may be the forerunner of a succession of promotions.

How and When To Get Your Ration Book 2

Ration Book No. 2, will be issued from centrally located distribution points throughout the province, instead of coming through the mail as last year. All present ration books will expire on March 15th. Residents should acquaint themselves with the following conditions in regard to obtaining their new ration books.

A local committee with Mr. W. A. Gowland, acting as receiver of ration books was organized last Friday. These workers are giving their time voluntarily, as it is up to all ration book holders to co-operate as much as possible.

Residents of the Town, Rural Section 1, 2 and 3, will obtain their new ration books at the Town Hall, Fort Saskatchewan between the hours of 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day from Feb. 26, until Feb. 27th.

On the last page of your present ration book you find a record. This card must be presented to the committee before any new book will be issued to anyone. Please see that the blank spaces on this card are completely filled out as required and signed by the holder of the ration book or the head of that person's family. When your present ration book is presented to the Committee the card will be removed from the book, and a new book issued, and the old book returned to you.

Any member of the family or your neighbor may present the old ration book and obtain book No. 2, provided that the card on the back of the old book is properly filled out. This is important.

One Bright Spot in the World

The "Beveridge report" is having a rough time. Whatever its faults in principle or in detail, it is serving a line between those who are content and those who are thankful for it. Those who would benefit from it are of two minds. Some say it is only a palliative to keep the common people working and fighting, while others see it as an exceedingly valuable "next step" toward decency and proper respect for human beings.

The Dominion Government has set up a commission to study Canada with a view to making a report on post-war plans similar to those of the Beveridge Commission. Let us hope they make an adequate study and soon make an effective report.

There are people who are impatient with such commissions, saying: "let's win the war first" The Dominion War Loan slogan, "Nothing matters now but victory" expresses the same idea. There are, however, at least two good reasons why post-war planning should be done now. The first is that slogans and "interests" are already prepared with plans to run a raid harvest from the public as soon as the war is over. The public as a whole ought, therefore, to be warned with plans that will function in the interests of society as a whole.

The other reason for post-war planning now is that it will be too late if we leave it until the war is over. The public is very ably organized by one side but has a right to state it., a soldier fighting in the desert of Libya. Here is part of his letter:

"Out here, in the barren desert of Libya, where time is endless, and a day but the ribbing and not time of the sun, men are fighting, have been fighting, and will continue to fight against the enemy. But it is not possible to go on fighting forever without becoming tired, disgusted and disillusioned. When the war is ended and all of us are eventually demobilized, we ourselves will hardly be fit enough, either mentally or physically to wade into the colossal task of building and building for the foundation of a new Britain. The foundations must be there ready for us to build upon, so that by and through the victim of our labor, we shall not only restore Britain, but restore ourselves in the process."

Can anyone after reading that say emphatic enough that Victory without post-war planning is treachery to the men and women of the Forces?

This matter of post-war planning is a matter not only for Ottawa but also for us here at home What about a standing committee with regular ones a month? Others are doing it! Why not we?

PETITION CIRCULATED

A petition is being circulated throughout the district this week for the purpose of endeavoring to keep the Municipal Office in Fort Saskatchewan. Local business houses have been supplied with one, as anyone desirous of protecting the government's action in this matter, has the privilege of placing his or her name on a formal protest.

"Curfew" To Ring Out Each Night

"Curfew" will ring out at 9 o'clock each evening—a gentle reminder to young people under 12 to hit it for home.

Complaints have been registered that many small children are hanging around the main streets late at night. Ringing of the "Curfew" at 9 o'clock starting next Monday, March 9th, and checking up by town policeman is hoped to have the desired effect.

Town Council Elects C. R. W. Mager, Mayor

C. R. W Mager was chosen Mayor of the Town of Fort Saskatchewan, at the inauguration meeting of the Council last Friday night. Other members of the Council present were: Messrs. J. F. Wiebe, Chas. Glover, Albert Jacobs and G. Neale.

Councillor Chas Glover was chosen Deputy-Mayor for the next three months.

Chairman and members for the various town committees were arranged.

After reading of the minutes and requesting the new members with several important items to be cleared up from last years' business, the council got down to the business of passing the necessary by-laws that confronts the new council each year.

Application for two old age pensions were received and passed.

Council decided to adopt assessment roll of 1942 for the year 1943. Next year a new assessment will be made.

Friday, March 6th, was set for a special meeting to consider the 1943 Mill Rate.

Seven vacant lots will again appear on the Tax Roll, as citizens get the first crack at ... [illegible] ... In most cases, gardens are required.

Both ... [illegible] ... buildings are a daily occurence at the Town Office, but all are receiving the same answer—"you're away too late"

Post-war ... [illegible] ... and times the Fort fitted into the picture, was briefly discussed, but due to the large agenda before the meeting, the matter will be taken up at a future meeting.

No we are not going backwards—but the ever growing number of teams coming into town, suggests that some plans be made so they can be tied up. The Council decided to erect as soon as possible a hitching rack conveniently located where farmers and others may tie the "old grey mare" in safety to all concerned.

Councillor Jacobs was granted leave of absence to participate in War work in Toronto.

GILS AND FATS—CONSUMERS BRANCH

It wasn't Mrs. Phyllis Turner's good looks that made me deal with Gils and Fats on the second article, but its tremendous importance can be obtained by the fact that despite Goebbel's propaganda of synthetic procurement in Germany, she de-clares that is mostly bunk. The supply both here and there must depend on agriculture, mining and fishing. Germany's economic fat plan was the original basis for their universal system of a state controlled agri-culture, industry and commerce. Secretary of waste and gar-bage fats in the households there is mandatory. Think that over, housewives of Canada, when you toss away the fat you to avoid unnecessary usage and waste of oils and fats.

PHYLLIS TURNER

The picture is so simple, folks. It's a and vegetable fats are only source of glycerine for explosives, medicines, lotions, cosmetics when available. The average yield from fats is 2½ lbs. "Do you know", Mrs. Turner flung at me in trip-hammer manner, "that every person dropping per person per week would give us 36 million pounds a year? That left in the oil cans from 40 anti-aircraft shells? That 100 lbs. of glycerine helps make that tank ammo, or 730 lbs. of high explo-sive or enough to make 730 cans of ers!" I had to admit ignorance You who have some depending on this (which depends on you)—are you interested?

Oils and Troubled Waters

Just imagine the ramifications of this administration, especially since Japan plugged holes in the Pacific, conserving, inducing and co-ordinat-ing our vital vegetable, animal and fish oils for food and industrial pur-poses, i.e.: vitamin oils, lard, shor-tening, paints, inks, shellac, waxes, starches, glues, soaps, naval stores (resins, turps, pine oils). As for nutrition, how could you all enjoy without a proper proportion of oils and fats in your diet? Mom, isn't it just plain reckless?

Doesn't it make you think—as it did me—to hear that we depend so much on it, in our shaving; butter which as fat, is 84-base; in fat shortening, our clothes (all those which get treatment from oils or derivatives; the chair you sit in, the linen over the wall on. Excluding butter we normally consume 650 million lbs. of fats yearly in Canada, 260 of which, or 45%, had to be im-ported, originating largely in the Far East. That source went out with Pearl Harbour; your boy guarding convoys knows that even India and West Africa in getting tougher to reach.

Heavy demands for the stout-hearted but hungry Russians, for Britain, for ourselves must be met on this continent, is only one way: increased hemisphere production, stop-ping to consumption. Mrs. Turner sets on the United Nations Council of United States, United Kingdom, Canada, New Zealand, South Africa and Australia which meets in Wash-ington and even Canada's production is pooled, out of which we get only edible and inedible requirements on a strictly controlled basis.

I know you're interested in how they intend meeting this situation. We got limned off from flax; well, Canada produces it, it is hoped, will be stepped up to at least 20 million bushels this year compared to 16 in 1941; there will be no expansion of crops bean crops, sunflower and rape-seed.

Why Millions Are Needed

"Why control fats when the U.S.A. increased its production two billion pounds last year?" I asked Mrs. Turner to show that I read Time and the Ottawa papers. With that receipt and patient smile she asked me, "Did you know that the U.S.A. consumed 11 billion lbs. last year; that a billion was cut off from the Far East, and furthermore what assurance have any of us that this year's crop will give high yields as in 1942?" That answer that smartly, even if you are a city editor.

Sure, you've got a load, amount the bones. Prior to the war, refined litre oil was imported, mostly from Britain, Norway and Newfoundland. The fishing commission and the Atlantic coast wanted those and the previous citizens combined to have re-sets, freezing limitations and quotas. Do you know that since 1941 we now have five plants of our own producing refined medicinal cod liver oil and that we will be in a position to supply our own needs? The U.S.A. South America Australia and China? That industry is now, body and, before me, a people. Millions funding only for veterinary purposes will now be diverted to the benefit of British Columbia fish and of the despised depth fishery for human use; now producers Vitamin A and D rich and fortifying to marvels for night fliers, and is considering shipped to the British Ministry of Food.

Agriculture Comes Into Picture

Yes, I got enough of the story to know that a combination of science, manufacturing and conservation has put us on the threshold of a period when Canadian products, especially, will take its rightful place in Canadian industry. That's why I say I am interested.

Through efforts of this division, interest oil is now being processed to replace derrying oil from Thailand from China, soya bean will probably be used in "nylon" type artificial fibre, shellac will be a substitute for starch and sodium glutamate, the latter previously exported from Japan and used for those nasty flavor in concen-trated soups and beverages.

"Keep the fat out of the fire" was the administrator's appeal to women of Canada. It means oil for marine engines, better food for tanks and trucks, the life of tinplate and glyce-rine, to mention a few.

Consumers' Committee Functioning

But latest hurry on to Byrne Sanders, head of Consumers Division, which is getting results from Canadian women a voice and has 8,000 women a postbooms,a sincere smile which said, "I mean it." "Our task is to channel their difficulties and com-plaints towards a head and then we can go at the problems again." She admitted women are penny in cri-ticism. (Boy, she ought to hear the men in a smoking compartment.)

Her division is trying to hard to get closer to women everywhere be-cause their whole job so closely affects the household. R. H. Sanders is practical because she said, "The war hasn't started to hurt us yet. It likely will." Price shooting is one of the big jobs of the division, but she feels in this that honest retailers deserve protection from those who might not be. She wants women to cooperate with her. These fulltime officers in all towns are the link to do it.

"The Consumers Board is not up to represent all you people," and here we should her exact expression which reflects the energy and deter-mination of this woman, "So for Pete's sake use it. If anything is wrong need it to your nearest committee."

I went out post a battery of female operated typewriters in high gear. I thought if Mom can run the house-hold on her budget, a woman can run the Consumers division mighty effectively with the help of other women across Canada.

Only the RED CROSS Can Pass

With Food and Comforts for Our Prisoners of War!

BARBED WIRE and enemy guards "do not a prison make" for Canadian prisoners of war. Their thoughts, as long across the sea, must find Cross parcels as their way to them.

Last year, the enemy said "pass" to 2,000,000 such parcels. They were packed with 22,000,000 pounds of food and comforts welcomed by many men to these lonely men.

But, most of all, such prisoner every Red Cross parcel is a message from home—a fadeless remembrance that he is not forgotten, a reminder that no captured Canadian soldier is ever marked "off enough" by the Red Cross.

Thirty percent of the money you gave to the Red Cross last year was used to provide parcels for prisoners of war. The money you give now will help to keep up and increase this flow of good cheer and hope to these lonely men.

Consult your heart . . . Obey its dictates . . . Give liberally

One of Our Boys May Need Red Cross Parcels

Red Cross food parcels arrive at a German prison camp, somewhere in Europe. The Canadian Red Cross has sent more than two million such parcels to Canadian prisoners of war in German camps in Germany, occupied France, Italy and Africa since the outbreak of war. Present output is 100,000 each week from five Red Cross packing depots in Canada.

The following appeal to the people of the Province of Alberta in the Canadian Red Cross national cam-paign for $10,000,000 was made on the opening day by His Excellency the Governor General, who is Presi-dent of the Society.

In a statement to the press the Governor General said:

"The Canadian Red Cross Society urgently needs $10,000,000. Most of this amount is for food parcels to be sent to Canadian and British prisoners of war in the hands of the enemy in Europe and the Far East. This is an absolutely essential ser-vice, for on the presence of the United Nations nervous, our men in captivity will become more and more dependent for their food on Red Cross parcels. We must make certain by the generosity of our contributions that this supply is kept going through the agencies of the organized channels of the Inter-national Red Cross.

"We must remember also that many of the comforts for the men in our armed forces are supplied by the Red Cross, and the present call for ad-ditional supplies is a constant drain on our resources.

"Another important item in the Red Cross bill is the Blood Donor Service, which has meant the saving of the lives and the alleviation of so much pain.

"All these things cost money, and I appeal to the people of Canada, through the Red Cross Society, I ask all Canadians to give everything they can to this most worthy cause.

"The longer the war lasts, the greater is the human suffering it brings in its train. The Canadian Red Cross is dedicated to the relief of that suffering, and it is the privi-lege and responsibility of the Can-adian people to see that this work is neither interrupted nor retarded through shortage of funds. I feel sure that I do not appeal in vain."

Mrs. Hopkins of Bonnie Pond, one of the pioneers of Northern Alberta, passed away at her home at Edmonton on February 19th, after a long illness. Mrs. Hopkins was 70 years of age.

As a child of nine years, Mrs. Steele and her mother, Mrs. Hugh McKay, came to Edmonton from Bus-hrew, Ontario in a wagon train headed by Mr. Keith, father of Mr. Keith of Clover Bar, in the year 1882. Mr. McKay had come to Edmonton in 1881. In 1886, she married Samuel S. Steele, at that time teacher at Set-tlement school now within the Clover Bar district, and a pioneer of the village of Edmonton. Mr. Steele was a member of the family of Capt. Simon Steele of Orillia, Ontario, re-tired from the British army, who also fought under Admiral Nelson. Gen. Sir. Sam Steele was also a brother in law of Mrs. Steele's father.

In the year 1891, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Steele took up land at Beaver Lake, Alberta. Many times during the next fifteen years Mrs. Steele traveled the trail between the five miles, often alone except for her children, to visit her parents, who lived on the north side of the Saskatchewan River.

Mrs. Steele was buried at Beaut-mont Cemetery, Edmonton beside her husband on February 23rd.

When a bit of carelessness hits you,
After passing of a closet,
When a fit of laughter gips you
And you're spine is feeling prone,
Don't forget to up and fling it
At a soul that's feelin' blue,
For the adult that ye sling it
It's a boomerang to you.

We are particularly interested in the series of articles written by Jim Greenblat, editor of the Swift Cur-rent "Sun" with which our progress we provide us. We hear a most de-trashers of the "Dollar-a-Day Man" who controls the switch-board of our line, that in the Dominion is more from someone, who avowedly has no say to grind, that these men may indeed be all they are cracked up to be. Mr. Greenblat's style is pungent and convincing and if any of our readers were so unfortunate as to miss the first of the series in last week's issue of the Record, we strongly advise them to secure the subsequent forthwith. We ourselves have always entertained smoking misgivings on the subject and are willing to concede with Fatima, "almost then personhood use to be a Christian!"

Hauled Out

- but John Freeman beats disaster

"I've BEEN hailed out. But I've got an idea." John Freeman sat across the desk from his bank manager in a small prairie town. John's eyes twinkled but his mouth was grim. "Idea's about all I have got" he added.

The banker knew John, a hard-working, honest, shrewd prairie farmer, a fighter. "Let's have your idea," he said.

"It'll take funds, plenty of funds, and I haven't any, not now!" said John. "But listen." The banker listened.

"I know cattle," said John, when he had finished. "It'll work—if you'll stake me."

The banker staked him. With a considerable loan from the bank, John bought feeder cattle and fattened them on his home-grown feeds. He also bought the ruined crops of several adjoining farms and turned his stock to graze there. And John won his round with misfortune.

Because of the bank's confidence in John Free-man's integrity and judgment, loss was turned to gain. And not only for him. The neighbours got ready cash for crops which otherwise would have been a total loss.

Though this farmer's name was not "John Freeman," the facts in this story are true. It is typical of the thousand ways in which Canada's Chartered Banks aid credit-worthy people in all walks of life to profit from their individual enter-prise and industry.

World of Wheat

by Major A. Strange

So much has been written and said about the accumulated wheat surplus, that many have the idea that the surplus is permanent, and that considerable reductions in acreage may have to take place when the war is over.

For myself I have always steadfastly opposed this idea, knowing well from my reading of history that the people of the world never have had all the bread they wanted to eat in any single year during the 6,000 years of recorded history.

I have also noticed that the many explosives, which from time to time have appeared in certain producing areas, always appeared much sooner than people thought possible, and so the impression has come upon my mind that perhaps these explosives are built up by some Great Guiding Power beyond our understanding, in order to offset periodic years of poor crops or scarcity that may later come along.

This opinion is somewhat confirmed by recent news from Washington that the United States Government is loaning rather considerable reductions in acreage may have to take place when the war is over.

MARCHING the first time women have been given the right to join either Red Cross Society in an industrial clinic in Quebec, these office workers in the Angus Shops of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Montreal joined 600 men who had gone before them at blood donors in the clinic which has been in operation at the shops since 1st July of 1941. By the end of 1942 a group of 37 who had given pints for blood donations from the big shops total donations pioneered at the Angus shops, which employs 4,000 men, to 1,134 donations to supply the blood bank shipped overseas for military and military transfusions.

At home roll posted in Angus shops bears the names of those who have made three donations, nearly 100 being in that class now on the roll. Nicholas Hyndt, a veteran of the last war, has given blood six times.

The Navy of the United Nation's soldiers, airmen and sailors mostly depend upon the supply of glycerine to [illegible]

Fats and Oils are the raw materials from which glycerine is produced. Glycerine is the basic and indispensable ingredient in the majority of our explosives.

If everyone in Canada saves as little as two ounces of waste cooking fat in a week, it will produce the Glycerine required for the gun powder to smash Adolph, Benito and Tojo. There is enough explosive hidden in ten pounds of waste fat to fire forty-nine anti-aircraft shells.

Saving waste fats is one of the simplest War aids asked by your Country, and it is one of the most important ones on the Home Front, so join the proud ranks of the Kitchen Commandos. Your uniform may be only a plain apron but it can be as gallant an outfit as the tops and helmet of the Bombadiers in a Flying Fortress.

You now have a definite plan for disposal, namely:

Take Fats and Bones to your Meat Dealer who will pay you the established price, OR—You can donate your Fats and Bones to your local Voluntary Salvage Committee in any place where they collect them.

Unless measures are taken to increase the supply of fats, Canada may be faced with a deficiency of thousands of pounds of glycerine for explosives.

Valedictory Meeting of the Council of the Municipal District of Clover Bar, No. 517

Twenty-five Years Anniversary

For just over a quarter of a century the Municipal District of Clover Bar, No. 517, has been functioning as an organized municipal district with five councillors administering its affairs. The work of its council came to an end when it held its valedictory meeting on Thursday, the 25th day of February, for on midnight, February the 28th, 1943, the District ceased to be known as Clover Bar, it having by Ministerial Order been merged as from that date with the Municipal District of Strathcona, plural No. 616, with the enlarged District in future to be known as the M.D. of Strathcona, No. 617.

After calling the meeting to order and before proceeding with the business the Reeve in appropriate words thanked his colleagues for the harmony and good will that had always prevailed throughout their discussions in spite of the very contrary opinions that had been expressed on many occasions. He stated it was a pleasure to have been able to enjoy the spirit of co-operation that had always existed among the councillors in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the district ever since he was first elected to the council in 1907. On behalf of the Council he thanked the Secretary for the part he had played in the administration work of the District and his ready willingness to carry out his duties at any time of the day or night.

Of the five retiring councillors Councillor Harry Peters, who by reason of his long year.

M.D. of Clover Bar Hold Final Meeting

On account of the merging of the Municipal Districts of Clover Bar and Strathcona effective as from [illegible] a fact had ruled that there would be no advantage in holding the official annual meeting of the ratepayers. The Council of the Municipal District of Clover Bar, in short was never, to hold an additional rate payers' meeting, that an opportunity could be given anyone in the District to question the administration of the business of the District during the year 1942.

The meeting was held on Saturday last March 6th, with fifty five interested ratepayers in attendance in the absence of Mr. Mark Lazan Brenner, who is [illegible] as Returning Officer had for a great number of years officially called the annual meeting to order, but who was now busy with his duties as Returning Officer for the enlarged district, Mr Keith, at seventeen o'clock, thirty minutes after the announced time, asked for nominations for a chairman to conduct the business of the meeting Mr M. L. Hinton being the only nominee nominated he was duly declared chairman.

The chairman then called for the minutes of the 1942 annual meeting which were adopted on motion of R. Hennig.

In response to a query by the chair it was decided that the Secretary should read the Auditors' report give out what information he thought necessary and answer questions that anyone wished to ask. This procedure was followed.

The question of the continuation of the contract with the Fort Record was up for discussion, and it was decided the paper that the contract would be continued. The discussion finally culminated in the following resolution being moved by R. Hennig. Whereas since 1939 an agreement has existed between the Council of the Municipal District of Clover Bar, No. 517, and the Fort Record for the mailing of the paper to every resident taxpayer in the District, which arrangement has proven to be very satisfactory; Therefore be it resolved that this meeting go on record as recommending to the new council of the enlarged district that it give the continuation of such agreement investigation and sympathetic consideration. Carried unanimously.

The Secretary reported that a T.B. re-test had been made of all stock in the District during the past year by Veterinary Surgeons of the Health of Animals Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture. The work had now been completed and not one single re-actor had been discovered.

Mr. Keith intimated that he had attended the M.D. of Riverdale meeting on the previous Saturday and as a return courtesy he had extended an invitation to anyone from that District to attend this meeting today, and that he noticed Mr. Bailey from that District was present. At the request of the chair Mr Bailey briefly spoke on matters which vitally affected the two old districts now merged into one.

Mr. Keith speaking on behalf of the Council, re-iterated with some and elaboration the remarks he had made at the last meeting of the council, a report of which will be found elsewhere in this paper

Commenting on the merger, he averred that neither of the two districts wanted it, but when it was realized that the Government intended to bring it about both councils accepted the decision philosophically and decided to do what they could to make it a success, for the benefit of all concerned, and for the ratepayers in particular. He briefly referred to the quarter of a century period that the Municipal District of Clover Bar had been in operation and that it was the intention to have a short history of the District written up and published in the Fort Record

Reporting to Mr. Keith, the chairman of the Clover Bar School Division, Mr. R. Hennig, stated how his Board appreciated the co-operation that it had received at all times from the municipal councils within the Division, and how its difficulties had been greatly lessened by such co-operation. Continuing, he stated that he had attended all its annual meetings of the Clover Bar District and that the ratepayers never needed to apologize for the caliber of their councillors. A hearty vote of thanks was then accorded to the retired councillors.

FARM MACHINERY

From the parent living in a city apartment to the farmer on the land, the idea that it takes farm machinery to produce the necessities of life is understood. If it takes hand some of the answers for us in Toronto. First let me say that the information that our manager of implements at Ottawa has at his fingertips from 8:30 to 5:30 is amazing. Prices for farm machinery and repairs for repairs. That's not so bad as it sounds when one considers that the Russians found it possible to move whole factories six months after they had been bombed and burned. Well, factories six months after they had been bombed and burned. Well, factories are one thing, but machinery is another. Some materials are scarcer than others, but the machinery is there and repairs we had a 96% service.

Why Henrietta Are Barren

But there's a different picture for 1943; shelves are bare and no inventory to speak of. It's up to you to get in the home here you get it from. Into our needles that manufacture the machinery that also go into the machinery for filling Nazis and Japs.

As the administrator explained it, the whole problem boils down to this: how many people to make an order grouping? Answer: Of the first more than 20% green weight. But there were other problems. Some of the sales they overlooked experts drastically. Yes, they have to export a lot of machinery to Britain, Russia and Australia, who have been hard hit by shipping losses. It is necessary to get to it that they also have to produce the food to keep them alive. Just like our own city apartment dwellers, they have problems in machinery.

Then the administration made a survey of other areas Canada, discussing the situation with deputy administrators, representatives of provincial station superintendents, the supply board and other bodies to what types and varieties were most essential. That's a pretty approach, isn't it?

In Western Canada, for instance they found that it would be without threshers more, and wanted combines increased; they would rest one drop for a year but wanted another. As a result they were able to order more machinery allocated in the West from 47% to 72; from that many to 117 in Eastern Canada. Nothing there, as an example, will come in only five blade as compared to 12.

1943 Compared to 1942

And here is another practical application of the survey. They will make manufacturers of 75% of the output of green separators, with combines limited to 25%, and, they the Boston single spread there, the Massey-Harris single spread the West will be on the basis of 15% of 1942 to 20 per cent of 1941 in Canada; the West will get 2-1-3 on-way to the Eastern and Western all. The tonnage was sanctioned separately for East and West on the same basis.

The administration knows there will be a big demand for repairs to machinery this year because generally speaking, the farmers have been 1942 and farmers will want to keep their present plant facilities and will be scarce. So then, what about the farmer who has to buy?

"We shudder at the British system and that of the United States to get it," said the head of the show. Out of the cumulative study they have evolved what they consider the most simple and best system possible, with the greatest flexibility and equipment problem and the least possible confusion.

Here It Is

Here it is in a nutshell, just as easy for the city slicker to understand as for the farmer. In the first instance machinery collecting officers have been appointed in each province. Each machinery will work without interference from any other agency. Each machinery representative. He might be a municipal councillor, a farmer, a merchant or anyone else qualified and willing to take on the job. He will be a further contribution to the national effort, some prominent farmer of the region is chosen as chairman of the committee and respect of the others. His judgment is used in dealing with "border line" cases because—as we explained to mention earlier—the individual farmer can make application to the rationing officer for farm machinery in three to seven days after receipt. The machinery for repairs is also provided for.

Problems Well Understood

Well, that's the story I got from the boys of farm machinery boiled down to the space available. They realize the labor shortage presents difficulties. They are sympathetic in the fact that a farmer can't get everything he wants for replacement or new equipment. But they're making every effort to be fair and equitable to all with the amount at disposal of the country on a whole. That means harder work, taking more of present equipment to make it last longer.

The farmer likes to grouse just as the soldier does, but they both give when it's needed. Because there's a serious war going on the farmer is willing to make these limitations, do the best he can to make machinery go 'round to the best advantage. The cooperative rationing has been set up because there is a scarcity of materials and the necessities of war production We've just got to like it and make what we've got last longer.

What started out to be a meeting of the Clover Bar W.A. on Wednesday, March 3, ended up in a snowdrift to the immense enjoyment of all the ladies present. It seems that on the way to the meeting, the ladies encountered some very large snowdrifts and the urge to play about in them for a couple of hours was too strong, so this they proceeded to do. They played so hard that they finally got bogged down, and had to let the men come to their aid to dig them out. One car was stuck for about four hours and had to be finally pulled out with a tractor. The ladies are never going to tell many stories about snowdrifts so high as a car.

Sugar is an important dietary constituent because it reduces grain yields and, when present in food grains, may cause acute poisoning or even death in farm animals.

Sugar is most noticeable in 'ripe,' but also attacks barley, wheat (especially durum) and occasionally oats. The same sugar also stimulates moldy rot and undesired growth of fungi before (called saprophytic) combined on grasses and other plants. Important causes of infection for cereals, included fungi which are able to cut before cereals have time to mature. Early stages of infection may be identified by the presence of drops of sticky sugar-like on the heads of grasses.

Heavy bodies, infiltrate the tissues when moisture, usually dewdrops, condenses and then evaporates. Germination then occurs, the sugar is carried to the leaves by the wind. The fungi may cause loss in the form of poisons or rot and rot up before the crop is ripe.

Control measures include early cutting of infected crops and drying of infected grains, and the application of which infected grain crops with Bayer Bodies ten (in formaldehyde and grain by immersing the grain in a container of removal and sprinkling of 40 parts of salt in 40 gallons of water. When the grain is immersed and agitated, the sugar bodies rise to the surface, from which they must then be washed to prevent injury from salt.

Farmers may secure, from their elevator agents, a circular in which the disease is discussed more fully, for additional information apply to Dominion Laboratories of Plant Physiology at Winnipeg, Saskatoon or Edmonton, Controlled by A. If They Could Trade Places

If they could trade places and be on the giving end of Red Cross work —never doubt but that our suffering allies would turn to us with open-handed generosity—be glad to help!

To be on the giving side is the preferred position after all Untouched by Blitz, Canadian women have been able to spend long hours "sailing and sponsoring" in Red Cross Branches all across the Dominion. 20,000,000 articles of supplies have already been shipped Overseas for the Armed Forces and suffering civilians; 100,000 food parcels for prisoners-of-war are being packed each week in the five depots, over 1,000,000 pounds of jam and honey have been provided for British children.

Blood serum, medical supplies, sailors' comforts, motor vehicles—all these have come from the Canadian people—thanks to the gift of the Canadian Red Cross to help the suffering everywhere.

Russia, Greece, China, Poland, Belgium, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Fighting French, Norway and Holland have all been helped—fed and succored by Red Cross gifts.

And these on the receiving end—with no LITTLE—can by no way "thank you" in a practical way. Listen: Mrs. Noble Milton lives in a tiny flat in Chelsea, her son, a prisoner-of-war in Germany, has received Canadian Red Cross parcels. He wanted the Red Cross Society, for Canada to keep him alive. His mother wrote the Marchioness of Donegal, in charge of the Hospitality Department at Berkeley Square:

"I would like to be able to repay you by having one of your Canadian soldiers to stay with me, to leave in London. I could give him bed and breakfast. Although I only have two rooms to let, I assure you I would do my best to make my Canadian soldier comfortable and happy during his short leave."

If they could trade places! Let's make the most of our "preferred position."

The Canadian Red Cross must have $10,000,000 to go on with the work in 1943.

Give—and then some—human suffering is greater than ever before.

Courses Publication

According to a notice published in the issue of March 2nd of the Holden Herald, that weekly newspaper has suspended publication hereafter its editor, the publisher, states that he took this step due to lack of help and drastic cut in subscription revenue. The Observer can fully sympathize with Mr. Edmond on the latter feature, for the Holden Herald actually carried more local advertising than the Observer does. We sometimes made it tough for the smaller weekly newspapers to survive at all. The Holden Herald was in its twenty-second year of publication and has given the people of Holden a service over that period of time. It goes without saying that the people of Holden will miss their local newspaper. Perhaps the old hymn is not applicable for we don't know whether Bob is a "sweet voiced thief" or not; but

"Strange, we never prize the music Till the sweet-voiced bird has flown."

"ROOM"

By John Galloway

For fifty years I has been claimed by the Germans that they need more room, and so they started out to murder and plunder their neighbors, most of them were crowded them Germany. It has taken us quite a while to realize that Hitler's plan for making room has been to take possession of another improved country and kill off half of the inhabitants. He also kills many of the fellow-citizens. He achieved great success, and then became inspired, inspired by the magic of death and destruction, self-destruction, so he could see a vast amount of room in Russia. He need his victorious, conquering millions to Russia. Several millions have found room there, room that they may hold on few simple until Gabriel blows his Horn When Napoleon's army, or rather a small remnant of that vast conquering army escaped from the clutches of the Russian Bear, and the Russian blizzards, and straggled back to home land, they did not need much room as "the sunny land of France." When a remnant of Hitler's army escapes, they will not need much room in "the Father Land".

Mrs. S. Thorne, Convener,
Women's Institute,
Fort Saskatchewan,

Dear Mrs. Thorne:

Well today was a very big day for me because of several things but mainly one and that is the most important just now. I received your most delightful Xmas box today. I was very surprised but very much pleased when I went for my mail and I got your parcel. May I take this opportunity of thanking you for all you've done. It is really comforting when a person receives something from home. I really appreciate it and only wish I was able to do something for you in return. But let us hope that we soon may be back there and I can promise you that I will do everything I can for you. I would like also to thank the other ladies of the organization for me, who helped to make the box up.

By the way I have some good news for you. As a matter of fact it was only yesterday when I was walking down the camp that I met one of the boys there. I'll bet you'd never guess who it was so I'll tell you. It was Bruce Graham. He is here on the same station as I am so it makes things quite a lot easier when you have some one whom you know from home. He was asking me about every body back there and I told him that everyone was fine. I'm saying hello to you for Bruce as I know he'd be only too pleased when I tell him that I've received a parcel from you.

Well Mrs. Thorne this has run into quite a long letter so may I take this opportunity of once more saying thanks ever so much for the delightful Xmas box. I'll close now as I'm getting on. So cheerio and may you have the best of every success in the new future.

I remain,
Yours sincerely,
Fred Dennis.

Letters From the Boys to Josephine Red Cross

Dear Mrs. Gillies:

I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for your great kindness in sending me the parcel which I received just in nice time for Christmas. I want to assure you and all the ladies of the committee that the work they are doing in preparing and sending these parcels means more to us boys over here than you can imagine, everything was just grand—the food, chocolate and everything. We do not get anything to compare with our Canadian goods over here, so when we get a real taste its a treat.

Thank you very much, I must close now and I pray God's Blessing be showered on you all in your work, and also that the New Year will be bright and prosperous for everyone.

Sincerely yours,

World of Wheat

A SHORTAGE OF GOOD SEED

Because Canada produced this last year the largest crops of wheat, oats, barley and flax ever recorded in a prairie history, but to everyone's surprise the quantity of reliable and acceptable seed of these different crops is surprisingly small

Late spring frosts and early fall frosts combined with the abundant rainfall and the cool weather of 1942, appear to have had a bad effect on germination, in many cases and particularly on the appearance of seed grains, so that a much smaller percentage than usual of seed crops can meet the required official standards of Registered and Certified seed This means, therefore, that good seed is scarce this year in spite of the abundant crops Farmers, therefore, who wish to be assured of a supply of Registered and Certified seed, oats, barley and flax, should place their orders as early as possible in order not to be disappointed.

The shortage of good seeds is particularly acute, but because of the relative cutiness there are larger supplies of good Vanguard oats—a variety resistant to some forms of rust—than any other variety

Another thought comes out of the, to be safe, farmers should test for germination the grain they intend to use as seed, particularly their own, by methods which have been recently described in this column

WARNING

CANADA FACES A WOOD-FUEL FAMINE NEXT WINTER

ARE YOU one of the Canadian householders who burned tonnes, dozens, and even floating in busy waters in this winter's sub-zero weather?

Or perhaps you are one of the lucky ones who just managed to scrape through?

In either case, you will want to be prepared for next winter when greater hardships loom unless you take immediate action.

The shortage already has affected many communities . . . most cooks at dry wood are nearly exhausted . . . in some places the small supply of green wood cut for next winter is being used for the present emergency.

Throughout most of Canada, fuel-wood is obtained not far from where it is consumed. Its production and distribution are the business of local citizens.

The Dominion Government, recognizes that the wood-fuel shortage is so serious that even with the full co-operation of everyone in affected communities an adequate supply is not assured. Accordingly, it has been decided to stimulate the output of wood-fuel by rendering them normally engaged in its production and distribution. To this end, the following measures will be adopted

1. A subsidy of $1.00 per cord will be paid to dealers on all commercial fuel-wood contracted for and cut on or before June 30 1943, and held on dealers' accounts on that date.
2. The Local Controller has been authorized to arrange at his discretion for the payment of such portions of the transportation costs as he considers proper in respect of fuel-wood, particularly in cases where dealers, in procure supplies, find it necessary to construct or lay down roads to accessible stands of new trees which they normally derive their supplies. In order to obtain any such reimbursement, dealers must obtain a permit from the Coal Controller before commencing for such purposes.
3. The Coal Controller will repurchase from dealers or dealer's any or all commercial grades of fuel-wood on which a subsidy of $1 per cord has been paid and which are still in dealers' hands as at May 31, 1944.
4. Assistance will be given in providing priorities for necessary equipment.
5. Farmers now on the farm, and who leave the farm normally in response to the call to engage in fuel-wood cutting, will be deemed by National Selective Service to be carrying out their regular occupations as farmers and will be given all the rights of mobility of manpower which such an occupation now carries. Such temporary absence should not, however, interfere with agricultural production.

Municipal councils, farmers, fire chiefs, schoolboys' citizens, service clubs, and all other groups in communities where wood-fuel is burned, are urged to begin at once a rapid survey of their local situation, and to take immediate steps to relieve the shortage.

Use Slow Price—Get More Bread

Among us it may mean, there is today an abundance of food, and will be in the future a still greater necessity, of almost all the foods required for health. The wheat crop of the world is ample and yet it was but the other day when many people were concerned that the world was not producing enough grain as over-production of foodstuffs.

The present situation illustrates what a great need there always really has been, is now, and will be in the future for foodstuffs, provided the farmers' product are provided to their family then farmers to them with need more and better food. To-day, however, there certainly exists other conditions.

There is a shortage of foods.

Restrictions on farms, in villages, towns and cities are help to relieve many of the previous foods so badly needed by our Armed Forces, by munition workers and other people. If they would try to serve their country with more foods better to them, and with record zeal, and if they would persuade their families and neighbors to do likewise, there would be more than enough for all, and no need of waste. By great good fortune we still have an abundance of wheat and flour.

Incidentally the new "Canada Approved" flour and bread are on sale. It is particularly rich in the proportion of "B" vitamins which do so much to improve health and help to build up resistance against disease.

Bountiful nature like a man who is getting ready to put a roast at in the oven, has provided the farmers' product are provided to their family then farmers to them with need more and better food. To-day, however, there certainly exists other conditions.

"March came in like a lion". To date he has kept up the role and if he honored us to go out like a lamb, he had better shed his warlike coat and begin to grow some fleece. He can't fool us much longer anyway.

In the meanwhile our community has once more severed diplomatic relations with Mr. Majesty's Postal Service". High winds have blown the drifts in faster than men can open them, and now that the ditches are filled, there is no let or hindrance to the demolition process. Fresh snow fell on Friday night and yesterday proceeded to add to the quota. Why does not the Prince and Trade Board put a ceiling on cold and snowy weather. That is one regulation to which every man, woman and child would give unqualified support.

Meanwhile the school visit continues to function for its patrons. This is said to the good, for the kids this year was quite an expense and we are glad to see it continuing to pay dividends. At the rate of the school is a natural risk—a risk on which bedding hockey players of diminishing size, promise seriously, in preparation for the day when the N.H.L. will require their services. No guarantee is asked or given and lots of penalties have been meted out thus style. To see those young Davids, each one with his day his Goliath, is quite an education.

The War Savings Stamp Committee in the Senior Room got into action last week and collect nearly to the tune of one dollars sold. Over at that, the Junior Room continues to maintain its lead but on the old coal scale to the Bible motif when hunting or running in his stock. "You'll hunter luck out".

—V—

Line lads are beginning to rend in the cold comes on. Yesterday the Senior Room was busy with the well-thumbed pages of coal catalogues. This Spring promises to provide all the necessary conditions suitable for rice culture—at least there should be a flat four or five inches of water left in certain alluvial deposits of good Mother Earth, all over the field.

Farm labor problem continues to constitute a perpetual headache. It is one thing to put in a crop but quite another to take it off, and without exception we can and all have a rooted objection to leaving it in the fields. There is not a large quantity of last year's crop still awaiting removal and what there is, has to be removed. Rabbits and game birds will have taken their toll and it is fortunate that then that such stores of food have been available for, rustling would not have been attractive to game. "Give us the fields" said Chanticleer, "I mean the fish", but the rabbits and birds refuse to play the game.

Rev. H. Wingfield has volunteered to type a monthly newsletter to be sent to each of our boys in the Service who posted on to what is going on to the home front. The News may be typed, mimeo by anyone at all, and no item need be considered too trivial. To anyone who has left home and is apt to enjoy anything from home, there's nothing like home-made news—unless it is home-made cake. The idea which originated in Beaver Hills is not protected by patent and, any district is welcome to do likewise.

Another Literary Society meeting was held last Friday, March 12th, Glenrose Dorring acted as Master of Ceremonies.

The program began with a quiz sponsored by a few grade ten boys. Claude Latour was the lucky winner, receiving the prize of a tasty cheese into her. Next on the program was an interlude of music by Jenny Bodnarchuk (Edith Rathgeb, and her orchestra, namely—Glenrose Dorring on the clarinet; Gladys Grundahl on the violin; Gwen Gunn on a mississippi saxophone; Jean O'Brien on the drums and Clare Chesbrough at the piano. In addition to all, their orchestra played five selections. The music must have gone over big, although no one danced, all were holding their sides with laughter. And Glenrose! whose did you learn to roll those eyes? The School Paper was then read by Lois Wilson. The last item on the program was another quiz prepared by Glenrose Dorring and Ada Williston. The winner for the last quiz was Richard Latour, who also received the prize of one chocolate bar.

The next quiz will be getting 10% of the profit on every extra Ad gathered. The Bookkeeping class is looking after this part of it. The Grade XI are acting as reporters and Grade XII is responsible for the editorials.

A Brief History of the M.D. of Clover Bar, No. 517

by D. S.

Rural Municipal Government in Alberta received its birth under an Act [illegible] passed in 1912, and in the year 1913 the Municipal District of Clover Bar, No. 517, was not officially known as L. I. D. 517. Its area was the same as it is today. Its shape, a distinctive feature to the history, but before proceeding with that part of the work I feel that it will be interesting to the reader to know the origin of the words "Clover Bar", not only because it was the distinctive name of the Municipal District for a quarter of a century but also of seven other elected governing bodies, the Provincial Constituency of Clover Bar, the Clover Bar School Division, the Clover Bar Health Unit, Clover Bar School District, East Clover Bar School District, North Clover Bar School District and Clover Bar Village School District.

It is doubtful if there is within the Province so many governing bodies named after the one place as that of Clover Bar. It is a record which may be unique.

For the origin of the name, "Clover Bar", I am indebted to the Rev. J. P. Berry, a former Minister of Clover Bar, who is the author of a book "Clover Bar in the Making" and who very kindly allowed me to quote the following from that book.

"But there is another, and older name, at least, is more directly associated with Clover Bar, and yet one who had seemed to be little more than a name. Today we are able to present it in a clear light as a real pioneer. That man is Thomas H. Clover. He was born in Missouri in 1809; joined the gold rush to California in 1849 and went North to the Cariboo gold fields in 1858. There he heard of Dr. Hector's discovery of gold on the North Saskatchewan and with others started for the Saskatchewan in 1860, via Jasper and Fort Assiniboine, arriving late in the season in the following spring he states that he set up his "shebang" seven miles east of the Fort and named gold to the value of three dollars. The next day he went to work and panned seven dollars worth. This was good pickings but it was not long before he found better things so he kept working when low water permitted for at least four years. Many others did likewise, any also, chiefly for the Hudson's Bay Co. The bar where Clover met with such success was known as the gold value north of the present Clover Bar Post Office. This came to be known as Clover's Bar and subsequently the name Clover Bar was applied to the whole district. Later Clover went to Fort Garry taking forty-eight carts with him; one of the carts slipped on the ice, broke through and sank with its load. He was at Fort Garry when Red River rebellion broke out and he then left the district for Ontario where he died."

SWEET CAPORAL
THE SWEETEST FORM IN WHICH TOBACCO CAN BE SMOKED

Helping to House Canada's War Workers

When the huge shell-filling plant came to his town, Charles Hosmer got to thinking about the critical shortage of housing . . . and about the two huge cottages he owned. It wouldn't cost much to modernize and sub-divide them to make comfortable homes for four families.

He talked it over with his bank manager, who sounded him a $4000 loan. With the money, Hosmer not only converted his cottages but took part of the loan, along with some of his rental income, to remodel another house to accommodate eight single individuals.

With the aid of the bank Hosmer helped to provide urgently needed homes for war workers. He has now paid off all but $100 of the loan. A very small amount paid out for interest has thus enabled him to more than double his former revenue.

Such modest, highly useful loans typify the contributions that the banks make to Canadian enterprise. The above story is an actual case—only the name has been changed.

More than 4,000 registered bank men out of 14,493 have gone into the armed forces since war began. This literally is greater burden on remaining staffs and new employees. In your banking early in the day. Pay small bills by cash instead of cheque whenever possible. It all helps.

LOCAL RED CANVASSERS MAKING GOOD HEAD WAY

The local committee are quite optimistic over the results of the Red Cross drive up to the present and it looks as if Fort Saskatchewan will go over the top again this year. From totals received so far $260.00 has been collected and this amount will be largely increased when the rest of the town outside the business section complete their rounds. Owing to bad weather they have had to use "old faithful" to make their calls. However, Fort Saskatchewan will make its quota and have something to spare this year.

Control Spring Fires

Spring fires destroy uncounted thousands of bird's nests. This loss can be almost completely avoided if farmers will burn their stubble or hay lands before April 15. The ground-nesting bird which habitually lays it eggs before this date is the Prairie Horned lark. Ducks start to nest from April 20's. Prairie Chicken and Hungarian Partridge start early in May; and so do many of the small land-loving and ground-nesting birds. All these birds conserve grasshopper and other insect pests in their crops. They are the farmer's friends. If you have stubble or hay lands to burn, do it before April 15 and you will be astonished how quickly the birds will respond. Fields that are to be summer-fallowed should be burned over by June April 15, as this discourages birds from nesting on fields which are to be plowed up when eggs or young would be in the nests.

This is a serious wildlife menace, and requires the co-operation of a host of additional birds on the wing and help keep insect pests under control. Remember that the Province is operating in this wildlife restoration work; and if everyone will do the same, the ground-nesting species of birds will again become abundant. Man and wildlife can thrive together.

R.C.A.F. News Items

"Going through that early air conditioning would be good idea, even if there wasn't a war on." So spoke a young man just graduated from Initial Training School in Edmonton. "I know more about what I can and can't do now than ever before," he added. What so had recently been the many aptitude and similar tests that are taken by the men of the air force. The tests are prepared by skilled educational and psychologists. If a man has a hidden talent, he is for mechanics, writing, mathematics, or one of a dozen others, it is uncovered by these air force tests and interviewers. As a result, many airmen intend to follow a new line of work after the war along the lines of what they have found they are best suited for.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..
Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

I knew I hadn't said it well, but it took the keen mind of a friend to show me just what was wrong I had been talking about that part of history which struggled out of the fog in the dozen centuries of Hebrew life, burst into almost blinding blaze in Jesus, and has since glowed in various intensities in that continuous fellowship which has its focus in Jesus in short I was talking about the Church! And in talking about the Church I had affirmed that that fellowship "in Jesus" has a driving compassion to live in the very midst of all the tensions and fears and groups of the world in such a way that tension and opposition are lifted above the level of brute force to the level of conscious struggle for that which glorifies God and benefits man.

That's a very good idea, said my friend, but I have noticed that all too often the more you talk Christianity the more people think the struggle on the level of truth and ignorance, instead of helping man to make his tensions fruitful, the Church, among is fa certainly of divine support, has only manufactured issues and prevented progress.

As he spoke my very soul cringed in humiliation on behalf of the Church for I know he speaks truth, or at least part of the truth. My mind flew to Jesus' condemnation of those who say "Lord, Lord, and not the things which I say", and I wondered how often we are full of mouthings about God while our hearts are far from Him. I also remembered that "The Spirit bloweth where it listeth" and could think of many times when God, weary of waiting for the Church, had brought forth more abundant life for man through some group despised and rejected by official Christianity.

From there my mind went to the centre of the problem. Is it true that whenever we are eager to do God's will, our enemy certainly that we are His agents makes our conduct devilish? Is it true that the will of God be done only by those who do not know they are doing it? Is it commonplace true that at the moment we become conspicuously religious we become irreligious and devilish? Is it sometimes then, man's sin? Surely not! If that were true then every blood and soil monist would be God's agent and all idolatry of race and motive and action would be His concern! If that were true then Caligulas and Pilates and Neros were the friends and Jesus was his enemy! If there is any cause whatever in the universe that is sound!

There is a way in which a person or a group can seek and do the will of God and still escape the temptation that destroyed His Crucifixion, but that way is a narrow one, and "Behold is the gate". Jesus was able to follow that way by the power that comes from the very centre of real prayer. It is not likely we shall find it or follow it more easily than he.

Here are some notes on the talk just from the pen of a friend of mine:

Eager am I to live
And I have been set down in life By God.
Yet if I strive
And make my goal
Attainment of self-satisfaction,
Grasping and tightly clutching close all dear possessions,
Goods, and friends, ideas, purposes, security,
Even my predetermined goal of goodness,
Then am I left bereft of all that I did seek,
Defeated, empty.
But, if, in deeper understanding of God's world
And His hatred for man,
Seeing that tonight of my devising can succeed
The gracious poisonness of His,
I cease to strive and grasp and cling in deaf effort
Then am I found complete
And more sure by joy and deep security
Toward yet unvisioned goodness,
Knowing that only in the doing of His will Life finds its true unfolding and fulfilment.

We shall all miss Mann with his cheery smile and willing co-operation. On Saturday next our school will be used for polling purposes by the Municipal Council. All are cordially indebted to "D.R." for his 'Brief History of Canada' Mr. Oliver Bar, No 317. Our only quarrel with its author was on the score of the first word in the title. We thought we noticed that this gentleman could add many details of interest to readers and his comments many anecdotes To put it plainly in the words of the immortal Sam Rogers "much ought be said on both sides." We take too much local history for granted, and it is only to note that Rev. Berry has carried through the long projected epic 'Clover Bar in the Making'. It should prove interesting reading.

Fort High School Students Publish Paper Next Week

Students of the Fort High School will take over the Fort Record for next week. Committees are busy sending the town for news already. While others are writing editorials and soliciting advertising. The Business Union will get 10 per cent of the advertising revenue they bring in.

It is not known definitely where the idea of letting schools sponsor local papers originated, but the Wetaskiwin Times, co-operated with the school in that town recently, and the endeavour was quite a success.

Fort students are out to meet the Wetaskiwin effort, and with the full co-operation of the townspeople should be able to go even one better.

Students will set type, fold papers, and get a brief glimpse into the making up of the local paper, during this week.

It will be appreciated if those desiring extra copies of this issue, will let the Record office know by Tuesday. Restrictions "if newsprint makes it necessary that we print only the number papers required.

"You're in The Army NOW"!

Members of the Local Home Defence Unit welcomed Lieut. Hillen Monday night.

1st Sgt.: Is that 2 1c coming?
2nd Sgt.: No, just one. Where have you been for the last hour?

Four new recruits during the past week have brought the Unit up to 54. Only 16 more are now required to bring the unit up to "Company" strength.

This being Reserve Army Recruiting week, men are asked to join Canada's fastest growing business—men's army.

Four soldiers arrived late at church service. Two found seats at the side, and the other two walked up the aisle.

At that moment, the preacher announced the text: "Paul I know, Orphan I know—but who are these?"

The sergeant pounced on them at once, out, "Glad to have the pleasure, your Reverences. This is Jack Mc-Tavish from Glasgow and I'm Willie Heaps, from Salford."

There are two or three canvassers yet to report and it is confidently expected that another $100 will come in. A complete list of amounts received from canvassers by publication next week if all reports come in by that time.

The results of the campaign locally is most encouraging, particularly when it is remembered that considerable donations have been had and will be worse before final reports are in. When the final tally is made it is hoped that last year's total of $777.60 will be passed.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor of the Fort Record:
Dear Sir:—

I have just finished reading the "Fort Record", and was very interested in the Brief History of the M.D. of Clover Bar, No. 317. I think it is articles like this, that makes the "home town paper" worth while.

Would it be possible to have a brief history of the "Fort", "Partridge Hill", "Ardrossan", "Cooks Hill", written up and published sometime in the future, in the Fort Record.

Four schools in this district, and interested in the past history of the surrounding district, I would like to see a brief history of the district printed and published. It would make very interesting reading.

Yours truly,
A reader of the "Fort Record".

Editor's Note: If some person or persons in the above mentioned districts would give the "Record" a brief history of their community, The Record would be pleased to publish them and we are sure our readers would greatly appreciate the writers' efforts.

TIMES WELCOMES NEW SUBSCRIBERS

The Municipal District of Medicine Hill, has removed the contract with the High River Times which had been carried by the former M.D. of District for the past 16 Years, and now contract contracts the new area now included in the large municipal district, and adds some 125 new subscribers to The Times's list.

It is hoped that news will come in from the new area, so that the paper may become the "home paper" for these incoming members of The Times' family. The columns of the paper are also free for the use of "home town paper" readers for expressions of personal opinion and views.

As municipal districts enlarge the result is that taxpayers are not in close touch with their councillors, and the councillors on their part are in less direct contact with those whom they serve. The district newspaper offers a valuable medium by which councillors and taxpayers may keep in mutual touch.

Make use of your paper for news, views, advertising—any activity or project which merits or needs publicity. The Times has a constantly increasing circulation, and the majority of our readers are concerned mainly in the doings of the district —the social events, agricultural progress, business, coin offerings and so forth, of the community.

Again it is urged that subscribers take one of their home paper to a fellow extract, and a hearty welcome to The Times' family is extended to the new subscribers of the enlarged municipal area.

—High River Times.

Al Sharp's Shows Next Week

"Harry Shows" comes to Sharp's Shows Thursday and and Saturday, April 1 and 3rd. Ann Sheridan, Jack Oakie, Martha Raye, Josh Hailey and a host of other radio and screen performers make up a swell cast to give local theatregoers a good laughing comedy.

The story goes something like this: Andrews Oakie and Hailey has their shipowners' money on their side to win guessing prizes. But trouble starts when involved, quiet Andrews, had gun-pointed in the Navy, decides to go back to his home farm instead of before the guessing contest. Oakie and Hailey use sundry methods to make Andrews remain, finally succeed by using Ann Sheridan to bait, with the comedy falling in love.

RATIONING

We who think in terms of 50 chickens and four cows can hardly conceive the magnitude of the task in planning and distributing the millions of Number 2 Ration Books, which you may or may not have seen when you read this. "This rationing is something which affects about 12 million people 24 hours in every day."

quietly said L. B. Unwin, Canada's rationing chief, in his Montreal office.

Just a little background of Mr. Unwin will serve to show why it looks to me that these wartime jobs are being efficiently handled. It sounds a little L. B. UNWIN

Horatio Alger. At 51, Mr. Unwin is vice-president in charge of finance for the Canadian Pacific, and president of their growing Airlines. He came out from East Kent, England, as an infant and in 27 years rounded his present job. He was a railway clerk at Chandler, Que. He was then Military Cross for bravery in the first Great War, starting out as a buck private, ending as a Major. He now serves without cost to his country. Yet, unobtrusive, modest, unpretentious personal figures, big jobs, he takes in stride.

Local Boards in National Set-up

You wondered why our Local Ration Board was set up, with its few-at-a-time inactivity. Now you probably know. It was all part of a nation-wide plan to do a tremendous job with the least disturbance and at a minimum cost to the taxpayer. There were wheels revolving within wheels, publics to be determined before Mr. Unwin's crew got going. Then there had to be directives to those who would do the actual work in cities and towns from Sydney, N.S., to Victoria, B.C.

Just imagine the confusion—not to even think of your own feelings, if you had come in from the farm on a blustery day and came inoffered, if patriotic, policeman worker got your card all balled up. But all this had been taken care of while you sat out the winter around the pot-bellied stove. The Distributing Chief appointed by your own Local Ration Board had definite instructions on every tiny phase of his operation, and so did the other volunteer workers who met, debug, or did something which is their contribution to the war effort. Just thing of it: all those folks working without remuneration. That's the home front for it—and it means a big saving to the taxpayer, too.

Mr. Unwin told of the different sets of conditions which had to be provided for in distribution for urban and rural centres. That was worked out beforehand, with leeway given the local distributing clerks' lenience to know local conditions better than the fellows in Ottawa or Montreal.

The Story Behind Ration Books

Do you know that the King's Printer started delivering ration books to the administration between January 20th and 25th at the rate of a million a day, with the distributing Dominion-wide, set for Feb. 12th to March 1st. You know yourself what was in each book. They were in the tens of 1,500 books each, bundled in 30's. There had to be provided, I was told, for additional sheets in reasonable quantity, of course, for unexpected soft coal miners and distribution. Just imagine the detail involved, and still in this net of Montreal offices with it clatter of typewriters and ringing of buzzers there was radiating all over Canada, with decision and clarity of purpose but an absence of any bedlam, a distribution of ration cards so vast as to stability the imagination—and that was on the scene.

As you know the No. 2 book was not mailed out, but you folks had to come and get it. Some of us just hate to put anything over on the administration vonished that. They realized also that Canadians do not have to be Gestapo'd into anything, and are awarded a measure of trust, as shouldn't they be, with a war on! If we want to play rummy in the back of a grocery store instead of office, the government doesn't mean John's profession to your downtown. Mr. Unwin's outfit wasn't a bit disturbed about Canadian's conscience reaction to this decision.

Distribution is Complex

They had to be sure that every town of 500 people had at least one distributing centre; that cities of 100,000 or more had offices located strategically to accommodate busy people, to avoid battle-necks, even going so far as to issue instructions that doors in the places decided on were conveniently located to avoid congestion. We wouldn't think of things like that out our way. Do you know I was even shown how instructions went out on how the tables were to be arranged to handle people quickly.

The administration, for instance, had to figure enough things as ration cards from ration book No. 1, which were handed in before you got a new one; and the green sheets for tea and coffee which were parted out from children's books. Each card bears a serial number, and no one is accounted for to avoid letting any unscrupulous person get their hands on them.

Volunteer Workers Deller Savers

Mr. Unwin told of the vast number of volunteer workers necessary to get the job over. Reports coming to his office, analyzed and briefly reviewed for his benefit, show that donations responded and saved the nation millions of dollars which can be converted to tanks, planes, guns and other instruments of war. The success of the whole scheme will be "unbelievable," he said. "The resourcefulness of Canadians and on the local work which everyone contributes." They rely on the local Ration Board as central headquarters of consumer rationing.

As he consider leaving, I felt they had evolved a system which should go delightfully combined with effective control.

I didn't think I had to bother them people with questions on the why and wherefore of rationing. The necessity is plain logic and doesn't take any undue reasoning.

The provision and collecting within the nation of Canada's wartime personal and commodities necessary to supply those needed abroad, I am make it from on the spot. If you or I want to criticize methods, that's a democratic privilege. So long as it you feed the urge. But at least you are getting a light of the background, I hope.

Ardrossan War Guild Donate to Red Cross

The Ardrossan War Services Guild met at the home of Mrs. Fred Reynolds on Wednesday, March 3rd. In spite of the rain, twenty members were present. The chair was occupied by the first vice-president, Mrs. Ernie Hanlon.

After the singing of "O Canada", the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. A. Gillies read the minutes which were approved by the members.

It was decided to donate $50 to the Red Cross, and to hold whist drives on the 16th inst, March 8th, to provide funds needed for the customary spring work of the Guild. Weather and roads permitting, whist will be held at the homes of Mrs. Jacques, Mrs. E. Hanlon, and Mrs. J. Friel.

Mrs. Fred Reynolds, work secretary, had cut sheets, rompers, and several pairs of seamen's socks ready for Edmonton Red Cross office. Mrs. Dorothy Parker presented a beautiful quilt made by Mrs. Parker and her sister Miss Winnie Mrs. Williams brought a patch-work top which she had pieced from patches provided by Mrs. Jacques. The two quilts made at the "bee" recently held at the home of Mrs. Mackay were given to the Red Cross. The members decided to hand the next quilts to the Legion.

Miss Jean Hanlon displayed a quilt made by the C.G.I.T. who report that their news letter to the boys in the services was ready for mailing. The girls have been preparing this letter on behalf of the Guild which consists of news of mailing, etc.

Members were pleased to have Mrs. C. H. Williams with them as they had missed her during the winter months. Seventeen members attendance. Mrs. Williams requested that Mrs. Fred Reynolds continue as secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Reynolds accepted the position, while Mrs. Williams agreed to be assistant.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Fred Reynolds served a substantial lunch, which would no doubt, help the members to keep through the raging blizzard.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Alexander on Wednesday, April 7th, at 2 p.m. If bad roads are impassable the meeting will be postponed until the 14th. It is hoped that all ticket-clubs and such will be in by that time, so that Mrs. McKinnon's quilt may be drawn for.

HOW TO FILL OUT YOUR APPLICATION FOR CANNING SUGAR

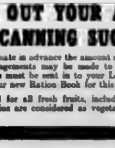
This year housewives must estimate in advance the amount of sugar required for canning and jam-making, so that arrangements may be made to provide and distribute the necessary supplies. Applications must be sent in to your Local Ration Board by April 15th. Use the application in your new Ration Book for this purpose.

Canning sugar will be allowed for all fresh fruits, including citron and wild fruits. Marrow, pumpkin, tomatoes and pumpkins are considered as vegetables and no canning sugar will be allowed for them.

CANNING

Allow ½ lb. of sugar for each quart amber.

Estimate the TOTAL number of quart sealers you plan to put up —then use the quick, practical method of allowing ½ lb. of sugar for each quart sealer. Don't try and decide exactly the number of each kind of fruit you plan to put up. Some fruits may be more plentiful than others. Base your estimates on the number of sealers you have on hand, what you put up last year, or what you think your needs will be this year.



Your completed application must be sent to your Local Ration Board by

JAM or JELLY MAKING

Allow 1½ lbs. of sugar for each quart of jam or jelly.

Most people use jars of various shapes and sizes Take a number of the jars you usually use and see how many cupfuls of water they hold. Four (4) cups make a quart In this way you will be able to estimate the number of quarts of jam or jelly your jars will hold Then allow 1½ lbs. of sugar per quart for your requirements. For example, for 8 quarts of jam or jelly, you will require 12 lbs. of sugar.

Estimates based on these methods are within the canning sugar ration, and the amounts are satisfactory for wartime canning and jam-making. Use them carefully and you will help the Department of Agriculture experimental kitchens.

IMPORTANT NOTE

The Dominion Department of Agriculture recommends canning fruit in preference to making jam or jelly because:

More fruit can be put up with less sugar and at less cost.

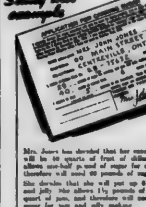
Canned fruit retains more of the vitamin value of the fresh fruit.

WHEN AND HOW CANNING SUGAR WILL BE MADE AVAILABLE

When your Local Ration Board has reviewed your application you will be provided with Canning Sugar Coupons in your personal canning sugar coupons. These coupons will entitle you to buy sugar, at any grocery store, at specified intervals. You do not have to buy all your sugar at once.

COMPLETE AND SEND IN YOUR APPLICATION BEFORE APRIL 15

Complete your application form as shown in the illustration and send it to your Local Ration Board not later than April 15th. Attach the application forms from the ration books of the other persons you will be feeding in your household. Do not write anything but the serial numbers of the coupons on these other forms. Simply copy the serial numbers from the front of their ration books on to their application forms—do not cut them or your own fully completed application.



Mrs. Jones has decided that her canning programme will be 40 quarts of fruit of different kinds. She allows one half a pound of sugar for each quart, and therefore will need 20 pounds of sugar for canning purposes.

She decides that she will put up 6 quarts of jam and jelly this allows 1½ pounds of sugar for each quart of jam, and therefore will need 9 pounds of sugar for her jam and jelly making.

She adds the two amounts 20 sugar together (20 + 9) and arrives the total (29 pounds) on her application, together with the number of persons in her household. She next writes down the family completed application form she attaches the application forms of the other persons in her household she is planning to feed. Only the individual serial numbers need be given on these accompanying application forms.

In estimating your canning and jam-making requirements, storage space should be carefully considered Four storage may cause spoilage and waste Canned fruit should be kept in a cool dry, dark place Don't use canned fruits on your table when fresh fruits are available Plan to use your home-canned fruits in the winter months only

Seed Treatment

Two problems are important at the time of year:

1. Is seed treatment necessary?
2. What is the best treatment?

Unfortunately, direct answers to these questions are impossible. We can diagnose of the second one fairly briefly, however. The following resolutions were agreed upon by plant pathologists from all three provinces at a meeting held in Olds, Alberta, last summer:

1. That the use of formaldehyde for the treatment of wheat and other hulless seeds be discouraged in every way possible.

2. That organic mercury dusts be recommended for the treatment of wheat, oats, barley and flax, and that treatment be at least 24 hours prior to seeding.

3. That if semi-dry dust is used at all, it should be limited to the treatment of special lots of smutty hulled oats.

Now for question 2. Local authorities in Alberta advise treatment for all cereal seeds.

In Manitoba, farmers are advised to treat all but new seed, using 1½ ounces of mercury dust per bushel for flax and ½ ounce for barley. Of course smutty wheat seed must be treated; but, in the absence of smut, we look after all cereal seeds.

In Saskatchewan we are told that "if seed is not known to be free from smut it should be treated." The same authority, Dr. R. C. Russel continues: "Organic silly, however, when the seed coats are badly cracked or a high percentage of the seeds carry a fungous parasite, which causes common root-rot, treatment with a mercurial dust may be beneficial." (Italics ours).

STRAIT IS THE GATE..
Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

Questions had just returned from visiting some of the relatives. I could see he was brooding over something so at the earliest spare hour I got him settled in his favorite chair and urged him to talk.

Q.: It's that young nephew of mine,—and his philosophy — that's worrying me.

I: You mean Jack, your brother Dan's boy?

Q.: Yes He was at Reg's when I was there He was always eager to help with everything that was happening on the farm, and Reg seemed quite willing to have him along even though the boy must often have been a nuisance and a worry.

I.: Was there an accident? Was Jack hurt?

Q.: No, it wasn't that. It was the boy's philosophy that got me.

I: Boys of twelve do not usually have anything that could be called a philosophy He must be older than his years.

Q.: Well; I'll give you an example. One day we were cutting wood with the bum-saw. I'd have been all for sending the boy away but Reg simply pointed out to Jack what was to be done, what must not be done, and where the risks and dangers lay. Then we went on sawing. After a few minutes he stopped the saw and, turning to Jack, said "Jack, I want you to listen this time". Then he stated ever again how you get along on friendly terms with a bum-saw.

We had been sawing for about half an hour when I saw Reg turn suddenly from his work, seize Jack by his clothes, turn him around, and with a quick blow from his knee send the boy sprawling face-down in a snow drift. I had to keep up with my end of the trees we were cutting so I could not get to Jack, but I was able to glance round occasionally and see what he was doing. After he got on his feet and had his face wiped dry, he stood waiting for a while, and then came and joined us in the job. Reg went on as if he hadn't noticed Jack's absence from his part.

I went up to bed with Jack that night. He was very tired, but as he undressed he talked. "I wish my Dad were like Uncle Reg. Instead of doing what Uncle Reg did, Dad would have yelled and screamed at me about using my axe and my brains, until I would probably have started yelling and swearing myself. And, then, if he did punish me he'd keep on for hours telling me what I was supposed to have learnt from the lesson he had taught me. But Uncle Reg acts fast; and when he's finished he's finished. I think that's a better way."

By this time Jack was in bed; and I was about to go when he called me back and asked, "Am I going to go you think I'll be able to kick as hard as Uncle Reg can?" I wanted to tell him that Reg used his knee and not his foot; but the boy was too sleepy for argument, so I said: "Yes, I am sure you will Jack."

I: That is a story to think about. Q.: It's not the story I'm thinking about. It's the boy. I can see no way either to get Jack away from his father or to get the father to be more intelligent.

I: Perhaps time is a third way. Encourage Jack to spend as much time as he can with his Uncle Reg and let him learn how to live with nature people, and then let him learn how to live with badly-developed people like father. Jack will have to live his life with both kinds. Perhaps he will be a better man for having the experience. It seems to me maturity includes knowing how to live with the immature.

Q.: No. I think a youngster of Jack's ability should be allowed to grow up with the kind of people who will challenge the best in him.

I: I could see Questions considered my remarks rather puerile so I left him there before the fireplace pondering his problem.

History of Our School

By Alfred Leroy

Since we spend five and one half hours in school each day it seems fitting that we should know a little about the history of our school. It is natural that a person would wish to know something of the background of the place to which he goes, willingly or unwillingly, with one purpose; to gain an education.

The earliest sign of any movement toward establishing a school district was made at a meeting held at Rose Nook, January 18th, 1887. A short time later school was taught in the original Presbyterian Church by Mrs. Ingles. The first school district was established nearly ten years later. A large one-roomed log building was built on the site of the present school. The teacher at that time was Mrs. Sweetapple, wife of Inspector Sweetapple of the R.N.W.M.P detachment here The school district included only the south side of the river and extended for five miles along the bank.

Approximately seven years later, in 1905 the first part of the present school was built by Bill and Jack Bowden, contractors. It was well built and still stands as the north wing of the present school The building then consisted of four rooms and a long hall, part of which is now the laboratory.

The next addition was made in 1913 when the south wing of the building was added. This now made a large seven room school, capable of accommodating a large number of pupils. The war and the not too prosperous years which followed it, allowed little chance for further development. The school, however, taught by diligent, competent teachers, turned out a large number of young people ready to take community responsibility and the burden of self-support on their shoulders.

Not long ago two rooms in the basement were converted into classrooms. One became known as "Shop". It contains a large assortment of tools and electrical appliances. Here students may learn the rudiments of wood-working and electricity. Shop is a High School option which is missed by very few students. The other section is the Home Economics classroom where another essential subject is taught. This classroom contains practically all the furnishings of a modern home. It is a place where girls of intermediate and High School learn valuable information on housekeeping; something which will infallibly prove useful in later years. Upstairs in the well equipped Physics and Chemistry laboratory which contains all the necessary chemicals and materials.

The Fort High School has a fine graduation record of which it may well be proud. Last year the Grade XI Year Book was published. It was a complete success largely due to the generous aid of "The Fort Record" and staff. This year a new venture is being attempted; namely the publication of the weekly issue of The Fort Record. If successful it will be another notch on the post of success.

The Fort has good reason to be proud of its school and certainly everyone who has gone to school here whether he is in a war plant, on a farm, at university or on some far-flung battlefield can say with pride, "I graduated at the Fort."

Feeding of Calves Discussed at Meeting

By Alice Galloway—Faye Johnson

A Calf Club meeting was held in the Fort Town Hall, Tuesday night, March 23. Mr. C. H. Galloway and Mr. Verd. Lawrence, leaders, and 14 members were present. The problem of certain calves which were not doing well was discussed. A film was shown illustrating the production of grain and other farm products. Mr. Miller gave a talk on the care of calves, their preparation for the fairs, cures of calf diseases and feeds needed. He also questioned the contestants who showed a considerable knowledge of the subject.

W.M.S. Meeting

By Norma Flintoff

The Women's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. L. O'Brien on Tuesday, March 16, at 3 o'clock. Members of the group participated in discussions on:

Community Fellowship
Stewardship
Supply work
Temperance

Mrs. L. O'Brien read a resume of an article by Mrs. Knight, secretary of the W.C.T.U.

Mrs. W. J. Foster led the discussion on Neighborliness. All Christian women can take steps to develop neighborliness. Many institutions have been established that isolate people of all nationalities. An example is the Church of all Nations in Toronto. These institutions have taken as a special work, interest in children. Special language churches help Outlanders to feel more at home Canadians too often feel that they do not want foreigners. It is therefore the duty of these institutions to prevent Juvenile delinquency. Most foreigners are democratic at heart and we say "We foreigners as friends for the kingdom sake". Church work must be strengthened to solve racial and tolerance problems.

The meeting closed with a prayer by each member present after which a delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

Strathcona M.D. No. 517 Election Results

By Irvin Thomas

On Saturday, March 27, elections were being held all over the new enlarged municipal district of Strathcona There are 5 councillors, but 3 had been elected by acclamation.

F. R. Haythorne—Division 2.
Helmut Schewe—Division 3.
Gordon W Moyer—Division 5.

There being more than one candidate nominated in each of divisions 1 and 4, it necessitated an election. Contrary to the system of voting that had prevailed the new system called for voting at large, i.e., the electors in the divisions where councillors had been returned by acclamation had the privilege to vote for councillors in the other two divisions.

Due to the bad storm during the night prior to election day, the total votes cast was rather low

While the Returning Officer, Mr. Mark Latham, will not make his official count until Friday next, returns from the various polls give the following results:

Division 1

R. H. M. Bailey	309
Theodore Lambert	309
Chas. H Williams	193
Division 4
R. Keith	664
James McGhee	163

School Shop Makes Pilot Plane Models

By Dean Roberts

In response to an urgent appeal from the R.C.A.F. that all wood-working school shops in the province have been making an effort to supply pilot models.

These are miniature duplicates of actual bombers and fighters now in use in all fighting fronts.

The boys of grades 7, 8, and 9, are putting excellent training in the use of scale models, drawings, and plans as each model has to be exact to 1/32 of an inch.

The models are used in the classroom by student pilots and on the range for practise sighting. As each model is highly magnified through the gunner's sight, it must be made accurately.

The classes have been organized on a large scale production plan. The plane construction begins at one end of the shop and finishes as a complete job at the other.

The boys are getting much more enthusiastic as they see the complete models hanging from the shop ceiling.

The first shipment, six in number, is to be registered in No. 1 Equipment Depot, Calgary, on July 3rd.

This model making gives the boys hand manipulation, free material to work with, and the knowledge that they are doing a little to assist "every boys' kid", the Royal Canadian Air Force.

These interested, can vote the first shipment of models in the window of Dawson's Drug Store.

Confirmation, The High School of the Church

By Rev. R. M. Bone

Before I start to explain why I send this topic for the Port High school issue of the Port Record, let me congratulate those who have fostered the publishing of this unique venue. Education, today, seeks to find itself up with life, as the student has to face it. It is not simply a matter of cramming a head full of information into the minds of the pupils, but, rather, further equip them to take their place in life as young men and women. And, it is obnoxious for the whole of the high school to seek to understand the trials and tribulations of the head editor, by taking the responsibility of gathering the news, views and advertisements that are to be found in a town like ours.

Ode to the topic in hand. Confirmation. What is it? Is it merely the passing of the church, as an organization? Only partly so. For the confirmation exercises that terminate the "high school" period of the church's training of the young? Again, only partly so. Is a "confirmed person one who has "passed all the examinations" of christian knowledge, and now knows all about, living as a Christian? And once again, only partly so. For confirmation is, or my topic would suggest, like the high school of secular education. A graduate from high school is one who has passed his examinations; he is entitled to join the ranks of business or higher education; but graduation does not mean that he knows all about business and "earning" life. In this realm of knowledge, he has qualified to begin.

It is the same with those who are to be shortly confirmed in our church. At their confirmation, it is certified that they have learnt the required knowledge set forth for church membership. At confirmation "they" accept the responsibilities of a "graduate" christian. But "it is not done, it has only begun" with them. They must now face life having made a public profession of belief in Jesus Christ and a willingness to serve Him, to the end. But, you will say, this is easier said than done. This is where my comparison with high school and confirmation ends. The Christian boy or girl who promises to serve Christ for the rest of his days, does so with the definite understanding that such a task is absolutely impossible without the help of God, the Holy Spirit. Thus, confirmation is not only a graduation into adult life and a public profession of Christianity, but it is a time when young people seek "the strength" to live the Christian life.

This comparison and explanation of confirmation is only not given as such; but is made in the hope of the high school issue of the Port Record. On Palm Sunday morning, April 18th, the Bishop of the Diocese of Edmonton, The Rt. Rev. W. F. Barfoot, D.D., will administer the rite of confirmation to 4 high school students, Masters Hall, Wilfred Davis, Jack Stannard and Charles Reay. May I add that this historic service is not only a congregational affair, but is open to who care to attend.

Partridge Hill News

The Y.P.S. met at the home of Mr. and Mr. R. R. Lawrence on Wednesday evening, March 24. The young people need various ways of transportation. Some going by horse back, stone-boat, while others managed to get there by car One car, however, could not be persuaded to climb a slippery hill, so the minister and his wife were unable to get to the meeting.

The Young People are adopting the idea of once a month writing to the boys serving with the forces. They are collecting news for 15 letters which will be typed by Rev. H. Wiggfield. We know the boys will be glad to get this news letter.

Cpl. Hazel Lawrence of Claresholm was home for a short week-end, of rubble; across it is a plank bar-of rubble; across it is a plank bar-row, wheel and drifted reads somewhat spoiled her visit.

Miss Nellie Van Deelen of Ypres was a guest at the Manse over the week-end

Last Sunday, Mr. Tom Whitson took snapshots of the congregation as they came out of church. These pictures when finished will be sent to Brier, somewhere in Germany.

Rev. and Mrs. H. Wiggfield, Miss Van Deelen and Miss Rhoda Lawrence attended the concert put on by the Y.P.S. of Lamont on Friday evening The party report a good show.

We note today the passing of Mr. J. R. Corcoran of Brookville on Monday. Mrs. Corcoran was an old time in this district having lived here some 40 years ago, on the farm now owned by Mr. F. Kulak. To her husband and family on behalf of this paper we extend our sympathy in their bereavement.

Mrs. H. Wiggfield will entertain the W.A. and War Series Guild at her home on Thursday.

Our Labor Problem

By Elmer Thomas

THE labor shortage concerning the Prairie Provinces, rather more than the rest of Canada, is coming to an alarming stage. Due to near-subsistence and lack of planning, some of the more important industries—put ones which do not aid directly the war effort—have become almost wholly exhausted of their man-power. This is a situation which must be remedied immediately and maintained on an equal scale with the prevailing Selective Service Plans.

Luckily the problem is not without a solution. Several promising suggestions have already been made. For instance, military conscription of agriculturists might be postponed, and the farm-workers already in uniform could be sent back. It may seem unfair to the boys who must take this compulsory training, but then, something has to be done. Someone had the bright idea of using Italian war prisoners as laborers, on farms. This too seems very helpful, but there are a few obstacles which might hinder the operation of such a scheme. First, this is a large and thinly populated country and there would be many chances of escape. Second, their methods of harvesting differ from ours and it would be necessary to teach them first. Then too, it would also be exceedingly difficult to converse with them. Imagine having to tag along with your helper all day to show him what you want him to be done.

If the worst comes to the worst, there is still another plan which could be put into operation, and that is to close our schools for a longer period of the year in order to allow students to assist in the harvesting. This too has its drawbacks. Many farmers refuse to take boys from city schools because they find that they know very little about harvesting. This was shown when an army of several thousand enthusiastic young men was sent from the East last fall. I do not wish to make fun of them, but it is true that the majority were unable to handle horses. Then they were a great disappointment. A question which still lingers in my mind, is why our universities here in the West were closed for a short period instead of sending out a flock of Easterners and naming all that expense? They at least know our methods of harvesting, even though the palms of their hands might become scarred by juicy blisters. (Where don't?).

I feel quite certain that if our schools were closed, any three or four months of the year—our month in spring and two in fall, that a great burden would be taken off the farmer's shoulders. You may argue that it will greatly affect your children's education, but then what is that when there is a war on. Remember, the farmer is the man you rely upon for your milk, butter and eggs. He is the fellow who supplies you with bacon, bread and keeps you living. So why not get out and give him all the help possible. What do you think? How about it Canada?

Discipline

By S. W. Hooper

It is fitting that the subject, "Discipline", should be discussed in this the school issue of the Port Record. What is the fundamental aim in discipline? To what extent do our methods harmonize with these aims? We were fortunate in being able to secure the following article, a condemnation of a sermon delivered recently by Rev. E. H. Birdsall. It merits careful study by parents and teachers.

A School in England has a motto that reads (so I am told) something like this: "We must learn to accept discipline from others. We must learn to discipline ourselves. We must learn to discipline others."

Let us think about that motto.

FIRST: We must learn to accept discipline from others. In the brief glimpses we have of Jesus' early life portrayed in more interesting than the statement that he was 'subject unto' Mary and Joseph. Apparently in that early home he learned how to adjust self, and work and play, and pass for the good of the family group. Some children resent the discipline exerted by older members of the family and hence do not experience the satisfactions that come with being active members of a group achieving group values. These often mutter to themselves: "Just wait until I get on my own, and then I'll . . . .". The fact is, however, we never arrive at that point where we are "on our own". As long as we live we will have demands made upon us by those who have a right to make those demands. If in youth we have learned how to accept that discipline gracefully we will be able to 'measure up'.

SECOND: We must learn to discipline ourselves, or to 'possess ourselves'. Some people, instead of possessing themselves, are possessed by appetites, emotions, habits of body, habits of mind, habits of habits, fear of people, fear of the past, fear of the future,—the list could be very long. With most of us it takes many years to learn the art of possessing self fully. Jesus' opinion seems to have been that it cannot be achieved directly but only indirectly as a by-product of being possessed by God.

THIRD: We must learn to discipline others. The eagerness of most of us to do this does not indicate that we know what it is or we are trying to do, or that we do it well. What is the goal in disciplining others? Is it not that they shall learn how to discipline themselves? Then every form of bullying is useless; also every act or word growing out of bad temper. We must beware lest what we think is discipline of others is really only bluster to cover up our own lack of self-control. Too often it is true that bad temper is handed on like a curse from one generation to an other. A child beaten down by a parent's bad temper often becomes a bully himself because he has never experienced any other way of influencing people. Only he who is in possession of himself can provide any useful discipline of others.

It is required of a mature person that he has accepted these three "musts", and continues to grow in his ability to fulfill them. He continues to improve in the grace with which he accepts discipline from those who have a right to make demands upon him; he increases in self-mastery, and he grows in the understanding and skill necessary to discipline others in ways which will bring out self-discipline in them."

Final Examinations

By Gloucester Dewies

EVER since the importance of a good education presented itself to me, I have worked toward one goal—to get myself through Grade XII, for it is the gateway to bigger things. However, there has been one fear to mar the thoughts; I have entertained in this respect. The hated Grade XII examination looms in the near future as the only wall between me and the fulfilment of my ambition. To myself and most other students, this wall, at times, seems insurmountable and impenetrable. What assurance have we that we will interpret questions correctly? We may know our texts well and have knowledge of certain theoretical schemes in June may rob of the chance to attain our desire Time, for reasons beyond control, some find a wasted year on their hands—a year for which one is unable to obtain credit.

Our final examinations are unjust to the hard-workers. Any average person can cram the night before the fatal day and manage to get through with fairly good marks. On the other hand, the person who has worked diligently all year, who has proven his worth to his teachers, and who has qualified hard, is rated with the slacker in after years. His diploma doesn't show his probable employer that he should be rated above Jimmy Idler. Personal, Jehovy Worker is often passed by Johnny deserves something better for his efforts.

Examinations are compiled by men of superior intellect. Is a student's scope supposed to include their knowledge and experience? It would seem so if one can judge by the examination papers issued in past years.

So far our educational institutions seem to have remained deaf to the cry of the student. The future citizens aren't complaining that they don't like the education they receive. In fact, most will admit that there is no system better. They are, however, asking to be allowed to prove themselves on their year's work and not one night's cramming.

Helicopter

By Jack McLean

WE, the people of the Twentieth Century have seen many new and radical inventions. Since the out-break of war in 1939, the geniuses of our nations have really gone to work. Perhaps the most startling and significant invention is that of the "Skyway Flivver". Ever since the rumor started spreading in 1932 that two bicycle mechanics from Dayton, Ohio, had invented a flying machines, the man on the street has been envisioning the miraculous day when he could go hopping off to work every morning in his own feed-proof little aeroplane. The dream suffered a temporary setback when Hitler soared the world into huge plane production for war rather than for pleasure.

But in Stratford, Conn., Igor Sikorsky, the Russian-born inventor was making drastic steps towards perfecting his baby helicopter. The "Skyway Flivver" weighs 1500 lbs, is 27 feet long and when in mass production will cost the same as a medium priced car. It operates on a 90-H.P. air-cooled Franklin engine, which is geared directly to the three bladed main rotor. The plane has a speed of eighty miles an hour and gets fifteen miles to the gallon.

Quite possibly many of you have never seen a Helicopter or a picture of one. It resembles quite closely the Autogyro, but apparently it is much superior to this original craft. The plane has no wings and no tail. Mounted directly on top are its wings and propeller, called rotors. They have three tissued mail 36 feet in length. On the tail they have a rotor and one half foot propeller. The tail propeller is used for steering the craft. The Helicopter rises and descends vertically without running space. It flies forward or backward. It skims to either side, can bounce on the air, spin like a top on its vertical axis, or hover motionless over a definitely spot. The plane went stall. If the motor fails, the craft windmills to the ground, slowly. It can stop more quickly than a car. At a speed of 50 miles an hour it can come to a stop in one hundred feet, an auto needs at least one hundred and ten feet. The Helicopter can be fitted out either for ground or sea work. The Amphibian model is equipped with large rubber pontoons and with these pontoons, it can also land on good old terra-firma. The large rotors can be folded up and the planes can be stored side by side on the deck of a ship taking very little room because they have no wings or tails.

The inventor of this novel craft, 34 year old Igor Sikorsky began experiments with the helicopter in 1938. He is best known for his four-motored long range flying boat V.S.-44.

We have discussed quite fully the Helicopter and its peacetime possibilities, but it has a still greater use, "Wartime Flying". The U.S. Army has adopted the Helicopter for use in:

1. Liaison and message work behind the lines.
2. Bringing in and removing persons from dangerous or rumbling crews of bombers crashed in inaccessible places

It has still greater a use. The Allied War office can now consult on Germany Axis Buying in case sub-submarine warfare is growing every day and is rapidly becoming our greatest menace. The fact that the Helicopter could operate from any ship deck large enough to accommodate its bulk, opens up further vital possibilities. Proponents of the Helicopter point out that a convoy of merchant ships carrying its own complement of helicopters could patrol the water for miles around the convoy and by the use of bombs, depth charges or special torpedoes (now being developed) hover over and destroy all subs that come anywhere near the convoy.

The Helicopter is very definitely designed to play an important role in our winning of the war.

The Battle of the Mareth Line

By Jack McLean

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, leader of the British 8th Army, whose forces are chasing Rommel of's Afrika Korps in Tunisia.

On March 20th, General B. L. Montgomery and his veteran 8th Army broke their first attack on the heavily fortified German Mareth Line. It was thus impossible to break through here, and completely bottle up Gen. Rommel's Afrika Korps. If this attempt had been successful, the African campaign would have been over. But Gen. Rommel put up fierce counter attacks, and drove the British back some two or three miles. This enabled him to organize his forces and offer stiff resistance to the Allied offensive. But today, nine days after the first thrust, the British have finally succeeded in breaking through the line and they are now forcing tory for the Allies, and it may well Gen. Lamoureux News

By Augustine Lamoureux

Lost March 31, Lamoureux held a card party in the Community Hall. Prizes were won and a goodly number gathered. Prizes were given the winners to be followed by lunch and a dance. A short talk was given by Mr. P. A. Moret in aid of the Red Cross, after which a collection was made. Mr. Moret and Mr. W A Graham reported that they were very pleased with the donations accumulated last night.

News has been received that St. Chrisostom had been closed down due to the lack of a teacher.

St. Eugene district was in the same condition until recently, but it has been reported that Mrs. Goddard will take over the position as teacher Road conditions in the Lamoureux district are terrible. Prior to last Monday roads were to bad enough condition, but recent snow storms have blocked all roads, not to mention the river road which has about a foot of water along the edges.

Mr. A. Bebbel is home after being up north doing some trucking. He is expected to be going back after the roads dry up.

Mr. W. Coupe returned this week to the north to continue trucking.

Home Economics Class

By Gwen Gunn Jean O'Brien

The Home Economics room has seen many improvements during the past year The walls have been painted a bright cream with matching tables and cupboards. The windows have been newly curtained and the dusty cement floor has been covered with linoleum

To add to this, our class has been blessed with two boys who not only turn out excellent waffles but are general handimen when it comes to sprung cupboard doors and broken oven handles.

The pleasant aroma of our apple dumplings, chocolate cake and coffee, toasted cheese sandwiches and stew, must have reached the upper rooms of the school for four o'clock saw those unfortunate souls who aren't able to participate in our afternoon treats, wandering in for a snack.

Not only is our cooking the envy of the other classes but you should see some of the sewing our busy seamstresses have turned out We have quite a display of shirts, jackets, blouses, dresses, cushion tops, knitting and embroidery.

All these projects show the progress being made in the Home Economics class this year.

A Brief History of the M.D. of Clover Bar, No. 517

By D. S.

The years 1914 and 1915 were unevenful from the standpoint of rural municipal government. This is borne out by the fact that it is recorded that meetings during this period lasted from two to two and a half hours. About one fourth of the time that is required today—1943.

During this period the District witnessed the steadily increasing use of the "horse-less" buggy by rural residents. While it helped to solve the farmer's transportation problem it brought new problems to municipal councils—the demand for better roads so that Mr Farmer could whiz by town without knowing his next door neighbour. Pressed on all sides for better roads the Council in company with other councils turned to the Provincial Government for assistance by demanding that it turn over to the rural councils part of the taxes collected on automobiles in view of the fact that a large part of those taxes was then contributed by farmers. This plea was made in 1914. It is still being made. A rather interesting, and somewhat humourous, item is recorded in the minutes about this time when it is noted that a wealthy resident went in complaining about the holes in the road near his residence. The Secretary was instructed to reply and advise him that the small holes could be fixed but the larges ones were too big a job for the the council to undertake.

In 1918 another milestone was reached in Local Self Government, for it was in this year that the first complete Municipal District Act was passed, and which, through its provisions, captured by the Municipal District of Clover Bar, No. 517". When the Council was asked by the Government to suggest a name for the new district which was to replace the old L.I.D. 517, "Clover Bar" was the unanimous choice. It is noted, however, that before sufficient signatures could be obtained from the residents to a petition that was appropriately numbered 517 to satisfy the Government would proceed with the re-organization it was found necessary to hold public meetings throughout the District to inform the ratepayers on the proposed change. With the change there came a new council, Andy Gillies, Pete Hecke (reeve), A. Stetson, I. S. Pomeroy and Rudolph Berg.

With the change there came a far better roads for automobile traffic the Council was now compelled to turn to better road building machinery other then the old slip scraper. and it really stepped out by buying a second hand grader from the City of Edmonton for $138.00 and two road drags for $36.00 each. Even the Town of Fort Saskatchewan residents took an interest in these days in the matter of better roads in their adjacent district for the Fort Saskatchewan Automobile Club approached the Council the year 1918, and agreed to make a cash grant of $420.00 towards improving the main roads to the East and South. The Club skipped rather badly though, later in the year, when the work was apparently done, it advised that it regretted that it had no funds to grant to $1500. The year 1918 also saw the passing of the first by-law to control stock running at large. Acting as a Local Board of Health the Council was called on to play an important part in the attempt to combat the ravages of the influenza epidemic A temporary hospital was set up at Josephburg under the management and control of local residents whose valuable assistance was officially recognized by the Council

By 1919, due doubtless to the increased cost of living, brought about by the World Conflict that had just been brought to a close elsewhere, municipal purposes had now increased to eight cents per acre The results of the disastrous crop experienced in July, 1918, the Council was, for the first time, called on to furnish seed grain to farmers in the district A "Good Roads Minded" resident attended one of the meetings to protest against the high cost of road work was being done, and suggested, as a more efficient method, the employment of regular road gangs. His suggestion proved to be a bonehold for the records note that the Council promptly ruled him out of order by the Chairman and the meeting proceeded merrily on its way 1919 was the year in which weed inspectors were appointed for the first time The incumbents were Harry H. Eyman, ...

In April, 1920, the present incumbent of the secretary-ship was appointed as assistant to Mr. Jackman. To receive the senior appointment a year later when Mr. Jackman resigned. An office was also opened in the Fort at the same time. The first big road grader was purchased this year, a J.D. Adams "Road King" at a cost of $1151.00, which machine is still in service. With the passing of the Tax Recovery Act in the province in which gave a council the right to offer for public sale any property in arrears for taxes, the District held its first tax sale that year. The sale lasted for three days, with Messrs. Walker & Fraser as auctioneers. What a shock some of the well known residents had when they heard that their farms had been sold to Mr. So-and-So for several hundred dollars. One man frankly admitted, that he had with-held payment of his taxes deliberately in the hope that he could force the council to do some work on his road, but it turned him to no good purpose, he had to pay up, plus ten per cent commission to the purchaser before he could redeem his land.

In place of the free distribution of gopher poison that had been practised for several years, in 1921, a policy of paying a bounty of three cents for gopher tails was tried out. This was only carried on for a year or two when it was discovered that the "gopher hunters" were not only catching the pests, cutting off their tails and not letting them go in the hope that they would grow another one, but were actually doing a flourishing trade in selling gopher tails from other districts to the District. Another attempt to control the gopher menace was made in 1926 when the Council undertook the work of cancelling numerous subdivisions that had been placed on the real estate market during the halcyon days of 1911 and 1912, when it was then predicted that Edmonton was going to be a dangerous rival in regard to population to that of New York The unbridled policy of the days in allowing anyone to sub-divide large areas into lots and then through deliberate falsehoods and fraud pass on an uninformed public to a block mark as the subdivisions of the West. Hundreds of letters have been received instancing how the writers were duped by false photographs, showing the purchaser to be near the centre of the City and then buying lots in some elsewhere, possibly in a slough or on a ravine. The prospectus of one of these subdivisions stated that the property was in sight of the street car line, so it was, but across from the other side of the Saskatchewan River.

To Councillor Peters goes the credit of undertaking the first graveling project in the District when in 1924 he graveled the two mile stretch passed Yorkville school. The largest undertaking her attempted to this project was made this year when the sum of $1000.00 was voted to improve Fulton's Hill just outside the District of Strathcona, No. 517, the order to become effective in that regard on the 1st day of March, 1943. On the 5th February, 1943, the Council, its members, C. H. Williams, E. Keith Wilson, C.P.R. Wellington Strathcona Branch (reeve), H. B. Peters, G. W. Meyer and A. Unterschutz, held its valedictory meeting to clean up unfinished business, for at midnight the 28th February, 1943, the District would officially cease to be known as the Municipal District of Clover Bar, No. 517.

Farm Recession

By Chet Chesbook

On Thursday, March 11th, the school was honored by having as their guests Rev. Mr. E. H. Birdsall, Mr. F. Galloway, Mr. M. Stetson and Mr. A. B. King. Rev. Birdsall as chairman for the convention. Prior to the discussion a list of questions was prepared by Mr. Galloway and presented to the speakers. The topic was mainly concerned with farming pre-and-post-war. The first question being: What were the main problems facing the agricultural industry in the pre-war years? Mr. Galloway opened the discussions by outlining a few of the hardships which faced the farmer. They were namely: long hours of work without vacation, also cultural and remote disadvantages. Mr. Stetson joined the discussion with other views, these being: 1. Farmers sold their products on a wholesale buy on a retail basis; 2. Lack of bargaining power; 3. Lack of organization; 4. Wheeping Crisis Embargo. Mr. King was of the opinion that trade—barriers were a major handicap.

The second question dealt with present problems arising from the war. The main difficulties cited were: In ability to obtain help, lack of machinery and repairs and no wheat market. We quote Mr Galloway as saying "In a good thing the farmer has been educated to punishment so he has a lot to bear now."

Last but not least, post-war problems were discussed. The conclusion reached by our opinion makers a drastic change in the farm home as well as in the fields.

After the discussion, Elmer Thomas, on behalf of the teachers and pupils present, thanked the gentlemen for offering their valuable time on a discussion of such vital importance to all.

ENDORSEMENT

By Wylie Davies

Little I ask, my wants are few
I only wish a school canvas now,
One thats short and sweet will do
With no Chem. to rack my brain
But lots of Social Studies—thats my aim.
Many spares would dot my course
And no Physics to make me worse
Of all my discontent and sorrow;
That would be ended if they'd borrow
This my canvas.
Reasons there would be many
And all grammarians would just rub my fat cheeks of story books indeed
Those being a reason of much comment.

On Monday night there was the regular monthly showing of National Film Board pictures at the school house. The films, from an educational point of view as well as from an aesthetic standpoint, are decidedly good and Mr. Brown of the Extension Dept. is to be congratulated upon his well-balanced programme. The next showing is billed for April 26, time 8.30 p.m.

The Reader Board has been closed since Monday owing to the fact that the principal contracted "flu. Most of the people have practised this form of abstemiousness and possibly their example proved contagious. We trust that this will come to a full stop now and everyone will get on with his job.

Dr Adamson of the Health Unit paid a routine visit to the school on Wednesday. Dear "Doc" he is busier now than over three days with two large Divisions in place of one to administer. This does not accord his style a little bit and his cheery smile is as ready as ever to function. He appears in a suitably thrive on the treatment he is forced to undergo. We were indeed fortunate that this worthy was flusted under so able a captain.

We were all deeply hurt to learn that Muskoka, Ontario, has had the temerity to claim fifteen feet of snow fall as its portion this winter whereas we were modestly laying claim to a bare fourteen feet, eleven and a half inches, and the latter I had yet personally have shovelled from over our front yard to date. Even at that we really must get up and get busy for the sake of one half inch, though we fondly admit the competition is strong. We abstain even from requisitioning an affidavit from Muskoka that their claim is authentic. It will not surprise us in the least that Muskoka is boasting that it has more water to spare over its hatchwaye when Spring thaw flings its hosts of dead grit and bear the taunt in silence.

The Redwood Church was not favored by the presence of any of its members from Fort and on Sunday 5th. Two bold spirits made the attempt and reached the ridge on which the school stands from which they could see Church spire beckoning to them. The prospect of half a mile of continuous digging discouraged them and they made a view it at closer range and both parties returned whence they came. Those finding their way to the school and one which constantly travelled by dint wheeled trucks hauling sand for the use of the Red Shed and by the state of the average low grade road!

Those who expected a Gallup Poll in the shape of Mendelssohn's Lenten tors were doomed to disappointment. Due to gas restrictions, unfavorable weather conditions and the fact that "The Old Gray Mare, she ain't what she used to be", the Gallup Poll degenerated into a "Walk or Star-at-Home Poll. Whether this is of sufficient on to the wishes of our burgesses is a moot point.

World of Wheat

B. G. L. Bronge

WHEAT RISES IN PRICE

In eighteen days wheat has risen 9 cents a bushel. Many are wondering why An answer was given by the Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, in the House of Commons on March 9th. He said as follows:—

"There has been an unexpected and very much appreciated rise in the price of wheat on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Over the past few days the price has advanced several cents, this being caused by purchases of our wheat in the United States."

People in the United States, no doubt, are purchasing Canadian wheat first because the United States's own surplus of wheat and other grains is disappearing at an astonishing rate; and secondly, because of the great difference in the price of wheat—$1.46 at Chicago and 70 cents the official price at Winnipeg.

Ever since the wartod I have steadfastly maintained that wheat, being the only surplus foodstuff in the world, was a most valuable commodity, and I have always thought that sooner or later our surplus of wheat would be needed. Incidentally the rise in prices have the great value to the farmer of Winnipeg's open "Futures" market for wheat that market this rise, which is now being enjoyed by farmers, could not have been registered

Views on Post War Reconstruction

In view of the fact that post-war reconstruction is one of the major problems discussed in these times, we have obtained the views of prominent citizens of our town who have allowed us to quote them as follows on this question:

Mr. A. H. Gibbons, K.C., Barrister—As the headline indicates, these are merely suggestions from one member of the community of ideas which might be followed with some advantage in a discussion about post-war planning for Fort Saskatchewan. I have disregarded ideas which are purely fanciful, more vague possibilities, and have confined myself to suggestions which seem to me to be immediate practical possibilities.

It might be said that the first reason for there being a town here is that it is the business and social centre for the community. Naturally then the first question is: What can be done to make it and maintain it as the point where the largest possible share of the business of district is done? Naturally the answer is that lies mainly with the individual business men, and will depend on their alertness and resourcefulness in presenting the customer with chances of buying and selling here to the best advantage; but there are also ideas which must be explored and developed by the business men as a body, and for these reasons I do not be wild to have some such organization a Business Men's Association or Board of Trade, meeting regularly and acting as a clearing house for ideas as well as a supervisor to carry out such projects as are adopted. The immediate question might cover such plans as might be laid to develop it as the social centre of the district. These would enlist the aid of all the citizens, men, women and children, and would be aimed at promoting the comfort and pleasure of all who come to the town with the general idea of making it a place of which it would be the pleasure to visit, or to transact business, or where community gatherings might be arranged;—and where people might plan to live when they retire.

This brings up my second suggestion. The site of the town has great natural advantages for development as a residential centre. It is in short the most attractive portion of the Saskatchewan valley that I know. It is only twenty miles from Edmonton, a city which seems destined to grow to a considerable size. Almost certainly there will be a paved highway all the way to Edmonton very soon. The "lay of the land" is ideal for townsite purposes, and the soil is good for gardening. What could be more to you for furthering this post-war development? I will suggest three things:

CATTLE

First, that plans be considered for the provision of water, sewer, light and power facilities as soon as the release of materials and labour after the war make such work possible. A good deal of preliminary work must be done and can be done now. Second, that these plans include a re-survey of the townsite with a view to make the most of its situation, provide park areas and prevent the waste or destruction of trees. Would it not be well at the same time to devote some thought to a building by-law? I am sure one will be needed and you cannot just draw things like that out of a hat. For my third suggestion I was going to put on the removal of buildings which are unsightly, or create a fire hazard, but perhaps the building by-law will take care of that; so I will suggest instead that you consider what might be done to start a local lending library and reading room, with a member ship for rainy days and stormy nights.

Rev. E. H. Birdsall, Minister—I've been dreaming of a new school building. It is to be up-to-the-minute in design and equipment, of course, and is to be used differently, too. No one will ever graduate from it, for the member of the community will ever cease to be a student in it. There women will test the latest ideas in household management; farmers will work out the most scientific methods of using their soils; and all will avail themselves of the means to a course of entering into the whole human heritage of goodness, truth and beauty. Not only will their heritage become alive, but they will become alive to the vibrant world-wide problems and take part in the emerging future. That is the ideal of the new school for which I'd like to see The first planned. Questions, who has been reading this over my shoulder has just remarked, with withering sarcasm, that I think we need a new river!", but I have silenced him (I hope) by asking: "Which came first: the hen or the egg?"

Mr. W. A. Graham, Town Secretary—Some of the projects which might well be inaugurated in post war reconstruction as applied to the town of Fort Saskatchewan include such improvements as the installation of Water and Sewage. This is where it was planned that the rezoning of the outlying residences into a more concentrated area where the advantages of the installations would be more readily accessible and the costs of installation of the system greatly reduced. There would also be the advantage of lower costs and less maintenance together with reduced street lighting, etc.

The installation of natural gas might also be a utility that could be very easily installed from the fact that the Pipe Line would be within of the gas line coming from the Viking field, and running into the City of Edmonton.

The means of light and power distribution should be massively studied and modernized in which case the present distribution system of wires and poles could well be removed to the less unsightly and beautifying of the streets with boulevards and trees.

Mr. W. S. Hooper, Principal—"Prime Minister Churchill, in his broadcast of Monday night, spoke of a Post War plan of Reconstruction in Britain after the war. Private Enterprise and Government Enterprise are to march together to make for full production and full employment. Speeches by our leaders indicate that we will have extensive government enterprise on this continent as well.

A sentence or two from Bruce Hutchings's article in the current Maclean's intrigues me "Money can be spent to create permanent values, as morally spent as a shot in the arm to provide temporary work. Spending must be used, but used with care and with advance planning". We must see to it that both private enterprise and government spending do work for the creation of permanent values—that is for the creation of better living conditions.

Prime Minister King recently called upon communities such as this to lay plans for the rehabilitation of the boys and girls now serving in the armed forces and in war industries.

Will men and machines be idle in Canada,—or will Fort Saskatchewan have an extensive reburning scheme? Will men and machines be idle, or will we have a steam system? Will we have a gas heating system? New churches? A new school? A large gymnasium and swimming pool? A persevering plant to provide food cheaply and to provide steady employment? Or will men and machines be idle?

The choice is ours to make?"

Post War Recreation

By Jean O'Brien

In planning for post war years much time must be spent on the program of recreation to be followed by both young and old. An appreciation of the value of recreation is growing continually. Individuals of every age requires normal opportunities for a wholesome leisure-time occupation. When three wholesome opportunities are not available the temptation increases for a cheap and harmful past-time getting a hold on the life of the individual and on the community. Should not then, the school the church and every organization interested in human welfare, together and make it possible for every good recreation available for everyone?

History has shown us that in Indian communities, men, women and children working long hours in dingy factories have not developed as they could have done, for the lack of proper recreation that is so vital in their everyday life. The importance of good clean fun, especially for children and young people is as necessary as the food we eat.

Recreation to one individual may not necessarily be such to another. It could be classed as that which brings enjoyment and a happy days work. Anything that relieves the stress and strain of the mind and body is recreation.

It is very necessary that activities be well planned especially for those entering the teen-age group. This is the time when the game begins to develop. An interesting definition of the word "game" was brought to my attention recently. It was stated that "Games are spontaneous combinations of boys coming together to get a thrill".

An active boy who can find no better enjoyment will rush to find it in his gang. He may succeed in the form of entertainment by making new friends but without the help of some organization to guide him into a more interesting form of activity it is possible that he will remain in the gang and be a menace to society even in adult age.

Let us then, everyone of us put some time and thought on the subject of planned recreation for "Recreation is a dynamic force waiting to take its place in the betterment of our everyday life."

Brownies

By Lois Wilson

The Brownies met in the basement of the Fort Community Hall, every Monday at 4 o'clock. On March 22, Brownies Joan Frankham, Alice Neale, Margaret Moore, and Shirley Giggs were given their Brownie pins. Three year service stars and pins were presented to Margery and Maureen Stannard. Recently Pauline Lamoureux was made a Second.

During the absence of the pack leader, Bertha Latour, her sister Carmelle played "God Save the King", which the Brownies now sing after each meeting.

Brownies also have been doing their share in warwork. They are present at all Red Cross meetings, running errands and knitting blocks for afgans. They are also on the lookout for salvage so if you have any salvage at home, get in touch with some member of this organization.

One of the greatest drawbacks in the school curriculum has been the lack of practical experience. During the last decade this has become evident, and new teachers and trustees alike recognize the necessity of experience as an aid to learning, and a stimulant to ambition.

With the kind permission and able assistance of Mr. Neale the school has passed another milestone on the road to knowledge. We wish to thank him most heartily for this enjoyable experience that he has so willingly given us.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Mr. E. T. Flintoff, who passed away March 31st, 1941.

There is someone who misses you sadly,
And finds the time long since you went,
There is someone who thinks of you always,
And tries to be brave and content.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent the voice we loved to hear;
We miss you, we miss you every day,
The best are always the first to die.
—Ever remembered by loving Wife and Family.

O'HANLON—BUTLER

A Canadian Pacific Airlines stewardess who has spent more than 1,000 hours in the air and has travelled the equivalent distance of 12 times around the world, came down to earth Thursday to exchange marriage vows with an R.C.A.F. Flying Officer at a ceremony and reception at the home of the groom's mother. Jewell Lucille Butler, who served as stewardess on the route between Winnipeg and the Pacific coast, is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Butler, and her many friends in the Fort will join in wishing her the best are always the first to die.

The bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Butler of Fort Saskatchewan, was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Hugo Butler. She was attended by Miss Kae Rose. L.A.C. Joseph O'Hanlon, R.C.A.F., was his brother's best man and Capt. Edward Foy proposed the toast to the bride. Miss Stewart played the wedding music.

For the ceremony the bride was dressed in a two-piece model of turquoise blue wool crepe. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses, and chose to match the blooms in her colonial bouquet.

Leaving for Victoria, where they will be guests at the Empress hotel prior to taking up residence at Coal Harbor, B.C., the bride wore a fox-collared topcoat of honey beige wool. Her heart-shaped beige straw hat was chosen of with roses.

Dusty pink was worn by Miss Rose, whose flowers were freesia's and pink roses.

'And goes out like a lamb' so says the old dictum! Well if that is a sample of 1943 lamb, we confess our tooth would not care to undertake to masticate it. Maybe it is Persian lamb guaranteed to retain its curl and to keep you and me curled up before the stove. Again it may be a synthetic product made necessary by war restrictions and shortage of farm labour. Are we justified in blaming our Government for the lapse?

Hearty congratulations to the Fort High School for its banner edition of the Record! It is a real credit to you and we shall have no qualms whatever about granting our Editor a brief "leave of absence" once in awhile. We will give him credit for being a first-class coach and shall not hesitate to recommend that Selective Service employ him in some such capacity. Might we suggest that by way of practical experience in life situations, the High School continues its studies by undertaking similar duties in connection with—say, the Provincial Goal, the Grain Buyers, or Purveyors of food to the public. Such stunts might prove of inestimable worth to Business.

'And shame it were .....
'To rust unburnished, not to shine in use.'

and again

'For all experience is an arch wherein through
'Gleams that untravelled world whose margin fades
'Forever and forever as I roam.'

The idea none the less is not at all novel. We have faint recollections of our parents in our callow youth, inviting us to take over completely in the matter of chores inside or out, but we cannot remember that we displayed the enthusiasm for the offer which the Fort High School has displayed in the matter of the Record. All of which goes to prove that the present generation is immensely superior to its forebears.

We have this story on 100 per cent reliable authority. A local doctor was summoned to a maternity case. The M.D. got ready in a new-style and the farmer having forseen this, arrived with a team of horses to bring him along. With the aid of the Minister who happened to be passing the retinue of car was persuaded to unhorse. The Minister had with him his wife who is a trained nurse. This elicited the following remark 'We've got the whole works with us: Father, Doctor, Nurse and Preacher! The sequel is even stranger—a twin-engined Stork got there first.

Vegetables Will Be Badly Needed

Many persons are becoming seriously alarmed about a probable grave shortage of vegetables. It is the intention of the Government of the United States and of Canada to do everything in their power to prevent, and to ship them overseas to the members of the Armed Forces, to munitions and to the people of Britain.

It is calculated that in consequence vegetables will be so short this coming summer that every person who can do so is being urged in the United States and Canada to grow many vegetables. Many farmers will no doubt wish to join in this most worthy effort.

With the present shortage of farm labor, hoeing a large vegetable garden free from weeds will not be easy. When I was young I put upon a time-saving plan of sowing vegetables on a piece of ploughed land, leaving each a width between the rows so that any farm implement in ordinary use, a number of a harrow for example, could be dragged between the rows every day or so. In this way most of the weeds can be killed quickly by mechanical power. This only leaves the weeds between the vegetables plants in the rows to be pulled by hand.

Members of the local Reserve Unit, their wives, girl friends and others that are interested are guests of the Unit tonight (Wednesday) at a show in the Community Hall.

Several members of the Unit Monday night, had their first taste of a target practice and showed the 'O.C.' they were as good as the best.

On Wednesday evening, March 17, a large crowd filled those two communities gathered in the Brookville School, to say 'au revoir' to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bready, and Verna on the eve of their departure from our district. When all had gathered, the school room was too small to accommodate everyone at wonce, so had been planned, so, with a few people taking turns in proving the music, the most of the evening was spent in dancing. Everyone had a good dancing. Everyone had a good time. Many were present from the cities visiting with their neighbors, or having a chat with the "Brookvale" After a while the music stopped, and with Mr and Mrs Bready and Verna in the position of honor, a few friends expressed some of the things that were in the minds of all. Rev. Mr. H. Wagfield on behalf of the Church, Mr. Harvey for Brookville district, Mr. Wm. Pearce for Tyree Valley, and Mrs. Wm. Atterbeck for Partridge Hill, all spoke highly of the place Mr. and Mrs. Bready and Verna have held in the community and all of the activities. The Bready's are old timers in our district, and have done more than their share in building up of the community and the organization and they will be very much missed. As a token of the neighbors regard they were presented with a chome clock and a chenille bedspread. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bready replied thanking their friends for their much appreciated gift.

Miss Hattie White and Lois Harlow on behalf of the Brookville Girls' softball team, then presented Verna with a pair of glasses, as a memento of softball days. She suitably replied, saying that she was going to miss the good old ball game.

This part of the evening concluded appropriately with the singing of the National Anthem, after which we all we felt—"For they are jolly good Fellows".

A good lunch was then served and, after a little more dancing, the evening came to a close.

A Timely Reminder

A short time ago a bill was given in Canada's Parliament to the enemies who allege or believe that the United Nations are not conducting the war effectively with questions arising out of the war and this momentous statement has been made by none other than Prime Minister King himself: "I think it is important," said Premier King in a recent speech, "that we should remember that the United Nations are united in their determination not only to win this war but to carry on the policy with respect to the peace upon which they all will be agreed."

Explanation

When the Hon. L. R. LaFleche, Minister of National War Services announced in the House of Commons the resignation of Col. John Thompson, D.S.O.,K.C., as Director of Government Office Economy Control, it was shown that his unconscious stated amongst other things that "any reasons for resigning are on entirely personal grounds. "In explaining this event, the Minister said: "When Colonel Thompson informed me he wanted to retire, I asked him to carry on, but he said he could not do so."

WRITTEN SPECIALLY FOR THE WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS OF CANADA

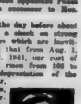
by THE RT. HON. J. G. GARDINER, P.C., M.P. Ex-Premier of Saskatchewan

THE ECONOMIC OUTLOOK

"Price ceiling, ceiling, control." That all essential business and public life is dominated by these words. Most likely it does to you. So I talked with Economist Kenneth W Taylor, secretary of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, seated in his ordinary looking office, and not gazing directly out at the Peace Tower on Parliament Hill. (Since this article was first written, Mr. Taylor has been appointed Trade Administrator as successor to Hon. J. G. Gardiner.)

I had learned the day before about the necessity of a check on strong inflationary forces which are inevitable in wartime; that from Aug. 1, 1939, to April 1, 1941, our cost of living order had risen from 100 to 107.7, due to depreciation of the Canadian dollar.

Higher taxes, increase in bitter, to low farm prices; that Canada had put a ceiling price on goods and services, on wages in commerce and industry and the cost of living bonus, and that, as a result, from Nov. 1, 1941, to Nov. 1, 1942, our U. W. HAYDEN index only rose 2.3 points, from 113.4 to 115.7, while in the first period in the United States it had jumped 8.7 points. And in the last war with only a quarter of the present resources devoted to production of war materials the Canadian index bopped up 30.1 points.



Out of a mass of information I give you [illegible] these few ninety figures, learned I, too, hate statistics; they sometimes heighten the ordinary mess.

Price Control in Brief

"What can I tell them in a nutshell, Mr. Taylor?" I asked, and he replied, "In our first year we established mobility of prices with a readjustment of evades and interference with normal functioning of industry and trade. But, remember the basic cause inflation isn't you pal. The supply of civilian goods will become shorter, operating costs will rise as trained manpower for civilian industry becomes steeper and gets over of goods lower. This is all of course, a direct indication of our country's war effort." Much simpler to understand, isn't it? So gather around in bank of the drug store or out in the barn and hear a little more.

Mr. Taylor explained that as manufacturers and sales could turn up slowly, labor became restless and there was maladjustments slipped in, civilian production had to be stream-lined to save money time, too. Then the emphasis shifted to problems of supply as Singapore fell the Dutch East Indies fell and the submarine warfare, he warned, will be seriously reflected in the supply of civilian goods for the summer of 1942.

By urging of the board beforehand, Mr. Taylor said counted with the good sense of business men, quite a good supply of raw materials including wool and such commodities had been laid in, though we were caught short on rubber. Then we realized the point where, while not actually scarce, we saw a shortage of finished supplies, with frequent pressure, keen competition, price increases, and private first thing we knew we had rationing starting with sugar, tea and coffee.

Sugar Shortage Explained

Here's something will interest you. Out of a normal consumption annually of 800,000 tons of sugar we imported 600,000, growing the rest ourselves in Canada, half of it in Alberta. With Shipping scarce Canada agreed through British-American arrangement to forego enough sugar to save 150,000 tons of shipping yearly; other things being equal we agreed to lop off another fifteen of shipping space. That's why, folks, you're getting less sugar. Of course we could grow more in Alberta, say; it's a profitable crop, but remember freight rates count and suppose you had to move it out to Winnipeg you would have to meet a network of freight structures. Could be done, undoubtedly, but only by use of heavy subsidies.

Well how about coffee? The difference in consumption with us would be saving two shiploads only, but with the Americans, who consume more, it would amount to 40 shiploads saving, but then the board feels we cannot begin our economies any better than the Americans.

Then I blundered by my questions, started talking about agricultural prices and problems, and Mr. Taylor agreed there was plenty of difficulty in connection with beef, butter, whole milk products, etc. Well, how about beef? They were fixed, he said, with three alternatives because the American market "was away hay." They could either hold rigidly to the price ceiling, which meant that most of the cattle would go to the U.S.A. with very little left for the Canadian housewife; the price could be put up to the American level, which means the ceiling would break down, or a third way was decided to do—hold the price in Canada and control exports. The price was put up a little, too, at the same time.

He admitted frankly there was a difference of opinion "within" for demand for beef much in excess, but said in statement, "If the Department of Agriculture's programme is carried a million hogs will be the figure for 1943 instead of [illegible] cattle."

Food Demands Strain Resources

Generally the demands for food is straining our resources, he pointed out. There is a heavier demand over seas; the U.S. is sending more to Russia, less to Britain; all our tobacco pack is going to the Mother Country, besides milk products, canned meats on which we test. And on top of all agriculture has a labor problem.

We came back to meat for a minute and he explained that our live stock in the east is relatively low—not increased as compared to the west. The industrial eastern working man is making more money, eating more meat, wants it. The shortage in pork causes [illegible] demand for the moment is a greatly increased demand for meat much more in excess, but until the improvement in [illegible] progress is retained a million hogs will be the figure for 1943. Beef bacon, some cutbacks.

I got back to economics in asking how the ceiling benefits the farmer. It does because, as a number of ways. For instance the ceiling on feeds and fertilizers is below American prices, on wire fencing, etc., where available. "You know," he mused "a short time ago I was out at the farm where my son was working, and I was shown an old stack of bills and I noticed that that farmer paid $70 a ton for middlings, now in 1918-19 Today the same thing is $31 a ton.

Total war, he holds, is not achieved until all resources not necessary to satisfy the minimum of essential needs of the civilian population is devoted to war production. He argues that we must accept this all in the proper spirit, because strong cliffs remain [illegible] tend to produce stronger deflationary trends when the country's economy is recovered [illegible] production to world bring mass unemployment much less demand for farm products and low price levels. But "The serious problem of post-war will not all be eliminated by period of inflation, but it will certainly facilitate the solutions and help stop any prolonged post-war depression."

I hope you're not weary of pondering economics There's something brighter coming next week, I hope

This is the Fifth of a Series of Articles by Mr. Greenblat.

. . . and when you buy a Victory Bond, to help Bill, and other boys on active service, you do something that will benefit you too. You save money. It's really a mistake to say that you "buy" a Victory Bond. You are not buying anything. You are saving money, and putting your savings where they will be absolutely safe, and where they earn money for you. (Each $100.00 Victory Bond earns $3.00 a year—3% interest.) You are likely producing more, and earning more. You can save more. You are not buying some things; you can't get them. You are buying less of many things—they're rationed. You can't help saving more. See to it that your savings are kept intact—earmarked for things you will need when the war ends. You will have to replace things that are worn out. You will want a lot of things. Money saved and invested in Victory Bonds will provide cash to pay for them.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay to each who lent their money for the use of the country, with half-yearly interest at the rate of 3% per annum until maturity.

A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada. The entire resources of the Dominion stand behind it. Canada has been bonding bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest.

A Victory Bond is an asset more readily converted into cash than any other security.

You can buy Victory Bonds for cash in a lump sum, or you can arrange to pay for them in convenient instalments over a period of six months.

Your Victory Bond salesman will be glad to tell you full particulars.

A Fine Job

Members of the Fort High School are to be congratulated for their "School Issue" of the Fort Record last week, in the opinion of the townspeople in general. Despite the rush of the last minute, which usually occurs on the first attempt at some new project the paper was a commendable achievement.

Possibly the odd classes were disrupted to some degree throughout the week, but what the students missed in the class rooms, will be more than made up with the knowledge of what the average country weekly editor goes through each week.

The Record wishes to thank the Principal, Teachers and High School students for their enthusiastic cooperation. They were a grand aggregation to work with. Also the merchants who by their willingness to support such an enterprise, made the "school issue" possible.

It is in the national interest that every man, woman, and child, maintain a high standard of health in these days of tension, of restricted purchasing power, and of rationed commodities. Alarmed by the poor health showing of our volunteers, the Dominion Government, in co-operation with the various Provincial Departments of Health, has embarked upon extensive National Health Program.

The Alberta Council on Nutrition is advocating what Lemi Councils be not up to anyone interest in and to help spread knowledge regarding Nutrition. It is essentially sound to put such a program down to the people by means of individual activity, and community activity But it is impossible that a community such as this is already overorganized, and that another council here would do nothing but create confusion.

Still the work must be done, and it can be done well by the groups already existing Any women's organization might well take as its "War Service Guild" for their kindness."

Departments of Health, has embarked upon extensive National Health Program.

The Alberta Council on Nutrition is advocating what Lemi Councils be not up to anyone interest in and to help spread knowledge regarding Nutrition. It is essentially sound to put such a program down to the people by means of individual activity, and community activity But it is impossible that a community such as this is already overorganized, and that another council here would do nothing but create confusion.

Still the work must be done, and it can be done well by the groups already existing Any women's organization might well take as its "War Service Guild" for their kindness."

HERE'S WHAT TO DO

1. Save your bones and fats. Don't throw away fat drippings. Save bones, poultry and fish bones. Take your established portion of fat to your butcher. He will pay you for it. Then take your fat and bones to your Community Salvage Depot or War Chest.

2. You can donate your fat drippings and bones to the Red Cross. Just tell your butcher you want to donate your fat to the Red Cross. He will pay you for it. Then take your fat and bones to your Community Salvage Depot or War Chest.

3. You can contribute to planes and tanks for Bill. Sell your fat and bones to your Community Salvage Depot or War Chest. Tell them you want the money to be credited to a plane or tank fund.

"Public Opinion"

By Richard Lamoureux

Several business men were interviewed regarding business conditions. The following general trends were to appear in the "school issue" of the Record last week, but unfortunately there wasn't sufficient space. Therefore, we give it to our readers this week believing that the subject is timely and interesting.—Ed. Note.

It was found that on the whole there is now a much greater demand for goods than before the war.

Essential commodities are still obtainable, but small and unimportant articles will soon be off the market.

Plastics are gradually replacing metal objects where possible though many articles now being manufactured are being made of silver, etc.

Most lumbermen are rush and the increase in the prices of farm commodities is bringing increase in sales. Government legislation provide that all crude accounts be settled in thirty days.

With many people in circulation there is much less unemployment. The General Opinion is that there will be an enormous demand for goods after the war.

Little Johnny brought home his report card and with it was a note from the teacher:

"Dear Mrs. Jones", said the note, "Johnny is a bright boy but spends all his time wit the girls. I'm trying to think up a way to cure him."

Mrs. Jones studied the note, then wrote the teacher as follows:

"Dear Miss Smith: "If you find a way to cure him, please let me know. I'm having the same trouble with his old man."

Guard Your Gasoline Ration Book

NOW that you have your 1943-1944 gasoline ration book, it is up to you to keep it at all times in a safe place. If it is lost, burned, or stolen, you will be deprived of coupons which will not be replaced. In this regard, the policy of the Oil Controller is as follows:

If, through negligence, you lose your gasoline ration book before October 1, 1943, you may be allowed an extra book, but only those coupons to which you would be entitled if you were making an original application.

If, through negligence, you lose your ration book on or after October 1, 1943, you may be allowed an extra book, but perhaps less, than 2/3 per cent of the coupons to which you would be entitled if you were making an original application.

The new gasoline rationing system, effective on April 1, will be strictly enforced. Under its provisions, the motorists, as well as the service station attendant, is held responsible if any infractions occur. It is necessary to the orders of the Oil Controller that:

- To purchase gasoline with 1942-1943 coupons.
- To purchase gasoline unless you have the correct category sticker affixed to your windshield.
- To detach coupons from your own book. (The removal of the coupons is the duty of the attendant.)
- To have in your possession a gasoline ration coupon not attached to, and forming a part of, a gasoline ration book.
- To have in your possession a gasoline ration book other than the book issued in respect of a vehicle you own, or in respect of a vehicle driven by you with the full consent of the real owner.
- To alter, deface, obliterate, or mutilate any gasoline ration book or coupon.

If you sell your motor vehicle, remember that before making delivery you must remove the appropriate category sticker or stickers. Remember also that after the sale is completed, you must mail to the nearest Regional Oil Control Office in your province the gasoline ration book or books issued for the vehicle.

Profit in Form of Forgiven Debt

Though it may prove to be a surprise to the man-in-the-street throughout this country, yet it can be indicated that the authorities along Parliament Hill expect that the change from the old tax method to the new so-called "pay-as-you-go" will bring a profit of about $15,000,000 in this year since the payments will be made on the higher scale of deductions in April instead of September and many incomes will undoubtedly be higher.

TRAIT IS THE ATE..

By Elliott H. Birdsell, M.A.

"The crows flapped over in town and thrust", suddenly it flashed into my mind, as I saw my first crows this spring, that even if we should go east in destroying all of the species, crows would still live because they are now a part of our living literature. And there is the distraction of crows my mind went, in the strange way that minds have, to other birds.

First I recalled that I grew up in a district of that in which everyone believed that, without doubt, crows made a curse of the worst kind and that the more they were all destroyed the better. I distinctly recall that, though shooting animals or birds has always been exceedingly distasteful to me, my only emotion upon shooting a crow was a great satisfaction in that one more of all his progeny would curse the world no longer.

The second thing that came to mind was a lecture by a professor of great renown. Speaking on a subject which had become a kind of god to him—the Balance of Nature—he made special reference to the crow. Set forth a body of facts unknown to me; and concluded that when all the facts were known and understood men would cease destroying crows and learn to like them. I am not sure about the learned man's facts or his interpretation of them. I am sure that as the lecture concluded I remained for some time in my seat and pondered. For years I had nursed a secret set of emotions concerning the crow, and whenever the opportunity had presented myself I had enjoyed translating those emotions into their appropriate actions,—the killing of crows. Now, however, new facts (assuming their truth) were introduced into my mind. The old opinions and old emotions were upon me; never again could emotion and customary action enjoy such harmony! I must, I saw, discover a new emotion concerning crows, one that would fit the facts—and out of that emotion would issue a new kind of action.

Then my mind switched over to the general problem of the relation of human knowledge, emotion and action, and I wondered how much of my own action flows out of emotional bases on poor "facts". Furthermore I have been wondering if it is possible to have right emotions in a world in which we know we are not being allowed to have all the facts. We know that our facts are being rationed according to what is devised by men who do not know and will not learn that the only sure bulwark of our way of life is free men and women who act because of pure emotions arising out of a certain knowledge of the facts, all the facts and nothing but the facts. Much of the half-hearted action in the United Nations arises out of this lack of decisive due to an uncertainty of facts. Do they think the facts would be too much for us? Do they think we cannot "take it"? The answer to that is very clear: the people that cannot stand the facts will soon be destroyed, either by outside pressure or by internal rot. If we are to have any life that is worth living we must demand and get the facts, then we must take those facts straight in the face, and allow emotion to be born to emerge from the encounter with facts, and then we must act. This is the only way in which we can preserve individual sincerity or sanity, national existence, or the life of that prequel civilization.

That is what the sight of my first crows did, to my mind. What did it do to yours?

Farm sales are the one and only diversion at this period in spite of unfavorable conditions these sales are well attended and bidding appears to be brisk. On foot and on horse-back, by lorry, Bennett (?) contraption, and farm wagon, in rare cases by car or tractor, the would-be buyers assemble. Possibly the ladies are conspicuous by their absence and for household effects without and make little buyers.

There is something rather heart-rending about the auctioneer and his sidekick as they go about their business. There stands the home, a prey to the elements and the weeds—the emptiness of its head ever attempted. Friends have departed and have left an aching void in their stead.

The campaign for fats as War Salvage has gone merrily forward and at a rough estimate some fifty pounds awaits transit to headquarters. One wonders what would have happened in this valuable by-product under ordinary circumstances. Are we Westerners as a whole wasteful and when normal times are restored shall we return again to prodigal carelessness? The pioneers of Ontario had nothing and thrift has built many a fine home. Of course there is always the danger that thrift will lead to miserly habits but actually that quality which we designate Scotch is a very real virtue carried to excess. If we have to practice thriftiness a little more the national indebtedness would undoubtedly lessen.

Once more may we express our gratitude to D.B. for his very interesting history of Clover Bar Municipal District. Such chronicles are of inestimable value to residents who in the stress and strain of daily life are apt to allow the story of their back-ground to become lost in the mists of antiquity. Many answer to the elbow of such benefactors!

Now is the time to make war on the gophers. The little fellows are hungry, and small attentions be served upon them now will yield surprising dividends.

EDITORIUM EDIT—FOOD

How do they get away with these things? From your own friendly Member of Parliament, I suppose. Newfoundland. Why, the use of fluid milk increased by 10 per cent over the previous year. Our per capita consumption of butter in Canada is 36 lbs., while that of cheese only 4 lbs., and it takes two of cheese to make one of butter.

Beef? Yup, he admitted a tight position there, but restrictions on meat rationing in the brand-of events, he says, and that takes in beef, pork, bacon, veal, lamb and mutton. With the new feeding programmes, however, he is certain we will have more beef in the long run. Now, co-operation is the slogan.

As I got up to leave he shook hands and said with a smile: "Remember, fellow, we are still the best fed people in the world." I had had lunch. I eggs for breakfast. Could we feed more. Here in back can we groove sincerely?

About Foods Administration

And now I'll finish this with a few words about talking with Foods Administrator Gordon Taggart, who was kindly leaving his job and Ottawa to sit in the agricultural driver's seat in Saskatchewan again.

His staff includes men of expert knowledge of the various food commodities, directly from farm and various food processing and distributing industries. "The food administration staff determines what to do," he said, and heads of the action which follows may be carried out by regional offices of the Board, endorsement or voluntary division.

You see, food supply naturally divides itself into two groups, foods of domestic origin or imports. When domestic supply is threatened as a result of lower price established under the ceiling, either of three things is done. The article can be removed from the ceiling entirely, as done with a number of fresh fruits and vegetables. The price could be increased as with beef, lamb and some other products which have a seasonal price range and which required higher prices to maintain supply, or, thirdly, subsidies were added to the existing price.

You remember how the latter was done extensively in the case of milk, dairy products and a number of canned items, such as tomatoes.

Action with respect to maintenance of supply has been taken mainly in conjunction with or in co-operation with the Department of agriculture. In the case of essential imported foods, he pointed out, the new general principle is applied, to subsidize imports if the price ceiling threatens supply or to lift ceilings from the internal products. Then it is to a standard, and I hope there's a barrel in it.

And he added, did Mr. Taggart, that the most common practice of imports has been for the Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation to bulk purchase at the best possible price and then sell into the domestic trade at whatever price is necessary to maintain ceilings.

The determination of requirements and the transportation of supplies has been the responsibility of the Foods Administration. They control prices and keep a wide variety of items for the civilian population, and, to assist other government bodies, it also acts in requisition or otherwise acquires food for the soldier boys and girls and other priority needs in cases of particular commodities which are in short supply.

Mr. Taggart made it sound so humdrum that I lost my appetite for dinner. And there's not a correct. Subsidies are not handouts, and the trade gets no special benefit from them. They are only paid if there is no other way of securing a sufficient supply of an article without exceeding the ceiling price, and are limited only to essential consumer goods, and next week's article concludes the series.

World of Wheat

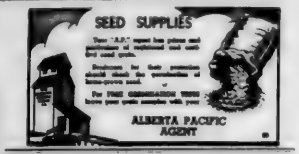
"WHAT IS PARITY"

Some who believe in "parity" evidently do not know what it really is. "Parity" for agricultural products, as described officially by the United States Government, and as understood by the Searle Grain Company and by some others, means simply that agricultural products should each be at such a price as will enable farm products—a bushel of wheat, or 100 pounds of hogs, of sheep, of cattle, or any other item—to purchase the same quantity and quality of goods and services that farmers have to buy, as these farm products did actually purchase in 1913-14.

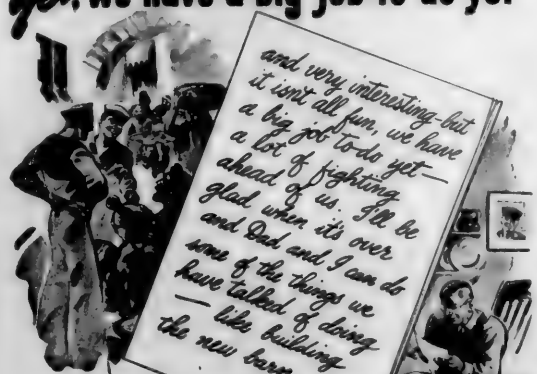
Some people believe, however, that the base year should be the average of 1926-1929, and others believe it for at any time with the base we should be the highest price ratio ever enjoyed the welfare of the taxed on any one day between 1926 farmers in the United States with and 1929. This latter is apparently those of Canada.

the "parity" given to industrial With this 1913-14 "parity" our labour. farmers would be reasonably well

There are some advantages, I suggest, however, in using the 1913-14 off, and could not be accused of asking base as is done in the Searle Index, any far too much in this time of war



Yes, "we have a big job to do yet"



WHEN they come home—those boys who are fighting now—make them want to stay home. Make them happy and contented on the farm. They will have new ideas they want to try out. They may want to go in for new breeding stock; new crops; work out a drainage or irrigation project; do a big job of fertilizing. You are wearing out implements and equipment which cannot be replaced now. You may want to erect new buildings, or to add to present buildings. You may wish to modernize your farm with water or electricity. You may want a new motor car—new conveniences and comforts for your home. These things cost money. Save money now and invest your savings in Victory Bonds. They will provide cash for things you will need when the war ends.

You can buy Victory Bonds for cash in a lump sum, or you can arrange to pay for them in convenient instalments over a period of six months.

Your Victory Bond salesman will be glad to tell you full particulars.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the full face value of the Bond at the time stipulated, with half-yearly interest at the rate of 3% per annum until maturity.

A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada. The entire resources of the Dominion stand behind it. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest.

We Are Canada

We or our parents came to Canada to find a new home. In many cases those of us who are now farming do not remember the old country of our ancestors We came from the villages of Galicia or the plains of Bukowina or the mountain slopes of Carpathian or the prairies of Bessarabia, or the cities of Austria or Poland or from the marshland of Finland or the rugged coasts of Norway or Sweden. The land we found here was a new land of new customs and people who were strange to us. We missed many things in this new land, but we found the widest freedom and many opportunities for people who were willing to work.

Instead of toiling all our lives for a landlord whose very birth, we became farmers in our right. Instead of being denied education as was often the case, we were encouraged and urged to attend public school and seen many were taking higher education with great success. We had access to the courts of the country to sustain our rights as citizens. As soon as we became naturalized in Canada, we were given the right to vote, to elect our own governing bodies, our school trustees, our Municipal councillors, our Provincial Legislators, and the Members to the Dominion Parliament.

Though our churches were often unknown in Canada, we had perfect freedom to establish these churches and to worship God in our own way, and churches are crowning the hill tops in scores of places across Canada.

As a group we have greatly appreciated these privileges. There are many things in Canada that might be better and that we want to see better, but we have an equal chance with the sons and daughters of those who were here before us to try and make Canada the kind of land we wish. Without any disloyalty to the "Old Country" of our memory, we love our new country. This is our home and we are proud of it. We are as much at home that we can find fault with things that are not good enough. This is as it should be. We are members of the family Together we must build still better

Canada is now at war. These freedoms which we value so highly are at stake Many of our sons and daughters are fighting and working side by side with the rest of Canada in this great job, our only job - winning the war.

We can best help to bring this about by all getting into this job together Our country is worth it We love Canada and are proud of her and of her freedom We will work or fight or pay or lend as we can, but she must stay free.

N E S

On Friday night, on overflowing slough, on the land of Mr. H. Ryan, which had been held back all week by ice in jam, broke loose flooding to the C.P.R. tracks and approximately 500 yards from the corner west of the home of Mr. W. Van Camp. The water broke loose about 7:30 p.m., Friday, and was at its highest about 11:00 p.m. Depth of water on the highway at this time was estimated to be from 2½ to 3 feet. By 9 a.m. Saturday morning the water had ceased to flow across the highway. Two cars attempting to drive through the flood, stalled and had to be towed out by W. Van Camp and his tractor. Other motorists managed to get by the flooded section by driving their cars along the railway tracks.

A number of railway ties, apparently displaced by the high water were washed down the adjacent embankments over the months of the double culverts under the railway, and shot through the culverts a great speed to float away down the creek bed It is doubtful if railway men will ever recover some of the ties as they formed into rafts to float fully a mile from the railway before being arrested by a fence

Three men from Clover Bar maxed their "beauty" sleep Friday night as they worked all night on the flooded waters and freeing marooned cars

Two miles south of Clover Bar the highway was flooded in two more places and a third spot was threatened.

The Timely Help of Convenient Service

Nothing is more irksome than to be held-up or delayed in a busy season. Seeding, haying, or harvesting are jobs that a man wants to keep at and get done as soon as possible.

The timely help of convenient service is a mighty important factor in cutting down lost time when spare parts or machine service is required. In these days when farmers are being called upon to do many with less help it means a great deal to be able to telephone or call upon a local dealer and get what is wanted quickly and easily.

Established and organized to meet this ever-present need of agriculture for quick service contact, the Massey-Harris organization of branches, distributing centres, and local dealers has been geared to wartime needs. For complete machine overhauls and for prompt parts service, get in touch with your local Massey-Harris dealer.

A Warning

As a result of unfavourable weather conditions prevailing last fall, including frost in some areas, much of the wheat, oats, barley, and flax is germinating poorly. The situation appears to be most serious with oats. The areas chiefly affected are those along, and north of, the main C.N.R. main line, and the areas adjacent to the foothills in Alberta.

It is safe to say that all seed grain in the areas named above should be tested for germination. Our own laboratory has already received nearly 10,000 samples, and doubtless, the Dominion Government laboratories have tested large numbers.

However, the total laboratory facilities in the West are inadequate to handle all seed which should be tested. Farmers who have not already had tests made would be wise to make their own.

We are having cards printed giving detailed instructions for making home germination tests. One of these will be hung in all country canvasses of Line Elevators associated with the work of this Department. The same information will be printed on the "Seedtime and Harvest" cards distributed to grain buyers for posting on to their customers.

Roughly speaking, seed germinating 95% or over is O.K.; from 85% to 95%, rate of seeding should be increased by [illegible]; from 75% to 85%, rate of seeding should be increased by [illegible]; below 75%, seed is unfit for seeding purposes.

Farmers unable to reach a line elevator may buy grain from the country elevators by writing [illegible] Grain Exchange Building, Winnipeg, Man. The Grain Exchange Inspection Warehouse, Winnipeg (or Calgary).

Repairs to the Provincial Gaol water tower are underway this week. During the past number of years at least winter the tower or pipes leading to and from the tower freeze. Sometimes more, have to eliminate this trouble another year.

"Reap the Wild Wind" At Sharps' Shows

"Reap the Wild Wind" a drama of the sea in technicolor comes to the local theatre Thursday and Saturday evenings of this week. Starring Ray Milland, John Wayne, Paulette Goddard, Raymond Massey, Robert Preston and a score of other stars of stage and screen "Reap the Wild Wind" is a picture you all must see.

The story goes something like this: This is the story of America's fight to rid the Florida Keys of piratical wreckers who preyed upon the lifeline of her merchant marine in the days of sailing ships when railroads were almost unknown. Against background of storm swept seas, villainy and intrigue there is a romance which culminates happily for Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland.

"Reap the Wild Wind," a fitting climax to thirty years of notable screen achievements in the memorable career of Producer-Director Cecil B. DeMille, is a picture that should roll up record grosses in all situations.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

The author of "Shadows", upon studying Psalm 8, was struck by the statement that man was created to be over all the rest of creation. And probably he often pondered why, man, though created to be in possession of the world, was, in fact, not in possession "We do not as yet see everything made subject to man", he writes, and then adds: "but we do see Jesus". It is as if Jesus were to him a kind of guarantee that man would yet enter into possession of the heritage God had prepared for him.

The inorganic world of minerals, oils, gases and fluids is one which, though it is the gift of God, man has only recently begun to enter. Though we have made rapid strides it is still true that "we do not as yet see everything made subject to man", but as we think of Jesus and his calm self-possession in the desert and on the stormy lake we see him entering, as it were, the whole physical world and taking possession of it in our behalf. It is for us to enter the whole field and make it ours.

The same is true of the organic world of plants and animals. We know more now than we did about plants and their products, and about bacteria and germs, but even so we have not taken full possession of the field. We see Jesus, however, speaking of lilies and wheat and thistles and we feel that here again he, as thoroughly at home in that area, has set up his flag of possession at the farthest boundaries and invites us to enter the territory he has taken over in our name.

Caterpillar tractors of the new M.D. of Strathcona, pulled into Jacobs' Motors this week, to undergo a general overhauling, prior to commencing a busy summer's work.

Highlights of the First Meeting of New Council

The inaugural meeting of the council of the Municipal District of Strathcona, 517, was held in the municipal district office, Bank of Commerce Building, Edmonton South on Thursday, the 8th April, 1943. The meeting lasted for three days with still some business on the agenda to be dealt with.

After the Returning Officer, Mr. Letan, had given his report on the recent elections, and to whom a vote of appreciation was extended for the able manner he had conducted his duties, the election of a reeve for the ensuing twelve months was proceeded with, with the result that T. B. Haythorne was elected by acclamation to that office.

The term of office for each of the councillors was then decided in accordance with the provisions of the Municipal District Act, by the drawing of names from a hat. R. H. M. Bailey and H. Schiewe were the first two names drawn and their term of office will run until March, 1947, then followed the names of F. H. Haythorne and C. W. Meyer whose term will expire in 1946, then that of E. Keith whose term will end in 1945, March.

E. Keith was elected as Deputy Reeve for the ensuing six months. The Administrator, Mr. Sharpe, who had been in charge of the District since the two old districts were dissolved then made his report. He announced that no new policies had been adopted during that period.

In regard to the office staff, D. Roberts was appointed as Secretary-Treasurer, D. Brown, Asst. Sec.-Treas., A. Rawlins as Accountant, and Robt. Law, Assessor.

It was agreed that the regular meetings of the council should be held in the municipal office on the second Monday in each month.

The appointment of fire guardians and weed inspector was left in abeyance until the next meeting.

After receiving a delegation from Fort Saskatchewan who submitted a brief regarding office location it was decided to endeavor to secure office space on the North side of the River.

A Tax Consolidation By-Law was given its three readings.

A number of parcels of land were leased for hay permits, cutting of logs and gardening purposes. A parcel of one and a half acres was sold for a cash consideration of $75.

The Reeve and Deputy Reeve were a committee appointed to interview Mr. G. Meale, Editor of the Fort Record, with the view of continuing the arrangements that the old Clover Bar district had with him for the distribution of his paper to resident taxpayers.

The next rate for municipal purposes was set at ten mills and that for school purposes at fifteen.

On the recommendation of the machinery committee, Messrs. Bailey and Meyer, Larry Craddock was appointed as engineer in charge of the road grading equipment at an annual basis.

With the disposition of many matters of detail, passing of payments and accounts and the reading of correspondence, the meeting adjourned Saturday afternoon at four o'clock.

Bride-Elect Honored Miscellaneous Shower

Mrs. Carol Shaw was hostess at a miscellaneous shower last Saturday evening in honor of Miss Peggy Graham, bride-elect of the week. About thirty five ladies were present.

The reception room was decorated for the occasion, and a doll as the bride and Mickey mouse, with the Air Force cap, as groom, both handcuffed together, held down the place of honor (the present's box) throughout the evening.

The reading of a scrapbook, (depicting the lives of the bride and groom), games and bridge made a most enjoyable evening pass all too quickly. Mrs. F. H. Walton, won the honors at bridge.

At midnight, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Misses M. Robinson, Edna Sherman, Ella Sherman, L. Westover, and Mrs. J. D. McLean.

Miss Pauline Graham, Misses Rita and Edna Sherman assisted the bride-elect, open the beautiful gifts.

Miss Graham in a few words thanked everyone for their kindness.

Lantern Slide Lecture on the Missionary Study Book "Publishers of Peace" will be given by Rev. R. M Bone, at St George's Church on Tuesday, April 27th, at 8 p.m

This is a set of stories which seeks to illustrate the life and works of the "Christian Publishers of Peace." The lives of such men as Bishop Bompas, the apostle to the Eskimos; Rev. Walton, of the Eastern Arctic, otherwise known as "Reindeer Walton" and Rev. John Astle the founder of the B.C. coastal mission and hospital boats, are to be shown in picture form.

We of the Christian Church are enjoying the fruits of the labours of others. Be interested in what they sought to do for Christ; and be inspired by their lives.

Fort Planning Air Cadets

Two officers of the Air Force visited the Fort this week concerning the organization of a Unit of the Air Cadets to be commenced with the opening of School in the Fall. The organization of the Unit requires 4 or 5 adult Officers, a citizen's Committee of 5, a teaching staff or 4 or 5, and an enrollment of 30 boys, including Cadet Officers. In order that plans may go forward it is requested that all boys interested sign the enrollment roll in Dawson's Drug Store as soon as possible. Cadets are 14 to 18 years of age.

GOOD SEED OATS

There is an unexpected scarcity of good seed oats in the three Prairie Provinces. There is a great demand for Victory and Banner oats, particularly for Victory, which easily headed the field. (In much Victory and Banner was caught by early frost last fall.)

There is, however, one variety of oats of which there appears to be a good supply of excellent seed of high germination, and that variety is Vanguard.

A large number of authoritative tests made by the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory, and by the "Crop Testing Plots", revealed last year that Vanguard oats yielded about 6 per cent higher than Victory.

The Vanguard kernel has 10 per cent less hull than Victory, an important consideration for feeders. The straw of Vanguard is stiffer than Victory, and in addition Vanguard is four days earlier on the average than Victory, and in a crop of Vanguard will often just escape early autumn frosts when Victory is caught. (It was so this last year.)

Another quite important advantage of Vanguard is that it is resistant to stem rust, and in areas where rust is prevalent this is also an important advantage. All in all, then, it would appear that those who cannot secure high quality Victory would do well to try Vanguard.

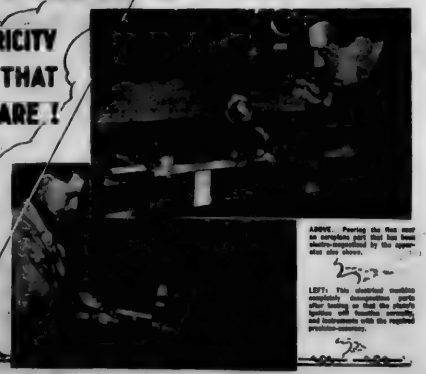
FLAWS MUST BE "GROUNDED"

ELECTRICITY SEES THAT THEY ARE!



ABOVE: Proving the fact and to complete part that has been electro-magnetically by the operator also shown.

LEFT: This electrical machine completely demagnetizes parts after testing so that the finely spun oil finishes normally, and instruments with the required precision.

When instructors and students in the Commonwealth Air Training Plan take to the air they have absolute confidence in their machines. They know that every proven mechanical method and device has been used to ensure perfection of every individual part.

In securing this perfection one of the most interesting procedures is the testing of steel parts. Each part is given an Electro-Magnetic test. Any flaws so small that the human eye cannot detect them are instantly spotted by this method.

The steel parts are first highly magnetized by an electric current. Then over each part is poured a fine quenching of minute steel particles in a fluid base.

Where the metal is perfect the flow flows off, but where there is the slightest crack or invisible break in the metal, the iron particles cling immediately, indicating to the operator the flaw in the metal. Such parts are "grounded".

At 300 miles or more per hour every part must be perfect, and through the Magnaflux test, Electricity assures that it is perfect.

Electricity is helping to give the Victory Impetus to the Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

Keep Your Money Good

A few days ago Canada's minister of finance mentioned the necessity of "keeping your money good."

While most Canadians—when they think seriously about it—applaud the efforts of the government in financing the war, it is doubtful if many give much thought to the matter of keeping our money good. Canada is in the happy position of knowing us time as the history when her money wasn't good.

Money is good when a dollar will buy a dollar's worth of goods.

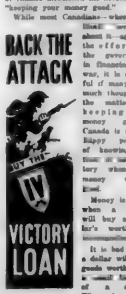
It is bad when a dollar will buy less than its worth in goods worth only a small fraction of a dollar.

When that happens, and it has happened in many parts of the world, a man with a week's wages and a family to feed is in extreme difficulty. His wages will buy only a fraction of the amount of food necessary to feed his family.

It is a two-fold task which faces the world of finance in Canada today. One is to pay as much as possible of the cost of the war as it goes along. The other is to maintain prices in Canada in such a manner that a man with a week's wages can feed his family for a week—and buy the other necessary goods and services of everyday life.

The present tax rate is part of the effort to do this. The other part of the effort—aside from price controls—is the raising of money through Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. Money invested in this manner is money invested in the finest possible way. It helps fight the other donkey.

BACK THE ATTACK



Josephsburg News

In spite of flooded roads and washed-out culverts, the Reformed Church garnered a congregation of some sixty souls, and Partridge Hill some thirty, on Sunday 11th. Without exception all the members of both churches resorted to horse power, which fact bears out the statement by the "Happy Gang". "The old grey mare, she's just what she used to be."

We do not vouch for the veracity of what follows but here it is for what it's worth.

One of our neighbors could only reach his hogs at feeding time by using a saddle horse and in a second case the farmer was obliged to use a team and waggon to transport himself between house and farm buildings at chore time. The question naturally arises "What did he do with the team the last time he journeyed to the home?" History does not relate and we are forced to rely upon conjecture. It is one of those conundrums which haunt us. It reminds one of the mythical story of Leander, who swam across the Hellespont 2 times daily to visit his beloved Hero. We were always puzzled to know how he regained his clothes after his third [illegible].

But this is a mere trifle for Greeks, in Leander's time might easily have passed master by carelessly draping themselves in a Union Jack; yet here again we are muddled up, for there were no Union Jacks [illegible] day.

Which reminds us of that aggravating riddle as to what the donkey did who wanted to cross the road but couldn't do so because a deep chasm had opened up in the middle of the road. "What did he do" we were asked. After vainly cudgelling our brains, we were asked "Do you give it up?" Certificates. Money invested in this and on our replying in the affirmative, we were told 'and so did the

The disappearance of one necessary piece of equipment—the old fashioned hitching post—did let us very hard when the old grey mare took us to town. Filling station pumps may be "a thing of beauty and a joy forever" but they were not designed to pinch-hit for hitching posts. Apart from anything else, their waist-line is to generous. Other days, other ways" says the old proverb and again you can't patch old garments with new cloth! Ornamental fence posts which served well to provide the sentiment for which we pine, prove rather useless in the strain of sixteen hundred pounds of horseflesh anchored to them.

By the same token, the bill of fare commonly provided by our modern service stations proved entirely beyond digestive capacity of our equine friends.

But—and this after all is what matters—those of us who have failed to take advantage of the Journal's "Learn to Swim campaign" were enabled to reach our destination, church, school or store, thanks to the noble horse

'And he that will not drink he health.

'I wish him neither wit nor wealth

'Nor yet a rope to hang himself'

If you care for a brain teaser, here is one. A family of three children could only reach school across a fire covered with [illegible] of water by using their father's knee-high rubber boots. Though large, they were not large enough to accommodate three pairs of legs at one time. The eldest girl donned the waders and bravely blazed a trail to the other side. Now it was the turn of the second child, a girl of fourteen summers, but how was she to get possession of the boots, and even supposing she did do so, how was wee Arthur aged six to secure them?

For the answer turn to page 15 column 4 of this issue

In spite of the unprecedented depth reached by the snows all winter and in spite of the vastness of the water which these snows left us as a legacy, the grass below is already dry as tinder and will burn furiously. Those intending to invoke the aid of Vulcan in spring-cleaning their property, are advised to bear this well in mind. It's one thing to kindle a fire, but another thing altogether to control it.

Our little friends the pocket gophers are already engaged in decorating choice knees with ornamental mounds, strategically placed. Dastiet, Adophus!!

HOW MUCH Did You Save LAST YEAR?

One of these days a man will call on you to talk to you about saving money. The caller will be one of your neighbors, or a man from your nearest town who is likely well known to you.

He is asking you to save money when he asks you to buy a Victory Bond. He is not asking you to give money to anybody or anything.

You save money when you buy a Victory Bond . . . and you lend your money to Canada to help win the war. The money you save is yours. You will get it back later on, and have it to do anything you wish with it. And Canada will pay you 3 % interest on your savings every year until the loan is paid back to you.

TAKE A FEW MINUTES TO FIGURE OUT HOW YOU ARE GETTING ALONG

This is something that every man should do now and then.

You will see how you are getting along by comparing savings with earnings. It's what you save that counts.

Perhaps you will say you saved all you could. Did you? Remember you are asking yourself questions. You are not getting figures to show anyone but yourself. Can you figure out how you can save more?

A sure way to save money is to save it in small sums—as you get it. Victory Bonds—which can be paid for in small instalments covering a six-months' period—provide a convenient method of carrying out a savings programme. Your Victory Bond salesman will tell you all particulars.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the full face value of the Bond at the time stipulated, with half yearly interest at the rate of 3% per annum until maturity.

A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada. The entire resources of the Dominion stand behind it. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest.

A Victory Bond is an asset more readily converted into cash than any other security.

MORE ABOUT

Strait Is The Gate

It is even more true in the realm of man, both individually and collectively. That crew of life called self is one of which most persons are self afraid. Some are afraid of a part of self and try to act as if that part were not there. Others are afraid of self as war with the flesh part. Others are afraid of the whole self and endeavor to live with it in a state of false security. We see James, however, striking fearlessly into the whole self, and, with the power of God on behalf of man, setting up a thing and taking possession in the name of Christ. The whole self is man's if he will but enter and take possession.

Likewise the case of man's collective life in any church, any home or center, even though James has explained and presented it on behalf of God and man, in the form of political and economic power. Will the impact upon his life and flesh. He also presented the possibilities of a group life of positive blend. In the case of man's collective life he then, guards from beyond the fringes, and when he has penetrated to the very heart of the field of man and man's economic life, he planted there his standard, taking possession of the whole new area. He calls to a group to it, without fear, and take possession.

When in the standard he planted there I shall be with you, even unto the end of the world. Amen.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott E. Birdsall, M.A.

The smell of burning grass means different things to different people. To most people in The Fort it means, I suppose, the arrival of spring and minds full of thoughts about gardens, seeds, garden-tools and the warmth of earth. There must be some in the district however, who, like myself, never smell burning grass without having brought vividly to mind—either out of ideas not so pleasant,—the prairie fire. That menacing smoke with its purplish color; the nervous watching of the wind's direction; frightened horses being hastily harnessed and hitched to a wagon; the bundle of wet sacks; the bet of matches pulled quickly from its place in the kitchen and pushed into a pocket, the men-folk standing in the noisy wagon as it hastened its way over the prairie trail toward the smoke; the anxious waiting of women and children to whom, perhaps, had been left the task of fire-guarding the farm buildings. These are the thoughts which, accompanied by their emotions, came rushing into my mind whenever I smell the smoke of burning grass. The satisfaction I get from anticipating the green grass that will soon come up and cover the blackened stubble is always mixed with the memory of fears instilled many years ago in Alberta's land of 'prairie wool'.

I have been wondering if Moses was reminded of the 'burning bush' whenever he smelled the smoke of a camp fire; and if the Hebrews recalled their yearly festival of unleavened bread at Jerusalem when the odors of the kitchen reached their nostrils; and if there is anything in human experience behind the use of incense in some forms of worship.

Well, anyway, though smoke is smoke, it is not only smoke. A thing is not merely what it is; it is also what it is to the particular person who is aware of it. And since we all have had different experiences, things which are equal to the same things are not always equal to one another. That makes our group life all the richer, doesn't it?

Strathcona Ratepayers Will Receive Local Paper

The Fort, Record has been awarded a year's contract to supply a paper weekly, to each resident ratepayer in the new enlarged Municipal District of Strathcona, No. 217. This will mean serving over 1500 farmers, in one of the richest farming districts in Alberta. The Record's circulation will run approximately 1,600 weekly.

The new contract is similar to the one enjoyed with the Municipal District of Clover Bar for the past 2½ years, which by the way, terminates with this issue.

Commencement of the new subscription lists, depends entirely on the newsprint administrator, who has the control on newsprint quotas. So far, our request for additional newsprint has not been granted, but it is hoped that some decision will be forthcoming before next week.

Unless this newsprint is granted, The Record will be forced to suspend publication

In case sufficient newsprint is granted to enable The Record to start the new contract next week, (May 6th issue) it would be appreciated if our correspondents in the various districts would endeavor to send in what news they can secure up, so as our new readers will be given some idea what districts are represented. It will also tend to give potential correspondents in new districts some idea of what we will hope from them.

Local phases of business will be given an opportunity to welcome the 700 or 800 new readers, and at the same time invite them to visit their place of business.

An interesting visitor to our school last week was an ex-pupil in the person of Lieutenant Lloyd Wilkinson now serving in the army. Lloyd professed that he is unaccustomed to address an audience of such tender years, but judging by the fist potation paid him by members of both Senior and Junior Rooms, his words must have caused half's open every time. His contact among gas and fire bombs, fire tapics—Budget and Bridges. Games in war-time and their relationship to the Rations Rewards and Punishments; and finally a brief idea of Climatic conditions on Vancouver Island.

In person and posture, Lloyd is a splendid example of a Canadian Army Officer—one who has risen to his present position by sheer persistence in the practice of his calling. We all wish Lloyd the very best of luck and look forward to the day when we shall see his name gazetted as a Brigadier-General.

x x x

To revert to a topic we began last week on the subject of pocket gophers. Three links yours can be controlled by the ordinary citizen, provided that he is willing to be more persistent than they are. We used to imagine that the bolls and blades they were necessary evils which one had to allow to exist, but time the aforesaid afflictions have in a town are over.

The easiest, but not necessarily the most certain of the cures, is the deadly carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of small's car. An extension is made to the exhaust pipe and that extension is inducted into a fifty gallon barrel. This method soon gets results are not ascertained. Biologists tell us that this rodent is capable of consuming fifty pounds of forage per day and naturally there must be offset of such animals in old infested ground.

The other method is by means of a trap—a common gopher trap—ingeniously planted in a new "run." The student appeared in as follows: Locate the fresh mound and excavate at any rate away from a fresh mound. Dig a hole about 12 inches across deep somewhat below the level of the run. Set the trap in the centre of this hole and cover carefully to exclude light. Failure to do the latter spells certain failure, for the gopher either-wise will do it for you by filling your hole with newly excavated soil. He may do this at first and, but you need not repeat the treatment.

Excellent hay's were secured during daylight hours but towards 5 p.m. visiting was commenced.

This trap has one major drawback—it rarely kills outright. For this reason traps should be visited almost hourly during "visiting hours", for though we may be entitled to deprive of life in ordinary lethal militates against our well-being, we have no right whatever to inflict unnecessary torture.

Our course will soon be closely. Cubes Canada.

"And of course" as the statement has

There is a real nude trap which unfortunately cannot be obtained in Canada. It somewhat resembles an egg-beater. The trap's jaws are open right in a run and in passing through the rodent is gripped and slain.

We were once offered a position which even in this day "sacrifice our virtue" with not-to-be blushes of pride. We are not boasting, merely stating a fact, but were offered the role of male Cinderella to Chief for our local Community Grounds. There were no strings attached to the offer and we could have accepted but our modesty forbade us to accept. Vox vicis!

Labor Backs Loan

Labor Leaders in the Dominion of the war pledged its loyalty and support to the Canadian and British Governments in the prosecution of the war against the aggressor Nations, it seems every word it said. We were fully cognizant of the task we then undertook, and we have not faltered and will not do so in fulfilling our obligations or in our determination to support our Government and our Allies in every way possible

Even if at this time we are hard pressed by taxes and inflated prices for the commodities of life, our country's need is paramount to all other considerations. The cause of Victory in this war has the first call upon each of us. We know it takes a great deal of money to carry on this fight—more money than we can readily imagine and our earnings are at the Nation's service. We must win or there will be no Labour Unions allowed. Labour has everything at stake, hence we must support this and every Loan to the limit. I know that labour will not falter in its support regardless of any and all differences of opinions that may exist on many other problems. There can be no difference of opinion in our determination to win, and every dollar invested in War Bonds brings Victory and Peace a moment nearer.

Canada's Fighting Men Need Help

Our fighting lads on the battle lines, in the air, on the sea, and on the land, badly need help. They have all the courage and heroism that is required. They need, however, more and more munitions equipment, supplies and foodstuffs.

Canada and the other democracies entered this war almost completely unprepared, whereas Germany and Japan had strenuously prepared for years. We have, therefore, much to do yet to catch up to our enemies. Our farms and factories, however, are now turning out ever-increasing quantities of foodstuffs and munitions, but these quantities are governed entirely by the amount of money the Government has with which to pay farmers for their produce, and to pay wages to industrial workers. Some of the money is supplied by taxes, but considerable sums must be raised by loans from the people through their purchases of Victory Bonds.

Our gallant lads are risking and giving their lives for our protection, for our freedom. They ask us only to lend our money. How can we do less? Every Victory Bond purchased will supply more and better equipment to protect our fighting men. A Victory Bond can easily save a life.

When we buy a Victory Bond we help our fighting men, and strike a blow for the High Cause of Freedom.

Prompt Action

In presenting the official order about farm leave for soldiers, Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, emphasized in Parliament that his Department is trying to do the best possible so that the destruction of the agriculturists in Canada may be satisfied but at the same time all responsibilities of his Department must be safe guarded. Those eligible are, first, the personnel of the home service, with the Minister of war establishment of district depots, recruiting, administrative and training staffs, second, the personnel on strength but without specific work or some as men as it seems to be generally expected and it is distinctly a post-war affair so that the present activities are really preparations for the actual event, being dependent entirely upon circumstances.

quarters bankings in the capital that social security legislation in Canada may not be so extensive as quickly as it would seem to be from the present popular and widely publicized discussions along Parliament Hill indeed, when the various difficulties about constitutional jurisdiction and financial obligations of the scheme are considered, it would appear that the whole plan may not start to operate in practice for quite some period, with the Minister of Finance and Pensions, Health, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, having pointed out to the parliamentary committee on social security legislation that "we cannot do more than we can afford."

"I cannot see why in a state of affairs where all the provinces of the country have surpluses and some of them enormous surpluses, the provinces should not undertake this which is primarily their responsibility, not ours, instead of calling on us with our huge deficits, running up to $200,000,000 or $300,000,000 a year, "declared in part Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance. He continued to point out in Parliament that he had asked the civilian population to make sacrifices and to assume burdens. "In regard to old age pensioners, I may I do not think they ought to be asked to assume heavy burdens," he said, "but I think that the Governments which have provincial jurisdiction should come forward and do their duty."

Hog Production in the West

"Let me say now that the grain farmer of Western Canada has started in the livestock business and all the courage and heroism that is required. They need, however, more and more munitions equipment, supplies and foodstuffs.

Old Age Pensioners

The Government in Ottawa has been asked if any consideration had been given to increase old age pensions or to grant a cost of living bonus to pensioners, but a spokesman for the Government has come forth with the assertion that the old age pensioners' problem may have to be considered primarily as a responsibility within provincial jurisdiction "I cannot see why in a state of affairs where all the provinces of the country have surpluses and some of them enormous surpluses, the provinces should not undertake this which is primarily their responsibility, not ours, instead of calling on us with our huge deficits, running up to $200,000,000 or $300,000,000 a year, "declared in part Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance. He continued to point out in Parliament that he had asked the civilian population to make sacrifices and to assume burdens. "In regard to old age pensioners, I may I do not think they ought to be asked to assume heavy burdens," he said, "but I think that the Governments which have provincial jurisdiction should come forward and do their duty."

Hog Production in the West

"Let me say now that the grain farmer of Western Canada has started in the livestock business and he is going to stay there, "declared a member in Parliament when he was arguing that the prices for coarse grains and wheat were lower now than in period of 1928-1929 but the things that our Allies need most, he claimed, were the finished products of these coarse grains and the prices of finished products were all above the prices of 1928-1929 Furthermore, he continued to show that Ontario used to be the big hog producer but today Alberta was first, Manitoba second, and Ontario third with the West producing more than twice as many hogs as the East.

Diplomats and Parliament

This veteran observer had noted for a long time that diplomats in the capital were more conspicuous by their absence rather than then presence in the gallery of the House of Commons in this session, but now this has been brought into the open by a member in Parliament, with the result that a suggestion has been made that these seats should be given to the members for use of their friends, though there would be an understanding that the diplomats could use the space when and if they needed them.

Loyalty to Humanity

After objection had been taken in the House of Commons against certain viewpoints of a well-known Canadian editor, B. K. Sandwell, which he is alleged to have made in the course of a speech before a society in Ottawa, Premier Mackenzie King made an extremely interesting remark. He said in part: "The thought that Mr. Sandwell or anybody else in this country, holding a prominent position and having to do with the shaping of public opinion is disloyal because he ventures to suggest there is such a thing as loyalty to humanity at large seems to me quite ridiculous."

Informal Discussions

Some aspects of international air transport after this war have already been discussed with other Governments. This was disclosed by the Government in Ottawa, though it was indicated clearly there were merely informal discussions.

You Roll Them Better With OGDEN'S FINE CUT

To Help Him NOW . . . and When He Comes Home

YOUR SON (or your neighbor's son) is in battle dress perhaps . . . on a ship at sea, or flying a bomber. You are proud of him, but you pray for the time when he will be back home. You will do anything you can, you say, . . . everything you can . . . to bring him home safe, and bring him home soon.

Well, here is one thing you can do. You can buy Victory Bonds.

When you buy Victory Bonds you help your boy to do the big job he is doing now. You help to make sure that he has everything he needs; better equipment than the enemy has. And you are saving money to have a better home for your boy to return to.

HAVE MONEY FOR HIM WHEN HE COMES HOME

He will want to work with new farm implements . . . new equipment . . . to replace things that may be worn out. He will have new ideas to improve the farm. He may want to experiment with new crops, new stock, new farming methods. He's young and ambitious as you want him to be.

He will need money to do things he plans to do. Victory Bonds . . . money saved now and loaned to Canada to help win the war . . . will be yours and his to use when the war is over.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Harold Ernest Cripps, who passed away April 29, 1938.

Thy will be done, cause hard to say
When one you love has passed away.
Some day perhaps we'll understand
Why we must smile in that land —Fondly remembered by Mother, Dad, Sisters and Brothers.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Albert Edward Shenton, who passed away two years ago, April 28, 1941.

Time when we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they have behind.

Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days,
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.
—Ever remembered by the Family.

Your Victory Garden

We have been urged to produce as much of our own fruit and vegetables as possible this year, due to the ever increasing consumer demand. If every home owner with a suitable garden space will sow, cultivate, harvest and use the produce from it, fresh green and root vegetables will be available for the table.

To make your garden a success, not only are proper cultural practices necessary, but you must be sure you are growing varieties suitable to your particular district. To meet this need, a folder has been prepared, giving a plan of the garden, including the Horticultural zones, a list of recommended varieties of fruits and vegetables for each zone, and other useful and practical information of value to every home or commercial gardener.

Copies of the folder are obtainable on request from Agricultural Extension Service, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

It is an everlasting duty—the duty of being brave.

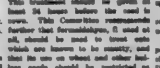
Trust Seed Grain For Best Results

When you are preparing your seed for this spring's Planting, it is well to remember that there are some seed-borne diseases that you should not forget. The Alberta Advisory Committee on the Control of Plant Diseases recommends that all cereals, corn, sweet peas, beans, such as Canada and Lupines, be used for the treatment of wheat, oats, barley and flax. The treatment should be given at least 24 hours before the seed is sown. This Committee also suggests further that formaldehyde, 8 oz. to all, should be used to treat oats which are known to be smutty, and that the use of wheat and other host seeds should be restricted as much as possible. This year when a large percentage of the seed may have suffered, because of frost or excessive dampness, germination may be low, the vigor of the seedlings is likely to be low, and, to treat this seed with formaldehyde, would result in still further loss in ability to produce strong healthy plants.



The Aldrich Family celebrated its fifth anniversary on April 16, for it was on that date that the "family" was born in Clifford Goldsmith's Broadway comedy, "Out of the Frying Pan."

Since that time Henry Aldrich has become America's favorite adolescent, appearing each Thursday by authority of the author's letter of that Canadian neighbour.

Although "The Aldrich Family" has made radio history right from the start, some of the original cast remain intact. At present "Henry" is played by Ezra Stone, who also "Red Brown" by Jack Kelk; "Dan Aldrich" by Rosco Ates; "Mrs. Aldrich" by Katherine Raht and Henry's sister "Mary" by Mary Mallo.

When the fifth anniversary celebration was broadcast by the radio who have played "Mary" since the Goldsmith comedy started on the air, got together with the author to have each character on the anniversary cake. Pretty Ann Lincoln is now playing the feminine role of "Lila Wish Fisher" on Broadway; Mary Mayo is Henry's girl-friend "Kathleen" in the Aldrich household and Mary's sister Charlie Bates has played leading and featured roles in two Broadway plays in the interim, as well as in the film part in the CBS "Maisie's Diary" series. As for Mary Mallo, she is the present sister "Mary" who makes her debut under Henry's auspices very well, thank you.

Mr. George Cranston's many friends are glad she is making such a rapid recovery in the Royal Alex. Hospital. She will be there for another week or two, but very soon she will be home again.

Easter Church Service Well Attended

Easter Services at First United Church was well attended as the congregation took advantage of the excellent spring-like weather to pay homage to the occasion. The church was decorated with spring flowers and many offlowers.

Anthems and choice under the direction of Mrs. S. Thorne and Mrs. E. H. Birdsall, respectively, rendered special music.

Rev. E. H. Birdsall took as his subject for the morning sermon "Let us sing".

During the Service nine young people were admitted to full membership of the church: Olive Dawson, Doris Erickson, Alice Galloway, Kathleen McLellan, Mabel Smith, Grace Wilson, Jack Holmes, Glen Penne, and George Walton.

Mixon-Roberts Wedding Of Interest Here

A wedding of much interest to Fort Saskatchewan people took place on Saturday, April 24th, when Hazel Mary, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Roberts, and Vincent George Mixon, son of Mrs. F. Mixon of Vancouver, was solemnized in the chancel of Holy Trinity church. Rev. W. H. Naisby officiated.

Entering the church on her father's arm, the bride wore an afternoon frock of ice-blue crepe fashioned with a peplum and matching three-quarter-length sleeves. Her corded silk turban in the same shade was tied with ending, and her other accessories were in moss brown. A corsage of red roses was pinned at her shoulder.

Attending her sister as bridesmaid, Miss Gwyneth Roberts wore moss green crepe with brown sleeves and silver-tinged sleeves. Her accessories were in complete tone and she carried pink roses.

Best man was Mr. T. Smith, and guests were ushered by Mr. Herbert Roberts and Mr. Eric Roberts, R.C.N.V.R.

Wedding marches were played by Mr. Harold White.

Fifty guests attended the wedding reception held later at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Roberts received her guests in a two-piece ensemble of dusty blue, with darker blue accessories and corsage of hot pink roses. The bride's mother's dress was a tiny floral model, and her other accessories were in black. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Mrs. Mixon were black crepe, with satin trim, matching accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's table was laid with a white Italian cutwork cloth, graced with bud vases in silver candelabra, and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake. Toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Pelton.

Going away, the bride wore a grey tailored suit and topper.

On their return the couple will take up residence in Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Roberts and family resided in the Fort for a number years before leaving for the city.

If you want to be happy, do not try to live more than one day at a time.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

Though Jesus included in his friendship people of all moral levels, he made very exacting demands upon those who would become of his disciples. We would be disappointed in a mortal doctor who was interested only in those who were well enough to appear before him in good health, so we are not surprised, though the Pharisees were shocked, to know that Jesus' principle of friendship was: "they that be whole need not a physician but they that are sick." This principle of Jesus does not provide an excuse for Christians who wish to have all the positive values of Christianity but want also to retain the normal satisfactions of undisciplined life. To them Jesus might say something like this: You must choose .You have experienced a love that includes you when you are far from worthy of it. You, in accepting the values of being included in that kind of fellowship have acknowledged that that friendship is of highest value. Now, can you honestly go on merely accepting that kind of friendship or are you going to become one of the "including" members of the fellowship? Are you content with being included, or will you positively become one of the "including" ones? Are you content to be a sponge or are going to become part of the "water of life"?

It is the answer to that question which will decide the moral quality of your life. If you are satisfied with being included then you will maintain just enough respectability to escape public disapproval. If you have a keen sense of honor you will positively choose and, by the grace of God, progressively achieve that moral quality which is inseparable with being one of the "including" members of the Christian fellowship.

Red Cross Fund Boosted $50 At Josephburg Social

Josephburg Red Cross staged a most successful evening's entertainment on Friday which netted the cause some sixty dollars. Under the able leadership of our talented "M.C." Mr. Val Kotelensky, the evening never lagged for a moment. Quite outstanding among many good numbers was a play in pantomime entitling Mrs. Albert Mohr as a disgruntled bachelor in search of a housekeeper. Mrs. Mohr in her actions and costume was literally a scream and kept the house convulsed with her antics. Following the programme, an auction of home articles was conducted by George F. Mohr, who wheedled good prices for all the articles offered. The draw for the quilt which the organization had made followed. Pauline Wajtyshyn securing the lucky number. The committee is to be congratulated on a successful evening.

SO IT SEEMED

A travelling salesman dropped in on a bank officer whose desk was covered with letters, papers, magazines and miscellany. The banker was busily writing a memo and greeted the salesman with: "I'm very busy this morning, very busy!" Glancing at the desk the salesman replied: "Well, I'm very glad to hear that. I kinda thought you were just confused."

Winter Pilferers Do Much Damage To Grain

Threshing operations have been in full swing and will soon be over The quality of the grain is surprisingly good and the yield has been really out in half in many cases by winter pilferers, the worst offenders being the mice. We were told on good authority that in some cases as high a score as fifty mice to the stook has been encountered.

Not content with consuming the grain these roundly rodents have pulled out the twine and it is easily tossed to find a bundle still bound. In view of the high winds which have prevailed of late, this work has proved a menkiller. This fact, coupled with the shortage of labour, should engender in our hearts real sympathy for the farmer.

Bremner Red Cross Held Successful Tea

A clean-up day was held at the Bremner Hall on Monday, when members of all sessions of the district took the opportunity of doing building presentable.

Bremner Red Cross held a tea at the Hall on Wednesday afternoon. The ladies were out with teapot and pussy-willows. About fifteen dollars was realized. At the meeting which was held the same afternoon, it was decided to have a quilting bee on Wednesday afternoon, May 12th, as there are nine quilts on hand ready to finish. The remainer of the quilts will be finished at the next monthly meeting, which will be held on May 26th.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. S. Scott and daughters, Janet and Ellen have moved to the new Manse at Bremner, the former home of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Foster. There are extensive grounds and grounds in connection with the house, which has been redecorated. We all wish the Scotts "Happy days" in their new home.

The Junior U.F.A. put on a dance on Friday evening with Mrs. Pierce's orchestra in attendance. Many enjoyed the music and the refreshments served later in the evening.

The Easter service at Bremner, was well attended, the choir seats being filled with C.G.I.T. girls. Miss Lorena Ritchie sang a solo, also Miss Viola McGhee. Four new members were admitted to the church. At the church school service, four little girls, Dawn and Reta McGhee and Louise and Joan Hoehn sang a duet.

Clover Bar Circuit Change Time Schedule

It has been thought advisable by the Church board of the Clover Bar circuit to change the time of church service at Bremner to ten o'clock in the morning, Sunday school following at eleven.

Starting next week it is very important that all news items and advertising copy is in the office in plenty of time. Readers and advertisers will readily understand that it will take considerable more time to wish to get the paper out.

Partridge Hill District Honours Pte. Leslie Gordon

A social evening was held at the Community Hall on Monday evening in honor of Pte. Leslie Gordon, home on furlough from Kingston, Ont. A number of local people supplied music and an hour of dancing was enjoyed, after which Mr. V. B. Lawrence extended to Leslie the good wishes of his friends. Miss Jean Alton on behalf of the community presented a pen and pencil set. Leslie replied thanking everyone for their kindness After singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" lunch was served and all said "goodbye" to the honored guest as he leaves Tuesday evening for Kingston.

Record Starts Contract Next Week

Due to the co-operation of the Council and the Council of the Municipal District of Strathcona, The Record was granted sufficient newsprint to enable it to supply a paper to each resident ratepayer of the large district.

It is hoped to commence the contract next week, as announcements and advertisers are urged to have their copy in by the 7th of each week from now on. The mailing up and sending out of over 1400 papers each week will take considerable time, and we must have the co-operation of all, in order that we catch the mails. Don't forget we have a large district and are serving many people.

John Sellaske, Oldtimer Passes Away

John Sellaski, an old timer of the Fort Saskatchewan district, passed away at his home here on Monday, April 26th at the age of 94 years. He had been three score years and ten a resident of the district. The Peter of Elizabeth; Steve of Fort Saskatchewan; Andrew of Saskatchewan; also nine grandchildren. Funeral services were held Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Fort Catholic Church. Rev. Joel Rutowski, O.F.M., officiated and the interment took place in the family plot in the Shaw cemetery.

Whats In A Name?

In many ways its unfortunate that the powers-that-be hadn't chosen the name Clover Bar for one of their unsuitable names, rather than Strathcona, when the merger of the two districts—Clover Bar and Strathcona was being considered.

When giving the general public some idea of the district, Clover Bar immediately brings to their mind, what was formerly known as Strathcona, but now North Edmonton. People still think we are talking about part of the city.

Then again, the three services would be under the same name: Clover Bar M. D., Clover Bar Health Unit, Clover Bar School Division.

Then maybe—"Clover Bar Bremner."

The city dweller was reading a newspaper when she was heard to exclaim:

"Even the cows are doing it now".

"Doing what?" inquired his wife.

"Hoarding," he replied. "Eight here in the headlines it says, 'Light native cow hides 7 cents'."—Co-operative Digest.

Fort Saskatchewan and District Reach 55.4% Loan Quota

Fort Saskatchewan and adjacent districts are making good progress in the Fourth Victory Loan campaign, which started a week ago Monday. Tuesday night's total, May 4th, 115 applications had subscribed $65,250 for 55.4 per cent of the quota Northern Alberta, Tuesday had reached 48.6 per cent of its $12,709,800 quota in the Fourth Victory Loan.

Local officials are quite confident that Fort Saskatchewan and district residents, like all Canada, will over subscribed the quotas. Residents are backing our boys with bonds to "Back the Attack to Berlin and Tokyo." They are going to make sure that our boys do not want for anything—for the need of money.

People are said to be buying more bonds, with the feeling that the more we buy now—the less we'll have to buy later on.

So when your neighbour, bondsalesman, enters your gate, greet him with a smile, and dig down to the bottom of the old sock.

Subscriptions across the Dominion in the Fourth Victory Loan passed the half-billion dollar mark, Tuesday.

Congratulations to the Fort Record upon its increased circulation. Soon we shall be chalking up the slogan "The Record Spans the World", always provoking the Controller vandalsfor it enough newsprint for such an undertaking. It reminds one of the old saying 'If we had some ham, we could have been and eggs—if we had some eggs. Red Star will have to back up its claims, for its guaranteed circulation to a paltry one hundred and fifteen odd millions. It is up to now to see that the editor is well supplied with manuscript.

Another institution, the Easter week school holiday, has made its last bow to the public for the duration. We shall miss it, that is certain, for it affords a much desired breathist before we finally 'rot in the country'. Maybe someone will devise 'pay pills' to take its place. As a source of income to the attention of pupils that there is a war on, particularly no better method could be devised.

The air of late has been resonant with the flight and chirping of hundreds of snow bunlings. Never have we seen one tenth as many at any given time. Whether these atoms are hoarding preparatory to a trek north, we cannot say, however it is known They tell us that these small feathered friends rid us of countless weed seeds which otherwise would be moistured over the snow by the wind. If they must leave us, we will wish them "bon voyage".

We have just lifted from the ground a bumper crop of parsnips which have remained there all winter. To those who are not acquainted with this method of storage, we would strongly recommend it as a 100 per cent satisfactory solution both of storage space and of providing a stock of vegetables at a time when supplies are low. We have never in this district seen bigger or more perfect samples and if we thought for a moment that we should be believed, we would give figures on girth and length which would sound fantastic. It is most unfortunate that other root crops cannot be treated in the same manner. We have already seen next year's crop and expect to be safe in that expectation of course rotation to be verified.

Bernie Fisher who has joined the Navy is now in far off News Scotia. Bernie is a brave laddie and we congratulate him on his well deserved promotion.

Our experience of Bernie leads us to believe that if anyone shows him some work to do, he'll do it.

World of Wheat

by

H. G. L. Strange

Farmers I suggest should be very careful this year in the treatment of certain seed grain, particularly flax and oats. From all that one can find out wheat and barley seem to be germinating well this year, and to have strong vitality. It might, therefore, be quite proper, if desired, to treat wheat and barley this year with formaldehyde, but if this is done the grower must be absolutely certain that the solution is no stronger than recommended by the manufacturer as stated in the directions on the package, for a very little extra strength in the solution will certainly lower germination.

Flax and oats, however, I suggest, should be treated this year only with mercurial dust—Ceresan or Leytosan—(because some of these crops were treated with early fall frost which weakened vitality.) These mercurial dusts do not harm germination; on the contrary they actually improve germination. Again, however, the proper amount for the various grains, as marked by the manufacturer on the package, must be used.

I have seen wheat and oats improved 10% in germination by the use of mercurial dust. Mercurial dusts have the advantage that the grain can be treated and stored a week or so before seeding without any harm to the seed.

DR. SEAGER WHEELER
Rosthern, Sask.—"The World's Champion Wheat Grower"

Worlds Champion Wheat Grower

Born in England, the "Wheat Wizard of Saskatchewan" spent his early years on a clerk in the Old Country. In 1888 he emigrated to Canada, and homesteaded north of Rosthern where he learned the elements of farming. In 1900 he was attracted to the Rosthern district where he purchased, for less than one thousand dollars, the 160 acre farm on which the celebrated experiments which made his name a household word in Western Canada were carried out.

One of his initial achievements was producing 40 bushels of wheat to the acre on three inches of rainfall.

In 1911 he moved one of his greatest experiments, the production of Marquis wheat, he won the "world's championship" at the New York land show, and was awarded the prize of $1,000 offered by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy. In 1914 and 1915 he won similar honors, and earned for himself the appellation "The World's Champion Wheat Grower".

For his services to Canadian agriculture, Seager Wheeler was honored in 1916 by a doctor of laws degree conferred by Queen's University.

Recommends VICTORY BONDS

Dr. Wheeler says:

"If Canadians were asked to give money to help to win the war we would not be asked to make a big sacrifice. Some are giving their lives. We are asked to lend money. I am sure that farmers throughout Canada will be glad to lend money to their country, for like all other Canadians, they know we must do all we can to help.

"There is a practical reason for buying Victory Bonds, too. The money we lend to Canada now, to help to win the war, will be ours to use as we please after the war has been won. Ready cash will be handy to have when we will want to replace farm equipment that is wearing out now. A farmer can always find a use for savings, and there is no better way to save than by investing all we can in Victory Bonds."

More Than Taxes

One public organization in the province of Ontario is publicizing the Fourth Victory Loan Campaign among its members, reduced to thinking to the following words, viz.

"It takes more than taxes to conquer the Axis."

It is interesting to observe how plain ordinary words are often grouped to drive home simply a very important truth We can take the greater part of Finance Minister Ilsley's able budget speech, analyze it, and find that the sentiments quoted above sums up Mr Ilsley's thinking remarkably well

If all Canada's thoroughly understood that all our taxes, heavy though they may be, are not sufficient to give our boys in uniform what they need to defeat these fiendish enemies of Berlin, the successful sale of Fourth Victory Loan Bonds, totalling $1,100,000,000 assured

Our Canadian heroes will not travel three quarters of the way to Berlin and then call off their mission Neither will the folks back home stop short of the full financial objective needed for Canada's complete war effort. Tax payments take no only half way Bond purchases will enable us to go all the way.

Who wakes the army bugler? Anyway, since July the department of munitions and supply has brought 450 alarm clocks, compared with 600 bugles. Your $100 Victory Bond will buy 10 bugles, 2 alarm clocks and 60 brass rivets for rifle slings.

Battle of Agriculture

The course of wars is determined by the winning of battles. In this global war battles on the home front must be just as completely planned and executed as battles between the armed forces. Although the conflicts between the armed forces are the most spectacular and more often make the headlines then the endeavours on the home fronts, industrial and agricultural production is of supreme importance.

The battle of agriculture is the battle for life itself. The objective of production of the greatest quantity of concentrated foods possible despite of labour shortage and limitation of equipment, calls for sacrifice and work. The demand must be met. Foods are needed for Canada's armed forces, civilian population, ship's stores, the Red Cross and to meet export commitments to Great Britain and other United Nations.

The soldiers engaged in the battle of agriculture are the farm families and such hired workers as are available. The implements of war are the soil, the crops, the live stock, the buildings and equipment and all things used in the production of crops and live stock. The first duty of a soldier is adequate care of his weapons. With the land army this involves soil conservation, correct cultural methods, quality of crops and stock and prevention of losses due to diseases, insects, weeds, unnecessary conditions and incorrect feeding.

The army in this battle of agriculture is suffering from lack of supplies—lack of manpower, of farm machinery and other equipment. The fight has been in our favour, but there are indications which give cause for alarm. Unless adequate manpower is available, further increases in production are doubtful and the maintaining of present levels questionable. Every man hour is of importance. Many veterans in agriculture will return to the fields in an endeavour to replace sons and grandsons who are serving with the armed forces. The task must not be left to the older generation Youth and middle age must do their share Residents of cities and towns will be called on for an even greater contribution to farm work this year

The battle of agriculture will be won on the fields, in the barns, and on the homes of this country It will be won only through the most effective and efficient use of all the factors of production

Letter to the Editor

Regimental Number, M.M.G.S. R.C.A., M.D.I.

Mr. Gordon Neale,
Editor: The Fort Record,

Just a few lines to let you know that another bunch of Canadian boys arrived safely over Well, Mr. Neale I guess the good old Fort is looking forward to spring now. This country is sure a wonderful place, the grass and flowers are all out in bloom. The birds singing all the time, sure makes us boys lonely, when we hear them. But, we have a job to do, and will get used to it. But just the same I wouldn't trade the wheels of England for any home town. The people over here have nearly got all their garden in now. I sure wish we could have our town paper over here to read. We haven't been here long but have met quite a number of the boys.

We had a nice trip over, and hope to have another one home soon bringing victory and freedom with us.

Well there isn't much news around us, if you would like you to tell the people to write to me, as it would brighten things up for me.

The American Red Cross gave us a very nice bag containing many useful items which we were sure pleased us.

I will close for now hoping to hear from you soon.

Yours respectfully,

Pte. Buchanan, H. E.
M106170.

Editor's note: Regards the paper "Bush", we'll see what can be done about it.

Tunnel to Mainland

A tunnel from Prince Edward Island to Canada's mainland should be constructed right after this war in order that this Province would not be so isolated. This was proposed by a member of Parliament and it received considerable attention amongst the other legislators as well as gossip in the lobbies.

Re-Assignment To Farm Work

Since there has been a shortage of skilled ex farms it has become difficult in the capital that farmers who have been engaged in war industries or similar undertakings during the non-active farming season on temporary permits, are subject to the effects of a notification which the managers of employment and selective service offices across Canada have received with this being that such persons in war industries or similar undertakings are to be re-assigned to farm work when the season opens which time differs in various parts of this country

Charges Are Denied

After an investigation had been made by the proper authorities regarding charges that to unnecessary cigarettes sent to Canadian soldiers were being outcoles or that these were not reaching their destination, the result of this inquiry was these charges were found to be wrong It was also reported that over 2,000,000 parcels of cigarettes have been sent overseas each year and of these there were only 84 complaints, with 78 of these having been adjusted satisfactorily

The Real Situation

Hon. James G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, has thrown new light on the feed grain situation, pointing out that there has been some difficulty to get feed grain moved from the West to the East so that an opinion has prevailed that there may be a shortage somewhere. In reality, there has been a vast quantity of feed grain in this country but there has been a difficulty to obtain cars with which to move it to areas where it has been required. Moreover, the opinion that it has been allowed to go to the United States rather than to Eastern Canada has no foundation and feeders in the United States have had as much trouble in shipping grain as farmers in Eastern Canada, with the real reason being care on both sides of the boundary. In conclusion, Hon. James Gardiner has issued a warning that farmers should get as much feed grain as possible next summer while it could be shipped by water, emphasizing that there was plenty of feed grain in the West, though to get it East was another matter.

Cost Is An Important Factor

While it is admitted in Ottawa that there are raw materials or deposits for aluminum in this country itself just as one-tenth of the earth's surface contains aluminum, yet, if Canada wishes to maintain this industry at a striking price in present scale or scope, it is much more practical and much cheaper to use the richest deposits which Canada is found, with South and Central America having such rich products. In other words, it is a question of costs and Canada must produce it at the lowest possible cost in order to sell its products in world markets at world competitive prices and to maintain its position which means that its raw products must be obtained in the lowest cost market Of course, with labour as factor, it has become difficult in the capital that farmers who have been engaged in war industries or similar undertakings during the non-active farming season on temporary permits, are subject to the effects of a notification which the managers of employment and selective service offices across Canada have received with this being that such persons in war industries or similar undertakings are to be re-assigned to farm work when the season opens which time differs in various parts of this country

"By Jove, I am not covetous for gold nor care I who doth feed upon my cost; it yourse me not if men my garments wear; such outward things dwell not in my desires; but if it be a sin to covet honour I am the most offending soul alive."

King Henry V, Part 1, Act 4, Scene 3.

Said King Henry V of England on the eve of an invasion of the continent of Europe five centuries ago.

At Agincourt the arms of England won a victory that lives inscribed for evermore on the national scroll of honour. Today Shakespeare's words re-echo in our ears as we Canadians prepare to offer our wealth, our goods, our blood, in a cause more honourable than Henry's; more honourable than any that history has yet recorded. Do we, too, covet honour more than cost, more than gold, and outward things? Let it not be said that even the least one among us has failed to back the attack.

In answer to allegations that New Brunswick was not getting its proper share of war contracts, Hon. J. E. Cover More Ground Per Gallon On "99" Gas — "Polymerized" To Fight Knock and Engine Wear

New Refining Process Gives New High Rating To Famous "99" Brand

In the Autumn of 1942, a new and better gasoline came into being in Turner Valley, when the completed "Polymerization Unit" of Gas and Oil Products Limited started turning out a fluid with an octane rating just under 90!

Blended with regular refinery-run gasoline, this "Polymerized" fluid produced a motor fuel with an amazingly high anti-knock rating that received the addition of ten tetra-ethyl lead. Farmers on the land this Spring are learning what motorists discovered last Fall—that "99" gasoline go farther and cut down "knock" and engine wear.

There's a "99" dealer in your community. Whether you run a high compression tractor or not, you'll find he has a "99" gas to help you "cover more ground with every gallon". Consult the "99" dealer or built plant agent in your district—he'll be glad to show you how you can get more out of your truck or tractor this Spring and Summer.

WHEAT STEM SAWFLY

Just one year ago, we emphasized the newly found pest. We directed the attention of farmers to an excellent description of control methods, Special Pamphlet No. 59, and placed a copy in all line country elevators.

Let us remember two facts. Firstly, the sawfly is still a threat and, secondly, it can be controlled. The results of research and experimentation on your by your, is going to more effective control methods.

Last year, Dr. K. M. King and Dr. C. W. Farstad, through the co-operation of farmers, conducted a series of 15 sawfly trap shooting times. The results are full of meaning to all wheat farmers in sawfly areas. We quote from the report:

"In every district except one, traps placed on summer fallow gave very worthwhile control in 1942 . . . They show clearly that good sawfly traps can be highly effective in Southern Alberta.

"In the trapped fields, as an average, less than 2 rods at the margin were sufficiently infested . . . to result in severe losses of kinds due to fallen stems. Comparable untrapped wheat was severely infested in more than 11 rods from the margin, the average of the districts concerned in this study.

"It is estimated that, on the average, at least ten times as many heads of wheat were lost in the untrapped fields than in the comparable trapped ones."

Write to Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Lethbridge, Saskatoon or Brandon for Special Pamphlet No. 59 and other information, and ask your local line elevator agent for a copy of "The Wheat Stem Sawfly."

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

A group of us at College were once told by a Professor: "Gentlemen, usually you will have something to say, but sometimes you will have to say something." A rolman writer is not very often in the latter state, especially if he does not limit himself to one area of life. As my primary concern is the Christian interpretation of present day life, my mind wanders into many fields, and a great variety has been the result. So great has that variety been that the reader who thinks I should always write to please him, may suppose that my columns is often both disappointing and disgusting. I am grateful to him, and to others who have commented more favorably, for I hold that it is in the process of mutual criticism that we approach maturity.

My general viewpoint is that the course of life of all individuals, all institutions, all groups, all nations, is not merely a list of events but a meaningful order. Furthermore, I am of the opinion that we become aware of that fact and deliberately choose that our lives shall have meaning related to the Ultimate Meaning, then life becomes more satisfying. Though the way of responsibility, shared life and shared meaning is often accompanied by a kind of suffering unknown to the animal way of life, yet it is the only way of escaping the curse of "half-living" and meaningless conflict, and the only way to "life abundant."

From this point of view it is my custom to write on whatever in our way of living comes to my attention, and I invite any who wish to share with me the search for truth to comment or criticize as well, either directly to me or through the Editor of this Paper.

Will Rural Schools Hold Truck Next?

It is full time to ascertain possibilities so as to holding the annual school Track Meet. Nine local schools, Bethel, Castle, Deep Creek, Mansfield, Good Hope, Tyres, Partridge Hill Pleasant View and Josephburg, have been represented in the past and last year Bert Frey, teacher of Douglas School, brought up a skeleton crew of all these schools will be asked in the near future to attend a get-together meeting at Josephburg school so it would be well for each teacher to sound public opinion in her district so that she may be able to present fully the views of her community at that meeting. Further if it can be arranged, it is sound policy to bring along some outstanding men or women from the district upon whose interest and cooperation you can count.

At the annual general meeting of Teachers held at Easter this year, a special recommendation was endorsed by leading Child Welfare organizations that no legitimate school sport activities be curtailed this year in view of the steady rise in child delinquency due to war conditions. Sport is the natural outlet for excess energy and is infinitely superior to any other safety valve yet invented. "All work and no play, makes Jack a dull boy" but it makes him a miserable boy also. Transportation and Time are the two terrible twins that must be deoppitated. Spare not the axe!

"You're In The Army NOW"!

A detachment of Highlanders arrived in camp, and the sentry reported to the sergeant-major:

"Excuse me, sir, but the pipers have come."

The R.S.M. looked up from his desk and snorted: "Don't you know there's a war on? I haven't time to read 'em now."

Josephburg News

The weather during the past week has been altogether too chilly to encourage grain seeding. Threshing operations are almost entirely over and some spring work fin. Land accomplished. The ground is well stored with moisture, few will say you and the season is not unduly late considering this fact.

Labor is the biggest problem, but by cutting out unessentials and concentrating on essentials and by neighbors interchanging work even this difficulty will be solved.

Beaver Hill Church W.A held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Bert Hartell at 2:3 Point. The main item on the agenda was a discussion as to whether or not the annual Strawberry Social, which is usually held on Josephburg Community grounds, be carried on this summer, and should be held. It was decided that it should be held. Watch for advertisement later in the Fort Record

Municipal road gangs are working overtime to restore the surface of our highways badly cut up by the heavy spring traffic. Some good sport has already been made in the ditches by our motorists. That is to be feared that irreparable damage has been done and that patching is all that can be undertaken for the duration. "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" was not said for nothing, hence we must not be disappointed if the outcome fails to measure up under wet conditions.

Town Council to Stop Bike Riding on Walks

Minutes of a Town Council meeting held in the Council Chambers, last Friday night. Mayor C. R. W. Magor, Councillors, Wiebe, Glover and Neale present.

The gulf course was rented for the duration to C. D. Jacca, who will use the land for pasture purposes. Land and fences will then be kept in good conditions, and ready for the preparation of a course, when hostilities cease.

Wm. Cumming was granted a dog kennel license.

Secretary reported that a large amount of tax arrears had been collected during the past week. This was cheering news to the Councillors who sat night after night, endeavoring to keep the good ship Fort Saskatchewan afloat.

The question of replacing the wooden sidewalk, at the east-end of town, running north from the highway was considered. It was finally decided to replace same with cinders, providing a sufficient quantity can be obtained at a reasonable price.

During the discussion, it was brought out, that cinders make an ideal base, for tar mends or cement. So looking to the future, your Councillors will have a good base to lay the time comes for surfacing.

Something has to be done about wheels being ridden on the sidewalks. This is a dangerous practice and one that the Councillors feel must be stopped. It was decided that offender's bicycles would henceforth be taken away for a few days. Each time the wheel-base period will be of a longer duration.

Work on the hitching rack will commence shortly. Teamsters will then be required to tie their teams at the place provided for.

Complaints and the steady increase in teams rousing into town, makes this ruling necessary.

Now! All Together!!

The Councillors of the Municipality of Strathcona, the people of the same territory, and The Fort Record are embarked upon a very interesting three-sided project. The Council has arranged for this paper to be sent to every resident ratepayer in the Municipality in order that, through its columns, the people may be kept thoroughly informed of all important happenings, decisions, and projected schemes of the Municipality, as well as legislation, both Provincial and Dominion, as it affects the Municipality. The Editor of this Paper, on his part, agrees to provide the best possible paper and to give all Municipal news and business favored consideration.

These two parts of the contract are now, with the appearance of this issue, in operation and both will grow, both in quantity and quality. The extent to which they will be able to make that increase will depend upon the cooperation of the third party of the agreement; that is, the people.

What can the people do to bring this project quickly to its fullest value? The answer is: News about people, about Clubs and societies and their activities; reports community events and plans; letters suggesting improvements in every aspect of Municipal life; comments and suggestions about articles and columns appearing in The Record, and anything else anyone thinks worth writing about. A very timely suggestion would be a 'Victory Farming' column, carrying items from farmers, dairymen, and stock-raisers on devices and short-cuts they have discovered in the production of more and better produce.

The price of a stamp and a little effort brings that news into your local paper, where your neighbor and his neighbor will enjoy reading it.

This is going to be good. Let's get in on it!

Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta.
Dear Mrs. Walton

Please accept our thanks for your letter of April 30th enclosing cheque for $600.00 being 75 per cent of the total amount raised by your Branch in connection with the 1943 National War Appeal, official receipt for which is enclosed herewith.

For the splendid success which the Fort Saskatchewan Branch has achieved in raising this amount please accept the sincere thanks of the Northern Alberta Campaign Committee. I shall be indebted to you for your courtesy if you will kindly convey our appreciation to your Committee and the members of the Branch.

Once more the National Appeal has been a success throughout Canada. Alberta has raised more than 80 per cent above the objective and Northern Alberta has gone well over the figure set by National headquarters. This is due to the whole-hearted cooperation which we have received from members of our branches and the people in their communities who have demonstrated their willingness to back the work of the Red Cross.

Yours very truly,
John D. Dower,

SCHOOL FLASHES

On Thursday, April 22, the F.H.S students participated in an exciting treasure-hunt. The three groups competing for the prize spent a hectic hour climbing trees, fences, stevedoreing etc., on a mad rush to get to the prize first. The three lucky terminated at the bridge, and once there, the students and teachers dug into the hard ground in the final search for the hidden treasure was finally found, and each participant received a small share, the prize being a box of chocolates won by Group II.

When the chocolates were eaten, a strenuous game of prisoner's base was played. After the game a bonfire was lit, and for the next hour, wieners were roasted and eaten. The evening's fun ended with a sing-song, and everyone returned home, full of joy, wieners, and pop.

Gas & Oil Co., Ltd.
Make Aviation Gas

As a direct result of installing the only "Polymerization" unit in Canada now in operation, Alberta oil producers, refiners and marketers, are now making aviation gasoline for use by the Royal Canadian Air Forces at training centres throughout Western Canada, Company officials announced last week.

Aviation Gas of Dominion Standards

The first aviation gasoline of Dominion Government standards was run off a few days ago on completion of a desulphurization unit which has been under construction since the "Polymerization" process was installed, and supplies are building up rapidly as company storage points ready for delivery to R.C.A.F. stations, it was stated.

Octane, or anti-knock, standards set by the government for aviation gasoline call for ratings of 87 and 89, both of which the Turner Valley refinery is able to supply through utilization of the new polymerization plant.

The catalytic polymerization process was first put to practical use in the United States only a few years ago, and the first plant in the Dominion was completed at Turner Valley in August, 1942.

"Our Turner Valley Refinery consists of two units, the topping process, which refines crude oil, and the cracking procedure used to refine the residue from the topping unit", an official of Gas and Oil Products stated in explaining the new process.

Under the new process, the vapor gases from the cracking unit are compressed and then scrubbed with a solution that removes sulphur compounds found in the natural gasoline. These sulphur-free vapor gases are further compressed and heated to the desired reaction temperature at which time they are passed through a bed of material, known as a "catalyst" which causes them into a high grade gasoline. This polymerized gasoline is then separated from the residue flowing to the cracking unit for further refinery motor fuel.

Octane Heading

"The polymerized gasoline has an octane blending value of 93, which means that when it is blended with the refinery gasoline, the total blend is a higher quality product than it was formerly possible to produce. It is therefore now possible to produce a higher octane Ethyl gasoline, using less tetra-ethyl lead fluid than formerly, not only saving the lead fluid for aviation gasoline, for which it is urgently needed, but also producing a better quality motor fuel at the same time," he stated.

May 11th, 1943

The Editor,
The Fort Record,
Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta,

Dear Sir:

May we of the Clover Bar Health Unit offer you our congratulations on the enlargement in distribution of your valued paper.

The large dailies, while endeavouring to help, often have a particular message smothered by a flood of irrelevant material. Whereas the home newspaper has items of interest carefully sifted by one who knows his community as do few others.

The Health Unit has, during the first few years, a rough road in starting a new field. Its first work is not spectacular, and mostly just "plain heavy slugging". In your district the first western hospitality has gradually changed to a friendly welcome. Many a kindly remark and boost has been offered in the columns of the Record.

So you can see that your enlarged scope is a matter of interest to us, with not only regards to you, but congratulations to ourselves as well.

Yours sincerely,

Farm and Home Clubs Increase Membership

Though the various war services and essential industries have depleted most country districts of many of the young people of junior club age, both boys and girls, the Junior Farm and Home Clubs in Alberta are entering another successful season during 1943.

According to Mr. S. H. Gandier, membership figures for Junior Farm Clubs in Canada for 1942 showed a decrease in membership over the [illegible] of approximately 7 per cent, but it is interesting to note that Alberta did not contribute to this decrease but showed a membership increase in 1942 to 94 per cent. This year there is likely to be a further slight increase in both number of clubs and total membership. Figures for the 1942 season will be approximately as follows—Crop clubs 96; beef calf clubs 62; dairy calf clubs 12; swine clubs 16; poultry clubs 8; girls' home project clubs 53; Total membership of farm boys and girls in all of these clubs when they are fully organized will be approximately 2,500.

Though economy in Government expenditure is very necessary during the war, both the Provincial and Junior Club activities.

Dominion Governments continues to be sympathetic toward all activities that have to do with the training of our boys and girls. Evidently they realize fully that the farm boys and girls of today are the farmers and housewives of tomorrow, and that moneys spent on club work now are repaid many times in the not too distant future, through improved agricultural practices developed by our

What is my Income

This year thousands of farmers must pay income tax for the first time. Under such circumstances it is vitally important to maintain accurate records of farm costs and revenue, in order that income may be accurately determined.

The Royal Bank Farmers' Account Book is exactly what you need to keep accurate records of farm operations. It has been used by progressive farmers for years for just such a purpose. A copy is yours for the asking at any branch of the bank.

THE STORY BEHIND MEAT RATIONING

Food is a weapon of war, and we must share our supplies with those who are fighting to keep the war from our shores. After all special wartime demands are taken care of, only one half of the meat produced in Canada will be available for ordinary domestic consumption at home.

Most supplies for our Armed Forces must be maintained at all costs.

Canned meat is required in large quantities by the Red Cross to send to our boys who are prisoners of war.

Great Britain has to depend more and more on Canada for supplies to maintain even in present low ration rate of 24 ounces worth of meat per person, per week.

Since the war started the consumption of meat by civilians has increased in Canada. Great defence projects such as the Alcan Highway and the Shipshaw Power Development have crossed new and large demands for meat, in areas where practically no demand existed before.

Since the war started the consumption of meat by civilians has increased in Canada. Great defence projects such as the Alcan Highway and the Shipshaw Power Development have crossed new and large demands for meat, in areas where practically no demand existed before.

Those like Newfoundland and the West Indies, which previously secured their meat from other sources—must now depend to a great extent on Canada.

The many extra ships of the United Nations now calling at Canadian ports, must be furnished with meat.

RATIONING IS INTELLIGENT FORESIGHT — INTELLIGENT PLANNING

Coupon rationing is the only way of ensuring equal sharing of the meat available for civilian consumption in Canada. Those with lots of money will not get more than their share—and those with less money will be assured of getting their fair share.

Rationing will help prevent local meat shortages such as occurred last year from becoming widespread and continuous throughout the whole Dominion. The incentive for panic-buying which empties butcher shops early in the day, will be eliminated.

THE MEAT RATION WILL BE AMPLE FOR HEALTH AND NUTRITION

Fortunately, our meat production in Canada has increased. So, although only half our production will be available for civilian use, it will mean a reduction of only about 15% to 20% in the average household consumption.

The proposed ration of 2 lbs. (carcass weight) per person, per week, has been approved by the country's leading food and nutrition authorities, as ample for the health and nutrition standards of everyone—regardless of age or occupation.

DATES AND OTHER DETAILS REGARDING MEAT RATIONING—SOON TO BECOME EFFECTIVE IN CANADA — WILL BE ANNOUNCED LATER

Beyond the Blue Horizon At Sharps' Shows

"Beyond the Blue Horizon" is this week's presentation at Sharp's Shows—Thursday and Saturday evenings. Starring Dorothy Lamour, Richard Denning, Jack Haley and a large cast of well-known stars of screenland. The story goes something like this: Dorothy Lamour arrives in the U.S. heralded as a jungle queen. Denning, who also is a white boy from the jungle now working with the circus, believes she is a fake and tries to expose her. With that, a challenge is issued and Walter Abel (who found her), Jack Haley (Denning's press agent) and Helen Gilbert (his girl), journey to the jungles to find papers buried in a strong-box which will establish Dorothy's identity. After many adventures, they succeed. On the boat returning to the States, the romance which has been budding between Dorothy and Denning gives promises of maturing.

The picture has the kind of stuff the critics will disparage by poking fun at, but which is the rank and file of audiences will most assuredly enjoy thoroughly. There is plenty of humor in the films.

This week's broadcast of the Choristers was taken recently at CBC's Winnipeg studios. Mr. Anderson is at the centre of the group.

Canada's Fighting Navy means something special and personal to Canadians. We can all conjure up a mental picture of young boys and older men in navy blue suits, their traditional round hats, large braided collars, and flapping trousers. They are a familiar sight on the streets of our cities and towns and a vital part of our war machine. Most of us realize that that's the sailor's life is a hard one', but we cannot possibly realize how hard it really is, without going with them on manoeuvres. This, of course, is not possible for the majority of folks, so the next best way of doing the Navy's story to Canada is through dramatic stories and movies, one of the best of which is the picture "Fighting Navy" heard over CJCA each Thursday at 7:30. This tells of a young lad, son of a Naval Commander who joins the Navy as a "rating". It is a thrilling, engrossing story, and one that you will want to listen to each week.

Speaking about balking remains us of the story of a southern negro and his balky mule.

Sam was going from home with his mule hitched to a buggy and the mule called a halt. All persuasion failed to convince the mule that he should advance. The local doctor was passing and offered first aid. This he proceeded to render by means of a hypodermic injection. The result was magical and gamy went the mule and buggy, at break-neck speed, with Sam in hot pursuit. The negro reluctantly abandoned the chase and sat down to regain his breath.

By this time the doctor was once more at Sam's side

"Was the dope that you gave my mule expensive?" he asked his benefactor.

"O, no" said that worthy. 'A dose like that would cost only about 10 cents.'

"Doc', say Sam, 'I want you to give me twenty cents worth right now, for nothing short of a double dose will ever help me catch that mule.'

Dr. A. E. Aldridge Visits Beaver Hills Church

Beaver Hills Church was honored with the presence of Dr. Aldridge, who assisted the pastor at morning service. In a brief address, Dr. AMridge recalled that in 1901 he was brought out from Fort Saskatchewan by Joe Done and his sister in a buggy, to conduct his first service in this identical building. "Lay up for yourselves treasures in Heaven" was the theme of his address, and in simple language he explained to his audience his view that such treasure consist of happy memories of which his own general personality, we are sure, has accumulated a vast store. Almost 80 years of age, this virile man refuses to be superannuated and continues his ministry in Calgary and vicinity with unabated zeal.

"The harvest truly is plentiful: the laborers are few" is his maxim. May he continue to grow young for many years yet!

District Feels Labor Shortage

Mr. T. Landers attended to present to the council the hardship of flood waters on his land due to the spreading out of the road grade over the end of a culvert which carried the water to its natural outlet. He intimated he was not claiming damages but that he did want the culvert opened. After Mr. Landers had advised that it was impossible for him to furnish the necessary labor to open the culvert the Divisional councillor promised to attend to it if he could get the necessary labor. It was pointed in the discussion that it was almost impossible, on account of the serious shortage of farm labor, to get residents to perform small road jobs even when it was to their direct interests to do so as well as that of the Municipality.

New Hospital Agreement

The Secretary was instructed to contact the Edmonton Hospital Association with the view of having the new agreement drawn up on the basis of the former M.D. of Clover Bar agreement and submit same to the next meeting for approval.

Lumber Needed Bad

Instructions were also issued to the Secretary to make every effort to procure a car load of lumber, or even load lots, suitable for bridge and culvert purposes. To show how difficult it is to get lumber for municipal requirements we quote the following paragraph from a letter recently received in the office from the Western Lumbermen's Association. "In regard to municipal bridge plank, lumber representatives have been made to try and secure reasonable quantities because we know the need will be great this spring, but to date the Timber Control Department has only agreed that 13 cars are to be shipped to the three Prairie Provinces up to May 15th, whereas hundreds of cars are vaguely required."

Paper to Reimburse

The Committee appointed to negotiate with the Publisher of the "Fort Record" with the view of having the paper mailed to every resident taxpayer in the District reported. It advised that negotiations had been completed whereby the paper will publish reports, notices and advertisements pertaining to the administration of the Municipality and a copy mailed to all resident taxpayers.

Parliamentary Tempo

It is hinted in usually well-informed corners about Parliament Hill that there will be more action or more developments in the coming weeks of this session than in the immediate past period and if so greater speed is shown in the discussions of Parliament from now onwards there is a strong possibility that this session may go on for at least another three months. Extremely important debates are almost sure to arise in the weeks ahead with much enlightenment and refreshing breadth to mark those lengthy and heated discussions on various [illegible] as compared with some of the [illegible] effort to the extradition treaty with the United States, which will be sponsored by the Minister of Justice, a bill with respect to the Canadian National Railways Financing and Guarantee Act, amendments to the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, and possibly an amendment to the Consolidated Revenue and Audit Act, which will be sponsored by the Department of Finance, from the Department of Justice, there is likely to be an amendment to the Criminal Code and a possible amendment to the Exchequer Court Act, from the Department of Labour, it is expected there will come a bill to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act; from the Department of Mines and Resources will come a Bill to ratify an agreement with the Province of British Columbia regarding administration of minerals within Indian reserves; from the Department of National Revenue, there will be an amendment to the National Revenue Act; from the Department of Naval Services, there may be a slight amendment to the Naval Service Act. These are a few of the activities contemplated. On a previous occasion in this session, the leader of the Progressive-Conservative Party in the House of Commons Gordon Graydon, had proposed that something should be done to speed up the work of Parliament, but Premier Mackenzie King did not seem to approve of any such plans at that time in this wartime period. However it is now whispered that still another effort in this direction will be made to "modernize" Canada's Parliament and its functions, with the story hastenings along Parliament Hill being that there is a possibility that this may be attempted, that is the demand for changes, before this session will end.

Foresight is Needed

Although it would seem that this is no time of the year to be seriously concerned about coal or heating problems, yet this is true now for the reason in the nation's capital. It may be attributed to the sudden chaos over coal in the past winter and to conditions brought on in part by the war, including the labor troubles in the United States mines and the labor shortages as well as increased cost of production due to meeting by rail and other means in the Canadian mines. Therefore, it is reported in the capital that the Honourable Paul Martin, Senior would like to see that at least 30,000,000 tons of coal or an increase of over 2,500,000 tons should be produced in Canada this year, with a view possibly to either being unable to achieve this objective, especially in regard to securing sufficient coal to meet essential work. In addition, householders are again being advised strongly to obtain their coal supplies at the right time which is as early as possible and once again proper financial credits are very much available for such purposes.

Synthetic Rubber

It has been revealed in Ottawa that the Government's plan for providing an adequate supply of synthetic rubber is now well under way and it is not from grain alcohol, but by from a petroleum product. We hope to have a plant in Canada before summer, said Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, in the House of Commons.

Farmers and Industry

A question has been asked in Parliament if there is not a legal provision that a farmer, who has been temporarily employed in industry where his services may be considered essential, may be kept there. "I do not want to give the definite an answer," replied Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor. "The exception does not prove the rule. If any farmer who left the farm, say this winter to go into industry, is warranted keeping him there. He would go back to the farm." When the Minister was pressed for a more specific answer, he said: "I say he will go back to the farm is that case but the exception does not prove the rule."

Sharp Criticisms

It is obvious from remarks not only heard in the House of Commons but in the lobbies or corridors as there is much dissatisfaction in regard to the very heavy expenditures of the War Information Board. Indeed, a strong attack has been made against some of the costs or salaries paid to personnel, such as $12,500 as salary, $2850.05 as living allowance, and $7452.32 as travelling expenses for the adviser in the New York office of the War Information Board, Leo Casey; $6,000 in salary and $82.42 as travelling expenses for S. A. Friefield, research economist in charge of the news desk in the same office; $5,500 in salary, $2,250.05 as living allowance and $440.55 as travelling expenses of H. R. Sutherland, photographic editor who is in charge of distribution of photographs and editorial feature material; $6,105 as living allowance and $497.85 as travelling expenses of J. H. Campbell, who is in charge of the Washington office and [illegible] though he received no salary. While these criticisms were being made in Parliament, a member could be heard making such remarks as "a useless position", "holding short of an outlet", "fourteen-year-old boy could do that", "he must have lived in a royal palace," and so forth.

WHEAT ACREAGE REDUCTION

Farmers of the Prairie Provinces, including the Peace River and Creston areas of British Columbia, who desire to divert wheat acreage to the production of any other crops or to summerfallow in 1943, may claim payment for doing so.

Payment of $2.00 may be made for each acre by which the wheat seeded on any farm in 1943 is below that seeded on such farm in 1940. If there was no wheat on a farm in 1940 but there was wheat in 1939, the 1939 acreages may be used instead of those of 1940. Any crops or summerfallow may be substituted for wheat, but payment will not be made on abandoned lands.

Payment on any farm is limited to an acreage not greater than 80% of the total cultivated acreage of such farm.

To obtain payment farmers must make a sworn statement of claim immediately seeding is completed. They should plan to do so NOT LATER THAN JUNE 30th.

Any farmer who did not apply for Wheat Acreage Reduction payment in either 1941 or 1942 and intends to do so in 1943 must notify his municipality of his intention before May 31, and then make his claim after seeding.

Forms are available in the offices of the municipalities or direct from offices of the Wheat Acreage Reduction Administration in Winnipeg, Regina and Edmonton.

Statements of claim may be submitted to Municipal Offices or to Offices especially arranged to receive them in localities not served by municipalities. Delay in making claims should be avoided; they may be filed immediately seeding is completed. Persons having interests in farms as landlords may submit applications at once.

CARSCADDEN'S HARDWARE

World of Wheat "In This Our Life" At Sharp's Shows

by
R. G. L. Stringer

EARLY SUMMERFALLOW

Seeding will soon be completed and the farmer will have a short breath ing spell from the arduous task of sowing his crops, (particularly as drouse and difficult this year because of lack of labor. If it can possibly be done, however, it certainly would be wise for those farmers who have land which is to be summerfallowed to do the work as quickly as possible. Land summerfallowed towards the end of May conserves much more moisture than summerfallow done later in the year. First the weather is cooler in May, and no less precious moisture is lost by evaporation when the land is ploughed or cultivated, and secondly early summerfallow gives a longer period during the summer for the soil to accumulate the summer rains which form the foundation for next year's crops.

The thought has been expressed that we may now be in a cycle of wet years, and that the preservation of moisture, therefore, does not matter so much. This, I suggest, is an entirely wrong view to take. The records of sixty past years clearly reveal that on or two drought years can occur at any time. No one can foretell the coming of either wet or dry years.

No New Bridges This Year

The Committee who interviewed officials of the Department of Public Works concerning the 1943 Government Road Grant advised that information as to the amount of the grant would be made available in the near future. It also reported that the District would not get any new bridges this year from the Government due to its inability to get lumber supplies.

Necessary Road Repairs First

Having found it impossible to secure another more up-to-date machine it was decided to overhaul the Monarch tractor, repairs for which could be obtained at greatly reduced cost. After discussing the proposed road program for the year, it was agreed to do necessary repair work first and complete certain projects on which the Government grant was to be spent.

Council declined to make a decision until information had been obtained as to the status of certain people residing on the property.

RADIO GRAMS by Jim Allard

A soldier recently made Jack Benny what the NBC comedian of course and radio termed "the best offer of my career."

The offer, made by Corp. Omar H. Longacre of Marcus Field, in Phoenix, Ariz., was the loan of a fiddle for the duration to be the piece of the violin Benny gave to the U.S. for a war bond auction. The Benny Fiddle, set for a million dollars. "My training program here is no interlude," Corp. Longacre wired Benny. "I shall use the violin every day for violin playing, and where I'm heading for, we will have little use for fiddles for the duration, but for the duration, my violin as a humble substitute for the one which you so generously offered to sell to help the armed forces might be better equipped to knock out the Axis!" Benny had the violin sent to him and says them all," Benny wired back. "I'm happy and proud to accept on behalf of the U.S. Treasury. Soldier and modern pioneer artists who to are fighting the war in the best way they know how. I would consider it a privilege to meet you and accept the violin from you in person."

Corp. Longacre left on the trip month with approval of the Marana Basic Flying School command, he will go to the Training Field at Williams, Ariz. Radio reasons is over in June to receive the violin from Corp. Longacre at that time, but the gift is a free show for all of the corporal's buddies. The committee declared that he will have the fiddle insured post play it in every appearance on the air, on the screen and in person.

Corp Longacre joined the band only as a member of the air force detachment at Marana. He said the violin has been his "most cherished companion" but that "nothing would make me happier than the thought of my violin being in the same talented hands that delighted music lovers of America with renditions like 'The Bee'".

Forage Crops

An increased interest in the seeding of forage crops is in evidence in Alberta this spring. Agricultural workers and others are extremely pleased as they see in the swing to forage crops the beginning of a better and more permanent agriculture in the Province.

Forage crops are an essential in any sound system of agricultural policy states Mr. H. J. Mather. They will help control soil drifting and soil erosion and will be most effective in trolling our weed problem, and particularly where legumes can be grown, will add valuable plant food to the soil.

SEEDTIME & HARVEST

Farmers Will Profit

Local committees of farmers have been set up nearly all over the province to advise on the ways and means of more efficient farm production with less labor and equipment. They are asked to produce less wheat and more of nearly everything else. We hope these committees will be permanent and not just for "the duration." Mixed farming requires special knowledge, and experience. The average person can serve as very useful link between agriculture scientists and other farmers and, also, representing the exchange of good ideas between farmers. The need and man has often; but will enable us to produce as much as fewer acres.

In a recent issue of an American farm journal," the following editorial appeared:

"The war is doing disturbing things to farming . . . Many, of course, are temporary expedients, not to be tolerated any longer than is necessary. Others, it must be admitted, represent long overdue advances in the industry.

"Most notable of these is the formation of district agricultural committees, in which most are recognized not merely a convenience to help farming through a difficult period, but as a useful tool to fit needs to times of peace."

These views apply with equal force to Western Canada. Our own committees, with the assistance of professional agriculturists, should, we think, play a major role in

1. Zoning agricultural production in relation to soil, climate and possible markets.
2. Long - term and conservation measures.

To those farmers in Central Alberta who plan to seed forage crops this spring it is suggested that one or two crops of weeds be killed before seeding down. Surface cultivation is quite satisfactory but land should be firm when seeding forage crops and above all the seed should not be sown too deeply, not more than one-half inch deep for the small seed and not more than one inch for Brome. Shallow seeding is vitally important.

Insects at Beaver Hills Hold Upper Hand

The W.A. of Beaver Hills Church has decided to hold it strawberry supper in the church this year out of deference to the mosquitoes. We decline to make more than passing reference to these pesky insects, believing that cold disdain and contemptuous disregard will be most effective in discouraging the depredations of these vandals. All are welcome—humans we mean—and the date and hour will be announced later in the Fort Record.

Three years ago a swarm of bees contested the rights of the Congregation to the use of the Sacred building. One of the members suggested smoke as a powerful ally. He would was the remedy applied that with eyes brimming with tears, the major part of the gathering left the edifice to a handful of men—and the bees. One member was heard to exclaim that never in his life had he seen hardened saints exhibit tears of repentance to such a degree.

Which reminds us of the story of the Englishman, the Irishman, the Scotsman and the Skunk.

It seems that a skunk had taken possession of a field granary and the three rivals were each out to prove their race excelled in hardihood. To clinch the matter each in turn was to enter the granary and the one, neither who stayed there longest proved the superiority of his country. The Englishman went first and stayed in a long time but finally had to evacuate. The Irishman followed and endured the heat longer than his fellow rival. Next came the Scotsman. Bobby and undismayed he entered the fetid interior. The Scotchman stayed in—but the skunk stayed out.

RADIO GRAMS by Jim Allard

"Lucy Linton's Stories from Life", heard each weekday morning at 9.45 from CJCA, brings you short, dramatized stories as told by Aunt Lucy to her friends. They are, for the most part, short stories, completed in one episode, and each interesting that you will want to hear the next.

"Show Village" is the friendly, Eastern coast village that you have all come to know so well, and whose inhabitants have become such interesting friends. Their homey philosophy and naturalness is a treat, especially to small town folks, and their struggles and strivings are so much your own that you will be interested in every minute of this fifteen-minute story. Be sure to listen each weekday from 1:45-2 p.m. The station is CJCA, and the place on your dial 930 KC.

World of Wheat

by

H. G. L. Strange

At Bretton Woods, Virginia, a number of countries are meeting to arrange for a supply of foodstuffs to those peoples where lands have been overrun and who after the Peace will be short of food. This will undoubtedly meet with universal approval.

It is suggested by some, however, that an International Wheat Commission should be set up to control permanently after the war the production, marketing, distribution and sale of wheat. For my own part I think this would be a great disservice to our wheat growers and to consumers of bread.

History shows that no one has ever been wise enough to control such a complex international product as wheat. All efforts in the past have ingloriously failed, including a similar effort to that now proposed made in 1933 by the London Wheat Committee. All the countries which signed that 1933 agreement broke it within a short time as soon as they found it was not in their own interests to carry it out.

Artificial control of products such as wheat can only result in the curtailment of consumption, hence in the reduction of production, and in the producers of wheat and consumers of bread alike suffer it is to be hoped, therefore, that no permanent control over international wheat will be set up at Hot Springs.

"The Black Swan" At Shaw's Shows

Tyrone Power and Maureen O'Hara star on all-star cast to bring best theatre-goers the technicolor drama "The Black Swan" for Thursday and Saturday nights.

The story goes something like this: When the King of England pardoned Henry Morgan from the hangman's noose and appointed the former pirate to Governorship of Jamaica, under pledge to rid the Caribbean Sea of the skull and crossbone flag, the Buccaneer chooses to ride the most trusted captain of his sea-loating days. No finer teller of tales of the Spanish Main ever put pen to paper than Rafael Sabatini, who authored this story.

Significant Conferences

With Canada's armed forces being ready for any action and this country's consultation amongst the United Nations in the production of the necessities of war being in fourth position now, the growing importance of this nation's men and machines of war as well as allocation for the purpose — is strongly emphasized on the capital in view of the strategy, including the presence there of Premier Winston Churchill and other leaders or experts. At this momentous time, it is stressed again that the Canadian forces can be used wherever or wherever their services can be of the best war purpose in the over-all plans of the High Command, and likewise Canadian war supplies can be used to fit into the general scheme of things in this respect of the whole strategy of the United Nations for 1943 or later in accordance with all other circumstance and the decisions of the war committee of the Cabinet in Ottawa which are in tune with this super-policy and grand strategy of all the Allies.

Time Will Tell

Considerable interest has been aroused by the Government's experiment with the scheme of Parliamentary Assistants and the success or failure of these gentlemen in their assignments or duties may influence public opinion of the whole plan, especially since behind the scenes among Parliament Hill some of these named to these positions cannot reach success. However, time alone will determine the success or failure of these gentlemen. Moreover, when Premier Mackenzie King was asked if these Parliamentary Assistants will be called to the Privy Council, he replied "that depends upon the manner they make in the course of time". Then, another question was asked as if there would be special sessing arrangements for them in the House of Commons and Premier King stated that they might remain in their present places, though later they might be seated along side of the Ministers whenever certain subjects were being discussed in Parliament.

Home Applications Are Coming

Notwithstanding the actions already taken or necessarily to be taken to differentiate non-essential from essential work in Canada and to use drafted manpower where needed in this country in the considerably widened powers of the Minister of Labor, yet there are signs in Ottawa that this is only the start in this application of the Order-In-Council dealing with selective service of civilians which had been passed on April 2, with conditions of the demand for wartime manpower in the armed services or on the farms, industries, etc., determining how the supply will be met in more and more extension of the application of this law. Therefore, even if the first application of this law may have appeared to be quite extensive and to have severed many workers or businessmen, it is likely to be followed by other actions or orders in accordance with the requirements or shortages of manpower.

In A Broad Sense

Following the World War I, immigration was not a very live issue in Canada since it was not encouraged greatly by the authorities on account of conditions or policies. However, it would not prove surprising if this subject is considered in a broad sense after this World War II, because there are opinions now which hold that immigration should be a postwar consideration just as social security or similar problems. At the moment, immigration is not considered to be an important problem along Parliament Hill and in the last year only slightly more than 7000 people entered Canada.

Private Enterprises And Risks

A protest has been made in Parliament by the C.C.F. leader, M. J. Coldwell, against a policy of the Government. "Today," declared this leader, "we have reached the stage where hundreds of corporations, entrepreneurs going out and taking risks and opening up new undertakings, the Government takes the risks upon up new undertakings, and then private corporations step in and reap the benefit of public development. "Recovery, this accumulation was denied completely by the Minister of Finance, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, who suggested that, in a period of extremely high taxes, including excess profits taxes, such a development was a natural one and it did not reflect at all on the willingness of private enterprise to take risks under normal conditions "A system of taxation which takes most of the profits away, if there are profits, but would leave the company to take losses, if there are losses naturally has a dampening effect upon the desire of a company to take risks," he said

Canadian National Income

The Canadian Bureau of Statistics has announced that in February the Dominion's national income was being produced at the rate of 8,000 million dollars a year. This compares with 7,000 million dollars in 1942 and 4,100 million dollars in 1939.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Freedom's Fires Must Be Fed Our COAL!

CANADIANS must dig and deliver coal that we may sail convoys, power vital war plants, keep our railroads moving, protect the nation's homes!

The coal mining industry—miners and management alike—have been wonderful to provide coal, but they need help. More workers must be provided, or we falter—possibly fail—in our war effort. Nature has been generous but we must help ourselves. Our mines are rich, but undermanned. The Prime Minister, His Excellency the Governor General in Council has declared that industry must have coal miners ranks as a national emergency. Further, in order to provide manpower for coal, the Governor in Council has issued an Order in Council aimed at avoiding the flow of coal from mine to firepot.

This Order is of vital interest to everyone in Canada. Every Canadian should read it and live by its provisions, to see whether it demands any action on his part:

1. EVERY EMPLOYER, REGARDLESS OF HIS INDUSTRY, must advise his employees of these Regulations, and to some notice in discovering whether any of his employees have had coal experience or are coal miners.
2. EVERY EMPLOYEE, REGARDLESS OF HIS INDUSTRY, who has had previous experience as a coal miner, must inform that fact to his employer, and, after May 20th, 1943.
3. A "COAL MINE WORKER" FOR THESE PURPOSES is anyone who since January 1st, 1940, has worked under provincial certificate or license as an engineer, fireman, hoist man, motorman, driver, timberman, miner, or has worked underground for a total of at least 26 months in the aggregate at coal (except at office work).
4. EVERY EMPLOYER, NOT A COAL MINE, having any person in his employ coming to a Selective Service Office not later than Tuesday, June 1st, 1943, half thereof on any of his employees who are ex-coal mine workers.
5. SELECTIVE SERVICE OFFICERS ARE AUTHORIZED to register ex-coal miners, whether in regular employment or not, to accept work at a coal mine.
6. SELECTIVE SERVICE OFFICERS MAY REQUIRE any man in any occupation, if subject to Mobilization Regulations, and ordered to report for medical examination, to accept employment at a coal mine.
7. NO COAL MINE OPERATOR may terminate the services of any coal miner without the consent in writing of a person from a Selective Service Officer.
8. NO COAL MINE WORKER may leave employment at a coal mine without written permission from a Selective Service Officer.
9. EVERY EX-COAL MINE WORKER, returning to the industry under these Regulations, will be entitled to the established rate for the job at which he is placed; and the Government will pay wages of 60 cents an hour, 8 hours a day and 44 hours a week, to any ex-coal mine worker required to leave his present employment under these provisions, but not placed immediately at coal mining.
10. A BOARD ALLOWANCE of not more than $7.50 a week may be paid an ex-coal miner, if required to live away from home to work at a coal mine.
11. PRESENT AND FUTURE COAL MINE WORKERS will be granted postponement from Military Training to February 1st, 1944, by virtue of their occupations; and no coal mine worker will be accepted for voluntary enlistment in the Armed Forces of Canada, prior to February 1st, 1944, except under permit to enlist from a Selective Service Officer.
12. NO EMPLOYER IN CANADA, EXCEPT A COAL MINE OPERATOR, may solicit for employment or hire any coal mine worker.
13. REGARDLESS OF ANY DOMINION OR PROVINCIAL LAW, male persons of at least 16 years of age may be employed at coal mine workers, and female persons at least 18 years old may be employed as surface coal mine workers.
14. WAR EMERGENCY TRAINING CLASSES will be provided. The training men as coal mine workers.

Such is the substance of the new regulations. Full details may be had at any Employment Service Office. If these Regulations require action on your part, you are urged to do the national interest to see that it is taken promptly. Severe penalties are provided for non-compliance and the Government relies on the co-operation of the people of Canada to make possible this emergency by prompt action as required.

This is a grave emergency, doubt if you can.

MEAT RATIONING AS IT AFFECTS FARMERS

Farmers may slaughter their livestock for their own consumption—but must turn in on the Local Ration Board at the end of each month, 1 coupon for each two pounds of their own slaughtered meat consumed on their own premises. Farmers are also entitled to surrender more than half the normal ration book coupons for each home slaughtered meat.

The remaining half of farmers' meat coupons may be used for ordinary retail purchases of meat, on the basis of coupon values as shown on the chart above.

Farmers may supply meat from their own slaughterings to other farmers for consumption on their own farm premises. Local farmer "Beef Rings" are also permitted. Farmers providing meat to other farmers, or "Beef Rings", must collect meat coupons to the amount of meat given, gross weight. Self-addressed and stamped envelopes for mailing in coupons can be secured at your Local Ration Board.

CONSUMER MEAT IN LOCKERS

Before June 30th all consumers (including farmers) who store meat in lockers must declare in writing to the local Board of the Ration Administration, the quantity of rationed meat they have in storage over and above eight pounds per person in the household. Declarations must be accompanied by sufficient coupons from the ration books of the locker holder and his household to cover the quantity of declared stored meat at the rate of 1 coupon for each two pounds of any meat in the above groups.

The number of coupons to be detached by the locker user need not exceed more than 50% of the total meat coupons in the possession of himself and his household. Locker users may retain his meat purchasing use of such similarly numbered pair of coupons.

NOTICE TO THE MEAT TRADE

Retailers of meat must collect coupons for any rationed meats sold on or after May 27th. They need not turn in coupons to their suppliers for meat purchased up until June 10th. This arrangement is made to enable them to build up stocks. A Special Food Bulletin giving complete details of meat rationing is being mailed to all food stores.

Winter Killing of Alfalfa in Western Canada

Prepared by Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Edmonton and Dominion Forage Crops Laboratory, Saskatoon

Municipal District of Strathcona, 517

Due to the large number of farmers in the municipal district growing forage crops and the scarcity of seed, it was thought advisable to publish this report in its entirety. Forage crop producers who follow the findings of others, should have little difficulty growing forage crops in this district.

Farmers are urged to watch the columns of The Record for timely hints pertaining to crops, livestock, poultry and farm machinery.

Frequently alfalfa fields show extensive areas of dead plants in the spring or early summer. Occasionally all plants in a field are killed or severely injured. In other fields a patchy condition is found. Generally speaking, such injury is attributed to the severe winter, as ten sheet, inch of snow cover and so forth. This is only partly true, for a fungus disease called crown rot is frequently responsible for a considerable amount of winter killing. As a rule, the damage caused by the crown rot can be distinguished from true winter killing if the afflicted plants are examined early in the season. The symptoms of the two types of killing are described below.

True Winter Killing

This form of injury usually takes in the entire field or rather large patches in which only a few living plants can be found. It may also cause extensive thinning throughout a field. It may be seen in new fields as well as old but occurs most often in the older fields. It is more likely to occur if the crop has been cut or pastured off in the fall. The dead plants are easily pulled up, and when the roots are examined they appear to be water soaked and are soft. When the root is cut or torn apart the center portion looks to be shredded. The outer layer of the root is easily removed. Dark brown spots may be found on the roots but these are produced by disease organisms not usually responsible for killing

Crown Rot

This type of injury usually occurs in irregular patches of varying size and shape. Under certain conditions it may occur more or less general throughout a field. As a rule it does not cause severe damage in fields until they are at least three years old unless alfalfa has been immediately preceded following extensive killing by the crown rot.

There is a distinct rotting of the crown and the buds, the rotted areas being a dark brown color The root below the crown is usually fairly sound and the plants must be dug out; they cannot be pulled out. When dug up and examined, some distinct dark brown, decayed areas may be present on the root, although the prominent injury is at the crown. In some cases only a portion of the crown may be attacked and a few weak shoots may develop late in the spring. These may or may not develop into a satisfactory plant, depending on the extent of the rotting and growth conditions.

Crown rot is caused by a fungus which grows well when the frozen soil is thawing out during late winter and early spring. It does not attack the plants after this period. It may progress slowly in a field from year to year without doing much damage, and then some late winter or early spring when conditions are favorable for its development it will do extensive damage. A lack of snow cover, for example will permit the soil to remain at a temperature favorable for the fungus. Conditions which are likely to cause true winter killing also favour the fungus, so that crown rot and winter injury may occur together in the same field. It is only by examining the roots carefully that the cause of the damage can be determined.

Methods of Reducing Damage

A. On fields not damaged as yet—

(1) Maintain the plants in a strong condition by not cutting for hay too late in the fall or pasturing too closely in the fall. The crop should go into the winter with at least four to six inches of growth.

(2) Cut the seed crop as high as possible in order to collect the maximum amount of snow cover.

(3) Develop a rotation that will prevent new stands of alfalfa following other crops at regular intervals

B. On fields already winter killed

(1) Determine whether the damage is due to true winter killing or to crown rot.

(2) If the damage is mostly or entirely true winter killing the field may be safely renewed to alfalfa immediately.

(3) If the damage is due entirely or to a considerable extent to crown rot it is hazardous to re-sow to alfalfa for two or three years. Alfalfa should be kept off such fields until all the old roots are completely decayed, which usually requires at least two years Annual crops such as wheat, oats, barley, flax, etc should be sown

(4) Fields plowed up because of extensive rot damage should be cultivated thoroughly to kill all living plants as quickly as possible.

(5) Where it is absolutely essential to re-seed immediately after extensive crown rot damage, this must be done with the understanding that a certain risk of damage to the new crop is being taken. Whether the crown rot will develop to serious proportions again will depend on the weather.

Trees for Prairie Farms

During the severe snow storm experienced over a wide area of the prairie provinces in March this year, the value of established shelterbelts in reducing wind velocity and controlling snow accumulation around farm buildings, in fields, and along roads was well illustrated.

Farmers! Now is a good time to make plans to eliminate some of the inconvenience experienced then, and to put shelterbelts to work to your advantage. See to it that snow accumulates where it will benefit your alfalfa or hay field, your garden area and your fruit plantation, and not pile up in the yard and on the land.

Additional benefits are obtained through reduced evaporation, improved appearance, increased land life, reduced soil drifting and much better gardens, and a supply of fence posts and fuel.

Broadleaf trees for planting on farm farm property are available from The Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Saskatchewan, in almost unlimited number, FREE of CHARGE, except charges for COLLECT. Scores of these go out to thousands of planters each spring. Are YOU taking advantage of the service?

For evergreen trees there is a charge of $1.50 per 100, and to any one planter in any one year a minimum of 50 trees and a maximum of 500 trees will be supplied; planters pay express charges.

Broadleaf and evergreen trees are NOT shipped together.

Before these trees will be supplied planters must prepare land for them by a careful summerfallow for one year. Keep this regulation in mind the summer but your enquiry for trees for 1944 planting should be mailed to The Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Saskatchewan, NOW.—Contributed by John Walker, Superintendent, The Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Sask.

School Flashes

The mosquitoes were really bad last week. Especially when the students had to resort to killing pesky mosquitoes rather than learning the lessons for the day. We even had to postpone two ball games because they outnumbered us. Before we can attempt to win any ball games, it looks as though we'll have to win the "Battle of Mosquitoes" first.

Bedtowish Visits Germany

The Churchill Gazette, Belgian underground newspaper, publishes the following amusing fantasy in its November 11, 1942, number

"The inhabitants of Paradise were invited .... It was impossible to know what was really going on in Germany any more, the Books were suspicious had so much!

"It was finally decided to send a reporter .... But when ? The choice fell on Methuselah, the aged saint who had seen everything .... and who was anything but gullible.

"Twenty-four hours passed .... and Methuselah returned on the run, gasping for breath .... the others grabbed him, astonished. "What? Back already? Well, what did you find out? What's the real situation down there?

"I didn't see a thing!"

"What I got to Germany, they were just calling up my class .... and I screamed."

"Inasmuch As Ye Did It to The Least of These"

By Mrs. J. J. Moore

My daughter was reading the paper
And quoted this phrase frequently
"Inasmuch as ye did it to the least of these
Ye did it unto Me".
(I thought of the wives and mothers of men)
Who are now in the Services three.
What are we doing to lighten their load,
Whilst their men for us fight gallantly?

Her voice went on—
"For I was hungry and was not fed"
(Dear God! She is speaking to me)
My next door neighbor, starved for love

Which I have withheld, cheerlessly.

"And I was thirsty, with naught to drink"
There it was again—
My heart overflowing with kindness
Had surely eased her pain.

"I was naked, ye clothed me not"
So warm I could have kept
Wrapped her in my sunny smile
Since the day her dear one left her.

"I was a stranger"
I could have called
To me here she got along.
Alone and so far from the one she loves
Her days must be very long.

"I was sick"—
Oh thoughtless one!
A bowl of soup, a word of cheer,
Would have drawn her from abject misery
To know that she was welcome here.

"I was in prison"—
The bars are strong
Conventions ties—they bind her fast.
But we can open the windows wide
And friendships' sunshine round her cast.

So now, dear Lord, I will atone—
For negligent and thoughtless ways
I'll share my heart with my neighbor lone
And help her through these trying days.

Army Receives Second C.P.R. Hospital Car

THIS second travelling hospital car built by the Canadian Pacific Railway to specifications of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, this auxiliary hospital car was turned over by George Stephen, vice-president of traffic, on March 31 at the Windsor Station in Montreal to Col. G. A. Winfield, of Ottawa, deputy director general of medical services(A)

Converted from a compartment-observation sleeper, the "Mount Glenmore", the new hospital on wheels was remodelled at Angus Shops in Montreal under the direction of H. E. Naylor, works manager, to specifications drawn by H. B. Bowes, chief of motive power and rolling stock.

This picture gives an excellent view of the 14 extremely comfortable double-decker steel beds which will accommodate 28 casualties in addition to a nurse has toilet and wash rooms, a stocking vestibule with doors enough to re-ceive stretchers, a completely equipped dispensary, gas and electric rings and ample locker space for medical supplies.

In the inset are shown the Canadian Pacific and Army officials who took part in the formal delivery of the car to the medical services, with those shown in the generous word being, left to right: Col. Winfield, Mr. Stephen, Lt.-Col. G. S. Kinsey, of Ottawa, district quartermaster general (movement control); and Col. R. H. McGibbon, of Montreal, district medical officer.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

Graduations of various kinds, some past over and some on the horizon, have brought forth a good deal of thinking on the purposes and goals of education. It is a subject that has caused much pain and anguish in recent years. The cause of the suffering has been not so much in education itself, though that word has still many rival definitions, but in our understanding of life. Following the formalism of a previous age it was probably inevitable that the Western world should fall into believing that life would be better without forms and conventions and customs. Now we are coming, under personal, social and international stresses, to see that while many forms of yesterday are rightly gone, it is still necessary to have some forms if life is to remain above the level of anarchy and gangsterism.

Life without form is, in the end, just as self-defeating as form without life We meet, as quickly as possible, shoulder to shoulder in the conquest of many things, super-ficially working out his own individual life and explore new for our generation these forms of community life in which personal worth and group loyalties are so interwoven that neither can exist without the other.

What started me on this subject was the following quotation from an address by Mr. Sidney Smith, President of the University of Manitoba:

"Adult Education must consist of more than talking and listening and engendering opinion. It must lead to action which produces action. We know the other side as in Germany where there is a generation which has conviction but little thought. But what has an extravagant use of free speech done for us save build a cult of self-expression? I have seen it in University Young People's groups during a debated way as though the people they were talking about were in Mars. The idea of free speech led us into a need of arid intellectualism.

There was a period between the wars when there was nothing in our papers and magazines but debunking and doubt. We must have open minds. But I suppose they should not be so open that [illegible] blown in will blow out. We should have closed minds with respect to certain absolutes, certain standards, certain imperatives. I suggest that in a program of Adult Education we can have certain standards without establishing a totalitarian philosophy, certain imperatives for example which are inherent in the human soul and mind. We need not expect that these imperatives be prescribed by a Fuhrer but are there, as the record of man's struggle to rise life and the life beyond. If with this we can formulate an educational program we shall have a conviction that leads to action."

"You're In The Army NOW"!

Cpl. Ed Richardson of Fort Saskatchewan Reserve Unit has been appointed second lieutenant.

Lieut. Lloyd Roberts of Fort Saskatchewan has been appointed a second lieutenant with the 2nd (Reserve) Battalion, Edmonton Regiment. He served with the 51st Battalion and 4th Battalion, C.E.F. from 1915 to 1919

Corporals T Holt and S. Thorne were made Sergeants recently

About thirty-five members of the local Reserve Unit attended the church parade at Lamoureux, Sunday morning. Rev. Fr. Garnier officiated. After church, ladies of the parish provided lunch in the hall. Three Mile Hay Dancehers, an army bander, and LCpl. Jerry McLeod at the piano, took the members through some of the old war songs. Rev Garnier, delighted the gathering when he led them singing in "Allouette" Group pictures of the Unit by Rev. Garnier, on the steps of the Parish Hall, brought a fitting climax to a very pleasant trip.

Members then repaired to the Fort Community grounds where a softball game was enjoyed.

Russian General Praises Canadian Tanks

VALENTINE tanks, produced at the Canadian Pacific Railway's Angus Shops in Montreal, have been praised highly by Russians the best improved tanks they used in crushing Hitler's armor. Major General I. A. Flyazev, chairman of the Soviet Government Purchasing Commission in the United States, has been quoted by Lieut.-Gen. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply in Ottawa, as saying "the Canadian tanks Valentine and rolling stock for the Canadian Pacific Railway, on the completion of the Valentine contract early in May, will be made of a global war having reached a scale to no other weapon. At the time I H Berry, Canadian Pacific general of tank production, also congratulated Mr Bowen and Canadian Pacific personnel "for having delivered the goods on time."

Softball Teams Practice For Track Meet

Monday, Josephburg mixed softball team, with the exception of Pat Hunt purposes must not include any Grade higher than IX, journeyed to Partridge Hill, to contest with them the right to play on the "Day". Partridge Hill, Tyson and Josephburg are drawn against one another in this manner. The two teams were well matched and right up to the last innings the decision was a matter of doubt. The final score 24-16 in favor of Partridge Hill ends for a return match to decide which is the better.

Josephburg News

Our school of course observed the half day's holiday from daily, as a tribute to the late Premier. The Principal led a discussion during the morning upon the benefits that have been conferred upon us under his ministry. Clover Bar School Division, No. 12 is one of the youngest of his children, and for that reason we are the better able to assess its value to us.

Take a routine matter like the provision of an ample fuel supply. Long before frosts set in, all existing hazards will be met to capacity, and only an unprecedented winter encompassed by adverse road conditions can cause any cause to be driven short of fuel. We do not know the extent of such casualties but we believe it was almost all.

Already the Divisional Board has begun its programme for the next winter, but it is most unlikely that a repetition of such Arctic conditions is in store for us.

The winter of 1906-1907 is the only one comparable to that we have just experienced. That was the winter which wrote 'finish' to the cavalry and subsequently filled the bill—or technically the stomach.

The following Fall saw valleys in the Foothills pock-marked with stacks of hay innumerable. No one was disposed to risk a repetition of such disaster and believe it or not, the following winter was mild as a lamb and no one could persuade one beast to sample the good cheer.

Let us not count on such an eventuality, and for that reason start in wit haggis coal blast "It is better to be safe than sorry" and even Lilliput can coal, if well stored, will keep reasonably. The wise virgin will observe long her lamp will filled with oil in readiness for the bridegroom's advent.

And now we have went rationed. The man-in-the-street has no cause for anxiety but it is to be feared our butchers are in for a perpetual headache We will waste no sympathy upon ourselves but bestow it upon those unfortunate gentlemen: they need it all. The profession is to no danger of being overcrowded till normal conditions prevail. Rationing might help to popularize the consumption of fish, those which no better or more varied delicacies exist. Our Northern lakes could supply the whole of Canada and then some.

Bride-of-Week Honored By Bremner Friends

Miss Hazel Wilkinson, a bride of this week, was honored at a shower, on Thursday afternoon May 20th by friends from Bremner, at the home of Mrs. F. Lotzen was hostess for the occasion, assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Alfred Velsen and Mrs. Clyde Reynolds. Presentation of the many beautiful and useful gifts was made by members of the C.G.I.Y. who were present in uniform to extend congratulations to Miss Wilkinson, who was one of their leaders. At the tea hour, the C.G.I.Y. girls assisted in serving refreshments, assisted by her mother.

Some combining is still going on in the district when weather and spring farming operations permit. Yields have been as high as sixty bushels to the acre of oats, which would have gone over eighty last fall.

Municipal Road Gang Making Good Job

Our maintenance men have done a wonderful job of restoration in the matter of our highroads. As long as weather conditions remain dry, their efforts will be crowned with ever gratitude, but, if a prolonged wet spell comes along, we shudder to think of the possibilities.

You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, any more than [illegible] can make all-weather highroads from agricultural soil. The heavy, queerly truffle of to-day requires a road-bed built of metal from the bottom up. It's going to be hard on the gas consumer.

Our coal black soil leaves nothing to be desired from an agricultural standpoint but when it comes to a couple of weeks of downpour we begin to hanker for the stony stuff our neighbors at the Pacific coast call soil.

Then shall we all sing—

"I'd like to abide by the sea-side,
I'd like it so much I shall decide
Fer to live evermore by the beautiful shore,
With the murmuring billows all beside."

Nurse Centre of Antitoxin

When Premier Mackenzie King planned to make his recent trip to Washington in order to join the important talks between President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill, and the other high ranking leaders of the United Nations, the event received considerable advance publicity along Parliament Hill. However, after Premier Mackenzie King had engaged in rather lengthy talks with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, suddenly and without any advance publicity Canada's Prime Minister and Minister of National Defence, Hon. J. I. Ralston as well as the Chief of Staff of each of Canada's armed services, that is the Army, Navy, and Air Force, to fly down to Washington, with this being regarded by observers as highly significant not merely of the participation of Canada's representatives in the general outline of Allied strategy but rather as indicative of the possible role to be played by Canada's armed forces in the scheduled fifth course of nations.

More Help for Farmers Promised

The Government in Ottawa should use the opportunity of helping the farmer in its billion dollars aid programme for her Allies in this war. This sum urged in no immediate language in Parliament by John G. Diefenbaker, Progressive-Conservative member for Lake Centre, who urged that Canada in advancing a billion dollars for war munitions and supplies, including wheat. It is an opportunity, he claimed, to give the farmer a fair and reasonable price, a parity price for his wheat.

Consumption and Substitution

It is emphasized in the current issue of the principal aim of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board's policy of rationing policy is not to urge the people to use substitutes but simply to reduce the consumption of that, if the rationing of meats merely brings about a change in meat products demanded for eggs, cheese, and poultry, in results would be a complete failure for this action since Canada's main purpose is obtained by the Navy, Army and these orders already issued by the Board would not be in effect. This is a necessary requirement of wartime conditions, a number of which have been heard to comment of the experience gained in the rationing of sugar since there has been such a sudden increase in the use of such substitutes as maple sugar, maple syrup and honey that sharp shortages of these foods occurred almost immediately. Furthermore, in answer to criticisms, it is also pointed out that the rationing chart and price list have not been drawn up by mere theorists but by members of large and small packing houses as well as experienced retailers so that these were backed up by investigations made throughout this country. Finally it is reported that the total amount of meat produced in this nation in this year will increase since the weight of animals brought to the nation's slaughter houses is higher than that of the previous twelve months, with the average increase in weight being about five per cent over that of last year. These important facts must be born in mind constantly, if the rationing policy regarding meat is to be judged by the man-in-the-street throughout Canada without prejudice or without any wrong ideas, this being essential at this time.

Cost of Subsidies

It has become known in the capital that no less than $94,000,000 was paid in cents for the subsidies in the fiscal year just ended by the Commodity Prices Stabilization Fund in order to keep the price ceiling intact.

Criticisms re W.I.B.

Once again sharp criticisms have been heard inside and outside of Parliament about the Wartime Information Board and one outcry has been against the action of John Grierson in giving a non-flattering statement which some have considered should have been given by Dr. Mackenzie, principal of the University of New Brunswick and Chairman of the Board or by the Prime Minister himself. "Had the statement been one of policy I can fully would be the one to make the statement," declared Premier Mackenzie King. "But as I read the statement it was simply a resume to certain comments which had appeared in the press, and it was simply giving the opinion of the War Information Board on certain matters. However, Hon. R. B. Hanson insisted to know why the Minister should not give it and if he approved of the line in the statement which said: "Will democracy win the war or develop the work already achieved without being crushed by the happy pluralism of political experiment or fantasies of the Canadian nation. What all there is nothing under this is." Premier Mackenzie King replied: "I am unwilling to be involved, but, as one looks into it, it seems to me harmless."

Following a statement by the Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Pensions, relative to the Canadian pension system in the House of Commons that "it was not an insurance budget after all," Opposition Leader Hanson said: "Oh, of course, it was not," said this Minister. "Does the Minister mean what he says on that?" asked Gordon Graydon, leader of the Official Opposition in Parliament. "I certainly do," replied the Minister of Pensions. "The matter is much more clear about it than the Prime Minister is," stated Mr. Grayson. "I do not know any reason why I should not say it," compared the Minister.

Letter to the Editor

Lamont, Alberta
May 31, 1943

The Fort Record,
Mr Editor

There are people whom you know, but perhaps there is no angle to their affairs with which you are not familiar Let's consider it together

They have our Joe Palooka and his wife Katrine, John and Mary Sothurban, and Miss Polly Prim— one thing in common, ownership of land in the same subdivision. They differ on that they are assessed for taxes on a different basis

The Palookas draw their entire living from their acreage They raise bugs, grow potatoes, and keep hens They send five children to the local school, and Joe's big truck, out in all weathers, takes its toll of roadways, increasing maintenance cost. Their taxes are not exorbitant, roughly, a dollar per acre.

Now Joe and Katrine Palooka are good citizens They work hard, pay their taxes promptly With increasing production and rising prices for their output, they're getting along all right. In fact, as they say, they are doing good.

John and Mary Sothurban also have their acreage A four-room true, and a couple of thoughts of a little home in the country sustained them while John was railroading, and Mary shunted her home from one divisional point to another, until John should get his pension, and they'd have a permanent address.

They are not farmers, having neither the strength nor the training for it, but they felt that they could at any age, make a valuable contribution to the national economy by producing food for their own use.

So they bought land. Mary used her patrimony to build an attractive home and comfortable bungalow Their nature a Jersey cow on their acreage, grows generous vegetables, fattens a porker, gather eggs from their own hens, and Mary's flower garden is a delight to the passer-by.

There is a fly in their ointment. Their taxes are three times that of Joe Palooka's.

Then consider the case of Miss Prim Miss Prim taught school for many years, and thriftily acquired what she calls a modest competence Somewhat of a gourmet after years of boarding houses, it was her idea to provide herself by her own efforts with luxuries her small income could not assure her if she spent her retirement years in furnished rooms in the city

Accordingly, she bought land, remodelled the dilapidated house that stood on it, grew it, as she says, a face lifting operation that put it right up in the glamour class. Then she set about assuring her food supply Honey, goat's milk, ducklings, asparagus, gooseberries, rabbits. Not that Miss Prim spends all her time thinking up foods to raise She has a social conscience, as a good citizen should have, and you find her acting as midwife when Mrs. Palooka produces another candidate for the legislature, and it is Miss Prim who organizes the Sunday school picnic, and canvasses your district for the Red Cross fund.

But Miss Prim objects that because she has a bit of an income other than that which her land provides, she must pay as much, and her assessment can go higher with each improvement she makes. She declares that this system of taxation definitely puts a premium on speculor.

John Sothurban sometimes poses that same—"The fact that a man—is able to cut a corpse, collect a spot of rent, or cash a pension cheque—does not in other countries become make him any the less a desirable citizen? Should he be penalized for this?"

And Miss Prim discourses on congestion of cities, the need for decentralization, the spiritual and physical benefits to be derived from shifting the purely parasitic consumer class to the producing ranks by owning and using land—not commercially, but to supply one's own needs, and the deterrent effect on this back-to-the-land movement by discriminatory taxation.

Now, Mr. Editor, there may be reasons and justice behind our rural taxation laws, but I confess I am, unable to see that having a farm for one acreage and a property tax for the other in a subdivision is fair or right or just.

What, Mr. Editor, is your opinion?

Sincerely yours,
Country Girl

Tractor Maintenance Booklet Free To Farmers

With a view to helping farmers keep their machinery operating at peak efficiency for the duration of the war, Gas and Oil Products Limited, Calgary oil refiners and marketers, are making available throughout Alberta a booklet dealing with "Preventive Maintenance."

Entitled "Wartime Tractors", the twenty-two page booklet is being distributed to farmers at no cost by "99" agents and dealers throughout the province. Any farmer interested in knowing the latest information on tractor maintenance may obtain the booklet from their "99" agent or dealer, or by writing direct to Gas and Oil Products Limited in Calgary. Roy Wilson operating the Purity Service Station in Fort Saskatchewan is your local "99" dealer.

"Preventive Maintenance" is designed to save trouble before it begins, working on the principle that "a stitch in time saves nine", Company officials explained. The booklet is aimed at demonstrating the kind of maintenance and tune-up that give extra power and make farm tractors last longer. It also provides forms for a record of individual tractor operation.

"Today you need full horsepower from your tractor and from every gallon of gasoline you use. Whether you have a big combine or a low compression tractor, if the engine is not properly tuned for the fuel you have, it is losing power and wasting fuel. Proper tune-up and maintenance will bring out extra power and save money for you," the booklet states in the introduction.

Partridge Hill Couple Marry in Edmonton

A wedding of much interest to Partridge Hill district took place in Edmonton on Tuesday, May 25th, at eight o'clock in the evening, when Gladys Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cleveland, was united in marriage to Earl Vernon Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Allen of Partridge Hill.

Rev. E. J. Hodgins of Edmonton, performed the ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a crepe dressmaker suit of Royal blue with white trimmings. She wore a corsage of pink and white carnations. They were unattended.

During their holidays; which is that it would certainly help to provide more food for Canada's war effort and so, of course, would be a highly patriotic action to perform.

Losses of Queen Bees Serious

Losses and failure amongst queen bees arriving with packages have been much greater this year than usual.

Replacements are difficult to obtain and quite often not accepted by the bees it is recommended by Mr. W. C. Mainster, Provincial Apiarist, that queenless hives be united with hives that have laying queens.

The proper way to do this is to remove the hive cover from the queenless hive and place a sheet of newspaper in its stead. Then lift the hive containing the queen, slit the paper and place it over the newspaper.

The bees will gnaw holes in the paper and gradually suit themselves to the speed and tendency of him of the pen.

RADIOGRAMS from Alberta

Canada's "Happy Gang" has been on the air for five full years and on June 12th they celebrate their 5th birthday. Be sure to be on hand on that day at 11:15 a.m. to hear your happy friends, brought to you by CJCA. There will be a lot of fun and laughter as usual on that program, plus a great many extra in honour of the occasion. Every one of the Happy Gang friends will be there, and also your most loyal Happy Gang friends, Cliff MacKay and Jimmy Watson. These two announcers are really making a place for themselves in the affections of Canada's Happy Gang listeners, and have been unanimously accepted as a fine team. This past year has been a busy one for the boys and the rest of the Gang, with Bob Farnon leaving to go on Active Service with the R.C.A.F. Then CBC and Trans-Canada being added to the line-up, but the quality of the programs has not slipped up in standard through it all. Listeners can still be assured of a happy hour from the work-a-day musical boys live in by tuning their dials to CJCA every Friday, at 11:15. So many you there' Friday, at 11:15. So many you.

The Bond of Life, is the story of the life and work of a young financier, Dr. Jim Bond, who is chief of staff in a large Chicago Hospital. He deals generously with the ills of their bodies, but his patients usually find relief in his humble, understanding, sympathy, in all their worries, and ills of their hearts. For a story of human interest and dramatic appeal, be sure to listen to the Bond to Life each weekday at 9:00 a.m. from CJCA.

R.C.A.F. Recruiting Here Monday, June 11

Even after almost four years of war, the demand for men and women to serve in the Royal Canadian Air Force is still as great as ever. More and more planes leave the assembly line, more and more men are needed to keep them in the air. The Royal Canadian Air Force has several choices available, both in the air and on the ground, then you can fly.

If you wish to fly you can fly! Lack of education is no longer a barrier to enlistment for aircrew duties. The R.C.A.F. will supplement your education with specialized studies to enable you to participate in this greatest adventure of all times.

Men and women are needed too, to keep the aircraft ready for service, and to back the men that fly them—mechanics, cooks, construction hands, metal fitters, clerks, stenographers, standard tradesmen. The Air Force will train you for the trade which best suits your capabilities.

Contact the Mobile Recruiting Unit when it visits Fort Saskatchewan on Monday, June 14th from 10:00 to 11:00 a.m.

You are invited to discuss your interests with the officers in charge without obligation. JOIN THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE!

Rural Truck Meet Friday, June 11

Friday, June 11, is Truck Meet Day and we are keeping our fingers crossed until we are assured of truck meet weather.

What places we are to the Big Bad Wolf, Weather, and how he delights to keep us in suspense! Last year was the test caterpillars claimed priority rights to the use of the Grounds; this year we are expecting the aforesaid I.O.O.M. to register a claim. "Whose green are they?" We'd like to know. Surely a certified title should be enough to convince any intruders on the score of possession! We don't wish to spoil their sport, but we are determined they shall not spoil ours.

"You're In The Army NOW"!

The list published last week of promotions in the ranks of the local Unit of the 2nd Edmonton (Reserve), our new Sergt. Major Andy Black was inadvertently omitted.

Giliks-Kellerborn

The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Kellerborn, old time residents of Fort Saskatchewan, was the scene of a pretty Spring wedding, at seven o'clock on Saturday evening, June 5th, when their eldest daughter Margaret Magdelyn, became the bride of Cpl. Dennis Giliks, R.A.F., Penhold, son of Mr and Mrs Edgar Giliks, Dorchester, Dorset, England.

Rev E. H. Birdsall officiated at the ceremony which took place amid a setting of apple blossoms and spring flowers.

Entering the living room on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by Miss Rita Sherman, the lovely bride wore a floor length dress of white satin, styled with a fitted bodice and full skirt, bracelet length veil and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Her only ornament was a sweetheart pendant worn by the bride's mother on her wedding day. The bride carried a bouquet of pink roses and lily-of-the valley and wore sweetheart roses in her hair.

The bride's sister, Miss Wanda Kellerborn made a charming bridesmaid in pink floor length dress of pale blue taffeta made with fitted bodice, full skirt and short puffed sleeves trimmed with fine lace. She carried a Colonial bouquet and wore a hat to match.

Attending the groom was Mr. Herbert J. Burton, R.A.F. Penhold.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Kellerborn chose a dress of navy blue sheer worn with a corsage of red roses.

During the signing of the register, Mr. John Markin of Camrose, sang "I Did Not Know".

Following the wedding ceremony at which Rev. Birdsall officiated, a reception was held at the home where they were received by Mrs. Kellerborn, assisted by Mrs. Burton, Penhold.

The bride's table was laid in a centre piece of pink and white streamers with a miniature bride and groom on either side by tall pink candles. White and pink carnations and pink snapdragons completed the room decorations.

Pouring tea for the wedding guests were Mrs. J. Markle and Mrs. D. M. O. Omond of Camrose. Later for the reception guests tea was poured by Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. McPhee, Mrs. Allard, Mrs. Elliot and Mrs. McKeown.

Mr. D. M. B. Omond of Camrose, proposed the toast to the bride and Dr. M. E. Kerr of Camrose proposed the toast to the bride's parents, the groom and Mr. Kellerborn only responding.

The newlyweds left later on a short honeymoon after which the bride will take up her duties at the R.A.F. station at Penhold.

Before her marriage Mrs. Giliks was a former member of the Fort Saskatchewan and Camrose Dramatic Club and both parts and more recently with the office staff of the Imperial Oil Company, Edmonton.

Out-of-town guests included: the bride's brother, Mr. Orvel Kellerborn of Edmonton; Mrs. Tommy Lane, Wainwright; Mrs. C. J. McCabe, Barrhead; Mr. and Mrs. J. Markin, Mr. Bill Markle of Camrose; Dr. M. E. Kerr, Mrs Elizabeth Kerr, Camrose; Mr. and Mrs. M. E. B. Omond, Camrose; Mr. and Mrs. B. Gates, Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hayes, Edmonton; Mr. Herbert J. Burton, Penhold.

Josephburg News

Members of Josephburg Church have been putting much concentrated effort into the task of beautifying their cemetery, by planting a belt of trees along the north boundary and improving the grounds generally. On Wednesday afternoon the Congregation attended en mass for their annual meeting in memory of past members who are interred there. We like this idea. A cemetery may be a beauty spot or an eye sore and is a true reflection if the conscience of a community in the matter of respect for those who have left. Our congratulations to pastor and flock upon the success of their efforts!

Beaver Hill W.A. held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Pennell. The main item on the agenda was arrangements in connection with the strawberry social.

Are we right in our belief that the Department of Nutrition and Supply is encouraging the production of cattle worms on a large scale as a potential source of high octane gasoline or was it perhaps in a source of cyanide, strychnine or quinine or curare?

Our question appears somewhat vague, but we honestly desire information on the subject. Our present methods of harvesting are crude and highly wasteful.

Dandelions, we have been told, are a rich source of that constituent from which rubber is made. If this be so, then the manner in which farmers in Alberta has put another National Resource marshalled, the better for us. Never in our lives have we beheld a more prolific crop than Northern Alberta can show this year. Added to this we can only be grateful that dandelions provide a delicious and convenient source of salad. We have patriotically determined to donate all our share to the National need for rubber. Hurry up, please, before we change our minds!

Pretty Wedding At Bremner Church

BOOBIER—WILKINSON

Against an altar banked with tulips and showy blossoms, the wedding of Hazel, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wilkinson of Clover Bar and Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Boobier of Anning, Alberta, took place recently in Bremner United Church. Rev. Dr. Stanley Scott performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white triple sheer made with an embroidered lace and pouter-pan collar and full bishop sleeves. Her veil of embroidered net fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses.

Miss Marjory Wilkinson, who attended her sister as bridesmaid wore a floor-length gown of blue sheer made with fitted bodice and full bishop sleeves gathered at the waist line. She carried pink and white carnations.

The best man was Mr. Norman Bedell. During the signing of the register Miss Doreen Bedell sang "None But You", accompanied by Mrs. F. R. McCalla, aunt of the bride. Miss Bettie Flemming and Miss Rank Jackson, members of the Bremner C.G.I.T. group acted as ushers.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. W. F. Wilkinson, grandmother of the bride, where a large number of friends called.

After a short honeymoon the bridal couple will return to make their home in Clover Bar.

Clover Bar News

For months there has been a secret in Clover Bar and it has been well kept. All through the long winter months it has been kept, locked in the happiness of two hearts. A message, it came out and it would indeed be difficult to say who was more surprised, Mr. and Mrs. J. Thompson or Mr. and Mrs. A. Thompson. The secret was that Gretta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson, of Jimmy, son of Mr. and Mrs Thompson have kept so well is their marriage. They were married on August 22, 1942.

On Saturday, June 5th, a shower for the bride was held in the basement of the Clover Bar United church, where the bride was literally "showered" with many beautiful gifts. Everybody enjoyed themselves and at the close of the evening, refreshments were served by the C.G.I.T.

Miss Stephenson is quoted as saying: "It would have been a truly perfect evening if only Dad and Jimmy could have been here". Mr. Stephenson is working away from home and Jimmy Thompson, is in the R.C.A.F., and was unable to be present.

Clover Bar, as a whole, sincerely wish you, Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, many long years of happiness and success in the future.

FAT IS AMMUNITION!

Fat and bone conservation begins at home and ends in the firing line

- DO YOU KNOW -

One pound of fat supplies enough glycerine to fire 150 bullets from a Bren gun.

Two pounds of fat will fire a burst of 20 cannon shells from a Spitfire or 10 anti-aircraft shells.

Bones produce fat and aircraft glue.

If we saved fat at the rate of one ounce per person per week this would mean 36,000,000 pounds per year, enough to produce 3,600,000 pounds of glycerine for explosives.

OUR FIGHTERS DEPEND ON YOU

"Every housekeeper who delivers to a retail butcher, collector, or Salvage Committee, any rendered or unrendered fats or bones shall be entitled to receive from the person to whom they are delivered 4 cents per pound net weight for rendered fats, and 1 cent per pound for unrendered fats."

(The above paragraph is a direct quotation from Order A-642 of The Wartime Prices and Trade Board)

"Rendered fat" means fat melted down and strained to remove solid matter. It includes drippings and strained pan grease resulting from the cooking of meat.

"Unrendered fat" means raw or partially cooked fat free from lean meat and bone, but not fully rendered.

"Bones" means raw or cooked bones of cattle, sheep and hogs.

EVERY OUNCE COUNTS!

SAVE AND STRAIN EVERY DROP TO SPEED VICTORY. SELL IT TO YOUR BUTCHER OR GIVE IT TO YOUR SALVAGE COMMITTEE.

NOTICE TO BUTCHERS, HOTELS, ETC.

You have been mailed a copy of Order A-642. This Order affects operators of hotels, restaurants and other establishments where meals are served. It is of immediate importance to butchers and slaughterers. If your copy has been lost, you can obtain another from the nearest office of The Wartime Prices and Trade Board

Prediction of Redemption

If Parliament continues to meet through the balance of its program at the present rather slow rate of progress, which is most likely, it is predicted along Parliament Hill that it is quite possible that this session will not conclude any earlier than that of last year when the procedings did not end until the month of August, though the long adjournment in the midst of last year's session on account of the national plebiscite proved to be a strong factor in prolonging the time for prorogation. There has been no such factor in this session but there has been an obvious disposition towards rather lengthy discussion on almost all problems or proposals, with this contentious tendency forcing the extension of time more than anything else.

Background of a Serious Problem

The seriousness of the coal situation is causing such a problem along Parliament Hill that extraordinary means are being planned by the authorities in order to solve it, particularly bearing in mind the uncertainty of the situation in the United States upon which in the past Canada has depended for certain supplies and labor conditions in this country. While in the last fiscal year Canada used about 27,382,000 tons of which 19,218,908 were imported from the United States and 18,162,000 were produced in this country, yet in this fiscal year of 1943-1944 Canadian needs will be about 41,500,000 tons of bituminous coal. This greater quantity of coal must be obtained under conditions which show that there is no certainty that the United States will be able to increase its exports of coal to this country in the future and that there are many unfilled vacancies in Canadian coal mines, including recent figures of a shortage at one period totalling 2,370, with 1,356 in the East and 956 in the West. This is the background of the Government's coal problems and why extraordinary measures are being planned to obtain an adequate supply of workers for the coal mines.

Sanctity of the Home

In view of the manpower problems confronting the Government in Ottawa, it is extremely interesting to note now that a valuable factor is not to be learned in the disclosures that the Government has in subscription is found with the fact that a recent survey has proven that no less than 54 per cent of the country's husbands have expressed their unwillingness to allow their wives to go to work.

Four Vacant Seats

There are no less than four vacant seats in the House of Commons at the present time. These are Montreal-Cartier as well as Stanstead in the Province of Quebec and Selkirk in Manitoba as well as Humboldt in Saskatchewan. The seat in Stanstead became vacant recently when the former Liberal member, Robert G. Davidson, was unseated by a judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada which had reversed a decision of the lower court. This was followed by a recommendation by the Committee on Privileges and Elections of the House of Commons that the necessary procedure should be taken to issue a writ for the by-election, though it is to be observed that this Committee of the House of Commons did add to its recommendation a declaration that the Court had exceeded its powers and been illegal practices in that election by appeals but not by or with the knowledge of the said Robert G. Davidson.

Contracts and Publicity

"There should be publication of contracts let by the Department of Munitions and Supply so that we may be a position to check up on those contracts which we have not been able to do for the past year and a half," declared a member of Parliament who was demanding more details on expenditures by the Government. However, Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, indicated that early in this year the Department had published three contracts but there were so many objections that this practice was abandoned, pointing out that the cost of compilation was growing from day to day and at the time it was discontinued this cost was $25,000 a year "I have no objection to resuming that practice if honourable members think that would be money well spent, for I believe the reasons of security are different now than they were at that time," declared the Minister.

Pensioned People

In answer to a charge in Parliament that it was a violation of contract between the Government and pensioned people to refuse a cost-of-living bonus to superannuated civil servants, the Government had stated that it was not right to pay a cost of living bonus to such superannuated employees as was on account of the purchasing power of the dollar being down somewhat but just as it would not have been right to deprive them of anything when the purchasing power of the dollar was high in the years of depression. Therefore, he claimed, that is the spokesman for the Government, there was no breach of contract and no other policy was reasonable or practical.

The first of 100 concrete vessels ordered by the U.S. government has been launched. It is an oil barge 375 feet long, with a cargo capacity of 5,000 tons.

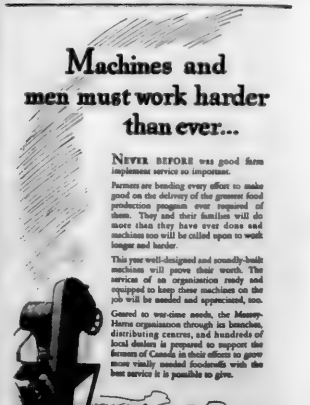
Machines and men must work harder than ever...



NEVER BEFORE was good farm implement service so important.

Farmers are bending every effort to make good on the delivery of the greatest food production program ever required of them. They and their families will do more than they have ever done and machines too will be called upon to work longer and harder.

This year well-designed and soundly-built machines will prove their worth. The services of an organization ready and equipped to keep these machines on the job will be needed and appreciated, too.

Geared to war-time needs, the Massey-Harris organization through its branches, distributing centres, and hundreds of local dealers is prepared to support the farmers of Canada in their efforts to grow more vitally needed foodstuffs with the best service it is possible to give.

PROVIDE NOW FOR FUTURE BUYING

Some day you will be able to make those improvements you are planning, buy new household appliances, and get the latest models in equipment. In the meantime help by your regular buying Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates—it's the best way to help your country and help yourself.

Ask your local Massey-Harris dealer about replacing and modernizing your farm equipment.

World of Wheat

by
H. G. L. Strange

WHEAT ACREAGE

We are continually being told that Canadian farmers must reduce wheat acreage because of an alleged burdensome world wheat surplus.—I have never felt myself that the wheat plan was as burdensome as some seem to think).

Our farmers have loyally responded to the Government's appeal and have reduced wheat acreage from 1940 to 1942 by 30 percent, while the United States during the same period reduced her wheat acreage by only 10 percent. This year, 1943, prairie farmers have reduced wheat acreage by and additional 10 percent, but the United States governmental is now actually boosting American farmers to increase their wheat acreage.

Surely there is room for better collaboration here. If the Minister [illegible] Canada and Britain, and Australia were all to agree to limit their production of foodstuffs which they all in fact do limit.

There are [illegible] different countries in the British Commonwealth of Nations. Why not call a conference in Washington, to agree on the international production and distribution of all world foodstuffs if we want even our neighbours on the United States and Canada, and South America, to have enough to eat? Surely we are intelligent enough, cannot work out a fair plan to decrease their own wheat acreages?

Dependable insurance is an investment in security and peace of mind.

June honorably ignore such a debt? After all that she has received from Alberta she now wants to invest her life in terms of private comfort and profit. Surely such conduct would be treachery not only to Alberta but also to her best self.

Q.: Then you think June should take a job in the work for which she was trained even if it means offensive surroundings and poor pay?

L.: I think that June should make her own decisions honorably and in the light of the Holy Spirit.

Q.: I think the most important fact is June herself.

L.: I am of the opinion that that fact, that is June herself, will never become a significant fact until she loses and occupies a larger fact,—namely, that she and society are as much a part of each other that she cannot betray one without betraying her other at the same time.

Q.: You prate like a Bill Victorian professor of morals!

With that Question walked away and left me. When he is in a better mood I may get chance to defend myself.

Mossey-Harris Show Delight Troops Across Canada

"Canadians of 1943" Play to Capacity Crowd at Edmonton's Arena

Showing is more appreciated by the men of the forces than lively, fast-moving entertainment as a break in the routine of training. And that a good variety show is the right kind of entertainment is clearly shown by the spontaneous, enthusiastic response being given the show of—"Canadians of 1943"—the Massey-Harris Show that is visiting the training centres of the prairie provinces at the present time.

This show is the result of the efforts of an enthusiastic group of workers in the Massey-Harris Organization who felt that in addition to making armaments for the fighting forces they would like to do something for the troops in training. Talent for this show was recruited from among the workers of the Massey-Harris plants, and everything including the routines, scripts, arrangements, costumes, scenery and props are products of their development. The show has lots of variety from start to finish with songs, comedy, novelties, top and novelty dancing, instrumental numbers, and a chorus of very attractive young ladies.

Since the first performance, at R.C.A.F. Manning Depot in Toronto, last October the Massey-Harris Show has played over ninety times among the training centres in Ontario, the total attendance at these performances being over one hundred thousand. The present itinerary includes training centres in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, and deep and sincere appreciation has been expressed by the commanding officers of the establishments that the show is providing for the pleasure of their units.

Bremner Celebrates Anniversary Service Sunday, June 27

The four charges under Dr. Stanley Scott's ministery were represented at a meeting held at the parsonage, Bremner, on Monday evening. Plans for summer Young People's activities were discussed, it being decided to have both a boys' and girls' camp at Cooking Lake, a week's camp for the boys to be followed by a week for the girls. Dr. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Haythorne of Salisbury, were chosen as a committee to arrange for a suitable camp site A motion was passed that a fee of $5.00 be charged up to 50 per cent of this fee to be in form of produce or groceries, the larger fee making possible the inclusion of handicraft lessons during the week, and the expenses of a trained leader in Young People's work if it is possible to obtain such a leader.

The suggestion of a combined Sunday school picnic for all four charges was discussed, and it was referred to the four branches of the Sunday school for discussion.

After the Sunday School session at Bremner Sunday morning, it was decided that Bremner join with the other districts for the picnic, and a committee of three, Mr. Frank Andrews, Superintendent, Mr. F. T. Jackson, and Miss Viola McGhan, was chosen to look after the arrangements with the other districts.

Political Parade

There are considerable discussions now back-stage along Parliament Hill not only about elections in the Provincial fields but also in the Federal domain some there are reasons to believe that the results in any Provincial sphere will be a much stronger factor in influencing a decision in favour of or in opposition to a general appeal to the country by the King Government. It is held now by observers in the nation's capital that the departure of the Hon. Mitchell Hepburn from the political scene in Ontario at the arrival of the Hon. H. Nixon has cleared the road for full speed ahead in moving heavy Federal reinforcements to the political front in order to strengthen the party in any campaign there at any time without the embarrassment which was caused by the former Premier's hostility to Prime Minister King. Then again, the much stronger Federal Progressive - Conservative organization and its new aggressive leadership is bound to produce untold political power in somehow backing Col. George Drew The C.C.F. party is planning to provide a contest in almost every seat in the Province. Elsewhere in the Provincial fields, political activities are increasing rapidly, though there seems to be no great anxiety to hold elections on the part of some unless something occurred to encourage such appeals. Instead, there is the same feeling in Ottawa. A general election does not seem to be desired unless something happens that is likely to influence a decision in favour of such an appeal to the people with a relative hope for success.

Battle Experience for Canadians

It has been disclosed in Ottawa that so far back as last fall Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, had a discussion about sending Canadian troops to North Africa but the suggestion was not accepted. A member had stated in Parliament that he believed two or three Canadian divisions should have gone to the North African campaign or else where, inferring that they would have been able to get actual battle experience by such move. Instead, they were left in Britain for three years. "I can say that last fall, when I was over there," said Hon. J. L. Ralston, "I discussed the sending of a division of Canadian troops to North Africa and I was given what I considered to be good and sufficient reasons by those who were best qualified to know that the suggestion could not be accepted."

Complete Concentration

When it was augured in Parliament that an eye should be kept open on the post-war period in the work or operations of the Mutual Aid Board in this war, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, countered: "I do not think that this Mutual Aid Board can function with one eye on post-war advantage and—". Here a member interrupted in Parliament to d.-mand: "Why not?" but the Minister continued to say:" And the other eye on winning the war because both eyes have got to be on winning the war. That is why!"

Canadian Dollars Are Needed To Help Save Greek Children

President Roosevelt this week turned over to the Greek government an anti-submarine patrol ship as "an expression of American hopes and prayers that it would hasten the day when liberated Greeks will again maintain their own government within the shadow of the Acropolis and the Parthenon."

These hopes and prayers will be shared by all people the world over who cherish liberty, the peace and dignity of mankind and everything else that makes life worth living. But what of the Greeks in the homeland who, in the meantime, are suffering under the cruel heel of the oppressor? How many of them will live to enjoy the restoration of Greek independence that is surely coming?

Quiet to Respond

Throughout this war Canadians have been quick to express their sympathy and practical help for those who have suffered directly from Axis aggression. On no other call is being made upon their charity. The Greek War Relief fund has been set up to provide a national objective of $500,000. The objective in the Edmonton district is $30,000. This week Edmonton will see the start of many men, women and children in ravished Greece, and that surely is a challenge which cannot be measured in terms of dollars alone.

Can you spare $1 or $5 to help save the lives of Greek children? They are emaciated and weakened, often too weak even to beg for crusts and mostly pathetic. Under the call of war from starvation or disease unless the outside world comes to their assistance.

Red Cross to Purchase

The money raised by the Greek War Relief fund will be used by the Canadian Red Cross to purchase the supplies most needed by the Greeks in the homeland. Their representatives Red Cross will take over the job of getting them to Greece and supervising their distribution.

Donations may be taken to or sent to A. B. King, manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, or sent to J. G. Nicherson, manager of the Bank of Canada.

Josephburg News

Last week, to our little corner of the universe, appeared to be a week of frustration and we champed upon the old bit till our mouths salted. With shocked feelings we learned that the old world went on its accustomed way in spite of our frustration. It hurts us.

First we were frustrated in the matter of the annual Strawberry Social, with its attendant sports and ball games. Strawberries, we take it, are the main attraction on these occasions and strawberries were not to be had. It is useless to tell one-self that rhubarb contains just as many calories or vitamins or things. Maybe it does but we want strawberries!

We had stocked ourselves to do without meat or sugar or cream but did not expect strawberries.

A few of those delicacies have since trickled into Alberta, but the price is prohibitive, as much so that we are told that the fruit has an actual Royal Mint flavor.

Frustration No. 2 consisted of a baseball game against Partridge Hill, which was to have decided once and for all which team should be entered for Track Meet Day. In the second game of the series the result stood at one game each. A decision was arrived at by the respective captains that in case a count of points failed to break the tie, extra innings each should be played then and there to climb the argument for May 24 should prove impossible to meet again.

The net result was that Josephburg was ahead by one point.

Partridge Hill naturally was anxious for a third game on neutral ground and the day was set, but—the rains came.

Frustration No. 3 was the Track Meet itself. The day previous dawned doubtful and as the hours wore on a fine drizzle ensued. By nightfall this had developed into downright downpour and the roads were awash. Next morning began as the previous one left off, downhearted and bedraggled, we assembled for the band. An hour or so later a tear-stained sun appeared and by noon the "all-clear sounded.

An S.O.S. was issued by Bill Thomas, President of the Community Club, calling upon all members to turn out for the annual spring cleaning of the grounds. The women nobly responded; the youngsters likewise but this year the men were poorly represented due to the pressure of spring work. The spirit was willing, but the flesh weak.' All that could be done, was done but a tractor and grader would have made a job of it.

51,321 individual shareholders own Canada's Chartered Banks. The average holding is 28 shares. Most of these shareholders are Canadians.
The wide distribution of bank ownership is indicated by the fact that 36,574 individuals, living in all parts of Canada, hold shares in the Chartered Banks of Canada. Of the remaining shareholders, 8,987 live elsewhere in the British Empire.
Some further facts about Canada's Banks:
There are 4,569,740 savings deposit accounts in the Chartered Banks of Canada, averaging $391 each. Safeguarding the funds of depositors is a primary function of commercial banking. Banks keep themselves in such a position that anybody going to the bank to withdraw his savings can get his money. Banks, like any other business, exist because they provide service which a community needs and is willing to pay for at a rate which will yield a reasonable return.

Farm Account Book Given Free

Farming is a business It has become too involved to carry the details in mind Simple records will enable one to analyse the transactions of the current year and, more important—will be a basis for planning. Success in any business is seldom greater than the vision contained in the planned program

As an aid to the keeping of accounts on the farm a booklet entitled Book has been published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and may be obtained upon request by and address to the King's Printer Ottawa together with ten cents. This book considers not only farm income and includes directions for the keeping of accounts together with provision for records of farm transactions. In addition, a page is devoted to methods of estimating grain, hay and silage; standard weights of farm products per bushel and other useful information.

A farm account book accurately kept is the only means by which a farmer can definitely determine the financial results of his business for the year, and the publication mentioned will be of assistance in this connection.

You Must Advertise!

Speaking before a well-attended meeting of the Retail Merchants Association, Monday night in Edmonton, Ralph Taylor, of Toronto, representing the management division of the W.P.T.B., said during his talk that:

"Merchants must not make the serious mistake of dropping their advertising in the newspapers just because they are short of a few lines. Names should be kept before the public by means of advertisements, even though in some cases there is nothing to sell, so that when normal times are restored business names on which much money has been spent in selling to the public before the war will have the same appeal again when needed. Many men found that after the last war when they practised the false economy of discounting their advertising and then could not regain their former prestige against competitive firms. Instead business men must eliminate frills and regulate its sales".

Business men who have felt that it was throwing money away advertising at the present time, are urged to give serious thought to the above quotation. Coming from an official of the W.P.T.B., who has travelled across the dominion and seen conditions at first hand, should be in a position to advise the business men to their own advantage.

WORLD LACKS FOOD

The United Nations Conference of 43 nations has just concluded its investigations at Hot Springs, Virginia They find:-

1. That there is and will be for long to come a scarcity of food in the world.

2. That while it is desirable to improve the nutrition of the people of the world a much more important goal for future years is to bring about freedom from sheer hunger from which millions of people have always suffered.

3. That there are no real surpluses of foodstuffs in the world.

4. That production of foodstuffs must be greatly increased in the future.

5. That surplus foodstuffs available in any country must quickly be made available to the hungry people of other countries.

6. That to bring about a better distribution of foodstuffs, the Conference want on record as opposing tariffs and other artificial barriers to international trade.

—V—

This is all splendid news for the farmers, for it indicates a return to sound economic and humanitarian thinking which the government of the world, and most of the people, abandoned during the past 30 years.

There will undoubtedly be much opposition to these recommendations certain interests will still desire to have high prices, even if they are uneconomically in the United States and Canada behind tariff walls. Farmers and all of us, therefore, will have to press our Canadian Government to lower tariffs so as to permit the free flow of foodstuffs goods and commodities throughout the world.

How's Your Garden?

A lot of people have the itch to grow their own vegetables this summer, so we'll give you the low down on some of the common varieties that most gardens will try to grow.

Let's start with the beet. It is a native of the Mediterranean regions since about the third or fourth century B.C. That was a long, long time ago, friends, so the beet commands respect by reason of its age as well as its food value. The beet was cultivated in South-western Europe for its roots and leaves. Theophrastus and Dioscorides mentioned it in their works.

The lima bean is a native of Brazil. It was found in ancient Peruvian tombs, indicating its early cultivation in South America. When they started bringing slaves from Africa the lima bean was evidently carried back to Africa where it was widely cultivated and became an important crop.

The cabbage is an old, old vegetable. It has been cultivated since prehistoric times. There are evidences indicating that the cabbage has been in cultivation for more than 4000 years. The ancient Greeks grew three varieties Pliny mentioned six varieties in his books. There is no mention of corned beef, however No corned beef with the cabbage? Something wrong, somewhere.

Lettuce is another old-timer, having been used, it is said, by Persian royalty more than 2000 years ago Today it is unquestionably the most widely used of all materials for salads.

Celery is a native of Europe, Western Asia and Northern Africa. It was assuredly grown in the Mediterranean regions. Celery was mentioned in Homer's Odyssey. And Dioscorides recommended eating celery and onions as a means for inducing sleep. So, besides being good eating celery makes a pretty—or does counting sheep, if it is claimed.

The good old onion—a member of the lily family—is a native of South Western Asia. Now there is a vegetable you never mistake—even in the dark—and it's so necessary with a juicy steak. This popular bear-lerker has been cultivated since prehistoric times. Also grown by the ancient Egyptians, Greeks and Romans.

And peas—these round green seeds in a pod—come from Western Asia. Have been cultivated since remote antiquity. Peas were grown by the Lake Dwellers of the Bronze Age - the Bronze Age was 3000 B.C.—and by the ancient Greeks.

Spinach—the stuff that's supposed to be good for you, and a favorite everything spread of "Popeye the sailor man"—was cultivated by the Medes and Persians. It was introduced into China about 150 B.C., and into Europe about the fifteenth century.

Compared with the above oldtimers, potatoes and tomatoes are mere infants from the standpoint of age. Both were brought from South America by the Spaniards in the early part of the sixteenth century. At first, tomatoes were regarded with suspicion and under the name of "love apple" were popular only as garden ornaments Thanks, however —not doubt to the daring of one of those courageous souls who are willing to "try anything once"—the edibility and delicious flavor of tomatoes were discovered and now there are over 150 different varieties on the market.

We mentioned Pliny, Dioscorides, Theophrastus and Homer. Pliny was a Roman Naturalist and Encyclopedist, born at Como, Italy, 23 A.D.; Dioscorides was a Greek Physician first century A.D.; Theophrastus was a Greek Philosopher and Naturalist, born 372 B.C and Homer was a Greek Poet, living about 900 B.C.

And now are ahead with your hoeing, weeding, bug killing and other gardening pleasures

Presbyterian Minister Visits Former Parish

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reynolds entertained for the Rev. Mr. McClellan of Kelso, Sask. when some 29 or more guests gathered to welcome him back in the district after 27 years. Rev. McClellan was minister of the Presbyterian church here at that time. He had a pleasant time renewing old acquaintances, especially with 11 of his old bible class being present. The evening was spent singing old hymns in the way they were sung in those days. Rev. McClellan then gave his friends present, a very interesting talk. Lunch served by the hostesses, assisted by others, brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

News from the new districts is beginning to trickle in. Correspondents are urged to keep up the good work.

RADIO GRAMS

The Private Who Won't Tire:

Past growing noticeably is radio is a select group composed of "the unofficial announcers of the airwaves." Winifred Vinden's fame has become so familiar to radio audiences that when you pick up the phone, be it Montreal or Vancouver, you half way expect her to cut in on your conversation. But Myrt is only a myth—a frequent interruption from the Wistful Vista telephone company when Pfiber McGee is putting on a call. Myrt's voice is heard only by Pfiber, never over the air, yet she's known almost as well as the loquacious Pfiber himself. She is one of radio's favorite "unheard" characters. The Pfiber McGee and Molly show has another unheard character, Mrs. Wallace Wimple, who rose in popularity coincides with that of her husband, a comparatively new creation of young, many-voiced Jim Thompson. Mr. Wimple is an exasperatingly unintelligible fat man who pecked husband and from his remarks, you get a perfect picture of the ludicrous person. "Uncle Dennie," Molly's irrepressible uncle, is another "unheard" character who contributes many spots of humor to the McGee show.

Lac Sadie Thompson presents Ronald Coleman in Neal Coward's fine story of the sea, "In Which We Serve". This is the story of a British Captain and his crew abroad the Destroyer, H.M.S. Torrin. It is the gripping, thrilling story of the sea in wartime and you will live the part. Don't miss them as they talk of their adventures and the Christmas they spent at home. Don't miss, "In Which We Serve" next Monday at 7:00 p.m.

From start to finish the sun shone warmly upon the venture. By 9 a.m. the various schools had begun to concentrate and by 10.30 preliminary weighing was completed and the day's events began. A list of the winners of the various contests together with the behind of the school to which each belonged is appended. The nine schools participating were Bolton (B); Combs (C); Douglas (Do); Deep Creek (DeC); Josephburg (J); Mannfield (M); Partridge Hill (P); Tyron Valley (T); Sodom (S).

The track events were completed by 12:30 with the exception of the Relay Race which took place after lunch.

The Red Cross did a large volume of business in the shape of coffee and hot dogs and Albert Thomas operated a booth for the sale of soft drinks and ice.

Immediately following the Relay, three school soft-ball teams, the result of elimination, drew straws as to who should get the by. Mannfield was the lucky one and Sodom and Josephburg matched down to a whizzing battle at which Josephburg proved the victor.

This game was followed by one between the Bruderheim High School girls and a local girls' team which resulted in a win for the latter.

Last but not least came the final game to decide who should be the holder of the soft-ball trophy for 1943, the cup being won by Josephburg.

Mr. Rudolph Hannig ably presented the cups as follows:

Highest Aggregate Girls—Bessie Irwin, Tyron Valley.

Highest Aggregate Boys—Bernie Krohn, Combs.

Fort Hardware Cup for the school with highest aggregate, Tyron Valley.

Softball cup donated by Community Club, Josephburg, won by Josephburg.

Just by way of a perfect ending to a perfect day, the Senior Room had staged a dance in the schoolroom with Gene Savage's Fort Saskatchewan orchestra supplying the music. A record crowd occupied the floor and hop a-whirlin' till the wee sma' hours and all declared they had a wonderful time. Some of the students operated a soft drink bar which netted the Red Cross a further five dollars.

Among the crowd we noticed two of our neighbors who have recently moved in—the Rystad family which has bought the Jos Dorn farm and the Dumpsters who have lately taken over Parkway Service Station.

W. A. Dumpster of Lloydminster district has taken over the Parkway Service Station, formerly operated by P. A. Rippel. The new operator will run a general trucking service besides carry a full line of Union Products at the station.

It's The Trickle That Counts . .

War, as big that it spreads into almost every part of our world, is won by the organized little efforts of individuals. The monotonous left and right turns on the drill field, the collection of fats in the kitchen, the unvaried motions beside a lathe, the added work of feeding larger numbers of live-stock and the extra number of daily taps on the typewriter, three into and make possible the great stream of war effort destined to overwhelm Hitler and his shady colleagues.

While this is true, many of us fail to appreciate it sometimes. Our bandrum job one can appear to be so remote from our idea of war as something exciting and important. It is fair and accurate, nevertheless, to say that the flood which will take proper care of the enemy depends entirely on the trickling flow of individual efforts from all of us.

With that conception of our part in the job of war, we see more clearly the reason why individuals should buy Victory Bonds, no matter how small: why each war worker cannot afford to stay away from his job and unnecessarily, and why even in the simple matter of making an income tax return, the co-operation of the individual is vitally important.

Money which goes into the Dominion Treasury from the income tax returns made by more than two million Canadian citizens is just as necessary as money raised through the sale of Victory Bonds in stopping the military machine which is to be carried into the fields of Europe. When each individual jumps to meet the request of the Department of National Revenue for prompt completion and return of the income tax form, he is making a vital contribution to the efficiency of his country's war job.

South Edmonton News

On the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary on Monday, June 14th, a surprise party of about 30 friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Bannon of the South Edmonton district, (nee Ethel McConnell of Clover Bar.) The evening was spent with a musical program and a meal wedding. A delightful lunch was served after which the couple were presented with a chest of fine silverware on behalf of those present. Mr. Geo. D. Ball acted as toastmaster.

should be done, one group favoring the opening up of an East and West road and the other group countering by making a proposal to open certain North and South roads. The question of draining two small lakes to insure adequate drainage for a proper road bed also appeared to be an important factor. After a lengthy debate, which at times was of a somewhat heated nature, covering the pros and cons of the different opinions expressed, the Council, which fully realized the situation, promised the delegates that everything possible would be done to meet their requests.

Church Made Responsible

Mr. A. H. Gibson, K.C., Fort Saskatchewan, was in attendance representing clients who wished the Council to consider [illegible] whereby they were prevented from cleaning a ditch which drained a slough on the N½, 23-55-21-4. The Council agreed to rescind those instructions provided he would obtain from his clients an undertaking that they would be responsible for any damages that may arise from the cleaning out of the ditch.

Hospital Agreements

The Secretary submitted draft copies of an agreement between the District and the four City hospitals and the Lamont Hospital covering the payment of grants for all patients admitted from the District. After a brief perusal it was decided to defer a decision on the agreement either until it had been discussed at a meeting of the Edmonton Union of Municipal Districts or at a special meeting of the council.

Hold Tax in Suspense

Considerable time was spent in determining a policy of tax collections. While the Council did not wish to impose any undue hardship on anyone in arrears, it felt, nevertheless, that the time was opportune to make every effort to substantially reduce the accumulated arrears. After due consideration instructions were issued to the Secretary to take the proper steps to distrain on the goods and chattels of any ratepayer whose name was two years in arrears. It was also decided to hold a Tax Sale of all property against which a Tax Notification has been registered for the legal period, excepting property on which the taxes have been cancelled, on the 28th day of September, 1943. It should be pointed out that the registration of a Tax Notification does not prevent the District from distraining.

Council to Look Into Land Deals

Mr. Kelch was appointed to report on the terms of a proposed offer to purchase a thirty-three foot strip of land on the East side of Mahner Park.

Messrs. Bolley and Kelch were delegated to deal with the lease or sale of the property owned by the District in Brosseau sub-division.

Several offers to purchase certain properties owned by the District were received. A number of other applications to purchase municipal lands were held in abeyance for further information or refused on account of the offers being insufficient.

Old Age Pension Granted

One application for old age pension was approved and a recommendation made that the applicant be awarded a pension in the maximum amount.

Next Meeting July 13th.

The next meeting, the 13th July, was the date set for the hearing of appeals against assessments adopted from last year's valuations.

With the reading of correspondence, which after being discussed, was ordered filed and the passing of accounts and accounts the meeting adjourned on Tuesday afternoon at 5:45 p.m.

Health Notes

By
DR. N. C. ADAMSON, M.D.

OF MICE AND MEN

Last winter with its deep snows and standing crops probably lingers in your mind even now— and will until yuh are gone. And part of that picture may be the swarms of field mice—literally tens of thousands that lived in the snow beneath stacks over the winter, destroying the grain that you were not able to thresh.

Reports in the spring were of mice running through yards, of predators, hawks and crows, so full they were unmolested in temporary action of food. And also here and there, of mice lying dead in farm yards, poisoned by gorged carnivorous.

What killed these mice? Was it the same disease that last winter killed off a great proportion of our rabbit population—Tularaemia? To quote from the pamphlet of the Department of Public Health "Tularaemia (known as rabbit fever) is primarily an infection of small wild animals and is presumably present throughout the entire state." Tick bite causes sores in spring and early summer; mouse caught by handling animals most frequently during the spring and summer.

It might have been—though less probable, Sylvatic plague which affects rodents, or Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever which has been said "Mice are thought to be of considerable importance."

In the meantime, a suggestion would be that dead mice and prophets be taken up in forks or shovels and burned—not just left to through the flame. Every dead body could be the host for infected

And if you notice any number of dead or dying gophers and mice, advise us, or the Department of Public Health in Edmonton.

Articles by Dr. N. C. Adamson, Medical Officer for the Clover Bar Health Unit will appear from time to time in the columns of The Record. Watch for these timely and interesting Health Notes.

Registered And Certified Crops

Many farmers are growing either Registered or Certified crops for seed, or wish to have their crops inspected in the field in order to know authentically whether their crops are true-to-variety.

Those who desire to have their fields of grain or forage crops inspected must make an application for such inspection to the Production Services, Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, at either Calgary, Saskatoon or Winnipeg. The application must be made on a proper form, supplied for the purpose by the Plant Products Division, and the form must be filled in and returned to the Plant Products Division before July 1st.

Those who are having fields inspected would do well to run a mower around their Registered or Certified crop so as to have a clear strip or lane some four feet wide around the growing Registered or Certified field.

Fields will not necessarily pass inspection simply because they have been sown with Registered or Certified seed. Work must be done on them. The seed grower or farmer should walk through the field at heading time and pull out by the roots plants of weeds or of other grains or off-types which obviously do not belong in the crop.

Through bank loans, Canada's Chartered Banks help Canadians to benefit themselves, their fellows and their country. Many of these loans are small—but all contribute their share to the day-by-day activities of Canadian enterprise.

Some further facts about Canada's Banks:

Chartered Banks' loans relating to agriculture as shown on the last official return to Parliament, totalled $540,110,473. This sum included loans to farmers, stockmen, fruit growers and to grain dealers and grain operators.

Every general manager today heading a Chartered Bank entered the bank as a junior in some small branch.

Up to and including February, 1943, no fewer than 6003 men and 134 women bank employees had enlisted in the armed forces.

Seekers of Farm Prosperity

Western Canada will be gratified with the interest being shown in Parliament in the proposals which have been advocated since 1.38 by the Line Elevator Companies for more intensive scientific research in developing industrial uses for farm products. The Line Elevator Companies have all along contended that greater farm prosperity would result from expanding markets through finding new uses for wheat and other farm products. In 1938 and 1939 a representative of the Line Companies visited the principal research laboratories of the United States and reported great possibilities for utilizing large quantities of wheat in the manufacture of alcohol and starches. This information was made available at that time to the Dominion Government and the Chemurgic Committee of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. The weekly newspapers of the Prairie Provinces joined with The North-West Line Elevators Association in urging the Government to establish a Western Division of the National Research Council and to erect plants for the manufacture of industrial alcohol from wheat. All beverage alcohol plants in Canada and the United States have since been converted to the use of wheat for the manufacture of industrial alcohol for war purposes. This year Canada will use 7,000,000 bushels of wheat in the manufacture of alcohol and presumably larger quantities will be used in the United States.

Parliament a few days ago witnessed a unanimous resolution of Liberal, Progressive-Conservative, C.C.F. and New Democracy members for the Government to appropriate $600,000 this year to intensify scientific research for development of industrial uses for farm crops and thereby add to the prosperity of agriculture. Farm organizations, the Governments of Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Pool Elevator Companies, Industrial Development Boards and various Boards of Trade in recent months have all added their voice to the need for action.

It is gratifying that the Canadian Newspapers to find that the consistent support which they have given the Line Elevator Companies' proposals during the past five years is bringing about a united demand from all sections of the country for action by the Dominion Government. It is hoped that steps will be taken during the present session of Parliament to appropriate sufficient funds to establish a Western division of the National Research Council This laboratory should be dedicated to bringing about greater farm prosperity through development of additional Western farm crops and new industrial uses for crops now being grown The laboratory should also seek economic means of using wheat instead of petroleum in the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

Letter to the Editor

"Progressive"

By JOHN GALLOWAY
Fort Saskatchewan

The conservatives have been progressive for a century. Progressive when a deputation went to ask J. A Macdonald to be their candidate Progressive when he said, on accepting the nomination; "in my opinion it is better for us to spend our time in developing this young country rather than splitting hairs about constitutional matters, and sectarian dogmas" Progressive when Macdonald went to the conference, that met to consider the union of the Maritime provinces, and advocated the confederation of all provinces. Progressive when Macdonald took provincialism of both political parties, and the various religious sects, into his first cabinet under confederation. Progressive when he announced his protective policy. In 1878, the one pre-election promise, "a National Policy" was put out, and it has been adhered to unanimously now, for 64 years. Progressive when he put on the C.P.R. through "from ocean to ocean". But when they opposed Laurier's reciprocal agreement with the U.S.A., I did not think that they were progressive, and then in when I supported Sir Wilfred. Very soon, when Borden brought the message from the Imperial Government, "there is an emergency", and proposed to contribute $35,000,000 towards the British navy, I considered them progressive, and when the Liberals said, "there is no emergency", I supported Borden. I make no apology.

Canada Approved Flour and Bread

News has just come from Great Britain that the British Ministry of Food after exhaustive tests have found that Canada Approved" Victamin B-1 bread is classed, all things considered, as a better bread than either the present white bread of Britain or the loaf of the United States now reinforced artificially with Vitamin B-1.

The International Food Conference which recently met at Hot Springs confirmed this commendation by unanimously recommending that pre-

Josephburg Correspondent Writes Own Obituary

"'Tis said of swans, they sing before they die.
'Twere best if some men died before they sing"

This then is the swan song of your correspondent.

"Bear with me: my heart is in the coffin there with Caesar, and I must pause till it come back to me."

As in the scientific definition of 'matter' namely, matter occupies space, so in the case of this column it may be justly claimed that it occupied space—space which we are confident will be filled from hence forth with "thoughts of great moment, worthy cogitations".

Herein the resemblance to the definition of matter ends, for matter, we are told, "has weight" and it is doubtful whether the gentlest of gentle readers would vouchsafe to declare that the same is true of this column.

The evil that one does lives after him; the good is oft interred with his bones".

If one may innocuate Abraham Lincoln, one might add—"With smiles toward none, with charity for all, it is for us to resolve that this paper (The Fort Record), under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that opinions of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from its pages.

A Tip For Tired Eyes!

Have a Check-up at EATON'S

So why not plan to call in at EATON'S OPTICAL PARLOR on the Second Floor, the very next time you're in the store? No appointment is necessary and you will be pleased with our prompt, efficient service. Only the most modern of scientific equipment is used and four optometrists are in attendance:

Iron and Steel

The Canadian public knows, and admires, the successful struggle against fuel shortages in which prairie farmers have been, and still are engaged.

Less popular, however, know that but for the patriotism of farmers in the west, some steel mills in the east might have been unable to carry on last winter. About the 1st of July, 1942, a system for collecting scrap iron and steel by rural elevator agents was organized. All elevator systems have been engaged in the work. Thanks to the willing response of farmers and the enterprise of elevator agents, 2,200 cars of scrap have been shipped with a total of about 130,000 tons of metal.

60,000 tons remain in dumps at various shipping points. The is because it has been necessary, until recently, to assemble at least 25 tons at a point before loading. Now, however, two stop-overs are allowed in order to make up a carload and, as a result, the 25-ton limit rather than carload lots will soon disappear.

This is no time to relax, because the need for scrap iron and steel is urgent. It is estimated that 65,000 tons are still available on farms. The importance of getting this delivered and shipped is very great. Farmers will be paid $7.00 per ton for scrap delivered to local elevator purchasing agents. Heavy stuff, such as steam engine, heavy tractors, etc., is worth $4.50 per ton on the farm. It will be cut up and removed by the cutter crew. Any farmer having heavy scrap which requires the cutter crew should immediately notify the elevator purchasing agent.

The government has publicly acknowledged the patriotism of farmers and elevator agents—but requires more scrap urgently. To delay is to postpone final victory.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

"It's a job he likes" So said my neighbor in telling of the work was a mutual friend had started There is something greatly satisfying in a job one likes Not only itself with all its strivings of skill and knowledge, and not only the joy of finished work, but even the weariness at the day's end and the ache of muscles are a joy. I am sure every one has had the experience often enough to know how thoroughly satisfying such work is, and can fully understand the one who feels that in his job he has a religious experience, as in working with God.

Today, for many, much in the Service and in civilian life, these experiences are coming in a way not known for two decades. The shining eye, the straight shoulders, the smart gait, and the quick smile and easy laughter are a joy to see. Though some would not so speak of their experience in terms of supplies that's not the point. The transport system and these supplies from the psalmists and the doors of the factories down to the docks, where they load the ships will speed the next two weeks at Camp starting Saturday.

Jeremiah is, I suppose, the classical example of a man who felt driven by an eternal compulsion to do a job he hated. Though it turned friends into scornful scoffers, ran him off from every social delight and nearly all honest employment, he could not escape the relentless demands of Jehovah that he keep on talking all Nation it was rapidly approaching a catastrophe in all the political, military, economic and religious aspects of life. Treated as no human idiot and imprisoned, Jeremiah stood and strived, he persisted in warning the nation of its rapidly approaching doom. Then the people whom he would have saved from their doom by the war right they killed him. The story of his life, though it satisfies poetic justice in that future generations recognized his greatness, lacks any evidence that anyone ever appreciated his living Jeremiah any appreciation of his labors or his unconscionable love for his people.

Let us be warned, therefore, in a world intoxicated with the idea of doing only those jobs one likes. The most satisfying and enriching life experience felt to have an eternal dimension, can be found not only in the job we like but also in tasks we do not like. Wine is be used, in the truest sense, when chosen and done his work 'in the light of the Eternal', and does not take too seriously his own likes and dislikes.

Cost of Making Wheat Alcohol Is Cut in Half

New processes are constantly being developed which will reduce the cost of converting farm crops into industrial materials An Associated Press Dispatch reports development of a new distilling process which went into operation late in June and which it is claimed will cut in two the costs of converting wheat into alcohol to be used for war purposes. It is claimed this development will make wheat alcohol as cheap to produce as molasses alcohol. This process will save the United States $50,000,000 annually in war alcohol costs and at the same time will provide one billion pounds of protein feeds for livestock and for enriching human foodstuffs. In advocating establishment of a Western Division of the National Research Council, with fully equipped laboratories, the Line Elevator Companies contend that the resultant research will bring about erection of grain alcohol distilleries in Western Canada, new industrial uses and enlarged markets for farm crops, and greater prosperity for the Western farmer.

Mrs. Smith with her husband, came West with the Perry Bennet colony in 1892, and located on land in the Fertridge Hill district where she resided until her death.

Mrs. Smith was one of those pioneer mothers, who though, busy with her home and family found time to help with church and community work in the early years of the line She was one whose hands were seldom idle and since the out-break of war a great deal of her time was spent in knitting for the boys overseas.

THE WATCHERS on the cliffs chose their going and coming as—night after night—R.C.A.F. bombers deliver devastating blows.

Canadian boys are famous for their skill and daring. As new recruits, they entered R.C.A.F. Training Schools. They emerged within a few happy and enduring months as trained specialists—clear-eyed and competent.

Every member of a bomber crew is an expert at his own job, yet at the same time part of a closely-knit, smooth-working team. Happily, too, the air training and technical knowledge possessed by these fighting comrades of the skies will open up golden opportunities to them later in civil life.

"Behind the Headlines"
OTTAWA
By Dean Wilson

SIGNIFICANCE OF

Notwithstanding various efforts which have been made lately in attempts to predict the length of the session, yet it must be stated that there are circumstances over which do not warrant any such prediction because the conclusion or adjournment of this session of Parliament may be affected by various important factors or possibilities, including new developments in the war in active theatres, unexpected strategy of political parties, and so forth, particularly in view of the tense atmosphere now prevailing in and along Parliament Hill. One broad hint, perhaps, of impending important events was given in Parliament by the Minister of Munitions and Supply, Hon C. D. Howe, in an answer to a simple question by a member if the equipment piled along railway sidings is obsolete." He said that before the North African campaign, there had been a heavy accumulation of stores and at that time everything was cleared away." Only now we are beginning to move with a great deal of rush," he said. In part, adding that perhaps the accumulation was the largest there has been. "But I think perhaps that in the next three or four months it will again be built to normal," he declared most significantly.

IMPENDING EVENTS

REQUEST TO MODERNIZE

When Gordon Ross, Liberal member for Moose Jaw, proposed in Parliament that four regional research laboratories should be founded in Canada by the Federal government in order to modernize this country's agricultural policy, it seemed that he was approaching an extremely popular thought, especially since it is no secret on Parliament Hill that the fate or savinges of Canada's farmers could stand considerable improvement for betterment. "We are not going far enough in our thinking now," he declared, "to be able to produce, dehydrate and send," he said in part. Carson Graydon, Progressive-Conservative leader in Parliament, approved of this member's suggestion and added that "agricultural industry is a long way behind many other industries in respect to labor, capital investment, and management" so that farm labor has gone to other lines for bigger returns. M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, also thoroughly endorsed the proposition. "People seem to think we know more about farming through science than our forefathers did a hundred years ago," declared in part Norman Jaques, Social Credit member. "We have forgotten a great deal known then. Now we shall have to go back and discover a lot of the knowledge they had."

RECREATION AND WAR WORKERS

The Government of Canada is making efforts to co-operate with the Provincial Governments to provide war workers with recreational facilities on a chareable cost basis. This is reported in Ottawa. Moreover, it is also indicated that the Provinces where the need is urgent will be approached first but all the Provinces will be offered Federal cooperation in this matter. "I do not think I should go any further till details have been worked out with the Provinces," stated the Minister of Labor, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell. "How soon will that be?" asked a Progressive Conservative member in Parliament. "Immediately", replied the Minister.

EFFECTS OF NEW PLANS

It is important for the man-in-the-street to realize that this war has pushed the defensive to the offensive stage for the United Nations and future requirements for certain types of war equipment or other things must depend upon usage as well as other circumstances. This, in part at least, means that changes may take place and must be planned in accordance with the supplies and demands for period on that it should not be surprising when labor is transferred from plants manufacturing less urgently required articles to plants which are manufacturing things of more immediate need of the moment. Therefore, the schedule may call for such changes as every gun, every gun, and so forth.

Weeds, The Farmers' Enemy

Weeds use up precious moisture and so decrease the yield of crops. Summerfallow offers a chance of killing off many weed pests. Annuals and some biennials can be eliminated by continual killing when the weeds are young. Perhaps the best method, particularly with wild oats, is to cultivate the summerfallow only after the weed plants are in the two or five leaf stage, usually when they are six or seven inches high, for at this state of their growth the plants are usually quite weak. Under no account, of course, should any weeds be permitted to set seed; otherwise the land will soon become thoroughly impregnated. (Many of our Canadian weed plants each contain over 100 viable weed seeds.) Good work requires, therefore, that the odd plant missed by cultivation and disc or summerfallow should be pulled by hand, dried and burned before they set to seed.

The Dominion Government has just issued a most excellent new pamphlet entitled "Weeds and Weed Seeds." Every farmer would do well to write to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and obtain a copy of this free booklet. It contains valuable information about killing many different kinds of weed pests.

Good Goods in Small Packages

The following editorial appeared in Wetmore's "Dealer Helps", and although somewhat lengthy, we took the liberty of publishing the article with the hope that it may "soften-up" some of the pet grievances you may have over shortages

We are fighting a global war by which we hope to win for ourselves and the rest of the world a very important thing—FREEDOM. That is what we are fighting for—that is the reason for the blood, sweat and tears

Our armed forces are doing the fighting and dying. The defense industries are going full blast to supply aircraft, tanks, ships and ammunition. All of which is not news to any of us.

We are all convinced that "our cause is it just". Or, at least, from more selfish motives, that it is to our own best interests to win. And even if victory does not bring a complete fulfillment of our ideals, it is still worth a great, hard try. Any improvement is a step in the right direction.

Freedom isn't something that can be gained in one full stroke. We have made mistakes, we have slipped backwards in some case, but still the fight will go on and on, as long as there are men with high ideals. We don't expect a perfect world as the result of our efforts. but so long as the ideal is there we will not die in battle.

But these are the big packages of good which we hope to gain. There are other "goods" which have been forced upon us by the exigencies of warfare. Perhaps some of us call them annoyances and inconveniences—these shortages and the resultant rationing. Perhaps a lot of them are not really necessary, but are caused by red tape. But all that is beside the point. Although shortages are a nuisance, in another sense they are the "good goods in small packages."

The "goods" we are thinking of, while forced upon us by the war, really have nothing to do with the war. We are a spoiled and indulgent people, taking of a glorious pace from extravagance to extravagance. Voluntarily, we would never have submitted to these "sacrifices" but now that they are forced upon us, we ought to get the full benefit from them.

To get down to cases, let's consider the gasoline shortage. Even before the ban on pleasure driving we found that there were lots of places we didn't have to go, and when we did go, it wasn't necessary to go at sixty miles an hour. We got there just the same at thirty-five—and saw the scenery on the way, to boot. And anyone with good horse sense can see that constant economy to thirty-five miles an hour aren't as apt to be as fatal as crashes at sixty or better.

And, since that pleasure driving is out, lo and behold, we can walk! After all, we used to drive to the neighbood movie and had to park so far away that we might just as well have walked in the first place.

The food shortages, of course, caught all of us. And yet, none of us are starving. Suppose we can't have all the coffee we want. Did coffee ever taste any better in the days when a cup or so was being poured down the drain every day?

Moreover, housewives are learning to cook. Our baked beans now come from the oven and not from a can. "Soupy-on" means a bit, old-fashioned pottail, and not a couple of cubes reposed at the last minute.

Maybe we will discover that meat substitutes really are good. We will try new dishes varieties of fish, for instance, that formerly we would have passed by for the familiar steak or pork chops. Who knows what fine meals we have been missing all these years.

The next item is clothing. The first rap was taken by women's hosiery It was a horrible blow, but there are "goods" to be seized in the first place, a few years ago, so "lady-like" would have appeared in public without hose. But the colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady did it last summer, and more will do it this season. And what a joy—to runs, no snags, no nightly washing! And on the wintry side of the picture, the new cottons are going to be much warmer than either silk or nylon. But would we have given up silk stockings if there hadn't been the war? We second.

As for suffs on men's trousers, they were never good for anything but boot-catchers, anyhow, although some men have used them for ashtrays.

We are not trying to be optimistic. We are not looking for a "silver lining". We are only trying to point out that we may learn that a lot of things which we thought were necessary for happiness and well-being aren't necessary at all.

And it's possible that we don't have to race around the countryside; that we don't have to be afraid to spend an evening at home: that we don't have to have super-comforts and luxuries.

Maybe we will learn that we have been doing no important thing; that we have been wasting time and money on things that aren't important at all. Maybe

At Sharp's Shows

Pat O'Brien, George Murphy, Jane Wyatt, Jackie Cooper and a host of other well-known stage and screen stars bring you "The Navy Comes Through", to picture lovers this week at Sharp's Shows.

The story goes like this: A Navy officer (Murphy) is enshipped when an accident causes the instant death of all who could testify in his defense. He is let here with the Navy nurse—sister of the principal witness for the Navy Board. The brother is a gun crew petty officer. He becomes Murphy's superior when he insists on a cessation following the outbreak of war and is assigned to duty on a merchant vessel as a member of a Navy gun crew of typical American melting-pot vintage. The men, aware of the former officer's disgrace, are outspoken in their dislike. The petty officer, resentful of his sister's continued interest in Murphy, institutes a series of backbreaking drills to keep them busy when she happens to be assigned to the vessel while it is being surveyed to Europe. When chance throws a Nazi submarine supply ship into their hands he effects a ruse to volunteer as navigator of the captured ship and in this capacity manages to redeem himself in the eyes of all concerned during a thrilling encounter with "U" boats.

Seeds, Weeds and Services

The Line Elevators Association has completed germination tests on 11,260 samples of farmers' seeds, an increase over last year of nearly 2,000. All samples have been tested twice, and many have had three tests. The mean a total of nearly 28,000 tests and, if you like big figures, 2,800,000 seeds! Not one complaint has so far reached the office.

Once, again, we take the liberty of reminding farmers that if they cannot identify all weeds on their farms, they may be making serious trouble for the future. Small patches of perennial weeds can be destroyed simply; but, later on, sometimes they need as much as the land is worth. It is only necessary to collect good specimens, including flowers and roots and take them to the nearest line elevator agent. He will forward them or his and we will identify the weeds and inform whether or not they are likely to be serious pests. Or, weeds may be sent to any Dominion Experimental Farm, Provincial Department of Agriculture or University. The importance of this matter cannot be over-stressed.

The "Weeds" reel building, "An Uninvited Guide to Prairie Weeds," is available through line elevator agents or by writing to the Agricultural Department, The North-West Line Elevators Association, Winnipeg.

It is now nearly four years since the Line Elevator Companies suggested that the Department to serve prairie farmers. Each succeeding year has brought increased demand for services and publications—this is no single exception.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of my Dear Wife and Baby:
"We do not forget them, we love them too dearly;
For their memory to fade from our lives like a dream;
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen."

Municipal District of Strathcona, No. 517
Lets Do Something About WEEDS . . .

The attention of the Ratepayers in the Municipal District of Strathcona, No. 517, is called to the responsibility of Farmers to eradicate Noxious Weeds growing on their own land and also upon the Road Allowance adjourning such land to the centre of the road. Steps should be taken to see that such weeds do not go to seed, for this constitutes a menace to adjoining land as well as that of the owner. Co-operation of all concerned will assist in an endeavour to finally eradicate ALL NOXIOUS WEEDS FROM THE PROVINCE.

Waves! Waves!!

A. E. Powley, of the CBC overseas news staff, recently made a tour of several Canadian units in the United Kingdom. Here are his impressions of an incident which occurred in the night, as broadcast on a recent CBC national news summary:

"The noise of their engines was incessant as wave after wave of our bombers streamed out toward the coast. Such a concert I often heard that sentence, or one something like it, in the subdued dispatches about our night raids on Europe, and as often as it came I used to think that the sound of a procession of our heavy bombers would be heard must be an awe-inspiring thing. Well, I heard it the other night and it is. The bombers passed over wave after wave as the dispatches usually put it, as I lay in an army tent in the wood in a particularly beautiful part of rural England. How many of them there were I couldn't guess, but they were a mighty force. I don't know either how long they took to pass for when the noise of their going was finished it left no clear recollection of beginning or end, only of immensity. The sound filled the valleys and echoed in unnatural valleys from the hillsides. If you were to imagine an endless succession of giant express trains all roaring overhead you would have an idea what it was like .Or you might arrive at a closer idea by contemplating the probable thunder of Judgment Day.

Perhaps it isn't strange how far some of the bombers' thoughts can travel along the sound track that the broadcasters make. It's as if you could see through the darkness far over the hills and the valleys and over to the sea and almost to the unknown target toward which the planes are moving. Or, in the instant or two in which you hear the individual sound of a single plane overhead your mind's eye catches a half picture of the men in it and you have a quick wonder of who they are and where they're from. Perhaps they're Canadians, perhaps English or Australian or perhaps some of each. But then they're gone like a gale and another plane or group of planes come roaring up in their wake.

I don't know if anyone what the target was but it wasn't necessary. It was satisfyingly certain that something of enormous power was in for it in a big way—in for such a concentrated dose of destruction as this country has never known and never knew in the worst days of the Blitz. It turned out from the next day's communiques that the target had been in the Ruhr again. Also the commonplace told of our losses that night. The figure did not seem of importance, but I knew that some of the lads who passed so close in the darkness were going that way for the last time. But I don't think that anyone who heard it could forget the triumphant voice of their passing.

ARDROSSAN NEWS

Ardrossan War Service Guild wishes to express their thanks to all those who brought donations and gave a helping hand to make their picnic a success.

The War Service Guild picnic was a great success when around three-hundred and seventy dollars was taken in on two quoits, on which tickets had been sold. Fishpond, bunny, bingo, darts, supper and dance, all helped contribute to the total day's amount. The weatherman also was kind and a very enjoyable day was had by all.

Congratulation are extended to Miss Lova Reynolds on walking off with first prize at Glengarrie picnic beauty contest.

Arthur Barrett is still in hospital. We all hope he will be crowned again soon.

Pte. Chad Rye, member of our soldier boys is home on leave with wife and family.

Mrs. E. Jacques is spending a few days with friends at Bonnyville.

A pleasant surprise was held in Ardrossan church recently, when relatives and friends of our soldier boys gathered for the unveiling of the Honor Roll. Little Miss Marjorie Hanlan had the honor of unveiling Mrs. Ayre's son's name in common, and her grandfather was killed in the last world war.

The War Services Guild met at the home of Mrs. R. J. E. Hanlay. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing how the money made at the recent picnic was to be spent. After given consideration to the many places money is needed, the following donations were made: Greek Relief $5.00; Merchant Marine $25.00; Red Cross and parcels to the boys and girls in the forces will come in for a goodly share of the balance. The meeting closed with a very dainty lunch served by the hostess assisted by Miss Jean Hanlan and Mrs. E. Dowling.

Mr. Bert Dewitt's valuable collecting which he lost some time ago, has returned home again. We are glad you found him, Bert!

Kay and Clif Dowling are spending a two week's vacation with friends in Calgary. They expected to take in the stampede, then on to Banff for the remainder of the holiday.

Conference Gathering Hear Important Talks

On July 8th, the annual conference of the Jasper-Edson-West Edmonton U.F.W.A was held in Edmonton under the directorship of Miss M. Rafe of Ben Amond.

Following the singing of "O Canada" and the chairman's welcome to members and to visitors, Rev. Lavers of Namao gave the invocation. Especially informative addresses were given during the day. Mrs. Ross, our Provincial President gave an interesting survey of the accomplishments of the U.F.W.A. since its inception in 1916. Mr. J. E. Brownlee K.C., Vice-President of the U.G.G. gave an excellent address on Social Security in which he covered the Beveridge and March Reports as well as the recent International Food Conference held in U.S.A.

Mrs. Frank Conroy, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board of Edmonton, explained fully how commodity prices are being controlled.

Miss Vera Richardson of the Dept. of Agriculture brought us very valuable information on the latest findings in nutrition.

During the day, community singing was led by Mrs. M. E. Rowe of Namao, 1st vice-president of the U.F.W.A., and Mrs. Fred McCalla of Seymour. Under the leadership of the latter Mrs. W. Hooks, Mrs. L. Schreter and Miss Viola McGhee all of Bremner delighted those assembled with several musical numbers.

The afternoon session saw a new Alberta Institute, Mrs. Taylor, of the Peace River constituency. In her brief talk Mrs. Taylor left with her audience a wonderful challenge in the question "A community is as the people are".

Mrs. E. Johnstone, director of the Vegreville constituency was also a visitor.

Of decided interest were the brief surveys of the work done during the year given by the secretaries of the various locals.

Just in closing I would like to know what kind of a country correspondent or Philidelphia lawyer spells starved, starved as in "Straight In the Gate". Starvation, starvation as in the "Ardrossan Record" of last week, crawling as in the column "Good Goods in Small Packages". I did think it quite a joke myself, doing the same word misspelled in the three different columns.

TWO-THIRDS of the total number of loans outstanding in Canada's Chartered Banks average less than $500 per loan.

Through bank loans, Canada's Chartered Banks help Canadians to benefit themselves, their fellows and their country. Many of these loans are small—but all contribute their share to the day-by-day activities of Canadian enterprise.

Some further facts about Canada's Banks:

Chartered Banks' loans related to agriculture as shown on the last official return to Parliament, totalled $540,118,475. This sum included loans to farmers, ranchers, fruit raisers and to grain dealers and grain exporters.

Every general manager today heading a Chartered Bank entered the bank as a junior in some small branch.

Up to and including February, 1943, no fewer than 6005 men and 1164 women bank employees had enlisted in the armed forces.

Customers in every walk of life and in every part of Canada are served by more than three thousand branches and agencies maintained by the Chartered Banks to facilitate the nation's business.

Weald of Wheat

by
R. G. L. Savage

Government Should Buy All Wheat

Over and over again we have heard members say that Canada is a country of foodstuffs in the world, and that our prairie surplus of wheat is a most necessary, for the war and peace programs of the United Nations. Now we hear the United States is becoming frightened that there may even be a shortage of wheat in the U.S.A. The recent International Conference at Hot Springs, Virginia, has certainly impressed upon Governments to encourage production of all grains, including wheat.

Considering all this it hardly seems fair that our prairie farmers should be asked to carry wheat on their farms at their own risk and cost, and for which at the present there is no market, and on which they cannot borrow money.

I suggest that the Government should make a declaration that within say two years they will either purchase this surplus farm stored wheat at same in elevators known available all that they will make a substantial cash advance on it. Then farmers who are pressed for money would have no trouble in being able to harvest some cash on such surplus wheat as they now hold in good bins on their farms.

Sewing Circle Honors Pte. Al. Whale

Mr. Chas. Saunders on behalf of the Sewing Circle, presented Alfred with a lovely pencil set. Alfred very fittingly thanked everyone for the gift and a pleasant evening. Everyone then joined hands and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow".

Poliomyelitis—Infantile Paralysis

A flaxen-haired child may be lying, head drawn back a look of fear on her face—she always trusted you, and you aren't helping her. Pain has drawn up her leg and arm. Sure, you rushed the doctor at once, and told you it was Infantile Paralysis. At first you feared for her life—and then that fear was removed, you had months of apprehension lest a leg or arm be permanently crippled from a loss to a greater degree.

The child trusted you, you were the biggest and strongest and wisest man she knew—her dad. And yet you, in your positive, masculine way —knowing those things you could see and feel and contend with—may have been responsible for that crippled body. To put it in another way, because you had flies on your food in summer and fall, had swept them from the floor in dustpans full on into fall days, became possibly yes in your youth, had been immune and did not know it—you have assumed the responsibility of exposing your children to the danger of like conditions. May we tell you again; waste material (excreta) of human body ties

Wool Clip Pay

The Alberta Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the Dominion Government, has agreed to pay a bonus on the 1943 wool clip which has been prepared in accordance with regulations. It is to be understood that the payment of the wool bonus is not in the nature of an establishing a precedent for the payment of a bonus in future years.

It is important that the registered warehouses indicate on their statements the condition of the clip as received from the grower, particularly those clips carrying an abnormal quantity of rejects. This information to be in addition to the regular information carried on the statements.

It will require considerable time to grade the wool, compile returns, and to issue cheques covering the payment of the bonus. Therefore, it has been decided payment will be made to growers on or after November 15th.

Dauphin inclement weather, the joint U.F.A. basket picnic held at the Dauphin fairgrounds Wednesday was a successful venture. No doubt a much larger crowd would have been in attendance if the weatherman had behaved. However, the affair is the start of an ever-growing annual event and should be looked forward to from one year to another.

The dance in the community hall in the evening in aid of the local branch of the Red Cross, also turned out successful as the afternoon crowd stayed over to finish off the day.

Look After the Weeds - NOW!

Weeds are distributed and spread in the period from early August till the completion of threshing more than at any other time of the year. This is because their seeds are ripened at this time and carried by natural agencies (wind and water) and by man (on harvesting machinery and by live stock) from farm to farm.

A little attention at this time, will greatly reduce the spread of weeds. Such seeds as those of the thistles are frequently carried by the wind. Their distribution may be controlled by cutting patches in the fields and on waste lands, particularly along the edge of roads. In most cases little or no crop is destroyed by this action and the spread of serious weeds is checked.

Weed seeds are spread by machinery moved from field to field or farm to farm at harvest time. Care should be taken to clean all machinery before moving. Especially is this true of threshing equipment. Where combines are used care should be taken to secure all weeds in tightly woven sacks in which they may be taken from the field and burned. Of course, all screenings accumulated at each setting of the threshing machine must also be burned or chopped up real fine to prevent being spread by live stock.

If live stock are turned into stubble before weed seeds are burned, the unnecessary spread of weeds will result. Even when this precaution is taken, considerable seeds of all kinds will be consumed and distributed by the stock. It is advisable, therefore, to limit the range of live stock on stubble in the fall as much as possible that weed seeds may not be carried to other fields than those on which they were produced.

"A stitch in time, saves nine"—therefore, that small patch of weeds on your quarter or along the outside of the fence, will only take a few minutes to kill this year—but, save them go—and you will soon have a large patch that will take years to kill. You also do your part in Canada's war effort by keeping your land in good condition, so as when the time comes again to start producing, you will be then in the front line.

You will get more people at your auction sale if you have it advertised in The Fort Record.

Farmers Urged to Cut Plenty - Hay

It is now the middle of July and it seems apparent that drouth has done widespread damage over a large part of southern Alberta and extending north-easterly into the central part of the province. This is a calamity at the present time when feed and fodder for livestock are so badly needed.

Hay and forage crops are likely to be scarce during the coming twelve months. If at all possible farmers who are fortunate enough to have hay crops should see to it that every pound of hay is cut and put it. If other crops turn out to be a head one fodder will be valuable. It is true that labor is scarce and farmers are badly overworked but hay and fodder crops are readily available if the livestock population is to be carried over another year. —Budget.

Town Council Declares Monday, August 2nd Public Holiday

At a special meeting of the Town Council Tuesday night, it was decided to declare a public holiday, Monday, August 2nd. All places of business will therefore remain closed.

Town property is still in good demand, although, reports of new buildings going up were not received. In most cases, property owners are asking more land for garden purposes.

The question of the furnace in the Community Hall, came up for discussion, and all councillors agreed that something must be done, but felt that the Hall Committee should have it seen to. It was then reported, that the hall committee were considering holding a meeting shortly for this purpose.

Work of taking up the wooden sidewalk in the East-end of town is underway. After levelling the ground, a suitable base will be put on, in preparation for some kind of hard surface in the future.

That little "chestnut" the Calgary Power contract, that has been rolled out at the end of the fire so many times now, that it is becoming badly scorched, made its appearance again. This time, the same cover, but the inside material somewhat different. However, after due consideration, it was again decided until more advice on one or two points were cleared up.

The question of whether the gravel contractor has the right to go through the town's gravel pit in order to take gravel from his own pit was discussed. It is finally decided to get legal advice on the matter.

World of Wheat

by

H. G. L. Strange

I have just returned from a long trip to the various provinces of Western Canada, looking, among other things, into the needs of Eastern harvesters for prairie grains.

The late spring and the heavy rains delayed seedings in the Eastern provinces; indeed considerable acreage has not been sowded at all. There will, therefore, be heavy demands this coming fall and winter for Western grains, particularly for oats and barley.

It would be a patriotic duty for the West to try to harvest every available acre crop, to save every single bushel of grain, for labour is now very short both in the East and in the West. It would be of invaluable help to our farmers, and to the war effort of Canada and the United Nations, therefore, if the residents of towns, villages and hamlets in the prairie provinces would take some time off the coming harvest season and make their services available in our prairie farms to help to gather in safely the most important coming crop. This would enable our Eastern farmers to produce more precious bacon and other food products that would be shipped to Britain and to Armed Forces Overseas, which products are certainly badly needed for the coming important military operations.

The wheat acreage reduction program in the prairie provinces will cost $26 million this year according to a statement made by the federal minister of agriculture in the house of commons. Under the program, wheat farmers obtain a bonus of $2 an acre for every acre by which wheat seedings are reduced below the acreage sown for 1940. SOLDIER of the SOIL

This year the Canadian Farmer urgently needs help. He needs your help to produce the food so necessary for victory. Many thousands of farm workers are now in the Forces, so that the farmer —the Soldier of the Soil—is shorthanded, but shortanded as he is, he is called upon to produce more food than ever before. Food is one of the most powerful weapons of war. Grains, beans, dairy products, eggs, beef, fruit, vegetables—FOOD to feed our armies, our allies and our people we must have.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

You may be a school teacher, student, business or professional man, an office or store clerk—no matter what you are, if you have a few hours, days, weeks, or months of free time this summer, you can do your country and the farmer a great and patriotic service by helping out on the farm. You may be inexperienced, but you still can help. You will find work on the farm healthy and congenial. It will give you the satisfaction of feeling that you have brought Victory nearer.

For Farm Boys

Providing a wide variety of skills and a lot of knowledge. The farmer must be a mechanic to get the best out of machinery; a botanist to recognize weeds and nurture in her crops; a breeder to select the best sires and dams, a nutritionist to fix his stock for the market; secondarily, a pathologist to recognize and control diseases in crops and animals, and so on. In addition, he must be a business man and a social member of his own community.

Our colleges of agriculture have been working in training men who wish to devote their lives to research and experimentation; but that is not all. They also provide courses for those intending to farm. They assume as not pretend to teach a boy how to farm, but they do teach him a lot about farm problems that cannot be learned at all, or only with great difficulty, elsewhere. In addition to much useful knowledge of crop production, livestock management, and agricultural engineering, the student comes with farm boys from all over his province, and learns something of their problems. His prospect is to be farm a better farmer and a more useful citizen.

Agricultural training is offered at the School of Agriculture, Olds, Alberta; the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon; and the University of Manitoba, Winnipeg. Write to these institutions for information on School of Agriculture courses and short courses in special subjects. Extra copies of this article with additional information may be obtained from Bus Booster agents.

Waves! Waves!!

A. E. Powley, of the CBC overseas news staff, recently made a tour of several Canadian units in the United Kingdom. Here are his impressions of an incident which occurred in the night, as broadcast on a recent CBC national news service:

"The noise of their engines was tremendous as wave after wave of our bombers streamed out toward the coast. Back in Canada I often heard that sentence, or one something like it, in the rather dramatic shots our night raids on Europe, and as often as it came I used to think that the people who thought of our heavy bombers outward bound must be as awe-inspiring thing. Well, I heard it the other night and it is. The bombers passed over waves after wave as the dispatches usually put it, so I lay in my army cot in the wood in a particularly beautiful part of rural England. How many of them there were I couldn't guess, but they were a mighty force. I don't know either how long they took to pass for when the noise of their going was finished it isn't so clear recollection of beginning or end, only of immensity. The sound filled the valleys and echoed in sustained valleys from the hillsides. If you were to imagine an endless succession of giant express trains tearing overhead one would have a sense what it was like. Or you might imagine as I found him by contemplating the probable number of engines.

Perhaps it isn't strange here for me and that one's thoughts one travel along the sound track that like bombers make. It's as if you could see through the darkness for over the hills and the valleys out over to the sea and almost to the unknown target to which the planes are hurrying. Or or the instant or two in which you hear the last receding sound of a single plane overhead your mind's eye catches a half picture of the men in it and you have a quick wonder of who they are and where they're from. Perhaps they're Canadians, perhaps English or Australian or perhaps some of each. But then they're gone like a gale and another plane or group of planes comes roaring up in their wake.

I didn't know of course what the target was but it wasn't necessary. It was enough to know that we were in a big way—in for such a concentrated dose of destruction as the scarred and gassed London never knew in the worst days of the Blitz. It turned out from the next day's communique that the target had been in the Ruhr again. Also the communique told of our losses that night. The figure did not seem disproportionate, but I knew that some of the men who passed so close in the darkness were going that way for the last time. But I don't think that anyone who heard it could forget the triumphant echo of their passing.

Conference Gathering Hear Important Talks

On July 8th, the annual conference of the Jasper-Edson-West Edmonton U.F.W.A. was held in Edmonton under the directorship of Miss M Reid, 13 Rae Street.

Following the singing of "O Canada" and the community welcome to members and to visitors, Rev Lavers of Namao gave the invocation. Especially informative addresses were given during the day. Mrs. Rees, our Provincial President gave an interesting survey of the accomplishments of the U.F.W.A since its inception in 1916. Mr. J. E. Mr. E. Johnstone, director of the Vegreville constituency was also a visitor.

Of decided interest were the brief surveys of the work done during the year given by the secretaries of the various local.

Health Notes

By
DR. M. C. ADAMSON, M.D.

A flaxen-haired child may be tying, head drawn back - a look of fear on her face—she always trusted you, and you aren't helping her Pain has drawn up her leg and arm. Soon, you called the doctor at once, and he told you it was Infantile Paralysis. At first you feared for her life—and then that fear was removed, you had months of apprehension lest a leg or arm be permanently crippled from a loss to a greater degree

The child trusted you, you were the biggest and strongest and wisest man she knew—her dad. And yet you, in your positive, masculine way knowing these things you would see and feel and sentenced with—may have been responsible for that crippled leg! Yes, you did it in another way, because you had flies on your food in summer and fall, had swept them from the floor in summer fall on into fall days, because possibly you in your youth had become immune and did not know that you have assumed the responsibility of exposing your children to the danger of like conditions. May we tell you again: waste material (excreta) of human body has repeatedly shown virus of poliomyelitis. That virus has also been isolated from flies who fed on such waste. We believe 'polio' is transmitted by flies; and possibly other insect carriers.

Have you screened every window at your house? Keep your yard clean? the privy that flies which breed in filth, cannot carry infection to your children's food? (You note we weren't worrying about yours—you are probably immune anyway). With, in a quarter of a mile, is every possible fly-borne intestinal infection between the waste carrels of the human intestinal tract and your food, so we wonder? Flies have normally a smaller range than that (though they could follow evenly heroes or steak for a considerable distance).

So while much research work is yet necessary, we would strongly urge every care outlined above. Should you like a pamphlet on the construction of the outdoor toilet, we will be glad to forward same.

Start With the Farmer

"Opinions may differ, but my opinion is that a food ministry should be the first rank in the cabinet of the country; who can work if they cannot eat?

"Too long have we been able to sit down at 8:00 a.m., 12 noon and 7 p.m. without giving much thought to the men who produces the things we eat and drink. Navy, army, civilians, war workers, high officials, also yourself would not be on the job 'war or war' if the eats were not there when we expected them. I am afraid that none of the high officials now in office have gone short yet or there would be no question about it at all.

"When we want ships, munitions, airplanes, etc., the sky seems to be the limit. But food, all you get is orders, arguments, changes, uncertainties and bedevilment from all sorts of authorities.

"The good news could change the whole picture if he was given real authority, and understood the farmer's and processor's problems

"There is plenty of data [illegible] to show the farmer's cost of production. The processor also keeps costs of the finished product (or should be the first rank in the cabinet of the food minister to guide him in his work.

"Start with the farmer first, if you don't well, Mr. Editor you know WE EAT TO LIVE, and if there is nothing to eat you don't live.

World of Wheat

by
H. G. L. Strange
Government Should Buy All Wheat

Over and over again we have been hearing that there is a scarcity of foodstuffs in the world, and that our surplus supplies of wheat is a great commodity for the war and peace programs of the United Nations. Now we hear the United States is becoming frightened that there may even be a shortage of wheat in the U.S.A. The recent International Conference at Hot Springs, Virginia, has certainly put Governments to encourage production of all grains, including wheat.

Considering all this it hardly seems fair that our prairie farmers should be asked to carry some 200 million bushels of surplus wheat on their farms at their own risk and cost, and for which at the present there is no market and on which they cannot borrow money.

I request that the Government should make a declaration that with in say two years they will either purchase this surplus farm stored wheat as space in elevators becomes available or that they will make a substantial cash advance on it. Then farmers who are pressed for money would have no trouble in being able to borrow some cash on such surplus wheat as they now hold in good time on their farms.

Sewing Circle Honors Pte. Alf. Whale

Good Hope Sewing Circle sponsored an evening of entertainment, recently for Pte. Alfred Whale, who was home on embarkation leave. A very large crowd of friends and neighbors from Good Hope and surrounding districts, turned out to bid "Alf" farewell. The evening was spent in dancing.

Mr. Chas Maunsell on behalf of the Sewing Circle, presented Alfred with a lovely pencil set. Alfred very fittingly thanked everyone for the gift and a pleasant evening. Everyone then joined hands and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow".

WEDNESDAY, JULY 14th, 1943

The following editoral published recently in the Ottawa Evening Citizen is timely and may "iron" out some of the bumps in the recent National Selective [illegible] order.

Unplanned—But Necessary

Rudyard Kipling was at his best when immortalizing the colorful British private soldier in prose and verse. A staff officer once asked Kipling why he did not do the same for those of higher military rank. The poet replied that it was impossible to become lyrical over King's Rules and Regulations.

It is impossible, of course, to become enthusiastic about rules and regulations of any sort, for the simple reason that by their very nature they invariably impose restrictions upon the freedom of action of individuals. When anything of the kind threatens British people they write to The Times about it. Which is all to the good in time of peace; but in wartime, particularly in war against the most overbearing would-be conquerors the world has ever known, we should all think well before complaining about government orders which might temporarily deprive us of the right to live our lives in our own chosen way.

The various orders that are issued from time to time by the National Selective Service are cases in point. Nobody will contend that these orders could possibly be welcomed by anybody. But those in authority have decided that they are necessary if we are to win this war without too much dislocation of our national life.

The object of the most recent order issued by the National Selective Service is to make available for essential work men who are now employed in non-essential occupations, that is, men who are producing things or rendering services which, in these difficult times, we can readily do without.

It is not pleasant to have the even tenor of our lives disrupted, but war is no respecter of persons. Thousands of our young men of military age have gone straight from the colleges and joined the armed forces of this country. Thousands of older men have given up lucrative jobs in which the returns were beyond no bright in order to play an honorable part in putting down oppression. Many of them have already given their lives. It is not too much, therefore, to ask that those men now engaged in non-essential occupations and who are not called to serve in the army, navy or air force, report to the nearest National Selective Service office for other employment which will enable them to make a very direct contribution to our united war effort.

Timely Warning

A suggestion made by the Ottawa Better Business Bureau that Victory Bond holders should be on their guard against irresponsible promoters deserves a wide hearing.

War Bonds are rapidly becoming the average family's most important savings reservoir, the Bureau observes. Thus, cash investments and securities are always prime lures for racketeers, with their schemes for persuading people to cash in their bonds and turn the money over to them on irresponsible promises of getting rich quicker.

One thing is certain, the Bureau advises—these pro positions will not be good. They have to seem plausible to get our money. Some may appear to be an opportunity for one to make a good profit. But, unfortunately, in too many deals, the promoter is the only one to profit.

Says the Bureau: "If you are urged to cash in your bonds for "investment" in an unknown proposition, WATCH OUT! Carefully investigate the offer for these good reasons:

"1—It may be a racket.

"2—It is real patriotism to keep the War Bonds you buy.

"3—These bonds are on of the best investments you can make."

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa

By Jim Greenblat

This introduces from the nation's capital. A large weight of weekly letters, designed exclusively for community papers of Canada and that what audience of readers what's never get out of a big city for the rancher, farmer, fruit grower miner, the manufacturer and rural people whose fortunes directly and indirectly rested on the soul of Canada.

What one's interest among others has been aroused to high heaven with the flood of material which comes from Ottawa each of us to be specific see. Like you have a busy person running that old paper you think so much of whether you agree with him on politics or not He knows you would be interested in a quick catch-up on general doings and behind the scenes stuff around Ottawa either now some or from choice at night. He also knows you do not relish long winded reading after a hard day's work And the weekly feature, for your editor's sake and especially you, I hope will fill the bill.

The Wartime Information Board has been made aware that readers of weekly papers in Canada would like something in their own language from Ottawa, and so, accepting this assignment it would be interesting to get your collective reaction through your editor.

If you have any particular problem which has it another in Ottawa, and you want to know what makes it tick, feed free to drop a line to the column. Maybe it can be interpreted for you. Possibly there are thousands others who want to know about the same thing. But it would be better if none of us get too personal or too political. We'll leave that sort of thing to the politicians.

This column is justify itself should be a national mirror for the home town. I don't suppose you are much interested in the fact that Ottawa looks really beautiful this time of year. So is your own place out east and west. But you might like, occasionally, to hear of strange people, strange faces, strange ideas, all of which Ottawa so intriguing even if you have to stand in line to eat.

There could be little sidelights, like seeing the Soviet fliers recently; the fellows who flew from Moscow to Moscow—just like that. I watched them in the hotel lobby, in black knee length boots, loose fitting tunics, rakish forage caps; smart current looking fellows who'd asked as if they had a mission in life. Undoubtedly their's is killing Germans. They were watching the smartly dressed girls in and out of uniform; men of our armed forces, civilians and seemed to be measuring the standards of democracy as against Communism. I got a kick out of watching them eye the well filled cigar stand, the jammed hotel cafe.

Well, that's part of Ottawa. A little of this, a little of that about government activities, legislation, Parliament, some of it too wearying—but informative.

Just recently I heard Hon. Humphrey Mitchell in the House of Commons justify the government's manpower policy. When he said that 2,100,000 men and women out of a total population of 8,720,000 aged 14 years and over were in the armed forces or at work, this on the face of it speaks mighty well for Canada at war. The Opposition rolls it a "twaddle". Well, after listening in on the debates for weeks on end, it becomes increasingly clear that Canadians have got to think and interpret for themselves a little too. We'll try to unravel things if possible, always keeping in perspective the national picture and that millions of others have problems and ideas, too.

Letters in from editors all over Canada relative to this new service reveal that people in Canada are pondering these days and want to talk the works of the clock apart themselves. One editor suggests we dig with both hands into a Health Insurance measure now pending while he—same editor in holland as an by a medical monopoly, and which in its present form would cost the [illegible]

A Manitoba editor wants, "in simple language enlightenment on matters pertaining to farmers and the farming communities" and also "of what benefit will the post war reconstruction schemes be to the [illegible]"

That seems to be our "simple task" in this weekly news letter. You must not expect miracles of reporting. Time, experience in igging out the essential facts and developing a continuity of understanding of what you might be interested in out here will follow. Undoubtedly you want facts, and an authentic, unbiased and interpretive slant at Ottawa, dished out as if your own worried-looking editor was here doing it.

Wool Clip Pay

The Alberta Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the Warehouses interests has agreed to pay a bonus on the 1941 wool clip which has been prepared in accordance with regulations. It is to be understood that the payment of the said bonus is not to be considered as establishing a precedent for the payment of a bonus in future years.

It is important that the registered warehouses misrate on their statements the condition of the clip as received from the grower, particularly those clips carrying an abnormal quantity of rejects. This information to be in addition to the regular information carried on the statements.

It will require considerable time to grade the wool, compile returns, and to issue cheques covering the payment of the bonus. Therefore, it has been decided payment will be made to growers on or after November 15th.

A quiet wedding took place on Wednesday, July 21st, at the Lamoureux Catholic Church, when Ida Houle, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Houle of Lamoureux, became the bride of Jack Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. Page of Wetaskiwin.

Following the ceremony, at which Rev. Fr. Gartner officiated, a reception took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Houle, uncle and aunt of the bride, to near relatives where all spent a very pleasant afternoon.

A dance was held in the evening at the Fort Community Hall, where a large crowd gathered to congratulate the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Page left on Thursday on a honeymoon trip to Banff, and on their return will make their home in Edmonton, where the groom is in the employ of the Eatons City Bridge Co.

South Wedding Of Interest Here

CALGARY, July 26.—St. Rev. Monsignor Heatherington officiated at the wedding early in July at the Sacred Heart church here, when Miss Mary Moran, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Moran of Edmonton, became the bride of Sgt. Peter Charles Jacobs, turret specialist with the R.C.A.F., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andre Jacobs of Fort Saskatchewan.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She was attired in a street-length frock of white lace, a white off-the-face model hat trimmed with white veiling, white gloves and white satin slippers. She held in one arm, a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Nora and Miss Margaret Moran, twin sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They were frocked alike in dresses of pink voile with picture hats and accessories to match. Each carried a small bouquet of pink roses.

Best man was Patrick Moran, brother of the bride.

A reception was held following the service at the Palliese hotel.

Mother of the bride, Mrs. Moran, chose a blue frock complemented by a grey redingote, beige picture hat and corsage of cream and pink roses.

Sgt. and Mrs. Jacobs spent a honeymoon at Banff, Lake Louise and Jasper.

Former Fort Resident Celebrates 85th Birthday

Mr. Wm. Seymour of Washstonea, Alberta, celebrates his 85th birthday today, July 30th. Still "owned as a ball" Mr. Seymour cares for a large vegetable garden on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. He is one of the Record's faithful readers, so we take this opportunity of wishing Mr. Seymour many more birthdays to come.

Partridge Hill Picnic Attracts Many

—V—

The Community picnic sponsored by the U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. held last Wednesday at the well attended and proved a very successful affair. Although there was no ice cream or soft drinks to be had, the booth did a good business in home made drinks, fruit, etc. Some 300 columns of Watermelon was disposed of. The supper was as well patronized that provisions gave out. Ninety-eight dollars was taken at the supper. The dance at night was another success as $92.00 was collected at the door.

Another annual event has come and gone.

Colchester Bride-to-be Honored by Friends

Miss Evelyn E. Hoppe has been widely entertained recently, before her marriage to Leonard Beetcher of Vancouver.

Mrs. G. Weiss of Colchester was hostess at a miscellaneous shower given in her honor Shirly and Donnie Weiss, dressed as bride and groom, escorted a decorated baby carriage containing many beautiful gifts into the room.

The Young People and Choir of the Moravian church gave her a surprise party at the parsonage. The President of the C.E., Clement Dreger; Mrs. E. Kistler, representing the Choir, and the Rev. E. Wilde spoke briefly, feelingly in recognition of her services in church and choir. Mrs. E. Wilde read a poem, composed by herself, "A history of the Bride", was humorous and touching. After all good wishes had been extended, a parcel containing a generous gift of money was handed to her. Later, but not least, refreshments were enjoyed by all.

Miss Hoppe was organist and music teacher in the district for many years. She was well known in the Clover Bar School Fairs, where she helped Colchester win many trophies and prizes. Her departure will be keenly felt by many, as she was a popular leader and musician.

Miss Mabel Rivas, of Edmonton South, also entertained at a kitchen shower at her home.

Friends in Bruderheim honored Miss Evelyn Hoppe and Mr. Leonard Beetcher with a party, where many beautiful gifts were received.

Old-Time Social Help U-Boat Stamp Selling Campaign

Reviving the spirit of the old time social neighborhood gatherings, the Willing Workers Club of East Edmonton sponsored a welcome-home party in honor of Corporal James Anderson, on Saturday night, July 26th. About a hundred neighbors and friends attended. Community singing with Mrs. W. B. C. Chamberlain at the piano, and Mr. W. G. Walford as choir leader, enthusiastically opened an informal program which took the form of a quiz contest, conducted by Mr Andy Anderson and Mrs. T. C. Hutchings. Interspersed with the questions and stunts were solos by Mrs. Gosil Jackman and Mrs. Hutchings, and addresses were given by Mr. H. A. Craig and Mr. Anderson. At the close of the program, Mrs Anderson, the Club president was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of flowers, presented by little Carol Hanson, as a token of appreciation of Mrs. Anderson's splendid work in her presidential capacity.

A secondary feature of the party was the sale of war savings stamps. This met with signal success, the sum of one hundred and twenty dollars being contributed by the gathering toward the "Stamp-Out-The!-Boat" campaign.

A late supper under the convenorship of Mrs. R. Bishop provided the climax to a happy evening.

East Edmonton Notes

An error of interest to Record readers was the marriage on Friday, July 18th, in the First Presbyterian Church of Miss May Dierweidz, younger daughter of Mr. Richard Dierweidz, to Mr. Lloyd Gleitzis, only son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Christie.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. R. R. Haynes, as matron of honor, and by her cousin, Miss Mary Johnson, who was bridesmaid.

World of Wheat

by
H. G. L. Strange

Food For a Hungry World

One of the smartest editorials ever written on food for a hungry world is in that great journal "The London Economist" issue of June 12th. (A copy can be found in any first class library.) The editorial shows how important are the findings of the recent Hot springs International Conference, which recommended that the production of food should be increased in the world and not decreased, and that food products should be made readily available to hungry people in many countries in exchange for their own goods and commodities.

The editorial also sets out, in contrast, how bad for the welfare of farmers, industrial workers and all of us, are such attempts as have been made by the recent London and Washington Wheat Conferences to curtail the production and to control the distribution and export of such important food products as wheat.

The editorial goes further, however, and suggests that to put the healthy and helpful proposals of the Hot springs Conference into effect will not be easy, that these proposals may run into many opposition from many kinds of vested interests.

"The Economist" further gives its opinion that the proposed program of "all-out" food production in Britain, by means of subsidies, if continued after the war, would be an outright denial of the principles which emerged from the Conference at Hot Springs.

MACHINERY REPAIRS

If farmers have not already put their harvesting machinery in shape and obtained the necessary repairs, now is the time to do so. If you delay this action until harvesting it is quite possible you may find it impossible to obtain the needed parts. A tie-up at harvest time is a serious matter, so means hurry hence. Do not delay any further Get your machinery running now and see that all defective parts are replaced.

Letters to the W. I. From Men in the Forces

Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta,
Dear Ladies

I received your fine parcel today and was sure glad to get it. I had intended to thank you for the other parcel I had received in Canada, but kept putting it off, until this one came along. I am sorry I didn't thank you before but you'll have to forgive me this time. The boys here certainly enjoyed your fine parcel, and send along their thanks.

With the best of all to those back home and again thank very much

Yours truly,

Mrs. P. Sherman,

Might I express my thanks to you and the ladies of your organization for the very welcome parcel I received a few days ago I'm certain any of the other fellows in the service will back me up when I say the custom is a very thoughtful one Name of us, really, have ever been very far from home until the past couple of years and consequently any word is well appreciated.

Well, There's here an course with me now and will finish about when I do. At present we are kept fairly busy.

The weather has been a poor imitation of spring with one wet day and then just a little warm day every three, and you hardly dare go anywhere without a raincoat over your arm. It seems that all the weather others don't want passes on to the Island this year

Well I really should go Mrs. Sherman. Please pass my thanks on to the other ladies and good luck to your officers, they're appreciated.

Sincerely,

C.P.R. Saves Rubber With New Machine

SHOWN above, with the safety of panel removed, from the inside of the picture only, is illustrate the new machine for cutting a new rubber developed at the Canadian Pacific Railway's Angus Shops in Montreal as part of a programme for reclaiming rubber, without waste of the company's Dominion-wide conservation campaign. The machine prepares worn and burnt sections of rubber hose from air and signal connections to be put back into service. The grand savings of the road here are spread with the aid of a small machine less adapter and the retained product nearly all suffering replacement. In the short time the programme has been in effect, the saving in the cost of rubber have been noted with 3,000 air hose and 1,000 signal hose reclaimed to make up their total, according to E. S. Barnes, chief of motive power and rolling stock, who is in charge of the rubber-saving plan. Over the year it is estimated there will be a saving of 20 per cent in the rubber hose used on the 16,000 miles of company rolling stock operated by locomotives, cars, equipment, ferries and boats and on the C.P.R. land.

Look Out For Cabbage Worm

The Cabbage Butterfly has been busy, for the past month, laying her eggs on your cabbage and cauliflower. The eggs are now hatching into small, hungry, green caterpillars ready to reside the plants and make them their own. To control these caterpillars on young cabbages, Mr. J. L. Eaglesham, Supervisor of Fort County, recommends dusting after a dew or rain, with one part of calcium arsenate, paris green, or white arsenic, to ten parts by weight of strong flour.

For this post on cauliflower and other edible foliage ready for consumption, use a prepared derris powder. Derris is not harmful to humans. Arsenic poisons are unsuitable on edible foliage such as cauliflower, spinach lettuce and Swiss chard.

Since Derris is produced largely from plants grown in Japanese occupied territory, the supply is extremely limited, and it should be used for just such purposes as this. Never use derris where arsenicals will suffice such as for the control of potato beetles. There is no poison this will satisfactorily take the place of derris and the supply of this is running very low.

"Once Upon A Honeymoon" At Sharp's Shows

Ginger Rogers, Cary Grant and a good supporting cast bring loud hoot theatre patrons "Once Upon A Honeymoon" Thursday and Saturday of this week. The story goes something like this: Just about the time Hitler's dream of world conquest is about to get up steam, an American girl marries a Baron who is the spark-plug of the Nazi engine of destruction. A American reporter is assigned to bring the Baron's carefully camouflaged activities into the open and decides upon the bride as his best source of information. The honeymoon takes the shape of a tour of Czecho-Slovakia and Poland where the Baron ambles the contents that result in those nations falling into Hitler's hands. The reporter keeps pace with the couple and gets response from the girl, who becomes convinced of her husband's complicity and arranges for the incision of her name on casualty lists. Joining with the reporter, she travels through Norway and the low countries, always in the wake of Nazi conquest, and finally reaches Paris where she joins the American espionage service and, to secure needed information, takes up life with the Baron. Her activities are discovered and she is about to be turned over to the Gestapo but manages her escape and, with the aid of the reporter, now a news broadcaster, leaves for America—disposing of the Baron cavalierly.

Next Week: "Eagle Squadron".

Water and Road Problems Confront Municipal Council

The July meeting of the Council of Municipal District of Strathcona, 517, was postponed until the 20th of the month, and after one day's session adjourned until the 28th. A resolution authorizing the change in the date of the meeting was passed before the minutes of the previous meeting were read.

A report was submitted regarding the possibility of securing a new tractor and trail builder for which an order had been given at the previous meeting.

The 142nd Street roadway was again before the Council for attention after a brief discussion it was decided that the Council should visit the roadway during the luncheon period so that Councillors could gain a better impression of the situation as it now existed. On their return it was reported that a very start had been made on the work which had been terminated rather hastily but fall on account of the heavy frosts. It was opined that when the work is done to specifications the washing of soil during Spring thaws may be obviated.

A delegation from the Ypres Valley district met with the Council re matter of flooding of roads and land near the Sphar lake. The opinion was expressed that the natural water course which took care of the overflow waters from the lake was obstructed by debris and other artificial obstacles. In the absence of Mr. Bedley, Mr. Magor was asked to investigate the condition and report at the next meeting.

At two thirty p.m. the Council adjourned to sit as a Court of Revision to hear appeals against valuations contained in the adopted assessment roll from last year. Only two appeals were made, with one applicant present. After comparing the values with that of adjoining lands the Court rejected the appeals and sustained the Assessor's valuations. Court then adjourned and the business of the Council resumed.

In response to an enquiry by the Selective Service Board the members of the office staff and the road foreman were declared to be permanent employees, thereby exempting them from the provisions of the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Acting on the report made by Councillor Schlerra regarding the opening up of a roadway through the S.W. 36-51-25-4 the Council issued instructions to invite the owner of the land, Mr. Sutherland to the next meeting so that it could discuss the question of the proposed road. Mr. Sutherland attended the adjourned session and being unable to arrive at a decision it was decided to appoint a committee composed of the Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Councillor Schlerra to view the site and make a recommendation to the next meeting.

Permission was granted to two applicants to register transfers of land on which the District had registered a Tax Notification.

The Council confirmed the appointment of H. B. Brenner as special constable for the Cooking Lake District during the months of July and August at a salary of $75.00 per month.

Messrs. Stimpson and Klatt were present to further the request that work be undertaken to make the road adjacent to their farms passable for volunteer traffic. They were advised that this was on the program as soon as the outfit was in the neighborhood.

A communication was received from the South Cooking Lake Property Owner's Association in which they asked the Council to proceed with the work of draining McFadden Lake into Cooking Lake. The Secretary was instructed to advise that the Council was quite unable to assist in the project by reason of the fact that its road machinery is urgently needed in the more essential work of road repairs and construction.

A number of tenders to purchase property owned by the District were received and the following property sold:—

Brenner acreage, 60 acres @ $90.00 per acre.
Lot in Terrace Heights $60.00.
Lot in King Edward Addition $48.00
N W 4-51-25-4 $800.00.

Where lands have been acquired through tax recovery proceedings and then sold, the Minister of Municipal Affairs' approval to the sale must be obtained before a transfer can be given.

Offers for several other parcels of land were rejected on the grounds that the offers were too low

The Council approved the sale of some surplus office furniture at the following prices.

Safe, $150.00; Cupboard $17.50; Stove $16.00, and counter $6.00.

Considerable time was taken up in discussing a number of complaints that had been received regarding the damaging of sloughs and watercourses by thawing in debris and the building of artificial barriers which interfered with the natural flow of the water causing flooding of roads and lands. As all watercourses come under the jurisdiction of the Director of Water Resources for the Province the Secretary was instructed to submit the matters complained of to him for investigation and necessary action.

Approval was given to an application for old age pensions.

With the reading and dealing of considerable correspondence and the passing of payments and accounts the meeting adjourned until the 28th of August.

Ration Boards were distributed very efficiently last year, and with sufficient volunteer help available, this year's distribution should be a matter of routine. Ration book headquarters will be located in the town hall, as last year.

Anyone who can spare a few hours a day during the above date, is asked to get in touch with the town secretary, W. A. Graham. The more volunteer workers, the easier the task.

RADIO GRAMS
Wright's Treasure Trail

Wright's Treasure Trail—the favorite quiz show on the air, is one of the few programs that does not go off for the summer. When the boys take their vacation they can put in "check-hitter" and carry on as usual. In July and August, when a number of our old friends are having a well earned rest from their busy radio jobs, it is nice to have one old friend to be sure of. So send in those Wrigley's Gum Wrappers and your name and address and birthday, and listen each Tuesday night at 8:15 for Treasure Trail, over CJCA. It is twice the fun and excitement if you have a letter in the mail-box, and you are holding your breath until they get the envelope opened and read the name over the air. So send in your Wrigley's Wrapper and be on hand next Tuesday night. It's a date!

Do you like thrilling stories of great daring and valor? If you do you will not want to miss the Green Hornet Series heard over CJCA at 7.30 each Wednesday evening.

Household Fly Disease Carrier

Because it is one of the most active agents in the spread of disease and one of the greatest enemies of public health, the common house fly should not be tolerated in the home or its surroundings, or in shops offering human food and fruit for sale. It breeds filth to human food, carrying bacteria and particles of decomposing organic matter on its hairy body and legs and on its sticky foot and mouth It may light on the face of a sleeping child, and this contact fly is notorious for the part it plays in spreading infantile diarrhoea, typhoid, tuberculosis, cholera, dysentery, and other diseases. It is strongly suspected of being a carrier of the virus causing infantile paralysis, and already the ease has been almost proved by the finding of virus in a mixed culture of flies taken in districts where infantile paralysis had occurred.

The common house fly is one of the most serious corrupters of food. In the home, control of flies is comparatively easy. They can be destroyed, and effective covering of the temporary garbage will prevent the flies from finding a breeding place.

The most effective method of control consists in eliminating or reducing their breeding places outside by three-tiered wedding cake flanked by three-tiered wedding cake flanked by silver baskets with clusters of roses and sweet peas

Leaving home in their R.C.A.F. uniforms, the bride later changed to a black pin-stripe tailored suit with white blouse and A.W.1 wearing a silver Fox fur, a gift of the groom. The happy couple left on the midnight train to spend their honeymoon at Banff Upon their return, they will spend a few days at the home of their parents before leaving for their respective R.C.A.F. stations.

A Fourth Term

By JOHN GALLOWAY

Fort Saskatchewan

Some one may thoughtlessly ask the question, "Will President Roosevelt try for a fourth term"? But that is not the question He is prepared to serve his country, and honestly under any successor who may be elected, just as did that other great democrat, and true statesman, Chamberlain as long as life and failing health permitted.

The question is: will, or can, President Roosevelt resist the imperative, pleading call of his fellow countrymen, His good neighbors to the north, and to the south, from the Polar regions to Cape Horn, the rest of the British Empire, the Russian Empire, the Chinese Empire, the crushed and plundered nations of Europe, the martyred Jews, the people of Ethiopia, who have personally tasted the blessings of re-lated freedom, from all of whom goes up the cry, you have been a tower of strength in our struggle against the ruthless aggressors. Stand by your guns. We need your clear head, your strong hand, your invincible courage, your benevolent spirit, your influence and your passion for justice to all men, women and children of all colors, creeds, and nations to continue the conflict to a satisfactory conclusion and to establish a just, and lasting peace among all nations.

World of Wheat

by

H. G. L. Strange

THREE BEAUTIFUL THINGS

John Masefield, the celebrated English poet ,once wrote that he thought the three most beautiful things in the world were: A mother with a babe at her breast; a full ripped ship at sea; and a waving field of wheat.

Most people, I believe, would agree with this exception that while sailing ships pass a full ripped ship at sea in the second place to John Masefield has done, most farmers who have up for the beauties of Nature—and who has not—would be inclined to favour a waving field of wheat as the second most beautiful thing in the world; for surely there is nothing that brings more pleasure to the eye and to the emotions of a farmer than a field of wheat, healthy, strong, and true-to-variety, giving the promise of a good crop of grain, the fruition of his hopes, his careful work and his skilful planning.

This year farmers can find added pleasure in regarding with proud eyes their fields of wheat. It is that the wheat, in the form of man's first food—BREAD—will give life and energy to the members of the fighting forces overseas; and will eventually help to provide food for the starving people of a hungry

Written exclusively for the weekly newspapers of Canada

There was a dynamic, expectant air about the House of Commons late Saturday night as members waited for the Premier to announce whether he had Royal assent given to bills passed They were just like youngsters at school getting ready for summer holidays, gleefully sang songs in varying chords from tenor to profundo bases. They all trooped to the Senate and heard Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff give assent, and returned to hear Mr. King move adjournment until January 27, 1944, ending a six month session Members broke off, party lines vanished while they shook hands, said good-byes, cleared desks Sunday I watched the usual visitors wander around the buildings, but the vaulted corridors seemed less lonely than hurrying, familiar figures. Parliament is usually prorogued, but this time only adjourned because the war might necessitate a hurry-up call to convene members. At the brief Sunday a departing M.P. said: "There's" no connection between Parliament adjourning and shortly after, Mussolini resigned."

At the end of the Session Gathered into view, the bulk of Parliament started to grind faster but got caught in the whirl of some long distance debates. Just before the Farmer's Creditors Arrangement Act, a bill bringing Manitoba into the system of farm debt legislation with her two sister provinces. Highlights: Limiting date of May 1, 1935 stays. If twothirds of a farmer's debts existed before that date, he may seek adjustment on all his debts, even unsecured ones in regarding with payments from the West took the stand that legislation didn't go far enough Remember Mr. Bracken's plea when the bill thought it unwise at this time to re-open fundamental issues of western agricultural policy, and we couldn't see eye to eye with the three-province plan for permanent debt legislation. Representatives of other country has. He stressed courts have power to stay foreclosure.

A percentage of Army personnel from operational units and depots in Canada may be detailed up to 30 days, with provision for extension, to help with the harvest and help relieve manpower shortage in agriculture . . . the men will benefit from extra pay from the farmer employer . . . further details will be available in your own home front.

The important Agricultural Committee tabled final reports in the House, main recommendations summarized, being: Consider advisability of paying farm storage on grain . . . Whether to house marketed dairy butter and if eggs should be sold by weight . . .that precautions should be taken by the Meat Board to keep live cattle prices in proper relationship to beef carcass floor prices and also a measure between hog prices to producer and price of products by the processor . . . committee thought public should get more information on progress of research in producing new varieties of farm products . . . asked higher priority for essential farm equipment. The need of encouraging more production of essential foods was noted. Important, too, was recommendation for a close check on spread of ceiling prices of feed grains and prices paid by live stock feeders in B.C., Eastern Canada.

Of recent date the immediate relatives and friends of Major and Mrs. George Dawson of Fort Saskatchewan, honored them on the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Stetson.

Threshing Crews

In most farming areas there are numerous threshing machines, and many operators may experience difficulty this fall in having crews. As a result of the shortage of manpower last fall, outfits within a mile or so of each other were frequently held up waiting for crews, or operating inefficiently with part crews only.

To avoid a repetition of this situation fall co-operation among threshers in the same district will be the keynote. Exchange of labor and efficient routing of threshing machines in such a way as to include every outfit in the worst number of miles, are some of the methods through which co-operation will solve the problem.

It would be a good idea to arrange a meeting of all operators of threshing machines in the district, in order to discuss the systematic planning of routes so that as far as possible, threshing will be completed on neighbouring farms before machines leave the home district. The committee could be organized among their neighbors, so that no men and teams will be left idle.

FARMERS ARE ADVISED TO USE TWINE SPARINGLY

Better tie a string around your finger to remind yourself to go easy on binder twine and rope. There's enough binder twine to tie up this year's crop—that is, if the crop over the entire country is normal but it must be used sparingly on the farms if there's to be enough to provide for emergency demands.

Chinese Relief Campaign Is Raise $1,000,000

In China's sixth year of war, medical aid is one of her greatest needs. Civilians have suffered from bombing attacks even more than soldiers. Refugees from Burma have started epidemics of cholera and bubonic plague. Malaria is widespread and malignant.

China's hospitals could not carry on—could not begin to meet the situation—without help from the sympathetic Western world. The Chinese War Relief Fund hopes, this month, to raise $1,000,000 in Canada to be used for China's vital wants. The entire sum is to come from voluntary contributions — which means that the "little people" of Canada must rally around if their Chinese Allies are to be helped in their time of need.

Send or bring your donation into the Royal Bank, Fort Saskatchewan.

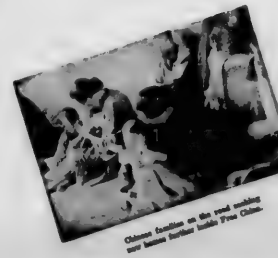
Honor Alberta Cabinet Minister

Hon. A. J. Hooke, recently-appointed provincial secretary, was honored at a testimonial banquet in his Rocky Mountain House constituency recently. To mark Mr. Hook's election to cabinet rank, these at the banquet presented him with a framed copy of the inset picture, a group of Rocky Mountain House Board of Trade officials give the minister a petition for submission to the Alberta legislative post-war reconstruction committee. From the left in the group are: E. Ross, W. J. Kirby, Harry Stoffes, president Rocky Mountain Fish and Game Association, A. L. Urch; Mayor W. J. Strong, Rocky Mountain House, who is carrying the petition to Mr. Hooke; W. H. Tenky, president of the Board of Trade; Mr. Hooke, and Constable R. McMullen, R.C.M.P. In the lower photo, Constable McMullen is at the left; centre, Mr. Stoffer, holding the hour rug, and Mr. Hooke. In the background is one of the rebuilt chimneys of old Fort Rocky Mountain House, built by the North West Company, in the early 1800's. The petition presented to Mr. Hooke calls for completion of the David Thompson Highway, from Red Deer to the Saskatchewan crossing the Banff-Jasper Highway. Such a road link, the petition says, would offer immense opportunities for outlet of commerce goods which will be needed in construction of [illegible] camps and hotels used by tourists along the road.

SUPPORT THE CHINESE WAR RELIEF FUND

Wounded aged Chinese woman and child being handed away from a fighting area in a rickshaw.



Chinese fugitives on the road making our homes further within Free China.

These Chinese children are left to fend for themselves while their parents are killed by Japanese troops.

The purchasing power of the Canadian dollar in China is tremendous. To appreciate what your gift through the Chinese War Relief Fund will make possible, consider the value of Canadian money in meeting China's basic needs:

$500 will provide emergency treatment for 100 air raid victims.
40 will equip a field clinic.
25 will train a worker for active service.
20 will keep one refugee alive for one year.
10 will provide clinical care for 100 refugees.

CHINA NEEDS AND DESERVES OUR SUPPORT!

Thank God WE Have Been Spared These Atrocities!

After bombing Tokio, some of the heroic American Flyers landed by parachute in the towns of Ying-tan and Yokinog in the Chinese province of Kiangsi. The Chinese civilians in the area fed, washed and nursed the flyers until they were ready to head for safety in Free China.

Later the enraged Japs stormed into the area for vengeance on the civil population.

The Japs killed everybody. The Chinese had been tortured, killed and subjected to every sort of atrocity the mind can conceive. A 70-year-old French priest had been beaten and stabbed to death. A Chinese priest was beheaded.

This is only one story of the horrors of war in China—a war that has so far cost China FIVE MILLION DEAD, and FIFTY MILLION refugees driven from their homes.

We can not ignore their dire need for food, shelter and medicine.

Examine Your Fields For Weeds

At this season perennial weeds such as Canada and Sow Thistle, and annual weeds such as Wild Mustard can be easily seen. Where a farmer's crop is subordinated to weeds, such a farm is not only a liability to its owner but a liability to all adjacent land. Every farmer should take stock of what the soil on his farm is producing, says Mr. A. M. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner. Idle land soon becomes a "Danger Point" from which clean fields are menaced. At a time when every farmer is extremely busy with haying, preparing for harvest, or doing other necessary work, there is a tendency to forget the field with the weeds. The future productivity of the farm may depend on what is done with the field now. Your weed inspector has his own experience to rely on, and the experience of the best farmers in the district in methods of weed control. Your problem with weeds may be simplified by discussing them with him and co-operating in every way in order to keep your fields clean and productive.

Help For Our Chinese Allies

Our gallant Allies, the Chinese people, Really Need Help! For seven long years China has been holding in check the greater part of the military strength of Japan. China has lost more men in killed and wounded in this war than all the other Allied Nations, including Russia, put together. The Chinese, by fighting Japan, are defending Canada today just as truly as though they were fighting in Canada alongside of us, but our gallant, patient and courageous friends now need help; the condition of millions of them is pitiful. They badly need medical supplies and comforts. They need food for the millions of refugees who have escaped from Japanese-occupied territory into Free China, and, to add to their plight, China is now suffering over a large area from economic drought, which is bringing famine and untold miseries in its wake.

It takes money to buy things the Chinese people so urgently need, so they are appealing to the Canadian people for help through the Chinese War Relief Fund Bank Managers, Elevator Agents and others through out the West, are empowered to accept donations for this fund. It is one of the worthiest appeals ever made to Canadian people. The smallest sum will be gratefully accepted. Let each of us, therefore, give as generously to this Fund as he can afford to do. As little as ONE DOLLAR will help to save a life.

A most interesting Demonstration Plot will be found of the elevators which are managed by the Grain Growers' Grain Company, and the "Crop Testing Plan" the Searle, the Home Grain Co., Midland & Pacific. These plots will repay a visit by any farmer. There will be found growing at least six varieties each of wheat, oats, barley and flax. A careful examination of these varieties by farmers in their own district will reveal to them how these varieties have behaved under their local conditions. Experience has shown that farmers quite frequently obtain valuable information from these growing plots that helps them to decide which variety they should grow.

Included in the plots will be found some of the very newest varieties which are entirely new strain of wheat, and the new varieties of rust-resistant oats—Ajax and Exeter—from which much is expected, the standard varieties of barley (both rough [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] particular there will be found some entirely new varieties of flax and [illegible] [illegible].

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa

It seemed like a tragedy in the family—something was missing. The big, friendly chair high up in the Peace Tower took a holiday for a few days and stopped. Habit is a queer creature. Thousands who rush to work by that clock just hurl looking and looking at the time, regardless of its evident haste. It finally stopping, to the immense relief of all of us, though most people carry a wrist watch anyway.

Shortage in fruit crops. Expected higher prices are resulting in the calling to be tacked on pears, peaches and plums when they hit the market. Stocks of fruit in cold storage are low, with exceptions like jams and jellies, were frozen on the national shelf just before the recent hostilities while leaves her caller stock alone while taking advantage of the fresh stuff available. And not when the early this year killed off a lot of peach trees in eastern Canada; late spring hurt strawberry and raspberry crops. Blueberries were heavy but faced a labor shortage; cherries were poor. The Canadian fruit per cent., affecting both B.C. and Ontario crops. Grapes are expected to be 25 per cent below 1944's record harvest, but the current estimate is nearly a third more than the five year average from 1936 to 1940. Plans are being made, we are told, to see that some of the crops are canned.

Some people are irked with the news that Canada will shortly follow U.S.A. in taking coffee off the ration list. But it is pointed out we have only a four months' supply on hand, which is not so much. Besides, here's another angle. Because of our low tea ration and relatively high coffee coupon value, the latter's consumption is up 15 per cent over pre-war normal while tea is down by a third. It would be difficult to eliminate one without the other, they think.

Wandering around services information offices you pick up interesting items. For instance in the army of the U.S.A. the "sheard ship" has a tall with a trained beauty specialist shoot her hair, and facial vitality, as the pays about a third of civilian prices for shampoo and wave; all of which goes back into the fund for "ship" beauty parlour equipment. The girls do look well groomed and smart.

As the strain on our manpower increases, a shortage of air-crew is anticipated by the Royal Canadian Air Force, concentrated by the steady aerial pounding given Germany. A potential air-crew training pool, of course, organized in most centres of Canada in the Air Cadet League, with some 32,000 lads from 15 to 20 enthusiastically giving themselves to play their part some day. Organized in 1941, already over 1,500 of these lads have joined the R.C.A.F. But the immediate need for aircrew is urgent.

Soldiers detailed from army training to help with the harvest will be paid at 94 a day in Western Canada, $2.50 in most parts of Ontario, $3 in Quebec and the Maritimes. Farmers also providing room and board, according to National Defence H.Q. Were they are granted concessions. Those who leave to work on their own farms, or the farms of near relatives, soldiers get free transportation up to 300 miles.

Unofficially it is estimated that around 30,000 people are in Ottawa doing temporary work in connection with the war. Looks it on the street and in the eating places. Housing has been a big problem. Maybe you don't know it out there but the government has built a place, called Laurentian Terrace, especially for Grade 1 girl office workers which takes care of about 300. It is nicely and very comfortably furnished, and the girls pay $6.50 weekly, which includes meals. Helps some.

Announcement in the daily papers of Wednesday, stated that the food administration had decided to allow one-third coffee and tea ration increase. That means, instead of the coupons good every fourth week, they will come due every three weeks for three who need more of these two beverages.

"Holiday Inn" At Sharp's Shows

"Holiday Inn" starring Bing Crosby, Fred Astaire, Virginia Dale, Marjorie Reynolds, Walter Abel, and Louise Beavers, is this week's presentation at Sharp's Shows. The story goes something like this: What goes on in the story in inconsequential—it's the entertainment offered by Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire plus the Irving Berlin music that makes this story. The plot serves as a vehicle for the introduction of episodes and interludes of song, dance and comedy highlights that crop up as Bing and Astaire sort of "Sergeant Quirt and Captain Flagg" it for the affections of two girls—Virginia Dale and Marjorie Reynolds. Beginning as partners in a vaude act. Bing splits out with Astaire and runs his own shows, on holidays only, at a Connecticut retreat. He uncovers a scintillating bit of talent in Marjorie Reynolds—and Astaire, having called his romance with Virginia Dale quits, then sets out to groomsguy Marjorie with the greater glory that will be hers as a star partner in his, Astaire's rising movie career. It's all worked out happily in the end, however.

Council Meeting Minutes M. D. Strathcona 517

The Council of the Municipal District of Strathcona, No. 517 held its regular monthly meeting on the 7th instant with all members in attendance

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been adopted as read the matter of the sale of five acres in Clover Bar Heights came under review After considering a report regarding a re-inspection of this land it was decided to dispose of the property to Mr D S Fulton, who owned the adjoining land, for the sum of sixty-five dollars per acre.

The Secretary submitted the financial statement covering collections during the month of July The report showed that collections had been well maintained in comparision with the other six months.

A letter from the District's Auditors was read covering a cash audit made of the consolidated cash and bank balances of the two former districts. Subject to the limitations in the scope of the audit at the time it was made the books were found properly written up and in order. In connection with the Auditor's report, the Council discussed at some length the matter of adopting a consolidated tax roll for 1944. While the Council recognised that the consolidated tax would be a distinct administrative improvement over the present three way tax levy it did not see its way clear to adopt the new method until the Government had declared its policy of dealing with the arrears of social service taxes and future legislation which would take the place of the present direct levy of three mills.

The Council set the 13th September, commencing at the hour of 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon as the time for the hearing of appeals against assessments made during the year 1945. The appeals will be heard in the Council Chamber.

A letter from the Director of Water Resources was read in which he advised that no useful purpose would be served by a general inspection of the water courses as requested by the Council at the previous meeting. He intimated that his Dept. had made sufficient inspections in connection with flooding this year to be able to state with confidence that the cause in water left from the heavy snowfall during the past winter; this has reached the lakes and sloughs and as a result many which had rounded before the overflow level now now come up and are now overflowing into creek channels and causing them to overrun as they have not done for some years. While the Council concurred in this viewpoint it nevertheless felt that the situation was further aggravated by the construction of artificial dams which was going on during the inspections made by an engineer from the Water Resources Dept.

The matter of the drainage of certain lands owned by Mr. T. Leaders was again under review. As it was felt that any work done in this regard might involve other riparian owners, either favorably or unfavorably it was suggested that Mr. Leaders get together all the property owners who may be affected to meet a representative of the Council so that the matter could be carefully discussed from all angles.

The Council entered into an agreement with H. Bryers covering the gravelling of certain sections of the Wye road. This is one of the projects on which part of the Government Road Grant will be earned.

The Council authorized by resolution the cancellation, in accordance with the provisions of the Soldiers' Home Property Tax Exemption Act, all taxes levied on the home property of any resident of the District during the years which he or she may have served as an active member of Canada's Armed Forces. The Provincial Act does not apply to those who have signed up for Home Defence only.

Bylaws were passed authorizing the sale of the S½ N.W. 5-53-24-4 (Mrs Jacqueline Beaver) to Mrs. Ida Hall for the sum of $200.00 and Lots 14 and 15, Block 27, King Edward Addition, to Mrs. Faiegs for $50.00 each. An offer to purchase 4 lots in Hillcrest subdivision for $25.00 was refused A minimum price of $50.00 was set for this property

A similar refusal was made regarding an offer for the S W 4-52-22-4 with a reserved price equal to the assessed value, $760.00 being placed on the quarter.

With the reading of correspondence, passing of paysheets and accounts the meeting adjourned to meet again on the 13th September.

Here Wednesday

LIEUT. EUNICE ROBERTSON who is in charge of the C.W.A.C. Recruiting Party to be at Fort Saskatchewan, Wednesday, Sept. 1st.

MR. AND MRS. W. F. BYERS

Mr and Mrs. W. F. Byers, residents of Fort Saskatchewan for the past 23 years, received more than 100 guests recently on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary The reception was held at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr and Mrs. D. H Byers, where the family and many friends gathered to wish the honored couple well and many more anniversaries.

Charles, it will be remembered, split a three-hundred pound purse with a Fighting French pilot for the thousandth plane brought down by their respective squadrons; Charles bagged eleven of the enemy planes in his squadron's tally. Report of Recent Convention Local School Trustees' Assoc.

Excerpts from the minutes of the Convention of the Clover Bar Division No. 1, Local School Trustees, held recently in Edmonton.

The convention was called to order by President F. B. Haythorne.

Mr. Peck, vice-president, explained that due to two conventions of the Alberta School Trustees' Association being held in 1941, the Board decided it not advisable to hold a convention in the passed year of 1942.

A reply to a resolution passed at the last convention re "that we deem it advisable that the Divisional Board should visit the respective school Boards once a year", was received The reply suggested that the Divisional Board was in accord with the request. However, reports showed that the Board had not had the full co-operation in this respect.

Headlines of President F. P. Haythorne's address:

"Government in having proven broad-minded Divisional Board.

"Need of more co-operation from Local Board in supervision of school property, program of children, attitude of teacher, exercise of justice, etc.

"Time is ripe for better toilet facilities in our rural schools."

Financial statement showed that the cost of operating the Association had been $274.52 for two years.

Mr. G. A. Clark, delegate to the last convention of the Alberta School Trustees' Association, during his absence continually the fact that "that we should always be pressing for more and a better education for our children."

Mr. R. Hemsing, chairman of the Clover Bar School Divisional Board, in his address to the meeting, brought out the following information:

"There must be very much in favor of meetings of this kind. It is a help in bringing about a better understanding by all concerned with the administration of the affairs of the Division.

"The Board was dealing with demands for salary increases by the teachers, buildings and repairs and furniture replacement costs, just as fairly as finances would permit.

"He thought that the teacher provision would have to be undertaken co-operatively by, Alberta School Trustees' Association, Alberta Teachers' Association and the Provincial Government."

Following were elected to office:

President, F. E. Haythorne,

Vice-President, J. R. Webb,

Sec.-Treas. C. W. Meyer,

Directors: G. A. Clark, George Peck, Mrs. Florence Bewley.

Mr. A. G. Andrews, Secretary-Treasurer of the Alberta School Trustees' Association addressed the convention. He dealt with many interesting questions relating to the operation of schools in the province, and the following facts are worth considering:

"The Teachers' Association had agreed to co-operate with the Alberta School Trustees' Association in urging the Government to contribute at least 50 per cent toward the cost of education.

"Expressed regret that some Divisional Boards were not in favor of Rural Teachers' Associations.

"High Schools should be compulsorily located.

"The amount or failure of the dormitory deposits almost entirely on the type of supervision obtained.

"He was convinced that the burden of taxation was not evenly distributed and further that the supported schools in the province as a whole was not be fair in this regard.

"That the minimum average salary in this province was considerably less with that of the other provinces of the Dominion."

Dr. S. Rest, asked the convention for support in appealing for bible study in our schools. Due to ministers in a number of districts having to cover a large number of children not getting religious instruction regularly, therefore it was deemed advisable that this instruction given at school, be useful.

Messrs. J. B. Webb and G. W. Meyer, with Mrs. Florence Bewley as alternative delegate were chosen to represent the Association at the next convention of the Alberta School Trustees' Association.

Mr. LaBlanc, School Supervisor, reported that there were seventy-nine school districts with one hundred and two rooms, providing for some three thousand children. Also that he had some forty-two teacher permanents to look after for the new school starts again. Mr. LaBlanc mentioned that the secretary of Leduc was one of the best in the province, he thought in the need of children at home during the labor shortage.

The convention was in accord with the new school year, with completion of the grade, date of the closing of schools. Members felt that this should be about Oct. 15th, if labor conditions warranted. Also that the Government pay the full year's grant regardless of when schools opened.

Mr. R. Hemsing, chairman of the Board of Health for the Clover Bar Health Unit, in the absence of Dr. H. C. Adamson, gave a brief outline of the activities of the Health Unit. Reports showed that three hundred and fifty children in the Unit area had been purchased at a cost of $1 per hundred.

Dispensary hospitals and nurses were being organized so as to be ready in case an epidemic broke out. The Unit was handicapped through failure to engage a sanitary inspector in co-operation with some other Unit with somewhat the same trading conditions as our own Unit.

Numerous registered delegates and some visitors attended the convention.

We all wish the happy couple the very best of everything.

An exceptionally beautiful hay crop is going into stacks and mows, harvested by member owners of local-mans, ranging from grandpop to little sister. In spite of an unusually wet year, Jasper Prairies and a dearth of manpower, slowly but surely, the hay crop is going in.

Mrs. Irwin Hutton and son Ernie, accompanied Mrs. G. Webb to Olds, where they will spend a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Hambly of Opal, Alberta, were week-end guests of the Atkinsons'.

Green Wood Seeds in Wheat

With the prospect of storage of large quantities of wheat on the farm this year, it is important that small grain be in good condition before being put in the bin. Although the wheat itself may be hard and dry, an excess of green weed seeds may cause heating and mold still further to the problem of storage.

Green weed seeds in wheat threshed by combines are apt to be a source of trouble. If the combine will not take out the weed seeds the grain should be left in the field before storage, or the crop reutilized and allowed to dry before being picked up and threshed. Any foreign matter likely to cause heating should be removed.

A little attention given to the condition of grain at the time of storage will save a great deal of work and worry later.

Salute To The Engineers

Now a Land of the Beaks has glorified
The Corps of the Light Brigade.
And the title Red Line of Infantry—when will it's glory fade?
There were Sappers at the British Tur,
And elsewhere on Napoleons.
But I shall sing till your ear-drums ring of the quickly old Engineers—
Of the regiments of Canada, everything,
Muddy old Engineers.

Now in all very fair is Fir through the air,
Or in tanner a heavy gun,
Or to dish it under through the broken roads
Of the crushed and cluttered Hun.
And it's nice to think when the U-Boats sink,
Of the glory that endures yours.
But wherever bored are mending word for the muddy old Engineers!
For the carving, gouging, fighting, mending,
Muddy old Engineers.

Now you mustn't feel when you read this spiel that the Sapper's a jealous lover,
That he jabbed his knife for a vote of thanks,
in search of a boy's grave.
Not your mechanical cavalry's quite all right,
And your Tommy has his powers,
But where in Hell would a lot of 'em be if it weren't for the Engineers?
For the clearing, building, bridging, building,
Muddy old Engineers.

Oh they look like tramps but they build your camps,
And they construct and they advance,
And they crawl and they slog—bridge the flood,
to give you a figure of chance.
Who stays behind when it gets too hot,
to blow up the roads in the rear?
Just tell your wife she owes your life to some muddy old Engineer.
Some greasy, dusty, grubby, clubby,
Muddy old Engineer.

My fancy coat is pinned to their chest,
If you read what their hat-badge says,
Why, "Ubi kati qui sai ? parent" is a queer-ation sort of pansies.
But their modest claim to immortal fame has probably escaped your ears,
We "First to Arrive and the Last to Leave",
the muddy old Engineers.
The regular go-getting, operations, glorious,
Muddy old Engineers.

"For A Higher National Income"

Extracts from an Address by R. J. Deachman, Consulting Economist, Ottawa, before the 50th Annual Meeting of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper's Association held week of August 12th.

The national income is a rather new concept in our economy Discussion has grown out of the present conflict. We had, at the beginning of the war, a clearer understanding of the economics of war and peace We realize now that wars are fought, not with money, but with the productive capacity of the nation.

What Is The National Income?

What is the national income? It is the sum total of the value of the income received by all the people. It includes everything made or produced in Canada; farm products, manufactured goods, the earnings of teachers and doctors, income upon investments, haircuts and shoe shines and everything else for which people have been paid—that is the national income.

The national income makes clear to us exactly what we can do and certain things which we cannot do.

The highest level of the best prewar years was in 1929. The total national income was then $4,719 millions.

In that year total salaries and wages amounted to $2,900 millions.

In 1933 the national income had fallen to $3,054 millions. Total salary and wage payments, in that year were $1,875 millions. Year income and many have fallen then. It was not so because "the bust" wanted to eat it but because he didn't have the money to pay, the old rate.

While wage rates declined in '33, cost of living declined and, in terms of purchasing power, those employed had in many cases as large and even a larger income, in 1933, than they had in 1929. Because the real wage unit remained up while farm prices were cut in two, we had consumption, and, there was no escape from it. Farmers lost their purchasing power —factories were idle. There was not sufficient income in the nation to hire as many men and at the wage rates existing at the time of the boom.

A Higher National Income And How to Obtain It

And now I come to the real part of my subject: A Higher National Income and How to Obtain It. In my judgement there are two things which are absolutely essential for the accomplishment of our purpose: We must have a balanced ratio of wages as well as a functional rate of profits.

What do I mean by a functional rate of wages. I mean a wage rate as high, as possible, consistent with full employment.

Will that be a high rate or a low one? That will depend largely upon the national income but national income will never be how if there is full employment. If a high rate of wages

First United Church Morning Service 10.30

A United Church meeting, called by Presbytery to meet in Fort Saskatchewan recently, was attended by officers from Patricia, Partridge Hill, Beaver Hills, Tyro Valley and Fort Saskatchewan. Due to the shortage ministers, Presbytery requested that two ministers be responsible for the area to which three ministers have formerly been assigned. Accordingly Patricia is now part of the Namao Charge, and the new Fort Saskatchewan Charge includes Fort-Saskatchewan, Beaver Hills, Tyro Valley and Fort Saskatchewan.

A schedule for the Sunday Services on the Fort Saskatchewan Charge has been arranged and is to be found in the Church Services Column of this issue of The Fort Record. This schedule, like many other details of the new relationship, is in the experimental stage and is subject to revision by the Official Board which will meet before long.

Early Morning Fire Destroys Old Barn

Fire destroyed the hill barn on the former G. Somerhal place, early Thursday morning. Volunteer fire brigade of the Lamont district arrived before 4 a.m., and on arrival found that the building was too far gone to do anything. Town officials had extinguish a blaze in the building the previous night, but seemingly there was sufficient heat left to restart the blaze.

Cause of fire is not known, although it is thought to be caused by spontaneous combustion. The building was not in use at the time.

World of Wheat

by
H. G. L. Strange

The "Crop Testing Plan", during this past season, purchased from the seed growers in the prairie provinces, and distributed to farmers at cost, without any profit to the Commission operating the "Crop Testing Plan", the large quantity of 34,000 bushels of Registered and Certified seed, the bulk of it sealed by the Government in individual seeds. The average sales at each insurance point were considerably higher than the sales of the year 1942, which all speaks well for the increased interest farmers are taking in improving their crops by purchasing and using better quality seed.

There was particular interest in good cut seed, and for the first time in the 12 years the "Crop Testing Plan" has been distributing seed, the sales of seed oats were larger than the sales of seed wheat. The sales of barley, too, were larger than they have been for many years. Farmers are evidently beginning to realize the value, which has been made apparent by officials of the Government, and by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, in the use of high grade seed, and we hardly afford not to use such poor or at least a small quantity of seed, and have poorer yields. Seed oats with weak germination, Smut exposure and such weak will save much feed.

"Duke Island" At Story's Store

Story's Store this week presents "Duke Island", a thrilling dramatization of the unconquerable defiance of that island people to the Pontific by a small handful of Marion fighters against overwhelming odds. By sticking so closely to actual facts as possible, by permitting no Hollywood eccentricity to dress up the script with make-believe incidents, Paramount has produced a picture that will live for many years in the heart of every American fortunate enough to see it. Regardless of how much one has read or heard about Wake Island, only by viewing this picture can be fully realize the courage and spirit of the small group of men who gallantly defended it. Showing this week at Story's Store.

WARNING "COAL WILL BE SCARCE NEXT WINTER !!!"

Prepare your home now for adequate warmth with smaller fuel consumption

TO SAVE COAL CHECK THESE POINTS

✔ HOW TO GET MORE HEAT

Pipes and furnaces must be clean, and grates in good order. If ones or two rooms are hard to heat, you are wasting fuel. A minor adjustment may probably remedy this. Have a competent man check your heating system, and make necessary repairs. Insulate your furnace and pipes where necessary.

✔ HOW TO AVOID HEAT LOSSES

Seem windows and doors must fit snugly and be weatherproofed. Lack of weather strips can cause as much as 30% heat loss. Caulking should be done around windows, doors and the cracks. Loose latch work (some hardware stores have caulking guns for rent). Broken glass should be replaced, and loose panes pointed. Small expenses incurred on such work will save much fuel.

✔ HOW TO SAVE STILL MORE

You can save fuel and money by having your furnace properly installed. It is a proven fact that in many homes lack of adequate insulation (including storm windows) is the cause of excessive consumption of fuel—up to as much as 50% of fuel used. Recommendation on how to do this are furnish properly.

SAVE YOUR COAL SUPPLIED FOR HEATING AND REGULATED PROPERLY

Get advice now! Skilled workmen and supplies are scarce. If you delay in getting your home ready for winter you may not be able to get the services you need.

Soldier Help On Farms

Farmers will welcome the recent announcement by the Director of National Selective Service to the effect that the straight time clause for payment of soldiers assigned to farms under the "Farm Duty" Plan now being removed.

Under the new arrangement soldiers detailed to farms under the "Farm Duty" Plan will be paid only for the days on which they actually work. On days when soldiers are unable to work because of unfavourable weather, the Department of National Defence will pay their regular soldiers' wages, including allowances.

Farmers, however, will still be required to provide board and lodging, irrespective of weather.

The new regulations apply to soldiers already assigned to farms under the "Farm Duty" Plan, as well as to those who go out henceforth.

Talking with a newspaperman back from Washington the other day, he held of trying out a meal shop right here in the main drag which advertises horse meat—choice stuff from "young wild western horses". He bought a roast and thought it quite tasty. Cost less than half the price of beef. He was afraid, however, that in time they would be ringing in "18-year old farm horses", or something.

Recently a gathering of members of sheep breeders associations at the Central Experimental Farm here saw a demonstration of the drug phenothiazine, in the latest method devised by science for controlling sheep parasites. Dr. W. E. Swales, Science Service of the Department of Agriculture, showed how the medicine, a two-inch tablet, is plopped into the throat of the animal, using a long applicator. An expert can do 60 lambs an hour. One reason for the importance of the drug at this time is that parasites destroy the animal's intestines which are so valuable for the making of surgical sutures needed on the battlefield.

Children in the country, here's a new job for you. The National Research Council needs 100,000 lbs. more of the common milkweed, for experiments in blending with certain types of synthetic rubber. It will be paid for. Farmers who have gaudy patches of the weed can cut with a blender, leaving a long stubble of at least 6 inches and making small sheaves. Dried sheaves shipped collect to Ottawa will be worth $20.00 a ton. For further information write Dr. Harold A. Senn, Division of Botany, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Having a chat in his office one day recently with Fred McGregor, chief enforcement officer for Canada of the Wartime Prices Board I had a look at some of the counterfeit gasoline coupons seized when Blockmeisters of a ring were roped in. Pretty clever imitation they were, but eventually the law caught up with the counterfeiters. Enforcement is control legislation is a big job, taken on a nation-wide scale.

When you hear of abandoned farms, you think of former drought areas of western Canada. Therefore it might jolt far easterners and far westerners to hear that an official census just set down 1 in Eastern Canada there are between 12,000 and 13,000 farms, covering about a million and a half acres, abandoned, lying idle for some time. Surveys show, paralleling the western areas much the same story—poor soil, poor locations, etc.

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa

Written specially for the weekly newspapers of Canada

We hear a lot about manpower, but what about Canadian womanpower? Well, there are 4,940,000 women over 14 years of age in Canada. Here are some interesting figures about them. As of January 30, 1943, of this number there were 1,113,000 in industry and 255,000 directly or indirectly in war industry. Farm women numbered 1,000,000; women students 300,000. There were more than 21,567 in the armed services (and that figure must be considerably increased by this time). 300,000 are considered unemployable.

Hurling back to the Order-in-Council which made it an offense to waste coal or heat, owing to the serious fuel situation facing Canada, it is interesting to know that our normal peacetime coal needs of about 29 million tons. This year, geared to such a high war tempo, provision

The elevator agent's job is buying, storing and shipping grain. He must also keep the elevator and its equipment clean and in good running order. For a large part of the year, this is a full-time task requiring knowledge, skill and experience.

We hear and read a lot about the contributions made by the grain trade and that group to the war effort. Of course, the men in uniform everyone, and their wives and families undertake the greatest, if not the only, real sacrifice. Farmers, we think, are bearing an undue share of the burden. One has only to visit Ottawa to appreciate the great number which governments employ and to realize that it is not to be found in the newspaper and elsewhere; but what writer has taken up his pen on behalf of the country elevator agent?

Most of our readers know that country elevator companies assist in the sale of Victory Bonds and, during the recent campaign, form a special link in 1942 farm labour scheme, serve as distributors of parts used at considerable expense, handle demonstration plots of field crops, offer various services such as germination tests, and so on.

Yes. This and more; but how many realize that the bulk of the burden falls on the shoulders of the elevator agent? At times, the busy man finds time to help. The very essence of democracy is voluntary effort. Those men are democrats.

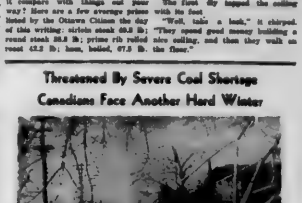
Threatened By Severe Coal Shortage Canadians Face Another Hard Winter



With wartime industrial production at its peak, and transportation facilities at a premium, coal is going to be hard to get this coming winter. The country is threatened with a deficit of several million tons. Railroads which consume 20 per cent of the Dominion's coal supplies cannot be expected to lower their fuel requirements except to the extent that they speed up their own conservation methods. Nor can the Government hold back supplies to such important needs as ships which need 4% of the supply, and coal mines themselves which require 3% of the supply to produce more coal. Then again 15 per cent of our coal reserves are needed to manufacture coke, the basic fuel for steel production. Another 30% is earmarked for industrial, commercial, and other establishments, the majority of which will be asked to cooperate by reducing fuel consumption. About half of the shortage will have to be alleviated by house-estate while the national income is low, there will not be full employment, there will be much unemployment.

MORE ABOUT "For A Higher National Income"

Of this we may be quite sure. You cannot have full employment unless you have a fundamental relation of rate which functions to harmony with other parts of the national economy. If your heart is weak you cannot run a race or, at least win, if the competition is strong. You may win if heart and lungs and mind are functioning properly, in relation to other parts of the body. In that regard the national economy is like a human body.

Then we need a "functional rule of profits." What do I mean by that words: I mean a rate of profits which will give the investor the highest profits possible, consistent with full employment of capital and just as I say that labor must not exact a wage rate for its services which threaten the loss of employment, so must not capital must not exact a profit for its services which will prevent the full development of employment of labor and rate of investment. If it does, total profits will be less than they could be otherwise and total wage payments. The highest total wage payments, the highest total profits in these circumstances are the basis for lasting contentment of this will be peace and freedom and wisdom will prevail.

How Is This Brought About?

How here is all this to be brought about? Time brings improvement in methods of production and trade relations. Many will remember the little dusty trailer which, at one time, was on our highways. They have been improved out of existence. A modern trailer will last twenty more years at least. Many will remember the old type of combine. These changes must be brought about with the object of reducing costs of operation, in the field of production the object of increasing production.

In many cases such objectives were obtained. In many it was not. As I stood these engines and machines which have been improved and which have brought about a lower price of goods, had gone to labor or to capital—the power of purchase was increased. The power of competition was strengthened. Capital made an effort to overcome losses by the use of machinery, to reduce costs—did it by investing more money in labor saving devices, in machinery which would reduce costs and the purchasing power of the people was increased. In both cases, the purchasing power of the people was increased by the former in this: That the goods produced and marketed, which contributed to be made in machinery, reduction and distribution, should be reflected not in an increase in wages, but in a lower price of goods. In the latter case the purchasing power of the people was increased by the lower price of goods to the consumer so that we have the same wage but we can now buy more and not more and so we could go forward to an ever expanding economy.

Little Wrong With Economic System

There is little, mighty little wrong with our economic system. The changes I suggest may seem trifling—in reality they are. A few gallons of gas many seem a small thing but, in a modern war it is not. In the world, the greatest good to the greatest number must be our guiding principle. There is a moral aspect of view and an economic point of view but both cover the same thing. If a thing is moral, it is economic. If a thing is economic, it is moral. Finally sound, it is reasonably sound. Finally, the good of all, should be the guiding principle of our actions and the worst of our troubles will be fairly well settled—at least for a time.

Up To Us To Solve Problem

Think this over, Governments, no matter who runs them, are not going to solve the problem—the solution will come from industry. Mind and I mean.

Extension of Compulsory Employment Transfers.

To Employers and Employees:

THE 6th Compulsory Employment Transfer Order, issued by the authority of National Selective Service Civilian Regulations, is proclaimed to come into force on September 6th, 1943. After that date no employer may continue to employ any man covered by this Order, unless under special permit.

The first five Compulsory Transfer Orders listed occupations, and required compliance by all male employees in those occupations if (a) in an age or marital class designated under the Military Call-up, or if (b) 16, 17 or 18 years of age. The Sixth Order repeats all occupations given in the five earlier Orders, and requires all other men from 16 to 60 years of age (limit ages inclusive) to become available for transfer to higher priority jobs, by registering at the nearest Employment and Selective Service Offices.

Details of the Sixth Order were advertised in daily newspapers at the end of August. Copies of the Order may be secured from any Employment and Selective Service Office.

If in doubt as to the coverage of this Order, or the procedure under it, ask your nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

All men, married or single, employed in designated occupations, aged 16 to 60, are now covered by the Order. To avoid penalty, those who have not yet registered must do so by September 6th, 1943.

TRAIT AT THE GATE . .

Rev. Elliot H. Birdsall, M.A.

Questions had been so restless all day I was ready for him when he be[illegible]

Q. (if only)

I pardon me for interrupting You may as well stop right there If you and I are to have a conversation we will get exactly nowhere if we begin with 'if only'.

Q. I will not pardon you for interrupting You might have waited until you heard what I was going to say

It It does not matter what you were going to say. If you begin it with 'if only' then it's not worth discussing

Q. We must be in a very bad mood tonight

I: Far from being in a bad mood, I would enjoy nothing more than a good talk with you. But I do not intend to allow a good evening to be wrecked on useless chatter Let's talk about the real needs and objects we can do to and to it.—not about non[illegible]

Q.: Who said anything about a dream world' It was the real world I was going to talk about. I was getting to say: If only we could be sure of six weeks of good harvest weather when the crops are ripe then this would be a much better farming country. What's wrong with that?

I: Exactly what I said in the first place You are asking me to discuss a world that does not exist. I prefer to use my brains in trying to become fully acquainted with this world as it is.

Q This world as it is disgusts me I would like to see a world in which nature was arranged to suit man, and man so made that he could get along with each other without these annoying differences of opinion. And it is only by looking on that picture of a perfect world that I can endure this world as it is.

I: You are deceiving yourself. You have the argument reversed. As long as you think your dream-world is more important than the one you are in then you will think the world you are living in is disgusting, no matter how good it may be. And what is more, so long as you entertain this world your actions in it will only make it worse.

Q.: You mean I should like this world as it is!

I: More than that: it is only by liking it, and indeed loving it, that we can bring better harmony into [illegible] It is only loving loved so it is that the world will improve.

Q.: Then it will have to go to

Mrs. E. J. Lawrence Pioneer Mother Laid to Rest

Another of our pioneer mothers passed away at Tuesday morning, August 31st, in the person of Mrs. E. J. Lawrence of Partridge Hill. Mrs. Lawrence, nee Esther Josephine Kelly, was born in the County of Peel, ontario, on May 13th, 1860. Living with her parents until she was married to John Harvey Lawrence, of the County of Halton (Ontario. A few years later they went North, to the County of Parry Sound, and lived there for 19 years, having a home out of the bush and cattle. Then they rented their family of ten, and with all, she was never too busy to take an active part in church work On Sundays her ten children would take their place at the pew, and in the Sunday School class Mrs. Lawrence was mostly found taking her place at the organ, where she had been active since the age of thirteen.

In August 1909, she came west with her husband and family, and in the spring of 1905, they settled on the homestead here. Again, taking her place alongside of her husband they built their home in the west and again her church activities continued until about 20 years ago, that she retired giving over to younger hands.

Mrs. Lawrence has been failing, for about 18 years, being an invalid for the past 15. Mr and Mrs Lawrence would have been married 61 years on Sept. 18th. She was 83 years of age

To mourn her passing are: Her faithful husband, 2 daughters, Mrs John Armitage, of Vancouver, Mrs H. Attewell, of Horse Hills, Alta., five sons, John, George, Virgil and Ernest, of Partridge Hill, Mervyn of Fort William; one brother, Peter Kelly, of Chatham, Ontario; 28 grandchildren; 21 great-grandchildren.

The funeral service was held in First United Church, Fort Saskatchewan, Friday, Sept. 3rd, at 1:30 p.m. Rev. H. M. Wingfield, of Thorhild, officiated.

Pallbearers were the grandsons: Harvey and Arnold Whitson; Harold Attewell; Ralph, Harvey and Edwin Lawrence. Interment took place in the Fort Saskatchewan cemetery.

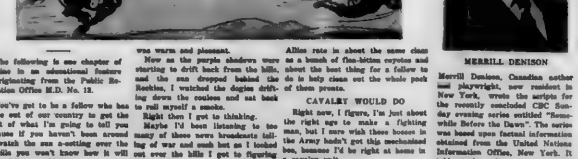
Readers will appreciate the news from your district. Get the habit of sending the news, no matter how insignificant it may be.



The following is one chapter of nine in an educational booklet originating from the Public Relation Office M.D. No. 13.

You've got to be a fellow who has come out of our country to get the drift of what I'm going to tell you because if you haven't been around to watch the sun a-setting over the foothills you won't know how it will eat a fellow to thinking.

For two years I've been working on a ranch in the foothills and I wouldn't trade my spot for any in the country.

The other night was just like any other. We'd had a hard day rounding up strays in the bush and now we were headed homeward. In some of the coulees a little snow still hung—a dirty white—but generally it was spring and the sun during the day was warm and pleasant.

Now as the purple shadows were starting to drift back from the hills, and the sun dropped behind the Rockies, I watched the dogies drifting down the coulees and sat back to roll myself a smoke.

Right then I got to thinking.

Maybe I'd been listening to too many of those news broadcasts telling of war and such but as I looked out over the hills I got to figuring that maybe I wasn't doing my part in it all.

I got to thinking that life out west was just about days but if those [illegible] stopping us and you from [illegible] over just over here I'd probably find myself with a lot tougher task than riding herd, doing a little farming and fanning off a few tough brawls.

I figure that those fellows who have been making it tough for the Allies rate in about the same class as a bunch of flea-bitten coyotes and when I get back I'm going to be able to help clean out the whole pack of them pronto.

CAVALRY WOULD DO

Right now, I figure, I'm just about the right age to make a fighting man, but I sure wish those bosses in the Army hadn't got this mechanized bee, because I'd be right at home in a cavalry unit.

I sit thinking so long that I get right down to the end of my fag, and after a last drag 'butt' it on the ashpile, knock off and start out after the boys with the herd.

Its getting right dusk but on ahead I can hear the cattle and in no time at all I catch up.

Well, I'm pretty quiet on the way in because I've got a powerful lot of things to figure out. When we hit the mush-slush its just the same and because I'm not holding up my end in the conversation the boys start in rib me.

"But, he's got a girl," the Scots grins and that starts things going and the boys really hid me nailing everyone from the schoolma'm to the boss' niece.

Finally I get around to telling them that I guess I'll be pulling stakes on account of a new job I've got lined up.

Just then the boss comes in and booms out.

"What's the matter, Johnny?" he asks, "You're getting good pay and the work isn't too hard. What's on your peg?"

So I tell him I figure its about time I joined the Army.

Right off he comes around the table and puts his hand on my shoulder.

"Son," he says, "I'm mighty glad that you've figured things out that way. I was over last time. That's how I got that limp so I can't be riding with you. There's a job to be done in the Army alright and the sooner its done the better. We can sure use you here but the Army needs you more. When its all over just high-tail it back because there'll always be a place at the table for you."

GOOD LUCK, BOY

"Good luck, boy," he finishes and shakes my hand and leaves.

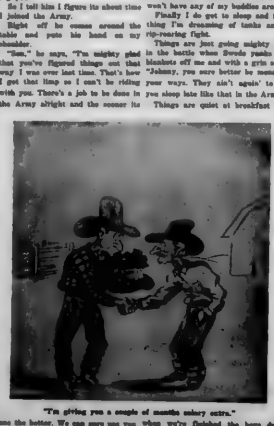
Right away all the other boys come over and clap me on the back and I feel pretty proud that I've finally figured out something that makes everybody feel good.

That night, after we turn in, I can't get to sleep for thinking of lots of things. It isn't going to be too easy leaving this life of mine and then to be no longer a cowboy. I'll miss the wave kidding about the schoolma'm. She and I have been getting along right well at the dances and I'm already figuring that if I save my money for a couple of years I'll be able to be pretty different in the Army, because it'll all be new to me and I won't have any of my buddies around to say that I'm getting stuck up.

Finally I do get to sleep and first thing I'm dreaming of tanks and a rip-roaring fight.

Things are just going mighty fine in the battle when Swede yanks the blankets off me and with a grin says, "Johnny, you were better be mending your ways. They ain't again' to let you sleep late like that in the Army."

Things are quiet at breakfast and



"I'm giving you a couple of months salary extra."

when we're finished the boys drop around to the bunkhouse to bid me goodbye. I sort of wish then that I wasn't headed to the Army because I'm sure going to miss the gang.

Well, finally I get my stuff packed away and I go over to the corral where my paint horse is looking over the gate. He just can't figure out how all the others have left and he's still there.

He whinnies as he sees me coming and I walk right up and rub his ear.

"Pal," I tell him, "I'm going to be away for a spell doing a little job. I guess you're going to have a life

The Schools of Agriculture and Home Economics were established in Alberta in 1913. They have a splendid record of service to the rural life of the province through the training of about 6,000 young men and women for useful and efficient life on the farm.

The rural exodus from the land, the Sunday, October 12th. This is an opportunity for farm boys and girls to acquire a training that will be of great value to them in their future careers as farmers and home-makers. A large attendance is expected, and applications for entrance should be made in good time before the opening date.

The school is supported by the Alberta Government and is directed by the department of agriculture.

Two separate courses are provided, one in agriculture for young men who intend to engage in practical agriculture, and one in home economics and household management for young women. These courses are excellent background for more advanced training as well.

World of Wheat

by
R. G. L. Strange

THE FUTURE OF WHEAT

Many farmers seem to be worried about the future of prairie wheat.

It seems to me there is nothing to fear, provided the terms of the Atlantic Charter are fulfilled at the coming World Peace Treaty, particularly that term which requires that the people of all countries shall have easy access to the foodstuffs and raw materials of the world.

In looking into historical records, I find that there never has been a single year in the 6,000 years of recorded history when all the people of the world had anything like sufficient food to eat, for even in those years when surpluses of wheat appeared in Canada and in other places, there always were millions of people in some countries who were hungry, and so badly needed those foods surpluses. The remedy obviously is to free international trade from those strangling tariffs, custom duties, quotas and other obstructions which have, during the past 20 years, so hindered the exchange of the products, particularly wheat, for the goods and products that hungry people in the world have, and are willing to offer in exchange for the wheat they need.

If these existing obstructions to international trade can be removed then I for one, feel convinced the future for the sales of the wheat we can grow on our prairies is bright indeed.

Wye Residents Welcome Newlyweds

A very enjoyable evening was spent recently in the Wye Hall, at the wedding dance of Miss Josephine Katt and Mr. Leo. Dittrich, over three hundred people were present, a lovely lunch was served and a good time was reported by all. Meredith's Music was in attendance.

It is reported that Mr. Norman Ross has got quite a competent lady tractor driver, and is making good progress with the harvest. Keep up the good work, Norman.

The district is happy to have Gunner Henry Kroesser back in the community again.

Miss Gladys Kroesser is in the hospital, having undergone an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ross, Fred and Kenneth of South Edmonton, are spending their holidays on the farm with Norman.

In spite of cloudy weather, a good crowd attended the dance at Wye Hall, Saturday night. Fleming's Orchestra was in attendance.

"Pardon My Sarong" At Sharp's Shows

Basil Abbott, Lou Costello, Virginia Bruce and Robert Paige in "Pardon My Sarong" is this week's presentation at Sharp's Shows. The story goes something like this: As bus drivers, the boys take a cross-country jaunt, and wind up on the wrong side of the law. They escape on board a yacht in a sailing race and a hurricane blows it off its course, landing it on an uncharted island. There they help the natives get out of the spell woven over them by a menacing character, and then sail for home with treasure from the grateful people.

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS at Ottawa

Written specially for the weekly newspapers of Canada

It would make excess reading for me to enlarge at length on the things weekly readers have already heard and read of President Roosevelt's visit to Ottawa. A few personal impressions might be more appropriate even at this late date. After a close-up view during his address under the Peace Tower I am willing to "string along with Roosevelt"—as I am with Churchill. He is the typical Happy Warrior, he simply radiates greatness, leadership, inspires confidence. You can see his face for hours afterwards. Here is a man in whom one feels one can trust our destiny, that of our children.

You should have seen his face when making that statement about being "everlastingly angry" at those who think the Four Freedoms of the Atlantic Charter are unattainable. And his broad shoulders seemed to reach up into his tanned, healthy face and jutting jaw line when he said, "We are going to get rid of those outlaws this time."

You felt ready to kick off the national sidewalk any selfish political individuals or interests when he declared the good old days were not that in every sense and he rather believed "we can achieve new and better days." After seeing him I believe the saying that men make his story, not history makes men. The imprint of his visit to the capital will be profoundly embodied in the annals of things to come.

The great crowd on Parliament Hill was a sight to be remembered. The picture, the reaction was best summed up by that famous international news writer, Emil Ludwig, who was present: "What impressed me most was the gaiety without hysteria, the friendliness, the serenity and the hearty welcome without noise. The picture was like a folk festival—completely peaceful as if there could be no war in the world.

Snappiest parade (of many) seen in Ottawa was on a post Sunday when the girls of the C.W.A.C. put on a parade on the main thoroughfare. Oddity, but really good, was the girls' own pipe band, with pipers wearing Tam o' Shanters. The girls can sure make those legs fly—and how!

Here's a Ripley question: Is there any place in the British Empire where the flag is never lowered, flies constantly? Only one, at Lucknow in India. Flies there over the Steps of Lucknow by royal decree, I am told.

After 40 years of experience in growing trees on the Prairies, Norman Ross, former superintendent of the Forest Nursery Station at Indian Head, Sask., gives out that as his opinion prairie growing in the Manitoba has killed more trees than drought itself! He sees the time when there may be a lot of large treed trees than poplar and Manitoba maple.

The modern age of transportation Looking out of my window in the New Sapperton Building across the Peace Tower I see in one glance a big transport plane overhead; on the Ottawa River below a tug pulling a big boom of logs to the pulp mill on the Hull, Quebec, side; a speedboat and a rowboat. The latter reminds me of how I used to see a lot of trucks passing to and fro, as well as boys on bicycles.

The 6th Compulsory Employment Transfer Order issued by National Selective Service ushers in men who have reached their 16th birthday and have not passed their 41st. Ex-service men must register but are not compelled to accept other jobs. After Sept. 8 employers in the named list of occupations who retain men in the categories without N.S.S. permit are breaking the law. Among the exempted occupations in the wholesale line are included farm products, food products, fuel, ice, gas, oil, grease, lumber, building materials, machinery and allied equipment. Employers would do well to see that they familiarize themselves with the order, which goes into detail.

Farmers of Eastern Canada are again urged to buy oats from the west now and take advantage of existing transportation facilities and the subsidy which is on for buying feed grains for storage.

There may have been a little difficulty lately in getting western barley because offerings to date have not always been equal to the demand. What is desired is a continuous flow of feed grain to eastern Canada. Talking of barley the 1942 carry-over is an all time record, placed at 69-253,707 bushels compared with 18-982,691 in 1942.

destruction as far as I am concerned.

I: That is the practical conclusion finally arrived at by people like yourself who insist on thinking some idea-world is more real or more valuable than the one we have. And it is, sadly, true that a great many people who think that way consider themselves very good people.

Q.: Well; aren't they?

I: No. They are responsible for some of the most brutal and cruel deeds ever committed. They think they can achieve their dream-world by slaughtering all who do not fit it.

Q.: Do you mean that I am cruel and brutal?

I: I mean that the conduct that arises in a community or nation of people who think the way you do is always, in the end, cruel, brutal and inhuman. Every 'if only' thinker is a fifth columnist, betraying not only his own nation but all mankind.

Q.: You certainly are in a bad mood tonight! (With that Questious walked away).

Here and There

Now that rationing of jams, honey, syrups, jellies, marmalade, etc., is in effect, merchants will now be able to display these products (if they have any). The space under the counter can now be used for the abundant supply of cereals now carried in stock. Rejoice, wife and mother, you are getting a certain percentage of "sweets" per month.

Much space and material has been used the past six months in urging the people to buy their rationing and supply early. Now an official of the Coal Commission declares that some people are hoarding coal. No matter what you do is wrong—no one your own discretion.

Italy unconditionally surrendered Wednesday, as Allied troops made their way to the mainland. Canadian-American troops have landed on several points around Naples and are said to be engaging the enemy (Germans).

North American received somewhat of a shock when the announcement came from Argentina that the Argentine Republic had decided to mill 2 million tons (72,000,000 bushels) of wheat for feed. The official explanation was that it is "old wheat" and of poor quality and that the shortage of fresh cash on hand and still made necessary the use of this grain for that purpose.

Throughout the district farmers are busy cutting, swathing and combining as ideal weather prevails. Heavy frosts the past two nights haven't seemed to to much damage to flower gardens, which are now on the wane.

The regular meeting of the War Service Guild met at the home of Mrs. E. Hanlan with a good attendance. Jean Hanlan read a few very interesting letters from some of the boys overseas. The Guild made plans to have the overseas Xmas boxes packed and sent away, so that they will reach the boys in good time.

Members of the Guild collected a quantity of woolens to be sent to the Mill to be made into blankets for Red Cross. If any one having old wool: such as sweaters, old blankets, wool sock tops, and odds and ends of woolen goods, it would be appreciated if they would send them to Mrs. R. J. S. Mackay, Ardrossan. Donors are asked to act at once.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A.

Questions and his friends are of the opinion I was too hard on him last week. It seems to me, however, that I am quite justified in showing the despicableness of 'if only' thinking, in a world in which so much is being said and written about post-war plans.

An example of the form which 'if only' thinking takes in North America is given in our talk about forms of government which will subordinate nations and empires and prevent war. Very often in our enthusiasm about the idea we lose all contact with the world that is and overlook the pressing practical problems that have to be worked out before we can have that kind of government.

In a home in Geneva, S. A. Cavert recently met with a little group of Christians of diverse national backgrounds. They talked of post-war hopes and fears. Cavert in the characteristic fashion of a North American Christian voiced the conviction that nothing less than a new political world-structure would suffice. He urge the reasonableness of the federal principle, and pressed its usefulness in exercising authority over communities without violating essential rights. The group listened respectfully but replied only with silence. Then they began to speak their own minds.

"The Swiss was worried about the prospect of an Communistic state in the country by a horde of starved people who rush from the surrounding areas to the one place where food might be found.

"The Dutchman felt that the tyranny and injustice suffered by his people was engendering so much resentment that as soon as the occupation was lifted there would be a violent suppression of the Nazis in Holland.

"The Swede remarked that the thing which meant sleepless nights to many of his people was the fear that after the war Communism would sweep over their country and much of the rest of Europe.

"The Frenchman could see nothing better ahead for his unhappy people than civil war.

"The German foresaw that after the collapse of the Nazi regime there would be no centre of authority whatever in Germany, that one group after another would make bloody efforts to come to power in a reign of terror and that sheer anarchy would result."

Europeans, in general, fear that when North America "super-idealists come up against the stark realities of post-war Europe they will be so impatient and dis-illusioned that they will revert to isolationism in-

Pretty Wedding Ardrossan Church

In the late afternoon of 5 o'clock, a quiet wedding took place in the Ardrossan United Church, when Thelma Victoria, daughter of Mr and Mrs. J. A. Sanford, became the bride of George E. Walker of Ardrossan.

Entering the room on the arm of her father, the bride looked lovely in a floor length dress of powder blue chear. She wore a chapel veil and carried a bouquet of carnations and sweet peas. Her only ornament was a gold locket, a gift from the groom.

Miss Nora Sanford, sister of the bride was bridesmaid. She wore a floor length dress of dusty pink chear and wore a corsage of sweet peas and carnations.

Mr. Bill Walker of Ardrossan was best man.

The Rev. Dr. S. Scott of Brunner officiated.

A reception was held at the bride's home to immediate friends and relatives.

In honor of the bride and groom a dance was held in the Wye hall, where many friends gathered to extend best wishes to the happy couple. A lovely lunch was served, and the evening closed by singing "For they're jolly good fellows".

THE APPLE SITUATION

Canada's apple production is estimated at close to four million barrels this year, or about 250,000 less than last year. The British Columbia apple production, in which prairie people are most interested, is estimated at 1,600,000 barrels or 200,000 less than last year.

Cranes Go South

A flock of Sandhill Cranes were sighted heading South this week. According to records, it was just a year ago to the week, that flocks of these birds were seen heading for warmer climates.

Although Northern ducks have not put in appearance yet, hunters are finding numerous flocks of ducks in sheet at (if they have the shells).

L. D. von Hagel is keeping up his reputation by firing both barrels into a flock and brought down five birds.

Harvesting Speeds Up

Harvesting is going ahead under ideal conditions. Combines in the district are taking a heavy toll on grain fields, as crops ripen. Good yields are reported in all districts, as hail damage during the season was very slight.

Ken Magee this week on a trial run with a 14-ft. Massey-Harris Combine, picking up from the swath, was putting through 50 baskets per hour on a field of barley, which is said may go 60 bushels to the acre.

Here combines are in the district this year, then instigating the labor shortage to a great extent.

No Radio License Local Citizens Fined

It rest five Fort Saskatchewan radio owners $5.25 each when they appeared in court last Saturday. The charge was possession of radio sets without the necessary licenses. Government radio inspectors are continuing their check of the district—so unless you have an extra five-spare to give away—better get that radio license at once.

A appeal to the above is worth noting!

It seems that Pete Robinson, one of the culprits, was gathering hay in the local cemetery, when he came across Ken Thomas, local policeman, kneeling down looking at a map. Out of the blue, Pete says, "Someone else hasn't got their radio license?"

The Canadian baking industry has agreed to eliminate the production of fancy bakery products and cream cake. Henceforth, production will be confined to plain bread and cake products which requires a lower labor output.

Alberta May Get Eastern Labor

Arrangements have now been completed for eastern harvesters to be shipped to Alberta to assist with the harvest. Only experienced farmers and farm workers will be permitted to come west, and they will be arriving about September 18th, although a few men have already reached the province and have been distributed to Alberta farms.

The eastern harvesters are being directed to certain distributing points in the provinces from which they will be sent out to the districts where the are most urgently needed. Farmers who require harvesters are being asked to notify their local representative or District Agriculturist of their needs, and they should make application immediately

The eastern harvesters are being sent to Alberta by the Dominion Department of Labor, and they will be distributed throughout the province under the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labor Agreement. All arrangements for the distribution of the harvesters have been worked out by the Department of Agriculture in cooperation ith National Selective Service.

"This Land is Mine" At Sharp's Shows

"This Land Is Mine", in this weeks' presentation at Sharp's Shows, Thursday and Saturday nights. The cast includes Charles Laughton, Maureen O'Hara, Una O'Connor, George Sanders and many others. The story goes something like this: In a small town, somewhere in Europe, a weak and timid schoolmaster watches the effect of despotism upon his fellow citizens and slowly begins to acquire courage. Finally, willing to sacrifice his life for the common cause, he emerges as the town's greatest hero. Here is the cold appeal to intellectual understanding of the enemy and what we and the subjected peoples relying upon us must do and expect.

SELL WHEAT TO U.S.

If means of transportation can be found, between 10 million and 15 million bushels of Canadian wheat will be shipped from Vancouver to California, George McIver, chairman of the Wheat Board, stated at the coast this week. Some supplies of feed wheat have been shipped to California by barge already.

CHAPTER 2

There is sure a change in Calgary since I came up to see the Stampede and I notice it as soon as I'm out of the rattler

The place is just over-run with soldiers, sailors and airmen. They're everywhere and seem to be having a mighty fine time.

I see a soldier with three stripes on his arm and ask him where a fellow goes to join up in this man's army.

"Cowboy," he says, "you can't be quite a bit. He tells me its bounces miss. Just a block north and you can be has three brothers in the Army. figure you're as good as in.

IT'S ALL DUTCH

He spoils off a long list of initials R.C.A., R.C.O.C. R.C.A.M.C., R.C. A.M.C., C.B.C., and a lump of others I can't remember.

"Slow down, sloan," I reply. "It's all Dutch to me. Tell me in layman's identity ranches by brands when you never heard the name of the army."

Well, this little guy seems to know and shows me and then back to my branches I go. In a little time the fellow whose running the show tells me to go into another room.

I wander through the door—still in my birthday suit—and see a fellow behind a desk.

He starts right off to ask me if I've had any diseases and before he gets through it seems he's asked me about most everything in the book except probably heed and mouth infection.

Between him and another fellow who comes along they give me a proper going over. They check my eyes and my teeth and whisper then ask me what they said.

One of the fellows cranks me below the knee with a little mallet affair and then they test my lungs and then make me do a couple of these exercises like you do when your taking physical jerks at school.

Finally one of the fellows says, "You'll do. You can get dressed now."

I'm just getting my boots back on when the little fellow I'd been talking to when I come in comes out of the doc's room.

He's mighty quiet and when he's getting dressed I see him sort of wipe a tear out of his eye.

"What's wrong pal?" I ask him.

"I can't make it," he says and he sure looks sad. "It's just like last time I tried. These doctors never

I tell him I hadn't rightly thought about that angle, and ask him what branches there are

Some of the fellows don't seem to be wanting to get down to their birthday suits but I figure if that's what they want I might as well get it over with.

JUST LIKE SWIMMING HOLE

In no time at all we're all a-sitting around like the gang used to at the swimming hole down at the creek

Right off they whip us into a little room where they weigh us and measure us and then back to my branches we go. In a little time the fellow whose running the show tells me to go into another room.

He smiles and starts asking a lot of questions about me and when he puts done he tells me to sit on a long bench whose a lot of other fellows are parked.

I sit down and roll a smoke and a quiet little lad sitting next to me smiles and says,"What are you joining bed?"

"The Army," I tell him.

"Ain't we all," he grins. "What I mean what branch of the service? I and a fellow comes through the door want to get in artillery"

We trains through into months long room and this fellow says, "Go ahead and strip off."

He goes on to say that the infantry are the boys who see got to close grips with the other side—right in at hand-to-hand fighting.

I opine that is where I want to be. He long ranger fighting for me. I left the ranch to fight and gal-ding it, I'm wanting to be right up where a man can get a good lick in.

Well, we all there for quite a spell and talk to come in.

"Brother, I've never had so much clothing in my life."

clothing in my life, and the pile keeps on growing. Uniforms-shirts-boots underwear-brushes-a set of eating tools-a ground sheet-blankets-a respirator (I up and call it a gas mask and promptly get informed that isn't the correct term)-a gas cape and lots of other articles are piled up.

When I sign my name for all this stuff they say a fellow will help me carry it to Hut Seven where I'm to bunk down. Looking at it all I figure I'd be better off with a buckboard and a team but we finally get our arms full and away we go.

IT'S A BIG BUNK HOUSE

This Hut Seven is just about the biggest bunk house I've run into in our part of the country let alone those from any one ranch.

There are plenty of fellows just getting into their new uniforms. After I get my kit all piled up on my bed I figure I might as well get into my new duds too.

I'm just getting all set when the fellow in the next bunk looks me over and says, "You've got a pretty swell stranger continues.

Then he hoists himself up from his bunk and reaches out with his hand.

"We're probably going to be together quite a spell," he says, "so we might as well get acquainted. I'm Tom Gilbert from Irricana."

I shake hands with him and tell him who I am

About this time a fellow comes along and tells us its time to eat and to bring our eating tools along with us.

We follow the crowd over to the place they call the mess hut and there I'm in for another surprise.

It's a mighty big place, as clean as pin and there are several hundred fellows all sitting down to a meal that would really make our old Chinese cook, Yen Fong, work his deadest.

WE CAN GO OUT

After we've eaten we wander back to our hut and the corporal who is in charge says we can have passes to go out and see the town if we want to.

Tom says it sounds like a good idea and askes me if I want to come along as I say yes.

After we get out of the barracks Tom suddenly asks me if I know how to skate and I have to opine that I've got a general idea.

"We'd better learn right sudden," he says. "Lots don't in this affair and try a few times because we might be meeting some officers and we don't want to look bad for a start."

Well we do just that. Tom tries a few salutes 'til I figure he's got it down pretty well the I do a little practicing.

From there we wander off down the drag and save enough we meet plenty of officers.

I'm glad we did that little bit of practicing because as it is, from after We're back in barracks, I'll bet there wasn't an officer who we met would believe we'd only been in the army a couple of hours.

That is if they didn't get close enough to smell the disinfectant they put on soldier's stores and which I learned later was a sure sign of a new recruits.

Wheat Varieties, Terminology, Points and Demonstration

Red Fife should be remembered with respect, since it was largely responsible for establishing our reputation for high quality wheat. It shattered badly and was an late that fall frost was an annual peril. Its doom was sealed by the stem rust epidemic of 1916 when it was already on the way out.

Marquis did not shatter, was early enough to escape many frosts while it lasted and was rust resistant enough to last for years.

Thatcher was developed to meet the rust. Plant breeding had made great strides; but even rust was still causing occasional losses when Thatcher, notably Ruby, Reward and Regent were introduced and served a useful purpose in some areas. Keen and Coxe had a measure of resistance to stem rust, but it remained for Thatcher to do to Marquis what the latter had done to Red Fife.

Now, as Manitoba, Regent and Renown are replacing Thatcher by reason of their resistance to leaf rust.

These improvements have been achieved by a small body of individual scientists at a cost of, probably, less than one professional's income per year!

The most important hurdles now confronting the plant breeder are wheat stem rust—dry and drought. I have no hesitation in asserting that these two problems are more difficult than were late ripening and stem rust. Indeed, if the drought hazard can never be removed, though it will be reduced, adequate quantities of insuring material must be developed, very different from anyone investigated. If wheat growers are wise, they will see that this item of research is put on the government budgets.

Next Meeting

Since morale is the responsibility of every citizen it is good on one seems to look closely at the job, see what it is, and check up on our methods to see if, by their men, we are getting or can hope to get the results we want Morale is essentially believing that one is a part of a plan that has a meaning and is capable of producing values worthy of the effort to produce them. In the extreme cases (of which there are thousands now) morale is believing that the successful completion of the task upon which you are engaged is more important than your own life. More important to whom? More important to that interlocked net-work of human lives and values in which you are involved, and without which your values are as dust. Morale, then, is believing that the goals and methods of the group or nation of which you are a part have a rightful claim upon all your energies and time, even to the burning out or the destruction of your own life.

It follows, then, that morale, being ego group belief by a group about itself, would immediately be in danger of collapse if any member or clique of members were suspected of using the larger group for selfish ends, or if it were suspected that leaders were using the group loyalties and enthusiasms to achieve ends other than those around which the group loyalties had been developed.

Careful consideration of this thing called morale leads us citizens to realize how important is our part in it; but we would like also to point out that an even greater and more grave responsibility rests upon those gentlemen, both in and out of the Cabinet, who take a deliberate part in morale's maintenance. Sometimes we have wondered if they have forgotten that the best meaning of 'yes' is 'yes' and the best meaning of 'no' is 'no'. Sometimes we have wondered if they have forgotten that the best order of words events in the order in which they actually occurred. Sometimes we wonder if these responsible for the emphases on various pieces of news are as wise as they think they are. If it is real morale that is desired, if morale is interested in, then it would be wise if, at last occasionally, they would ask themselves what it is they want and if their methods are getting it. They don't have ears to hear let them hear; and if they have something between the ears it might be well to us that also.

Overseas Xmas Boxes Packed By W. I.

Next Meeting

At the next meeting of the Fort Saskatchewan Women's Institute, a start in the packing of some 54 Xmas boxes for the young people in the forces will be made up. The committee is finding difficulty in obtaining some items on which to fill the boxes, due to rationing and shortages in many lines. Sweets particularly are scarce, and that is one of the chief items in W.I. overseas boxes However, it is reported that the delicious Xmas cakes which the boys write home about in their letters—are made and will be part of this year's treat.

Local merchants are said to have co-operated with the W.I. in procuring and cutting aside a few delicacies which go to make up the W.I boxes. There may not be the quantity as in former years in some lines, but knowing the enthusiastic committee behind the arrangements, you can bet your "bottom dollar" they'll be good.

Local Farmer Grows Variety of Apples

The local branch of the Royal Bank has a display of apples from the orchard of Mr. Alex Schneider, who farms east of the Fort. A branch of red Bishop Crabapples looks most inviting and Mr Schneider harvested five bushels of them. Besides the crabapples, there are samples of cooking apples, which goes to show that the Alberta climate is no good to Ontario or Nova Scotia in growing apples.

This has been an excellent year for fruits of all kinds, and producers are reaping the benefit of many years of careful nursing of their fruit trees.

Ration Books May Be Left With Retailers

Provision for the holder of a ration book to have his book with his retailer is contained in a consolidated order covering rationing rules, issued by the wartime prices board.

The order provides that the book card or sheet left with the retailer must include the stub signed by the consumer. Every time a sale is made to the consumer, the retailer must detach enough coupons to cover the quantity delivered.

It was learned this provision applies to cash as well as to charge account customers. It applies to many housewives who deal steadily with the same retailer, in addition to those who order by telephone from one retailer and do not wish to take in ration books every time they intend to purchase rationed goods.

Pilot-Officer Walter Sherman, of the R.C.A.F., is now visiting with his cousin, Mrs. Tom Holloway, in England, after a successful tour of operations with a fighter squadron in North Africa. The commendation to his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Sherman, mentioned that Able-Seaman George Armstrong, a chum of Walter's is spending a leave with him there.

Pilot-Officer Sherman, is reported to to have one positive aircraft to his credit, not to mention action with land and other targets in the African war theatre.

Local Men Build Stook Sweep

Michael Selimske and the local blacksmith, A. Hatlet, have under construction one of the first stook sweeps built in town. The Stook Sweep was developed by the Department of Agriculture and the Provincial Marketing Board and is said to do away with at least four bundle men.

The Stook Sweep is driven down the row of stooks, the bundles are picked up, transported to the threshing machine and dropped, while the tractor spins away for another load.

Employers of Labor Must Furnish Council With Names of Employees

The council of the Municipal District of Strathcona, No. 817, held a regular meeting on the 13th instant.

After adopting the minutes of the previous meeting the matter of the condition of the road on 142nd Street was again up for review by the reading of a letter from the City Solicitor regarding same. In his letter the Solicitor intimated that the owner of the adjoining land was threatening court action for damages unless the till on his land from the road diversion on the spring floods was removed at once. The Secretary was instructed to reply t. [illegible] that the area covered by the till was formerly a small pot hole and if any damages had been done the owner was more than compensated by being allowed to farm a portion of the road allowance which was almost three times the area reported to have been damaged Regarding the repair for the unfinished road it was again pointed out that this was due to the early freeze up last Fall and the Council's inability to get proper road equipment

By-laws No. 8, 9, 10, and 15 authorizing the sale of certain property owned by the District, having received the Minister of Municipal Affairs' approval, received their third reading.

The Council also gave its approval to the sale of two lots in Torrens Heights for $50 00 per lot, and three smaller lots for $50.00.

The Secretary was instructed to insert a notice in the Fort Record advising all employers of labor in the District to immediately furnish the municipal office with a list of the names and addresses of all their employees over twenty-one years of ags and resident in the District for the purpose of collecting poll tax

By-law No. 16, a by-law to prevent the running at large of domestic animals within the municipality was given its first and second readings.

Two applications for old age pensions were approved and a recommendation made that the maximum amount be paid.

Considerable time was taken up in discussing the care and maintenance of a number of mentally deficient patients in Governmental Institutions but as well as all the work briefly planning the social functions which provide the funds for the purchase of the contents of these parcels, secondly, the painstaking care in the packing, sewing and seeding of same, makes us, the "lucky boys" from the Fort, feel doubly grateful. P/O BRUCE GRAHAM

The following letter is a sample of the many fine letters of appreciation received by the W.I. Home Comfort Fund, from young men and women in the services from this district

Mrs. F. Sherman,
President Women's Institute,
Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta.

Dear Mrs. Sherman.

Please accept and convey to Mrs Black, and the other hard working members of the W.I., my sincere thanks for the grand birthday parcel. It arrived in first-class condition. A tribute to your meticulous packing, the contents—your usual useful and delicious selection. I would like to make special mention of the birthday cake, it was really super and a rare treat especially in such days of strict rationing.

Speaking of rationing I was reading a pamphlet the other day titled "War on the Home Front" which certainly gave me an insight into the general rationing to which, you at home, are now subjected. Thinking of this, I presume that the making of these cakes must entail a personal sacrifice on the part of the members. Realizing this grand gesture as well as all the work briefly planning the social functions which provide the funds for the purchase of the contents of these parcels, secondly, the painstaking care in the packing, sewing and seeding of same, makes us, the "lucky boys" from the Fort, feel doubly grateful. Although we write thanking you ladies directly, we are also indirectly thanking all those who support the said functions. Incidentally that is, what is known as, "Good Propaganda". It also [illegible] genuine

I would just like to end by saying that you who are at home are doing a magnificent job, and those who are over here, are doing our best to end it— big one.

Many thanks again!

CHAPTER 3

If there is one thing in this man's army that it is mighty hard for a beginner like me to get wise to its figuring out how every man stands according to what he wears on his arm or his shoulder.

Now with the little fellows—that is the corporals, lance corporals, sergeants and even staff sergeants, a fellow doesn't have much trouble.

One stripe is the lance corporal, two a corporal, three a sergeant and so on, stripes with a crown above it is a staff sergeant.

After that, brother, you can lose trouble.

Just to show you how it goes—and I read a book on it so I wouldn't be making any breaks—I'll sort of try and list some of them.

The regimental sergeant major wears the royal coat of army. Then a regimental quartermaster sergeant and a company sergeant major wear rolls, a crown surrounded by a wreath on the forearm.

They're the fellows you see most often—next to all the ones I've mentioned and they're known as the non-commissioned officers.

QUITE A STORY

The boys have quite a story they tell and they claim it happened to one of our corporals here.

It seems a staff sergeant was walking down the main drag and was stopped by an old lady who claimed she was mighty interested in the army and wanted to know what the three stripes and a crown stood for.

The fellow in question sort of likes repetaon has three

The next in line is the major, who wears a crown and he is outranked by the lieutenant colonel who has a crown with one pip beneath it.

The colonel has the crown above two pips—all in a straight line, and next comes the brigadier who has three pips set like the corners of a triangle with the crown above them.

THEY RATE "TOPS"

The brigadier is just about the highest-ranking officer you're likely to see for quite a spell, and when he or any of the others like the major-general, lieutenant-general, a general or field marshall come around you'll hear about it because there's almost certain to be a parade and inspection, and perhaps even a guard of honour out.

There's one thing about this way of telling rank that is mighty fine—that is after you've learned it—and that is that you can't make a mistake.

I'll never forget being "out on the ranch one day when a fellow comes hell-bent for election out of a cookie on a saddle pony and starts a bunch of calves to scattering into the brush.

I promptly give him a piece of my mind and tell him it might be a good idea if a guy so stupid stuck around to help round up the dogies.

It doesn't cry a word and though he's mighty green he gets himself pretty well straightened up chasing the critters out of willow brush and I figure it's because I gave him such a going over.

It isn't till we got back home that I learn he is a banker from the city

"My man, you ought to be ashamed of yourself."

to bid people so as rank. "Well, and a good friend of the boss hotelier's, is like this. When we get of some ordinary lumberjack just married they give us the same treatment they give to the newly married millionaire. Everyone will know we have been hitched."

"After that when each child is born we get one stripe to go under the crown."

"This business on my arm means I'm a married man with three children."

The old lady thanked him and went on her way till she saw a woman coming up the street. She took a look at her and saw just three stripes and no crown.

She was just a little old gal but she strode right up to him, hooked him on the ear and said, "My man, you ought to be ashamed of yourself."

Ain' your old songs still doesn't know what it is all about.

But that's enough for the R.C.O.'s and maybe if you want to know how we tell the officers apart it would be a good line. If I let you in on since I read in the Book.

Working up you start off with the general hospital with wire wounds "jolly"—in sort of one-like affair. A lieutenant wears two, one above the other on the shoulder tabs, and a

"The Gay Sisters" At Sherry's Shows

"The Gay Sisters" starring Barbara Stanwyck, George Brent, Donald Crisp, Gene Tierney, Fingerhut and a good supporting cast is this week's presentation to local theatre patrons.

The story goes something like this: "A will that was to distribute a large fortune has been contested in the law courts for over twenty-three years. Involved in the case at the present time are three sisters and a young man who wants to help their boss . . . and who also represents the charitable organization that was to get the sum now out of the estate. When the judge inquires why the litigants haven't tried to get together on a settlement, the entire story comes out."

Local Coal Situation

After one of the toughest winters in history, the Dominion government last spring, immediately set out to urge coal consumers to get their winter's fuel supply in early. If able to fill their coal bins to the roof—they would not be classed as hoarders. But, how many were able to do this: Fort coal dealers, have lists of orders as "long as your arm", and no prospects of filling these orders unless something is done—and done at once.

What with miners on strike, mines closed down for necessary repairs, and a shortage of labor, local truckers did little more than keep up the usual summer's demand for coal.

Now the miners in district 18, which takes in this area contemplate a strike vote unless an increase of $2 per day for all employees and two weeks holidays with pay is met.

A strike at this time would be serious. Government officials are urged to try new methods, seeing that previous settlements have fallen through.

A suggestion has been "kicked around" quite a bit in recent months suggests that miners be exempt from income taxes. As a coal consumer, this idea appeals to us, as a possible solution to the whole situation. At any rate, the plan would encourage miners to work long hours in the mines, knowing that they would at least get a fair remuneration for the arduous labor, without paying a large per centage out in taxes.

Some people no doubt will say, why let the miners be exempt from paying income taxes. The government couldn't let one group of people go tax free and collect from the others.

Why not—"Who the heck wants to mine coal—anyway"!

Efficient Local Industry

In our community we have units of an efficiently operating industry which is seldom given full recognition for the service performed for grain farmers. Our local country elevators are a part of the finest grain handling system which has been built up anywhere in the world. In recent years when markets could not be found for Canada's wheat crops all elevator companies joined in building additional country and terminal storage space to store the crops until they were needed. This period now appears at hand.

The Winnipeg Free Press recently paid tribute to Canada's grain handling system in the following words:

"Considering all that we have heard about the elevators being jammed to the roof, about shortages of cars for shipping the grain and shortages of labor for unloading at the lakehead, it is surprising to learn that almost 400,000,000 bushels of grain were marketed in the last crop year, ending July 31. This included 261,000,000 bushels of wheat, and 238,700,000 bushels of coarse grains—oats 119,000,000, barley 95,000,000, flaxseed 11,416,000.

"The total amount of grain marketed was nearly 200,000,000 more than in the previous crop year, in spite of all the difficulties. That suggests that there is not much wrong with our elevator and transportation systems. The facilities for handling Canadian grains are highly efficient, in fact, much more so than in earlier years.

"Immense as is the present store of western grain, including the crops now being taken off, there are better prospects than ever of its moving out freely. An unprecedented quantity of feed grain will be retained for the western livestock industry; the shipments of feed grain to Eastern Canada will be larger than ever before, and there is a strong demand from the United States for our coarse grains. And wheat will be going to Europe to relieve the starving population as the Allied war machine rolls on its way and extends the area of liberation from Nazi and Fascist tyranny.

". . . . It may not be long before the increasing demand for Canadian grain will absorb every bushel that can be moved."

The Record joins the Free Press in its tribute to the efficiency of Canada's grain handling system and wish to add a word of praise for the work of our local country elevator agents in Gore Cross and Vicinity which they rendered to the farmers of this district, not only in handling and marketing of his grain, but also in the many agricultural services performed in recent years, such as weed identification service, germination tests on seed grain, certified seed grains and various other crop improvement services.

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa

Written weekly for the weekly newspapers of Canada

At 12.30 p.m. on Sept. 8, in the Prime Minister's office in the East Block your representative was among those gathered at one of the most momentous press conferences since the outbreak of war. The text of statements to be broadcast ten minutes later by General Eisenhower to the world, telling of Italy's exit from the war, to be followed by Mr. King's radio statement to the Canadian people were distributed. Then the P.M. made the announcement in the little gathering, mainly members of the press gallery. From that office, redolent of Canadian political history and haunted by shadows of Macdonald, Laurier and others—went the gladsome tidings to you out on farms, ranches, fishing smacks.

The news came little more than a day after Finance Minister Ilsley's announcement of Canada's Fifth Victory Loan opening October 18th with a minimum cash objective of $1,200,000,000. Thrilled with the announcement of the Axis, realistic newspapermen at the conference, nevertheless commented they hoped Canadians wouldn't let the news lull them into any false sense of security insofar as the war is concerned, and affect their contribution to the objective's achievement. For as well as the government are convinced that a severe and costly struggle still lies ahead. The remaining victory is still powerful. The appeal goes out to readers of weekly papers, who by and large make up the much sought after "smaller subscribers" to assure ultimate victory by supporting the Fifth War Loan.

The other night late I passed the National Research Council Building. Lights were glowing in windows. Geared to much hush-hush war research this outfit gets little publicity these days but those who know say a very tremendously important job is being done within those grey walls, and most of it by young men and women who grew up in rural areas. Only some of the results attained are given out, about things which affect our post-war living. For instance in connection with Irish moss (sea-weed) a processing procedure has been developed producing odorless, tasteless, light colored preparation giving a strong jelly in canning. Several million pounds of Irish moss is harvested on the east coast annually. In drying pack they found ways of getting an excellent product retaining 70% of the natural B 1 vitamin content after soaking and drying. Astounding things they have evolved in aircraft production, leather substitutes, plastics, too.

The new ration allowances for jams, jellies, etc., and new regulations pertaining, are really important concessions to the rural people of Canada, who for the most part do their own preserving. As country stores were rarely well stocked with Canadian goods all through recent years—there was a cry of "inequality" and probably with justification. The new order means, in effect, sugar for the folks out there for their fall apple sauce and more particularly sugar with which to sweeten preserves which they put up earlier without sugar.

• • •

Notes line run and run: in studying the consistency of soils, agricultural scientists note whether a soil is crumbly, friable, mellow, soft, firm, tough, hard, compact, cloddy, plastic or porous. The friability of soil, its capacity to be easily crumbled into small pieces, has often a great influence on the productivity of soil. September is the best time to divide and transplant peonies, but they should not be moved more often than once in five years unless a special reason exists for doing so. World of Wheat

by

H. G. L. Strange

Dr. B. N. Smallman, who is Canada's leading authority on the damage to grain caused by the grossly famed mice and other insects, has issued some suggestions to farmers here on how best to protect grain which they will put into bins on their farms. Dr. Smallman's valuable suggestions are worthy of the widest publication. Here they are:-

Because mice and other insects increase greatly from moisture in the grain-

(1) Repair leaky roofs to exclude rain and snow.

(2) Have an air space underneath the floor of each bin.

(3) If the bin has a concrete floor spread a layer of moisture-proof paper on it.

(4) Clean granaries thoroughly before filling.

(5) Brush the walls and sweep the floors with damp sawdust.

(6) Sprinkle a little hydrated lime over the floor and sweep it about to fill all the cracks with the lime.

(7) If the granary had insects last year cover the inside of the bin with coarse burlap sacking, one quarter of a pound of 5% per gallon of solution, filling with grain.

(8) Allow an air space on the top of the wheat.

(9) If grain is stored on the ground, place two or three feet of straw on the floor and cover the top of the pile with hay or sheaves, but remove these next spring.

P. F. A. Act

Reports covering 162 Alberta townships where the crop is estimated to be less than five bushels to the acre are being sent to Federal authorities by Provincial officials it was announced today.

These notifications are made under the provisions of the Prairie Farmer Assistance Act, as that delay in making bonus payments under the act will be reduced to a minimum.

Townships reporting crop failure are said to be mainly in the south eastern part of the province.

Assistance under the Act is granted on two conditions. First, if the average yield is 90 townships is below five bushels per acre, due to causes other than hail. Crop Failure Year may be proclaimed. Farmers are then paid $2.50 per acre.

The second type of assistance is given when the yield in 90 townships is less than 75 bushels per acre and the average price of wheat during August, September and October is less than 80 cents. Farmers are then eligible for a variable bonus up to $8.00 per acre.

THE FORT RECORD

FORT SASKATCHEWAN, ALBERTA, CANADA, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 29th, 1943 CIRCULATION THIS WEEK 1300

"STRAIT IS THE GATE.."
Rev. Elliot R. Birdsall, M.A.

There are signs that Canadians are becoming isolationist. Since we have an ignoble distinction in the part we played in the "sanctions" when Italy was dropping poison gas on Ethiopa, and since we have boasted that we had only a back seat at Geneva, perhaps it would be better to say that our isolationism is, if possible, getting worse. The privations we have to endure because of the war are no slight they serve only to make us sorry for ourselves and indifferent to the suffering of those who are paying such a crushing price for our comfort.

It seems also that Uncle Sam's crazy flow of dollars has rotted the souls of some of us and infected many with the virus of isolationism. But it is well to remember that the U.S.A. has never been really isolationist, for isolationism can never be a national policy. It is only the sweet-smelling fog in which the unthinking chatter away in their preferred ignorance while the nation as a whole moves its pawns and kings on the world chess-board.

Whether we realize it or not we are part of the world scheme of things. Our far-flung Forces are the evidence not merely that we are engaged in a military event of world proportions but also that we have political interests and responsibilities that cannot be confined within boundaries. Financially, too, we are now part of a not-very-big nation in which the whole world is involved.

So, then, whether we like it or not, our responsibilities are now world-wide, and the only honorable national policy is, therefore, that of co-operation with the other nations, the responsibility for the well-being of the whole world.

Even with every nation of the world represented in our citizenship we cannot contend that that makes us world-minded people. It is only action based on a sense of world responsibility that will make us so.

If we talk about world-citizenship but refrain from acting then we may be certain that world citizenship will be taken from us and given to a nation that will bring forth the fruits thereof. It is only by persistent responsible action in the whole world scheme of things that we can dare to call ourselves worthy citizens of the whole world.

East Edmonton Notes

After a month's vacation spent with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Pahrlsop, Miss Lora Pahrlsop returns to the University for the final year in medicine to her B.Sc. degree, and a degree in nursing. Miss Pahrlsop has recently completed the course and written the final examination for the R.N. degree. Good luck to her in the strenuous days ahead.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Trimble, of Vegreville, and their young son Glen were recent visitors at the home of Glen's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Briggs.

Mr Taylor, proprietor of "Taylor's Nursery" is spending an extended holiday at the coast recuperating from a recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Cockpit are enjoying a visit with their son James, who is here from Vancouver.

Speeding up farm production in our time can be carried a bit too far, according to Mrs. Russel Bishop, who reports that her Leghorn pullets are laying double pulled eggs, and that one of them recently crushed through with a triple yolker. She considers these thirsty females rather too complete to propagate.

Initial payment to producers on deliveries to the wheat board would be raised from the present 90 cents a bushel basis No. 1 Northern to $1.25, effective as soon, according to an Ottawa United Press dispatch, as Minister MacKinnon.

The new initial price of $1.25 will prevail during the remainder of the present crop year 1943-44 and throughout the crop year 1944-45.

It was also later reported that consideration would be given to farmers who have already delivered grain to the wheat board previous to the new order.

All wheat trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange was halted Tuesday, with the Canadian Wheat Board taking over all stocks of each wheat at Sept. 27th closing.

The move was made by the government in order to check the rapid rise of grain prices.

Victory Loan Campaign Opens October 18

The objective announced for the Fifth Victory Loan, as everyone is by this time aware, is $1,200,000,000. The sum is so vast that to you and me the digits and zeros given above mean very little. Say it this way: Twelve hundred millions of dollars.

And it has a somewhat more definite significance. The quota for Alberta will be about Forty million dollars, about five millions more than last year, and we have no doubt about reaching it. Agriculturally considered, this bids fair to be our most prosperous year in many years. Summer conditions are reported good. The weather promises no war but has long our fingers crossed. The war news is good and we have to caution ourselves against over-optimism. Everyone is to win the War. Of course we shall reach our objective.

There will be a meeting on or about October 7th which all members of the local committee and the salesmen are requested to attend. A short film or two dealing with features of the loan will be shown, and the district representative will explain and discuss special points in the canvass. The exact date and time will be given later. Keep this date free.

We are all short at least two salesmen and the committee will be grateful if anyone who can spare time for this essential work will volunteer to do so.

Support for the purchase of 1,000 Ditty Bags is urged by the Navy League of Canada.

Much of the thrill, dangers and hectic life of men of the merchant navy, carrying Canadian supplies overseas to win the war, cannot be told until the final gun has been silenced. But the merchant mariners are the unsung heroes of this war, experiencing countless hardships, and getting little of the glory. This picture illustrates just one item to put up with—by freezing temperatures, which cost the ships in a white, weird shell. This seiler doesn't look, but it is the whole thing—he knows Canadians are behind him.

Community Hall Used To House Increased School Population

East Edmonton's juvenile population has been growing by leaps and bounds since the commencement of war, and the accommodation has grown acute. As a temporary expedient, the community hall which stands in the vicinity of the school grounds is being converted into a class room, and a third teacher will be added to the staff this fall.

Coal Guard Retires After 20 Years Service

After twenty years service at the Provincial Coal, Fort Saskatchewan, Mr. D. D. MacMillan, has retired from the civil service due to ill health, just one year and a half, short of superannuation.

Mr. and Mrs. MacLellan moved into The Fort in 1918, from the Yorkville district where the couple farmed. They were blessed with six children, all having taken their education in Fort Fort, three of whom, the other. One son, Eric, is now overseas with the Canadian Army.

The present home where they have reared their family, has been acquired by Mr. Kennedy, an employee of the Provincial Coal. Mr. and Mrs. MacLellan contemplate taking up residence at the coast sometime in October.

Their many friends in Town and district wish the "MacLellan's" the best of everything in their new home.

Minister of Agriculture Discuss Farm Problems

Farm patriots in Alberta were discussed in a recent radio broadcast by Hon. D. B. MacMillan, Minister of Agriculture. Stating that probably 90 per cent of the food on our tables comes from our farms, Mr. MacMillan said that agriculture "finds itself required to increase and improve production" for the war. He added that in an effort to improve the efficiency of live stock in the Province, the government has placed 1,670 purebred bulls and 1,144 purebred boars in every section of Alberta. The Minister stated that his bureau that in 1942, Alberta farmers led all provinces in Canada in the marketing of hogs with a total of 2,152 542 animals. He said that indications for 1943 were that this record would be exceeded.

Dealing with the poultry industry, Mr. MacMillan placed its value in 1942 at fifteen million dollars and predicted an increase of three million during the current year. Three and one-half million chicks were sold by Alberta poultrymen in the 1943 season.

"It's A Great Life" At Sharp's Shows

Based on the comic strip, "Blondie", Sharp's Shows offer head patrons "It's A Great Life" and the double feature picture "Almost Married" for this week's presentation.

The story of "It's a Great Life", goes something like this: Through a misinterpretation of a message from his boss, Dagwood (Arthur Lake) buys a horse. Forced to keep it, he's at his wits' and to know what to do. Suddenly his boss becomes interested in the animal because of a client who loves horses. The boss closes the deal when Dagwood proves his horsemanship at a fast hunt.

Next Week: "Background to Danger."

CHAPTER FOUR

This six o'clock rising in the morning may be a little hard for the city lads who are used to getting up and going to work in the middle of the morning, but for me and the country lads it is just dandy.

Sometimes, like it is now, we stand to get up on the march around 4.30 and later we'd be hitting the saddle.

As it is now we have a nice leisurely breakfast and a little time off to allow for a smoke before we hit the morning's route.

I'd never done a piece of soldiering to my life 'til I joined up, but you can take it from me it isn't hard at all if you follow instructions, and the sunshine and the physical jerks are sure give you an appetite.

I'm right sure I'm going to put on plenty of weight because I'm always hungry when meal time rolls around and there aren't many cooks dish out such swell chow that I always go back for a second helping and there is always one waiting.

Take today. For breakfast this morning we had oranges, rolled oats, fresh milk, bacon, baked beans, bread and butter, jam and coffee. At lunch time we had bean soup, roast beef with brown gravy and boiled potatoes, buttered turnips, bread and butter, pudding and tea. This evening we had Shepherd's pie, roast potatoes, cold tomatoes, raisin scones, cheese and tea or milk.

CAN PLAN AHEAD

There is another nice thing about the army's way of feeding you and that is you can sort of plan ahead and sort of go easy in the canteen at the break period when you know what is coming up at the next meal —and you always know! Before they start issuing the midday meal you can tell from the menu if a cafe—for a week in advance.

Take Sunday, now. If there is one thing I like better than roast pork with apple sauce and mashed potatoes, it's just more of the same dish. I happen to look at the diet sheet and see that is what is coming up and during the morning I don't have any chocolate bars and stuff so when the mess call comes I'm right in the potato and do my best to my favorite dish.

And entertainment, well, I'm telling you that is really something too. Get on the march except for the old dance we had in the school house we made our own entertainment, playing cards or singing a little with the guitar or perhaps listening to the radio.

MEET THE C.W.A.C.

Here at District Depot, a fellow doesn't have to shift for himself. It's all looked after for him.

The other night—Saturday—the Depot staged a dance in the Armories and before it comes up, the sergeant comes around and gives us a couple of tickets each. He tells us to come and bring a girl friend and it won't cost a cent.

Well I don't know any girls but I will bite that I don't know any for long time to go home.

On account of I've been having such a swell time I figure its only right that I escort the girls home but they say "no thanks" because a least a score of them came down from their barracks together and they're going home in a group.

So I and two other fellows who came up over to our hut but I can't get to sleep for figuring how swell everyone is for staging a dance like that for the boys where everyone can get acquainted.

I find out later,though, that I don't know half of what is being done because there are free shows and dances and entertainment all over the place put on by groups like the Salvation Army, Canadian Legion and Knights of Columbus, as well as by civilian groups so lads like myself won't be lonesome away from home.

It's sure mighty fine of them all and a fellow can't help thinking that it's this kind of friendly life we'll someday be fighting for.

(To be continued)

During 1943 Alberta produced 80 million dozens of eggs. Production this year is expected to reach close to 85 million dozens.

Look to Your Fires!

Fort Saskatchewan Town Council is co-operating with dominion wide Fire Prevention week by publishing in this issue a few suggestions, for the prevention of fire.

The week of October 3rd to 9th has been set aside as Fire Prevention week for the purpose of impressing upon the citizens the enormous waste of life and property occasioned by fire and the means to be taken to reduce this tragic and unnecessary wastage.

Fort Saskatchewan has been fortunate in only having one fire to mar the record of last year. Your Town Council urges you to see that we maintain that record of caution and care. It is your duty to see that fire does not start, through any carelessness of yours.

Every citizen in Fort Saskatchewan can be a soldier in this campaign by simply being careful with fire, by disciplining himself in his smoking habits, by seeing that every fire-hazard in his home, store or garage is removed and by knowing what to do should a fire start. Our soldiers, sailors and airmen are battling a grim enemy on far-away fronts. Let us battle that other enemy—the Fire Demon—on the "Home Front". We too can help to win the war by preventing fires.

We can't be too careful with fire. Read over the few suggestions offered by the Council, and keep The Fort free from this menace to our happiness and prosperity.

We've "Back the Attack" — Now "Speed the Victory" . . . .

In these months of 1943 we have entered upon a new phase of the war. The difficult days which saw the United Nations absorb and repel the enemy's most violent blows have been succeeded by days in which our attack grows steadily in intensity and the ring is drawn tighter around the inner defences of Nazism.

It is with a sense of relief that we think of what has been accomplished up to this time. We must, however, be sobered as we realize all that still remains to be done. The scale of attack needed to bring the enemy's "unconditional surrender" will demand a heavy price in human life and suffering, and as well, in the weapons of war. We cannot now afford to relax in either our determination or our efforts to run the job through.

The appeal is again going out to every Canadian, as it has many times in the war period to date—to save and invest in small denominations, or two thousand dollars through the purchase of Victory Bonds. Each responds to this appeal as a Canadian citizen who, along with his other eleven and a half million fellow countrymen, has everything at stake in this war, and who therefore takes—as he must take—a personal responsibility for the victory that can be achieved only through united, wholehearted effort. To this extent we are all alike—easterners or westerners—employers or employees—urban dwellers or rural. Our patriotism recognises no group or occupational distinctions. All of us accept as valid reasons for our participation in the war finance program the fact that our country needs the money—that this is part of our war job—that we must see it through.

We've "Back the Attack"—now "Speed the Victory" with all the money you can put into the 6th Victory Bond loan.

Ottawa

Written weekly for the weekly newspapers of Canada

This column, which goes out to far and hinderment reaches of Canada, feels it cannot over-emphasize the appeal to the contribution he or she is going to, or should, make to the forthcoming Fifth Victor Loan Everywhere, in all the towns and villages—they told me at headquarters here—great preparations are being made by the local committees to top local objectives. You know the fellow—your banker, your town merchant, your school teacher, your farm community leader, your ordinary guy working behind the counter, will be appealing to you to "Speed Victory". The hundreds of reasons which go through this office from army, navy and airforce, telling in piecemeal of the epic deeds, the sacrifices of your boys over there impels me to keep this subject "hot" before you and to try and convey the idea of the tremendous urgency of spending your spare dollars to strengthen morale of our war effort.

A former weekly newspaper man, now associate editor for the Boy Scouts Association of Canada, Bert Mortlock, came to this office the other day and mentioned a little thing he'd like me to "plug" on nationally. That's "Apple Day" carried out by the Scouts in communities across the country at various dates next month. A hundred thousand strong, The Boy Scouts seek to raise money for summer camp equipment, [illegible] and other activities. It's not a lotta thing, but a big one. Those are the boys whom we'll depend on to "Carry On, Canada" when the [illegible] of peace [illegible] come; our future citizens, workers, business men, statesmen. Sure, the folks aren't going to turn the Scouts down on Apple Day in any community.

Some you may have missed: Total of all grains marketed during the 1942-43 year was 486,883,326 bushels, an increase of 197,908,700 over the previous crop year. . . . Christmas trees supply will be shortened owing to transportation and manpower exigencies. Even the type of twine used for binding them is in short supply. Maybe folks will learn to improvise as in other things . . . . Don't start construction of a dwelling or other project without a license, warns Manitoba Minister Hove. Because of the scarcity of material a policy of drastic curtailment is now in effect . . . . Present personnel of the Canadian Navy, including some 3,700 Wrens, is about 70,000 officers and men: it was less than 5,000 when the war began . . . a full blooded Micmac Indian, Clarence Glode of Digby County, was working on the new Tribal destroyer "Micmac" as a steel hooker . . . the boat was launched Sept. 10 at Halifax . . . besides politicians Ottawa is beginning to be famous for farmer world boxing champions; the second to appear here in as many weeks as a referee is Jack Sharkey . . . Answering an urgent appeal nearly 500 Ottawa women, including some grandmothers registered here one night in the registration of half-day help for the Civil Service . . . the R.C.A.F., has expanded from a personnel of 4,000 before the war to 200,000 now.

Getting less publicity than the Navy, Army or Airforce, and never-theless worthy of the highest praise and respect of the people are Canada's Mercantile Seamen. They are a numerous lot too, judging by the fact that 40,000 are certified to date in the central registry in Ottawa. Casualties from merchant ships of Canadian registry alone: 600 missing and presumed dead; 167 captured by the enemy and now prisoners of war.

There are three or four funda-mentals in the recently announced plan for the reorganization of the operational formation of the Canadian Army in Canada There will be no let up or modification in the over seas programme. All men fit for combat service are retained in the Army Many of those who are medically unfit or overage for combat duty will be transferred to highly important but less active [illegible] units which are necessary for the support and training and servicing of operational forces. Those in still [illegible] employment or occupations unsuitable for service in less active roles within the Army, will be discharged and made available for essential war work in civilian capacities. "Dishanning" the 7th 8th and part of the 5th Canadian Corps will mean that Canada will be [illegible] defence for her two armies Far from it. The pieces of the Divisions will be taken by hard hitting, more compact [illegible] groups. There will be fewer men doing [illegible] force job but owing to the elimination of the medically unfit, the smaller units should be, man for man more efficient It is also important to keep in mind that the reduction in size of the operational units is the result of the improved [illegible] situation The possibility of an enemy invasion of this continent—which was very real for a while when the Japs were occupying Kiska, for example, is now once again regarded as remote

The Rectory of St. George's Church Fort Saskatchewan, was the scene of a very happy event on Friday evening, Sept. 26th, 1930, when the Rev Chrystopher and Mrs. Reed were "At Home" to their many friends on the occasion of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary

Threshing for the past few days has been held up, due to heavy rains, frosts and extra cold weather

Rally day, last Sunday, was well attended at the United Church. The Junior choir directed by Mrs. Baker, presented two anthems. Rev. Mr. D. C. Ramsay delivered the sermon.

"THANK YOU"

It is complained that sales persons, cashiers and others who are in contact with the buying public these days have lost the art of saying "Thank you". Well, since it's the customers who apparently receive the favours of wartime trade, maybe they should be the ones who say "Thank you," says one being taken, of course, to remove all traces of sarcasm.—Kamsack City Star.

NEW SCHEDULE

PRESERVES RATIONING

EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 30, 1943

Preserves rationing gives the consumer a number of clothes bank of products and sizes of containers. Because of the wide range of container sizes and the variation in buying habits across the country it was necessary to put the system into operation and issue the coupon books of complete ration value.

Now that preserves rationing has been in effect for several weeks, it is possible to make some increases in coupon values. The new schedule is announced below and is effective September 30th.

The new doubled ration allowances for molasses, unsweetened and comb honey will enable consumers in areas where consumption of these products is heavy, to buy more and still leave enough for districts where the total demand is light.

The increased allowances for corn syrup, cane syrup and blended table syrups and maple syrup are adjusted to bring coupon values more closely into line with the great variety of container sizes now in use.

ONE "D" COUPON IS GOOD FOR
But Never More

Jams, Jellies, Marmalades, Maple Butter, Apple Butter or Honey Butter	- 8 FLUID OZ.
Comb Honey (in Squares)	- One Standard Section
Cut Comb Honey	- 1 LB. NET

Local History and Folklore Wanted by Prof. R. Gard, University of Alberta

Do you know any tall stories about the good old days in Alberta? The Alberta Folklore and Local History Project at the University of Alberta, under the direction of Professor Robert Gard, wants to get in touch with Alberta people who can supply information about early days of the Province.

Financed by The Rockefeller Foundation, this project will collect and preserve records existing in the local ground and romance of Alberta.

Such information might include tall tales (taller the better); stories about the Indians; stories about the waterways and river transportation; stories about religion and religious characters such as Father Lacombe; tales about ghosts and haunted houses; stories about the naming of Alberta towns; railway stories; ranching and homestead stories; animal stories; tales about Frontier characters like Peter Pond; stories of various national groups in the Province and their customs.

The project is interested in the history of various communities in Alberta and wishes to make contact with the historians of the Province. It is hoped that many local history groups will be started to aid in the preservation of Alberta history and lore, or that this work will be undertaken by some of the groups already organized.

Story tellers and historians are urged to write to Professor Robert Gard, Department of Extension, University of Alberta, Edmonton.

THE FARMERS CONTRIBUTION

Once again our prairie farmers, with their good partner Nature, have produced an abundance of food for Canada and the United Nations.

It is true that Nature, by means of her vast and mysterious forces contain in the soil, the air, the rain, and the sunshine, and all combined in her great laboratory, is mainly responsible for the crops, but without the aid and guidance of the farmer our prairie lands, rich as they may be, would not produce one pound of food; for the farmer has to prepare the land, to cultivate it and to sow it, and further has to assist in combatting those enemies which are constantly tending to destroy crops, i.e. weeds, cutworms, wireworms, grasshoppers, sawflies, bacterial and fungous diseases and so forth. But all this preparation and fighting any enemies requires a great deal of labour. It is therefore remarkable, it seems to me, that in spite of a serious lack of manpower on the farms, our farming families have been able once again to make such an outstanding contribution with their products to the war effort of the United Nations.

I suggest that the Government could well bear in mind this difficulty, when they are considering an increase in the Board price of wheat.

Farmers: Get needed equipment through Fort Record Want Ads.

LET'S BE DOING
...while we're planning

● Everybody is thinking a great deal about the future these days . . . planning . . . getting ready for the period to follow the war. All realize that the war may bring surprises—but the tide is turning in our favour.

Chemists and engineers, producing things needed for war, are making discoveries which will mean comforts and conveniences for all of us when peace comes. New methods of making things, new processes, new materials, new things filed away in blue prints and formulae, will bring us many new and useful articles. Many things not available now will be replaced by better models and designs.

You may have plans for a new home, remodelling your present home, new home furnishings. If you are a farmer you will need new and improved equipment and machinery.

Now, while you are thinking and planning, you can do something to insure that your plans can be carried out. Victory Bonds—which can be bought on convenient instalments, with money as you get it—provide a means of keeping your savings intact, earmarked for things you want.

Most Canadians are saving money. Most of us are buying Victory Bonds and when we buy Victory Bonds we are helping to win the war. We are helping to speed the day of victory and we are doing something that will benefit ourselves.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the face value of the Bond on the date of maturity with half yearly interest until that time. A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada backed by the entire resources of the Dominion. Canada has been issuing bonds for 73 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest when due. A Victory Bond is an asset readily marketable at any time.

Fall Cultivation For Weed Control

Many farmers in central Alberta are complaining about the increase in weeds in 1942. Wet weather and a shortage of labor have aggravated the problem and many weeds will have gone to seed then in most years. This means still more weeds next year unless steps are taken to prevent their growth.

The Field Crops Branch suggests that fall cultivation of fields will reduce the potential weed crop of another season if the farmer can find time to do it. Fall cultivation will destroy many of the winter annuals such as stinkweed and shepards purse and may kill young plants of such perennials as Canada and Sow Thistle. In addition it will expose some of the roots of established perennials to frost action during the winter which may weaken or destroy them. Weed seeds scattered over the ground during harvesting operations will be covered. They will grow more quickly next spring and can be destroyed by spring cultivation. Fall cultivation is not a cure all by far as weeds are concerned but as more valuable cultivation operation can be done on the farm than the shallow fall stroke with a good weeding implement. The best operation should be shallow and should leave a trash cover or a ridge and hoopy condition to protect the soil from water and wind erosion.

UNFAIR

A famous alienist was visiting Bermuda and a certain prominent official happened to meet him. The official, after discovering that the alienist was an authority not on immigration but on the mentally unsound, asked:

"Doctor, how do you really tell if a person is insane?"

"Oh, we usually ask him a few ordinary questions which ordinary people can answer correctly."

"What type of question?"

"Well," replied the alienist, "this is the sort of thing. Captain Cook made three voyages round the world and died on one of them. Which was it?"

"Oh, I say," objected the official, "I think that's a bit steep. I'm not very good at history."

Scotford Farm Producing Food To Keep Soldiers Fighting

The rolling acres of Canadian farms are the battlefields of a bloodless war being fought with courage and perseverance by Canadian farmers. Food, is the battle cry of this fight, more and more food—to feed the people of Britain, to feed the people of Europe, liberated by the Allies. Each passing month the river of humanity freed from the grip of the Axis swells, and it is up to Canada to do its share in restoring the bodily health of the liberated people.

Across Canada, thousands of farmers are trying to increase production. The lack of manpower makes it a tough job and demands personal sacrifice and fortitude from the individual.

Many of these homes have sons and daughters in the armed forces and those at home are backing them up. When victory comes to the world no little credit will be due the hardhead faith and endurance of the Canadian farmers.

Scotford farm at Fort Saskatchewan is one of many such homes across the Dominion. Owned by Roderick M. MacCrimmon, this 4,200-acre establishment was originally the property of A. E. Kaus Investments Limited, Vancouver. At the time of the financial crash in 1930 A. E. Maus bought the property and although but later, owing to ill health, he had to dispose of part of it. At that time Mr. MacCrimmon, who had been farm foreman for two years, acquired it.

Wednesday afternoon the farm was visited by C. D. Lane, secretary-treasurer of Alberta Livestock Co-Operative Limited, R. M. Thomas, secretary-manager of Edmonton District Livestock Co-Operative Ltd., and Louise H. O'Neill, of Alberta Livestock Co-operative Ltd., all of Edmonton. They spent an absorbing interesting afternoon, but even in a whole afternoon there was scarcely time to grasp the full significance of farming on so large a scale as takes place at Scotford.

COMPETENT WORKMEN

Farming on as large a scale as at Scotford requires skilled and competent workmen. Mr. MacCrimmon gives high praise to his assistants, of whom there are only seven at present. Before the war employees totalled anywhere from 15 to 27.

Mr. MacCrimmon has followed the practice of the former owner in raising pure bred stock. The best sires obtainable are maintained at the farm. He has a herd of Hereford cattle numbering more than 500; Yorkshire hogs to the extent of from 1,500 to 2,000 at certain periods. An interesting experiment is taking place at the farm with a flock of 1,500 commercial sheep. Five hundred Rambouillet ewes were purchased, and are being crossed with Suffolk rams. The experiment has suggested these two types in cross breeding as being highly satisfactory for a dual purpose sheep.

Modern conveniences abound on this farm. A grain plant with motor and generator combined provides running water and electric light, and a hammermill is used for crushing the feeds.

BACON FOR BRITAIN

The breeder boars, whose hundreds of pounds of Victory bacon first see the light of day, is equipped with cement floors, water, electric light and a bedroom where Stanley Walsh the pigman, has watched over the welfare of the broods during the last 18 years. The "finishing house" produces a high percentage of "selects" and guestioned on feeding, Mr. MacCrimmon replied: "We have our own formulas and rigidity adhere to them. Size zone to that."

Mrs MacCrimmon is mistress of the poultry domain and says that Rumpi and Sandal white Leghorns are "the best laying hens on the market." From 365 birds she gathers 300 eggs a day, approximately 75 per cent, and a good percentage of these will reach Britain, and the battle fronts in the form of egg powder. Mrs. MacCrimmon refers to her flocks as the money makers' that are helping to buy Victory Bonds.

VALUABLE HELP

Help at Scotford includes Donald Southwood, familiarly known as "Jock", who has been at Scotford for 20 years; Stanley Walsh, 12 years; Tom Kerr for eight years; and Jack Peters for seven years. "These are my old-timers", said the owner, "and one thing I am proud of is that our employees have contributed 100 per cent to putting every Victory Loan over the top They are backing the attack! individually, by their loyal conscientious service and interest in the farm."

HIGHLY MUSICAL

Son John is dad's "right and left bower" and another son, Kenny, when not attending high school, spends considerable of his time on the farm and is an invaluable assistant.

The eldest son, Piper Malcolm MacCrimmon, has been overseas since September, 1940. He has won many honors, including his election as Chief of the MacCrimmon Clan "Jock", who has been at Scotford for 20 years; Stanley Walsh, 12 years; Tom Kerr for eight years; and Jack Peters for seven years. "These are my old-timers", said the owner, "and one thing I am proud of is that our employees have contributed 100 per cent to putting every Victory Loan over the top They are backing the attack! individually, by their loyal conscientious service and interest in the farm."

Another son, Flying Officer Malcolm MacCrimmon, is with the Royal Canadian Air Force overseas.

"Farming is the number one industry in the world," said Mr. MacCrimmon. "There is a great future for agriculture in this country, when our boys return and establish themselves in peaceful production once again.
